As we anticipate changes in market conditions, we shift the asset mix and specific investments to maximize opportunities and manage downside risk. MCM screens mutual funds, ETFs, stocks, bonds, and other securities to find the combination of investment options we feel works best at meeting the investment objectives of our clients' portfolios. This service is provided on a discretionary basis. It also applies to 401(k), 403(b), and 457 accounts not included in Mainstay's 401(k) Portfolio Management service described above.

Note: An annual $780 minimum fee applies and a quarterly administration fee of $50 may be charged if assets are held in more than one account.

Fees for all accounts are payable quarterly in arrears based on the asset valuation on the last business day of the current calendar quarter. MCM charges an initial $300 account set-up fee, which may be discounted at MCM's discretion. Clients requesting profile changes in excess of two times in a three year period may be charged a $200 administration fee at MCM's discretion. Minimum account size is $200,000 for the Mainstay Wealth Management service. In certain circumstances, all fees and account minimums may be negotiable.

MCM's fees will vary among clients depending on a client's particular circumstances, including length of a client's relationship, different fee schedules over time, and the amount of portfolio assets. Also MCM may from time to time waive, reduce, or adjust a client's quarterly fee depending on a client's particular circumstances, including accounting for the addition or withdrawal of account assets or funds. Generally, MCM's advisory fees are charged and prorated based upon the commencement or termination of a client's relationship with MCM.

Deduction of Fees

The client authorizes MCM to charge MCM's quarterly advisory fees to client's designated credit card or to withdraw the fees from a client custodial account. Clients should verify the fee calculation because neither credit card companies nor custodians perform this function. If fees are not automatically charged to client's credit card or withdrawn from a client account, the client agrees to make payment within fifteen (15) days of receipt of an invoice. If payment is not made within sixty (60) days of invoice, MCM may elect to terminate its portfolio management services under this agreement.

Other Types of Fees

All fees paid to MCM for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds and ETFs to their shareholders. These fees and expenses are described in each fund's and ETF's prospectus. These fees will generally include management fee, other fund expenses, and a possible distribution fee. If a mutual fund also imposes a sales charge, a client may pay an initial or deferred sales charge.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

The term "Side-by-Side Management" refers to multiple client relationships where an advisor manages advisory client relationships and portfolios on a simultaneous basis for individuals, businesses, institutions, and mutual funds and/or hedge funds. In such circumstances, potential conflicts of interest may arise by and between the clients and the mutual and hedge funds, e.g., performance fee arrangements. Mainstay Capital Management does not have these types of relationships, therefore MCM does not have Side-By-Side Management potential or actual conflicts of interests.

Mainstay Capital Management has not in the past, and currently does not, manage any client relationships for mutual funds or hedge funds or charge any performance fees.

Item 7. Types of Clients

Mainstay Capital Management manages investment portfolios primarily for individuals. A portion of our assets under management consist of trust and corporate accounts, managed on behalf of individual clients.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Mainstay Capital Management offers several investment strategies, ranging from ultra conservative to ultra aggressive. Investment strategies differ depending on the service offered and the investment and fund selections available within each offering. While MCM primarily uses open-end mutual funds, ETFs, and other individual securities to implement its investment strategies, MCM may provide advice or invest in all types of exchange-traded securities.

Methods of Analysis

Our firm employs fundamental, technical, and/or cyclical analysis to formulate client recommendations. Fundamental analysis of a business involves analyzing its income statement, financial statements and health, its management and competitive advantages, and its competitors and markets. Fundamental analysis school of thought maintains that markets may mis-price a security in the short run but that the "correct" price will eventually be reached. Profits can be made by trading the mis-priced security and then waiting for the market to recognize its "mistake" and re-price the security. However, unforeseen market conditions and/or company developments may result in significant price fluctuations that can lead to investor losses.

Technical analysis seeks to identify price patterns and trends in financial markets and attempt to exploit those patterns. We follow and examine such indicators as price, volume, moving averages of the price and market sentiment. Since technical analysis predictions are only extrapolations from historical price patterns, investors bear risk that these patterns will not reoccur as expected.

