Item 4 - Advisory Business

General Information

Summit Asset Management, LLC ("Summit") was formed in 1991¹ in Memphis, Tennessee and provides investment management, financial planning, and special services to its clients.

Samuel Alexander Thompson, III, Lance W. Hollingsworth, John N. Laughlin and Peggy K. Adler are the owners of Summit. Please see Brochure Supplements, Exhibit A, for more information on the firm's owners and other individuals who formulate investment advice and have direct contact with clients, or have discretionary authority over client accounts.

As of February 28, 2018, Summit managed $499,050,040 on a discretionary basis and $72,423,767 of assets on a non-discretionary basis.

SERVICES PROVIDED

At the outset of each client relationship, Summit spends time with the client, asking questions, discussing the client's investment experience and financial circumstances, and reviewing options for the client. Based on its reviews, Summit generally develops with each client:

- a financial outline for the client based on the client's financial circumstances and goals, and the client's risk tolerance level (the "Financial Profile" or "Profile"); and
- the client's investment objectives, asset allocation, and guidelines (the "Investment Plan" or "Plan").

The Financial Profile is a reflection of the client's current financial picture and a look to the future goals of the client. The Investment Plan outlines the types of investments Summit will make on behalf of the client to meet those goals. The Profile and the Plan are discussed regularly with each client, but are not necessarily written documents or contained in a formal financial planning booklet.

Portfolio Management

As described above, at the beginning of a client relationship, Summit meets with the client, gathers information, and performs research and analysis as necessary to develop the client's Investment Plan. The Investment Plan will be updated from time to time when requested by the client, or when determined to be necessary or advisable by Summit based on updates to the client's financial or other circumstances.

To implement the client's Investment Plan, Summit will manage the client's investment portfolio on a discretionary basis. As a discretionary investment adviser, Summit will have the authority to supervise and direct the portfolio without prior consultation with the client. Notwithstanding the foregoing, clients may impose certain written restrictions on Summit in the management of their investment portfolios, such as prohibiting the sale of highly appreciated stocks. Each client should note, however, that restrictions imposed by a client may adversely affect the composition and performance of the client's investment portfolio.

¹ Summit Asset Management, LLC was originally formed as an S-Corporation (Summit Asset Management, Inc.) and converted to a Limited Liability Corporation in 1999.

Each client should also note that his or her investment portfolio is treated individually, and may differ from similar portfolios in the selection of specific funds, deposits and distributions, the timing of purchases or sales, and other factors. For these and other reasons, the performance of client investment portfolios within the same investment objectives, allocations and/or risk tolerance may differ.

Financial Planning

Summit offers financial planning services to clients in need of such services in conjunction with Portfolio Management. Summit's financial planning services normally address areas such as retirement planning, education spending, charitable giving, risk and insurance analysis, and other typical financial events. The goal of these services is to anticipate the future financial needs of the client to more effectively develop the client's Investment Plan and make reasonable recommendations.

Retirement Plan Advisory Services

Establishing a sound fiduciary governance process is vital to good decision-making and to ensuring that prudent procedural steps are followed in making investment decisions. Summit will provide Retirement Plan consulting services to Plans and Plan Fiduciaries as described below. The particular services provided will be detailed in the written agreement. The appropriate Plan Fiduciary(ies) designated in the Plan documents (e.g., the Plan sponsor or named fiduciary) will (i) make the decision to retain our firm; (ii) agree to the scope of the services that we will provide; and (iii) make the ultimate decision as to accepting any of the recommendations that we may provide. The Plan Fiduciaries are free to seek independent advice about the appropriateness of any recommended services for the Plan. Retirement Plan consulting services may be offered individually or as part of a comprehensive suite of services.

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") sets forth rules under which Plan Fiduciaries may retain investment advisers for various types of services with respect to Plan assets. For certain services, Summit will be considered a fiduciary under ERISA. For example, Summit will act as an ERISA § 3(21) fiduciary when providing non-discretionary investment advice to the Plan Fiduciaries by recommending a suite of investments as choices among which Plan Participants may select. Also, to the extent that the Plan Fiduciaries retain Summit to act as an investment manager within the meaning of ERISA § 3(38), Summit will provide discretionary investment management services to the Plan.

With respect to any account for which Summit meets the definition of a fiduciary under Department of Labor rules, Summit acknowledges that both Summit and its Related Persons are acting as fiduciaries. Additional disclosure may be found elsewhere in this Brochure or in the written agreement between Summit and Client.