Cyclical analysis concentrates on business cycles as well as asset market cycles, examining alternating phases of rises (expansion) and falls (contraction) in volumes, prices and returns. Since cyclical analysis is based on examination of rising and falling trends, investors bear risk of mis-timing, with a specific trend lasting longer or shorter than expected.

Quantitative Analysis: We use mathematical models in an attempt to obtain more accurate measurements of a company's quantifiable data, such as the value of a share price or earnings per share, and predict changes to that data.

A risk in using quantitative analysis is that the models used may be based on assumptions that prove to be incorrect.

Qualitative Analysis: We subjectively evaluate non-quantifiable factors such as quality of management, labor relations, and strength of research and development factors not readily subject to measurement, and predict changes to share price based on that data.

A risk in using qualitative analysis is that our subjective judgment may prove incorrect.

Asset Allocation: Rather than focusing primarily on securities selection, we attempt to identify an appropriate ratio of securities, fixed income, and cash suitable to the client's investment objectives and risk tolerance.

A risk of asset allocation is that the client may not participate in sharp increases in a particular security, industry or market sector. Another risk is that the ratio of securities, fixed income, and cash will change over time due to stock and market movements and, if not corrected, will no longer be appropriate for the client's goals.

Mutual fund and/or ETF Analysis: We look at the experience and track record of the manager of the mutual fund or ETF in an attempt to determine if that manager has demonstrated an ability to invest over a period of time and in different economic conditions. We also look at the underlying assets in a mutual fund or ETF in an attempt to determine if there is significant overlap in the underlying investments held in other funds in the client's portfolio. We monitor the funds or ETFs in an attempt to determine if they are continuing to follow their stated investment strategy.

A risk of mutual fund and/or ETF analysis is that, as in all securities investments, past performance does not guarantee future results. A manager who has been successful may not be able to continue or replicate that success in the future. In addition, as we do not control the underlying investments in a fund or ETF, managers of different funds held by the client may purchase the same security, increasing the risk to the client if that security were to fall in value. There is also a risk that a manager may deviate from the stated investment mandate or strategy of the fund or ETF, which could make the fund or ETF less appropriate for the client's portfolio.

Risks for All Forms of Analysis: Our securities analysis methods rely on the assumption that the companies whose securities we recommend, purchase and sell, the rating agencies that review these securities, and other publicly-available sources of information about these securities, are providing accurate and unbiased data. While we are aware that indications, reporting or data may be incorrect, there is always a risk that our analysis may be compromised by inaccurate or misleading information.

Investment Strategies

We also use the following strategies in managing client portfolios:

Long-term purchases: We purchase securities with the idea of holding them in a client's portfolio for a year or longer. We may do this because we believe the securities to be currently undervalued. We may do this because we want exposure to a particular asset class over time, regardless of the current projection for this asset class or security.

A risk in a long-term purchase strategy is that, by holding the security for this length of time, we may not take advantage of short-term gains that could be profitable to a client. Moreover, if our predictions are incorrect, a security may decline sharply in value before we make the decision to sell.

Short-term purchases: We may purchase securities with the idea of selling them within a relatively short time (typically a year or less). We may do this in an attempt to take advantage of market conditions that we believe will soon result in a price swing in the securities we purchase.

A risk in a short-term purchase strategy is that, should the anticipated price swing not materialize, we are left with the option of having a long-term investment in a security that was designed to be a short-term purchase, or potentially taking a loss. In addition, this strategy involves more frequent trading than does a longer-term strategy, and will result in increased brokerage and other transaction-related costs, as well as less favorable tax treatment of short-term capital gains.

Margin transactions: We may recommend or utilize margin or borrowing as part of our investment strategies. The use of margin allows for the purchase of securities for one's portfolio with money borrowed from one's brokerage account. This allows one to purchase more stock than would be able to with one's available cash, and would allow MCM to purchase stock without selling other holdings and is therefore a higher risk strategy.

Option writing: We may also use options or option strategies as part of an investment strategy for our clients. An option is a contract that gives the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell an asset (such as a share of stock) at a specific price on or before a certain date. An option, just like a stock or bond, is a security. An option is also a derivative, because it derives its value from an underlying asset.

For all strategies:

Investments in securities are not guaranteed, and clients may lose money on their investments. MCM makes significant efforts and inquiries to help us understand an individual client's tolerance for risk and any changes in their financial objectives and circumstances. MCM also requests that clients notify us of any such changes promptly.

Clients should understand that investing in any securities, including mutual funds, involves a risk of loss of both income and principal.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

Mainstay Capital Management has no regulatory, legal, or disciplinary events to disclose.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Mainstay Capital Management does not, nor do any of our employees, have any other financial industry activities or affiliations, with the exception of David Kudla. David Kudla is President and Executive Editor of FIA Publishing, LLC, a not-for-profit organization, which publishes the GM/Delphi 401k Investor and Ford/Visteon 401k Investor newsletters. He is a contributing writer for Dow Jones and Forbes. He also serves as Program Co-Director of the annual G.A.M.E Forum, the largest student-managed investment portfolio competition and conference in the world. Mr. Kudla is an Adjunct Professor and serves on several university advisory councils. He is a member of TD Ameritrade's NextGen Advisory Board and serves on Guggenheim Investment's RIA Advisory Board. These are not-for-profit activities in which Mr. Kudla volunteers his time in an effort to advance the financial services industry to the next generation. Mr. Kudla spends less than 10% of his time on these activities.

MCM believes these activities do not present a material conflict of interest.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation/Interest in Client Transactions, & Personal Trading

Code of Ethics

Honesty and integrity are the hallmarks of Mainstay Capital Management. We maintain the highest standards of ethics and conduct in all of our business and client relationships. As a fiduciary to our clients, we place their interests first and foremost. MCM prides itself on being an independent, fee-only, registered investment advisor, and as such does not recommend commissioned products to our clients, as we believe this presents an inherent conflict of interest.

MCM has adopted a Code of Ethics, which establishes rules of conduct for all employees and is designed to, among other things; govern personal securities trading activities in the accounts of employees. The Code, summarized below, is based upon the principle that MCM and its employees owe a fiduciary duty to MCM's clients to conduct their affairs, including their personal securities transactions, in such a manner as to avoid (i) serving their own personal interests ahead of clients, (ii) taking inappropriate advantage of their position with the firm and (iii) any actual or potential conflicts of interest or any abuse of their position of trust and responsibility.

Compliance with Laws, Rules and Regulations: MCM expects its employees to comply with all laws, rules and regulations applicable to MCM's operations and business. As a registered investment advisor, we are subject to regulation by the SEC, and compliance with federal, state and local laws. MCM officers insist on strict compliance with the spirit and the letter of these laws and regulations.

Reporting of Personal Securities Transactions: Employees are required to report their security holdings initially and annually and report on a quarterly basis any transactions involving a security, with certain limited exceptions, held in their personal accounts. Upon employment and on an annual basis thereafter, employees are required to disclose all personal securities holdings. In addition, MCM requires employees obtain pre-approval of an investment in any IPO or private placement.

Prohibition against Insider Trading: No employee may trade, either personally or on behalf of others, while in the possession of material, non-public information, nor may any personnel of MCM communicate material, non-public information to others in violation of the law.

Protecting the Confidentiality of Client Information: MCM employees exercise utmost care in maintaining the confidentiality of any non-public information for both our clients and MCM itself, except where disclosure is authorized or legally mandated. The obligation to preserve confidentiality of this information is detailed further in MCM's Privacy Policy and continues after MCM portfolio management services have been discontinued.

Gifts and Entertainment: Giving, receiving or soliciting gifts in a business setting may create an appearance of impropriety or may raise a potential conflict of interest. MCM employees may not accept or provide any gifts or favors that might influence the decisions the employee or the recipient must make in developing or delivering investment advice to clients, or that others might reasonably believe would influence those decisions.

Acknowledgement of Receipt and Violations Reporting: All employees acknowledge written receipt of the Code of Ethics initially upon employment, on an annual basis, and upon any amendment. MCM employees are required to promptly report any internal violation of this Code of Ethics to the MCM Compliance Officer.

A copy of MCM's Code of Ethics is available upon written request.