Fiduciary Consulting Services

- Investment Selection Services

Summit will provide Plan Fiduciaries with recommendations of investment options consistent with ERISA section 404(c). Plan Fiduciaries retain responsibility for the final determination of investment options and for compliance with ERISA section 404(c).

- Non-Discretionary Investment Advice
Summit provides Plan Fiduciaries and Plan Participants general, non-discretionary investment advice regarding asset classes and investments.
- Investment Monitoring
Summit will assist in monitoring the plan's investment options by providing periodic investment reports that document investment performance, consistency of fund management and conformation to the guidelines set forth in the investment policy statement and Summit will make recommendations to maintain or remove and replace investment options.

Fiduciary Management Services

- Discretionary Management Services
When retained as an investment manager within the meaning of ERISA § 3(38), Summit provides continuous and ongoing supervision over the designated retirement plan assets. Summit will actively monitor the designated retirement plan assets and provide ongoing management of the assets. When applicable, Summit will have discretionary authority to make all decisions to buy, sell or hold securities, cash or other investments for the designated retirement plan assets in our sole discretion without first consulting with the Plan Fiduciaries. We also have the power and authority to carry out these decisions by giving instructions, on your behalf, to brokers and dealers and the qualified custodian(s) of the Plan for our management of the designated retirement plan assets.
- Discretionary Investment Selection Services
Summit will monitor the investment options of the Plan and add or remove investment options for the Plan without prior consultation with the Plan Fiduciaries. Summit will have discretionary authority to make and implement all decisions regarding the investment options that are available to Plan Participants.
- Investment Management via Model Portfolios
Summit will provide discretionary management of Model Portfolios among which the participants may choose to invest as Plan options. Plan Participants will also have the option of investing only in options that do not include Model Portfolios (i.e., the Plan Participants may elect to invest in one or more of the mutual fund options made available in the Plan, and choose not to invest in the Model Portfolios at all).

Item 5 - Fees and Compensation

General Fee Information

Summit is a fee-only advisor, which means it is only compensated by management fees paid by its clients. It earns no sales loads or commissions on any investment products. Fees paid to Summit are exclusive of all custodial and transaction costs paid to the client's custodian, broker-dealers or other third parties. Please see Item 12 - Brokerage Practices for additional information. Fees paid to Summit are also separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, ETFs (exchange traded funds) or other investment pools (generally including a management fee and fund expenses, as described in each fund's prospectus or offering materials). Each client should review all fees charged by funds, broker-dealers, Summit and others to fully understand the total amount of fees paid by the client for investment and financial-related services.

Portfolio Management Fees

The Summit annual rate schedule, based on assets under management, is as follows. For illustrative purposes, we have included examples of the resulting blended rate. The actual effective rate will vary slightly based on the exact amount of managed assets.

Summit Annual Fee Schedule
Equity or Balanced Portfolios:	Annual Rate
First $500,000	1.00%
Next $500,000	0.80%
Next $2,000,000	0.50%
Balance over $3,000,000	0.25%
Fixed Income Portfolios:
First $1,000,000	0.50%
Next $2,000,000	0.25%
Balance over $3,000,000	0.125%

Blended Rate Examples
If assets under management in equity or balanced portfolios total:	Blended Rate
$1,000,000	0.90%
$3,000,000	0.63%
$5,000,000	0.48%
$8,000,000	0.39%
If assets under management in fixed income portfolios total:
$1,000,000	0.50%
$2,000,000	0.38%
$3,000,000	0.33%

The minimum portfolio value is generally set at $500,000. Summit may, at its discretion, make exceptions to the foregoing or negotiate special fee arrangements where Summit deems it appropriate under the circumstances.

Portfolio management fees are payable quarterly, in arrears. If Summit is engaged by a client after the start of a quarter, or a client terminates the relationship with Summit after the start of a quarter, fees will be prorated accordingly. With client authorization, unless other arrangements are made, fees will be debited directly from client account(s).

Either Summit or the client may terminate their Investment Advisory Agreement (“IAA”) at any time, subject to any written notice requirements in the IAA.