Interest in Client Transactions & Personal Trading

Although MCM client portfolios consist primarily of open-end mutual funds and ETFs, the following policy applies to any securities which may be held, purchased or sold in client accounts:

MCM or individuals associated with MCM may buy or sell securities identical to or different than those recommended to clients for their personal accounts. In addition, any related person(s) may have an interest or position in a certain security(ies) which may also be recommended to a client. It is the expressed policy of MCM that no person employed by MCM may purchase or sell any security prior to a transaction(s) being implemented for an advisory account, and therefore, preventing such employees from benefiting from transactions placed on behalf of advisory accounts.

As these situations represent a conflict of interest, MCM has established the following restrictions in order to ensure its fiduciary responsibilities:

1. MCM maintains records of all securities holdings for itself, and anyone associated with the advisory practice with access to advisory recommendations. These holdings are reviewed on a regular basis by the MCM Compliance Officer.
2. Clients are informed that MCM individuals will not receive any separate compensation when effecting transactions during the implementation process or portfolio management services.

MCM also maintains an Insider Trading Policy that prohibits any person associated with MCM from acting upon or using any information that may be considered material non-public information.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

Mainstay Capital Management seeks to recommend a custodian/broker who will hold client assets and execute transactions on terms that are, overall, most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. MCM considers a wide range of factors, including, among others:

- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- Capability to execute, clear, and settle trades (buy and sell securities for client account)
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- Breadth of available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), etc.)
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions
- Quality of services
- Competitiveness of the price of those services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate the prices
- Reputation, financial strength, and stability
- Prior service to MCM and our clients
- Availability of other products and services that benefit MCM, as discussed in Item 14.

For the Mainstay Wealth Management service, MCM may recommend Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”) or TD Ameritrade Institutional (“TD Ameritrade”) for custody and brokerage services. However, the client has the authority to determine the custodian and/or broker/dealer and typically directs MCM to use one of the recommended firms. MCM is independently owned and operated and is not affiliated with Schwab or TD Ameritrade. The recommended firms hold client assets in a separate account and buy and sell securities upon instruction from MCM. While MCM recommends that clients use one of these firms as a custodian, the client will decide whether to do so and will open an account with a recommended firm by entering into an account agreement directly with Schwab or TD Ameritrade. MCM does not open the account for the client, although MCM may assist the client in doing so. Please see the disclosures under Item 14 for benefits that are received through MCM’s participation in the recommended custodial firms’ brokerage programs. Additional disclosures are provided below specific to each custodian.

Schwab

Mainstay Capital Management may recommend that our clients use Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”), a registered broker-dealer and FINRA/SIPC member, as a qualified custodian. Schwab Advisor Services™ (formerly called Schwab Institutional®) is Schwab’s business serving independent investment advisory firms like MCM.

TD Ameritrade

Mainstay Capital Management participates in the institutional advisor program offered by TD Ameritrade Institutional. TD Ameritrade Institutional is a division of TD Ameritrade Inc., member FINRA/SIPC/NFA (“TD Ameritrade”), an unaffiliated SEC-registered broker-dealer and FINRA member. TD Ameritrade offers to independent investment advisors services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. MCM receives some benefits from TD Ameritrade through its participation in the program. (Please see the disclosure under Item 14.)

Trade Error Policy

As a fiduciary, MCM has the responsibility to effect orders correctly, promptly, and in the best interests of our clients. In the event an error occurs in the handling of any client transactions, due to the action or inaction of MCM, or of others, our policy is to seek to identify and correct any errors as promptly as possible without disadvantaging the client or benefiting MCM in any way.

If the error is the responsibility of MCM, any client transaction will be corrected and MCM will be responsible for any client loss resulting from the error. Any gain resulting from an error will be retained by the client.

MCM is not responsible for any errors that may occur or be caused by a broker-dealer or custodian.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Review of Accounts

Reviews of client portfolios are conducted daily to assure proper holdings, credits, debits, and related matters. Mainstay Capital Management reviews client accounts in their entirety on a quarterly basis to determine any readjustments of assets according to MCM's applicable asset allocation models. Client portfolios are also reviewed on an informal and periodic basis as needed or requested.