Special Services and Fees

From time to time, Summit may provide special services, outside the scope of investment management, to clients. Such services are generally provided on a project basis with the fees negotiated prior to the time of the engagement.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Summit does not have any performance-based fees or side-by-side arrangements. “Side-by-Side Management” refers to a situation in which the same firm manages accounts that are billed based on a percentage of assets under management and at the same time manages other accounts for which fees are assessed on a performance fee basis. Because Summit has no performance-based fee accounts, it has no side-by-side management.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

Summit serves individuals, families, trusts, retirement plans for businesses, charitable endowments, and corporations. Summit's stated minimum portfolio value for the combined accounts of each client is $500,000; however, Summit may adjust that minimum for specific client circumstances.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Summit manages investments using an asset allocation method based on client-influenced factors such as risk tolerance, time horizon and financial goals. The most common asset classes are cash, bonds and equities. Access to these asset classes is generally gained through mutual funds or exchange traded funds. Where appropriate, Summit may also use alternative investments.

Each client strategy includes a target mix of asset classes. When market performance causes investments to significantly depart from those targets, Summit rebalances at its discretion. Summit does not engage in market timing. However, at the asset class level and more commonly within the funds that comprise each asset class, Summit may tactically adjust the mix of funds to emphasize areas Summit thinks will outperform and/or minimize areas Summit believes may underperform.

Summit invests in equity funds to achieve growth of capital. Summit assesses equity investments using a number of factors including: market evaluation, fund research, valuation metrics, technical analysis, and minimum diversification practices.

Summit employs market research services provided by reputable third parties to understand the potential impact of market cycles, interest rates, investor sentiment, global influences, and other "macro" influences on investment markets. Summit employs proprietary analytical methods for assessing the attractiveness of equity sectors. The goal is to select equity investments that have the potential to outperform over a mid-to-long term time horizon, adjusting the mix of funds as our market expectations evolve. If a fund is not expected to achieve its potential as a mid-to-long term investment, Summit may sell that fund, even if it has been held for less than one year.

Summit invests in fixed income funds to provide relative portfolio stability and to produce income. Summit includes both money market and investment grade bond funds in our definition of fixed income. Summit may opportunistically invest in funds that contain non-investment grade bonds when Summit expects that extra return and improved diversification may help achieve client goals. The selection and allocation of fixed income funds are primarily designed to reduce the volatility of the investment portfolio or provide a stable-value reserve for clients who receive distributions from their investments.

Alternative investments such as diversified hedge funds of funds, commodity funds or other multi-strategy funds may provide an additional opportunity for growth and diversification. These funds may be used when appropriate to address client goals. Some alternative investments, such as hedge fund of funds partnerships, may only be used with clients who meet SEC minimum requirements.

When appropriate for specific client circumstances, Summit will utilize the services of one or more Sub-advisers to manage a specific portion of client portfolios. The fee assessed by the sub-adviser(s) is charged in addition to Summit's fee, and is debited directly from the managed account by the sub-adviser(s).

Risk of Loss

While Summit seeks to diversify clients' investment portfolios across various asset classes consistent with their Investment Plans in an effort to reduce risk of loss, all investment portfolios are subject to risks. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that client investment portfolios will be able to fully meet their investment objectives and goals, or that investments will not lose money.

Clients should expect values of individual investments within their portfolio as well as the total value of their portfolio to fluctuate. Such fluctuations are characteristic of the investment markets. Our goal is to avoid investments that run a risk of permanent loss of capital. However, we cannot guarantee that we will always be able to accomplish our goals.

Below is a description of several of the principal risks that client investment portfolios face.

Investment Planning Risks. In the process of Summit and the client developing a suitable Investment Plan, there is a risk that clients may overestimate their tolerance for market fluctuations and certain other unexpected developments in the investment markets. This increases the risk that clients may instruct Summit to sell investments during periods of market stress and, thus, miss out on recovery potential for those investments.

Portfolio Management Risks. While Summit manages client investment portfolios based on Summit's experience, research, and proprietary methods, the value of client investment portfolios will change daily based on the performance of the underlying mutual funds and other securities in which they are invested. Accordingly, client investment portfolios are subject to the risk that Summit allocates client assets to individual securities and/or asset classes that are adversely affected by unanticipated market movements, and the risk that Summit's specific investment choices could underperform their relevant indexes.

Risks of Investments in Mutual Funds, ETFs and Other Investment Pools. As described above, Summit will invest client portfolios in mutual funds, ETFs and other investment pools ("pooled investment funds"). Investments in pooled investment funds are generally less volatile than investing in individual securities because of their diversified portfolios; however, these investments are still subject to risks associated with the markets in which they invest. Additionally, in the case of actively managed mutual funds, the investment performance will be determined by the security selection of the investment manager. Therefore, although the managers are selected by Summit with confidence of future performance, the results are not within Summit's direct control. Actively managed mutual funds' success will be related to the skills of their managers at picking individual securities using a consistent process that produces appropriate returns over time. Pooled investment funds are also subject to risks due to regulatory restrictions applicable to registered investment companies under the Investment Company Act of 1940.

Risks Related to Alternative Investment Vehicles. The value of client portfolios will be based in part on the value of alternative investment vehicles in which they are invested, the success of each of which will depend heavily upon the efforts of their respective Managers. When the investment objectives and strategies of a Manager are out of favor in the market or a Manager makes unsuccessful investment decisions, the alternative investment vehicles managed by the Manager may lose money. A client account may lose a substantial percentage of its value if the investment objectives and strategies of many or most of the alternative investment vehicles in which it is invested are out of favor at the same time, or many or most of the Managers make unsuccessful investment decisions at the same time.

Equity Market Risks. Summit will invest portions of client assets in equity investments, primarily into pooled investment funds that invest in the stock market. As noted above, while pooled investments have diversified portfolios that may make them less volatile than investments in individual securities, funds that invest in stocks and other equity securities are nevertheless subject to the risks of the stock market. These risks include, without limitation, the risks that stock values will decline due to fluctuations in the prices of individual stocks or sectors, and that stock values will decline over longer periods (e.g. bear markets) due to general market declines in the stock prices for all companies, regardless of the prospects for any individual security or sector.

Fixed Income Risks. Summit will invest portions of client assets in pooled investment funds that invest in fixed income instruments, such as bonds and notes. Rarely, Summit may invest client funds directly into bonds or notes. While investing in fixed income instruments, either directly or through pooled investment funds, is generally less volatile than investing in stock (equity) markets, fixed income investments nevertheless are subject to risks. These risks include, without limitation, interest rate risks (risks that changes in interest rates will devalue the investments), credit risks (risks of default by borrowers), or maturity risks (risks that premium bonds will lose value as they approach maturity).

Foreign Securities Risks. Summit may invest portions of client assets into pooled investment funds that invest internationally. While foreign investments are important to the diversification of client investment portfolios, they carry risks that may be different from U.S. investments. For example, foreign investments may not be subject to uniform audit, financial reporting or disclosure standards, and practices or requirements comparable to those found in the U.S. Foreign investments are also subject to foreign withholding taxes and the risk of adverse changes in investment or exchange control regulations. Finally, foreign investments may involve currency risk, which is the risk that the value of the foreign security will decrease due to changes in the relative value of the U.S. dollar and the security's underlying foreign currency.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's evaluation of Summit or the integrity of Summit's management. Summit has no disciplinary events to report.

Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither Summit nor its Management Persons have any other financial industry activities or affiliations to report.

Item 11 - Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics and Personal Trading

Summit has adopted a Code of Ethics ("the Code"), the full text of which is available to you upon request. Summit's Code has several goals. The Code is designed to assist Summit in complying with applicable laws and regulations governing its investment advisory business. As a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, Summit is held to a fiduciary standard. A fiduciary standard means Summit will seek to avoid conflicts of interest with clients, disclose conflicts of interest if they are unavoidable and, in any transaction or conflict, Summit will seek to put the interests of clients ahead of its own. Pursuant to these fiduciary duties, the Code requires persons associated with Summit (officers and employees) to act with honesty, good faith and fair dealing in working with clients. In addition, the Code prohibits such associated persons from trading or otherwise acting on insider information. The Code sets forth guidelines for professional standards for Summit's associated persons.

Also, the Code sets forth policies and procedures to monitor and review the personal trading activities of associated persons (associates who give investment advice to clients or are designated by the Chief Compliance Officer of Summit). From time to time, Summit's associated persons may invest in the same securities recommended to clients. Under its Code, Summit has adopted procedures designed to reduce or eliminate conflicts of interest that this could potentially cause. The Code's personal trading policies include procedures for limitations on personal securities transactions of associated persons, reporting and review of such trading, and pre-clearance of certain types of personal trading activities. These policies are designed to discourage and prohibit personal trading that would disadvantage clients. The Code also provides for disciplinary action as appropriate for violations.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Because client accounts are invested almost exclusively in open-end mutual funds and ETFs, there is little opportunity for a conflict of interest between personal trades by Summit associated persons and trades in client accounts, even when such accounts invest in the same securities. However, in the event of other identified potential trading conflicts of interest, such as with individual securities, Summit's policy is to place client interests first.