Clients are contacted annually, at minimum, regarding their portfolio and financial situation. Clients have access to MCM's team of advisors for discussions or advice via phone or in-person meetings as often as needed.

Reports to Clients

Clients receive MCM's quarterly reports on the status of their accounts. These reports include information about portfolio positions, balances, changes in account value, and in some cases, account performance. These reports are in addition to custodial/brokerage statements. Clients with managed accounts also receive confirmations of transactions and, at least quarterly, brokerage or custodian account statements reflecting account holdings, activities, and value. In order to ensure that all account transactions, holdings and values are correct and current, we urge clients to compare MCM's statements with the statements you receive directly from your independent brokerage or bank qualified custodian.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Schwab

Schwab provides Mainstay Capital Management and the firm's clients with access to its institutional brokerage platform - trading, custody, reporting, and related services - many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. MCM receives an economic benefit from Schwab in the form of the support products and services it makes available to MCM and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at Schwab. These products and services, how they benefit MCM, and the related conflicts of interest are described below. The availability to MCM of Schwab's products and services is not based on MCM giving particular investment advice, such as buying particular securities for our clients.

Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help MCM manage or administer MCM's clients' accounts, while others help MCM manage and grow the firm's business. Schwab's support services generally are available on an unsolicited basis and at no charge to MCM as long as MCM clients collectively maintain a total of at least $10 million of their assets in accounts at Schwab. If MCM clients collectively have less than $10 million in assets at Schwab, Schwab may charge MCM quarterly service fees of $1,200. Following is a more detailed description of Schwab's support services:

Schwab's institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions, and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which MCM might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by MCM clients.

Schwab also makes available to MCM other products and services that benefit MCM but may not directly benefit the client. These products and services assist MCM in managing and administering MCM clients' accounts. They include investment research, both Schwab's own and that of third parties. MCM may use this research to service all or a substantial number of MCM clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition to investment research, Schwab also makes available software and other technology that:

- Provide access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements)
- Facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts
- Provide pricing and other market data
- Facilitate payment of MCM fees from MCM clients' accounts
- Assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting

Schwab also offers other services intended to help MCM manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services include:

- Educational conferences and events
- Consulting on technology, compliance, legal, and business needs

Schwab may provide some of these services itself. In other cases, it will arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to MCM. Schwab may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees.

The availability of these services from Schwab benefits MCM because MCM does not have to produce or purchase them. MCM does not have to pay for Schwab's services so long as MCM clients collectively keep a total of at least $10 million of their assets in accounts at Schwab. The $10 million minimum may give MCM an incentive to recommend that clients maintain accounts with Schwab, based on MCM's interest in receiving Schwab's services that benefit MCM's business rather than based on client interest in receiving the best value in custody services and the most favorable execution of client transactions. This is a potential conflict of interest. MCM believes, however, that our selection of Schwab as custodian and broker is in the best interests of our clients. Our selection is primarily supported by the scope, quality, and price of Schwab's services and not Schwab's services that benefit only MCM. MCM has more than $1.5 billion in client assets under management, and MCM does not believe that recommending MCM clients to collectively maintain at least $10 million of those assets at Schwab in order to avoid paying Schwab quarterly service fees presents a material conflict of interest.

Schwab Advisor Network[®]

Mainstay Capital Management receives client referrals from Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab") through MCM's participation in Schwab Advisor Network[®] ("the Service"). The Service is designed to help investors find an independent investment advisor. Schwab is a broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with MCM. Schwab does not supervise MCM and has no responsibility for MCM's management of clients' portfolios or MCM's other advice or services. MCM pays Schwab fees to receive client referrals through the Service. MCM's participation in the Service may raise potential conflicts of interest described below.

MCM pays Schwab a Participation Fee on all referred clients' accounts that are maintained in custody at Schwab and a Non-Schwab Custody Fee on all accounts that are maintained at, or transferred to, another custodian. The Participation Fee paid by MCM is a percentage of the fees the client owes to MCM or a percentage of the value of the assets in the client's account, subject to a minimum Participation Fee. MCM pays Schwab the Participation Fee for so long as the referred client's account remains in custody at Schwab. The Participation Fee is billed to MCM quarterly and may be increased, decreased, or waived by Schwab from time to time. The Participation Fee is paid by MCM and not by the client. MCM has agreed not to charge clients referred through the Service fees or costs greater than the fees or costs MCM charges clients with similar portfolios who were not referred through the Service.