Consistent with the foregoing, Summit maintains policies regarding stock trading, participation in initial public offerings ("IPOs"), and private placements to comply with applicable laws and avoid conflicts with client transactions.

Finally, if a Summit associated person wishes to buy or sell an individual stock, participate in an IPO or invest in a private placement, he or she must submit a pre-clearance request and obtain the approval of a designated principal of the firm.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

Best Execution and Benefits of Brokerage Selection

Summit seeks to obtain “best execution” for client transactions, which includes such factors as access to desired securities, quality of execution, services provided, bid-ask spreads, and commissions. Summit has discretion to select the brokerage firm that will execute orders in client accounts. In almost all cases, Summit selects Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”), which serves as both broker-dealer and custodian for most client accounts. In rare cases, Summit will place client trade orders through brokerage firms other than Schwab, particularly when Summit seeks access to special securities. In such cases as individual bonds, Summit may seek to execute the trade at another brokerage firm according to “prime broker” protocols and then transfer the security to Schwab to be held in custody in the client’s account. In some cases, Summit may use a brokerage firm that does not charge the lowest available commission in consideration of client-specific issues and/or benefits other than commission rates. Summit may receive general or proprietary research on specific securities or markets from brokerage firms that execute client trades. Such research may not benefit each Summit client equally.

Summit recommends that clients establish brokerage accounts with Schwab, a FINRA registered broker-dealer and member SIPC, as qualified custodian to maintain custody of clients’ assets. Summit may also effect trades for client accounts at Schwab, or may in some instances, consistent with Summit’s duty of best execution and specific agreement with each client, elect to execute trades elsewhere. Although Summit may recommend that clients establish accounts at Schwab, it is ultimately the client’s decision to custody assets with Schwab. Summit is independently owned and operated and is not affiliated with Schwab.

Schwab Advisor Services provides Summit with access to its institutional trading, custody, reporting and related services, which are typically not available to Schwab retail investors. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help Summit manage or administer its clients’ accounts while others help Summit manage and grow its business. These services generally are available to independent investment advisors on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them. These services are not soft dollar arrangements, but are part of the institutional platform offered by Schwab. Schwab’s brokerage services include the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

For Summit client accounts maintained in its custody, Schwab generally does not charge separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Schwab or that settle into Schwab accounts. Schwab Advisor Services also makes available to Summit other products and services intended to help Summit manage and further develop its business but may not directly benefit its clients’ accounts. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of Summit accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab.

Schwab's products and services that assist Summit in managing and administering clients' accounts include software and other technology that (i) provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); (ii) facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts; (iii) provide pricing and other market data; (iv) facilitate payment of Summit's fees from its clients' accounts; and (v) assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

Schwab Advisor Services also offers other services intended to help Summit manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include: (i) technology, compliance, legal and business consulting; (ii) publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and (iii) access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers. Schwab may make available, arrange and/or pay third-party vendors for the types of services rendered to Summit. Schwab Advisor Services may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to Summit. Schwab Advisor Services may also provide other benefits such as educational events or occasional business entertainment of Summit personnel. In evaluating whether to recommend that clients custody their assets at Schwab, Summit may take into account the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements as part of the total mix of factors it considers and not solely on the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab, which may create a potential conflict of interest.

Directed Brokerage

Summit generally does not allow directed brokerage accounts.

Aggregated Trade Policy

Summit typically directs trading in individual client accounts as and when trades are appropriate based on the client's Investment Plan, without regard to activity in other client accounts. However, in the case of stocks and bonds, Summit may aggregate trades for multiple accounts to ensure that all participating clients receive the same price for the security being traded. If such an aggregated trade is not completely filled, Summit will allocate shares received (in an aggregated purchase) or sold (in an aggregated sale) across participating accounts on a pro rata or other fair basis; provided, however, that any participating accounts that are owned by Summit or its officers, directors, or employees will be excluded first.