MCM generally pays Schwab a Non-Schwab Custody Fee if custody of a referred client's account is not maintained by, or assets in the account are transferred from Schwab. This Fee does not apply if the client was solely responsible for the decision not to maintain custody at Schwab. The Non-Schwab Custody Fee is a one-time payment equal to a percentage of the assets placed with a custodian other than Schwab. The Non-Schwab Custody Fee is higher than the Participation Fees MCM generally would pay in a single year. Thus, MCM will have an incentive to recommend that client accounts be held in custody at Schwab.

The Participation and Non-Schwab Custody Fees will be based on assets in accounts of MCM's clients who were referred by Schwab and those referred clients' family members living in the same household. Thus, MCM will have incentives to encourage household members of clients referred through the Service to maintain custody of their accounts and execute transactions at Schwab and to instruct Schwab to debit MCM's fees directly from the accounts.

For accounts of MCM clients maintained in custody at Schwab, Schwab will not charge the client separately for custody but will receive compensation from MCM clients in the form of commissions or other transaction-related compensation on securities trades executed through Schwab. Schwab also will receive a fee (generally lower than the applicable commission on trades it executes) for clearance and settlement of trades executed through broker-dealers other than Schwab. Schwab's fees for trades executed at other broker-dealers are in addition to the other broker-dealer's fees. Thus, MCM may have an incentive to cause trades to be executed through Schwab rather than another broker-dealer. MCM nevertheless, acknowledges its duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts. Trades for client accounts held in custody at Schwab may be executed through a different broker-dealer than trades for MCM's other clients. Thus, trades for accounts custodied at Schwab may be executed at different times and different prices than trades for other accounts that are executed at other broker-dealers.

TD Ameritrade

Mainstay Capital Management participates in TD Ameritrade's institutional customer program (the "Program"), and MCM may recommend TD Ameritrade to clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between MCM's participation in the Program and the investment advice it gives to its clients, although MCM receives economic benefits through its participation in the Program that are typically not available to TD Ameritrade retail investors. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations; research related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk serving MCM participants; access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts); the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers; and discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided to MCM by third party vendors. TD Ameritrade may also have paid for business consulting and professional services received by MCM's related persons. Some of the products and services made available by TD Ameritrade through the Program may benefit MCM but may not benefit its client accounts. These products or services may assist MCM in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at TD Ameritrade. Other services made available by TD Ameritrade are intended to help MCM manage and further develop its business enterprise. The benefits received by MCM or its personnel through participation in the Program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, MCM endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by MCM or its related persons in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence MCM's choice of TD Ameritrade for custody and brokerage services.

MCM also receives from TD Ameritrade certain additional economic benefits ("Additional Services") that may or may not be offered to any other independent investment advisors participating in the program. Specifically, the Additional Services includes ByAllAccounts and Morningstar, Inc., who provide a data aggregation tool. The service offered by ByAllAccounts and Morningstar, Inc. provides MCM operational efficiencies and improves accuracy by eliminating manual data gathering. TD Ameritrade provides Additional Services to MCM in its sole discretion and at its own expense, and MCM does not pay any fees to TD Ameritrade for the Additional Services. MCM and TD Ameritrade have entered into a separate agreement ("Additional Services Addendum") to govern the terms of the provision of the Additional Services.