Item 13 - Review of Accounts

While managed portfolios are reviewed at least quarterly, the underlying investments of the portfolio are constantly monitored. The portfolio may be reviewed more often than quarterly if requested by the client, upon receipt of information material to the management of the portfolio, or at any time such review is deemed necessary or advisable by Summit. Also, portfolios are reviewed if required by a change in a client's individual situation, or if economic, political or market conditions warrant a review. Samuel Alexander Thompson, III, Chairman, Treasurer and Chief Compliance Officer of Summit, Lance W. Hollingsworth, Senior Vice President, Trading and Operations of Summit, and John N. Laughlin, Senior Vice President of Summit, all review accounts.

Account custodians are responsible for providing monthly or quarterly account statements which reflect the positions and current pricing in each account as well as transactions in each account, including fees paid from an account. Account custodians also provide prompt confirmation of all trading activity and year-end tax statements, such as 1099 forms. In addition, Summit provides a quarterly report for each managed portfolio. This written report normally includes a summary of portfolio holdings, performance results, and a Summit commentary on market developments. Additional reports are available at the request of the client or during review meetings.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

From time to time, Summit may enter into arrangements with third parties ("Solicitors"), typically financial planners, to identify and refer potential clients to Summit. Consistent with legal requirements under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended, Summit enters into written agreements with Solicitors under which, among other things, Solicitors are required to disclose their compensation arrangements to prospective clients before they enter into an agreement with Summit.

As noted above, Summit receives an economic benefit from Schwab in the form of support products and services it makes available to Summit and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain accounts at Schwab. These products and services, how they benefit our firm, and the related conflicts of interest are described in Item 12 - Brokerage Practices. The availability of Schwab's products and services to Summit is based solely on our participation in the programs and not in the provision of any particular investment advice.

Item 15 - Custody

Schwab is the custodian of nearly all client accounts at Summit. From time to time, however, clients may select an alternate custodian. In any case, it is the custodian's responsibility to provide clients with confirmations of trading activity, tax forms, and at least quarterly account statements. Clients are advised to review this information carefully and to notify Summit of any questions or concerns. Clients are also asked to promptly notify Summit if the custodian fails to provide statements on each account held.

From time to time and in accordance with Summit's agreement with clients, Summit will provide additional reports. The account balances reflected on these reports should be compared to the balances shown on the brokerage statements to ensure accuracy. At times, there may be small differences due to the timing of dividend reporting, pending trades and other similar issues.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

As described in Item 4 - Advisory Business, Summit accepts clients on a discretionary basis. Under this arrangement, a Limited Power of Attorney ("LPOA") is executed by the client, giving Summit the authority to carry out various activities in the account, generally including the following: trade execution, disbursement authority on behalf of the client, and the withdrawal of advisory fees directly from the account. Summit then directs investment of the client's portfolio using its discretionary authority. The client may limit the terms of the LPOA to the extent consistent with the client's Investment Advisory Agreement with Summit and the requirements of the client's custodian.

Summit has a select few non-discretionary arrangements. Under these arrangements, Summit maintains continuous and regular oversight but does not make investment recommendations.

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

Where Summit has authority to vote proxies, Summit will seek to vote proxies in the best interest of the client(s) holding the applicable securities. In voting proxies, Summit considers factors that Summit believes relate to the client's investment(s) and factors, if any, that are set forth in written instructions from the client.

In general, Summit believes that voting proxies in accordance with the following guidelines, with respect to such routine items, is in the best interests of our clients. Accordingly, Summit generally votes for:

- The election of directors (where no corporate governance issues are implicated);
- Proposals that strengthen the shared interests of shareholders and management;
- The selection of independent auditors based on management or director recommendation, unless a conflict of interest is perceived;
- Proposals that Summit believes may lead to an increase in shareholder value;
- Management recommendations adding or amending indemnification provisions in charter or by-laws; and
- Proposals that maintain or increase the rights of shareholders.

Summit will generally vote against any proposals that Summit believes will have a negative impact on shareholder value or rights. If Summit perceives a conflict of interest, Summit's policy is to notify affected clients so that they may choose the course of action they deem most appropriate.

A copy of our complete Proxy Voting Policy, as well as records of proxies voted, is available to clients upon request. As required under the Advisers Act, such records are maintained for a period of five (5) years.

Item 18 - Financial Information

Because Summit does not require nor solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance, nor meet other criteria requiring financial disclosure, Summit has no disclosure required for this item.