MCM's receipt of Additional Services raises potential conflicts of interest. In providing Additional Services to MCM, TD Ameritrade most likely considers the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, MCM's client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade has the right to terminate the Additional Services Addendum with MCM, in its sole discretion, provided certain conditions are met. Consequently, in order to continue to obtain the Additional Services from TD Ameritrade, MCM may have an incentive to recommend to its clients that the assets under management by MCM be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade. MCM's receipt of Additional Services does not diminish its duty to act in the best interests of its clients, including to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect®

MCM may receive client referrals from TD Ameritrade through its participation in TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect® ("AdvisorDirect"). In addition to meeting the minimum eligibility criteria for participation in AdvisorDirect, MCM may have been selected to participate in AdvisorDirect based on the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade is a discount broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with MCM and there is no employee or agency relationship between them. TD Ameritrade has established AdvisorDirect as a means of referring its brokerage customers and other investors seeking fee-based personal investment management services or financial planning services to independent investment advisors. TD Ameritrade does not supervise MCM and has no responsibility for MCM's management of client portfolios or MCM's other advice or services. MCM pays TD Ameritrade an on-going fee for each successful client referral. This fee is usually a percentage (not to exceed 25%) of the advisory fee that the client pays to MCM ("Solicitation Fee"). MCM will also pay TD Ameritrade the Solicitation Fee on any advisory fees received by MCM from any of a referred client's family members, including a spouse, child or any other immediate family member who resides with the referred client and hired MCM on the recommendation of such referred client. MCM will not charge clients referred through AdvisorDirect any fees or costs higher than its standard fee schedule offered to its clients or otherwise pass Solicitation Fees paid to TD Ameritrade to its clients. For information regarding additional or other fees paid directly or indirectly to TD Ameritrade, please refer to the TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect Disclosure and Acknowledgement Form.

MCM's participation in AdvisorDirect raises potential conflicts of interest. TD Ameritrade will most likely refer clients through AdvisorDirect to investment advisors that encourage their clients to custody their assets at TD Ameritrade and whose client accounts are profitable to TD Ameritrade. Consequently, in order to obtain client referrals from TD Ameritrade, MCM may have an incentive to recommend to clients that the assets under management by MCM be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade. In addition, MCM has agreed not to solicit clients referred to it through AdvisorDirect to transfer their accounts from TD Ameritrade or to establish brokerage or custody accounts at other custodians, except when its fiduciary duties require doing so. MCM's participation in AdvisorDirect does not diminish its duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

Item 15. Custody

Mainstay Capital Management is deemed to have “constructive custody” of client funds and securities whenever the firm is given the authority by our clients to i) have our advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts or ii) have their account login credentials for managing their portfolios. MCM does not serve as trustee in clients accounts, nor does MCM accept or take physical custody or possession of any assets in client accounts. For accounts in which MCM is deemed to have custody, MCM has established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at a qualified custodian in a separate account for each client under that client’s name. In addition, and for those client relationships with client login credentials, MCM must undergo a surprise annual exam, among other things, by an independent accounting firm, under relevant regulatory guidelines.

Clients will receive quarterly statements from MCM and are urged to carefully review each statement. In order to ensure that all account transactions, holdings and values are correct and current, we urge clients to compare MCM’s statements with the statements you receive directly from your independent brokerage or bank qualified custodian.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

Mainstay Capital Management provides discretionary services to those clients that contract with MCM for the Mainstay 401(k) Portfolio Management service to manage their individual 401(k) account. In such circumstances, MCM is bound to the provisions of the plan and can only move assets among the investment options available within the plan. For the Mainstay Wealth Management service, MCM limits client investments to mutual fund shares, ETF's and listed securities only.

Written discretionary authority is obtained for all discretionary client accounts. In this written discretionary authority, MCM is provided with the authority to determine the securities and the amounts of securities that are bought or sold, subject to the limitations of the advisory contract and the plan (if applicable), or any other limitations which may be in writing.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

Mainstay Capital Management does not vote proxies on behalf of our advisory clients. Our client advisory agreement provides that our clients expressly retain the authority and responsibility for voting proxies of portfolio securities. MCM may provide advisory clients with consulting assistance regarding proxy issues but the clients have the responsibility to receive and vote any proxies.

Further, clients should note that MCM does not advise or act on behalf of any client in legal proceedings, e.g., class actions or bankruptcies involving companies whose securities are held or previously were held by a client, including, but not limited to, the filing of "Proofs of Claim" in class action settlements.

Item 18. Financial Information

As a matter of firm policy and practice, Mainstay Capital Management will not charge or earn advisory fees in excess of $1,200 more than six months in advance of the services rendered. Also, Mainstay Capital Management and its principal have no financial events or proceedings to disclose.
