ITEM 4 - ADVISORY BUSINESS

Description of Advisory Firm deFined Wealth Management, LLC (“deFined “the Firm”, “we”, “our,” or “us”) is a privately owned limited liability company headquartered in Portland, OR.

deFined has filed for registration as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. The Firm was formed in 2019 and is owned Joseph Opsahl and Christopher Hatfield. At the time of this filing, there are no assets under management to report.

While this brochure generally describes the business of the Firm, certain sections also discuss the activities of its Supervised Persons, which refer to the Firm’s officers, partners, directors (or other persons occupying a similar status or performing similar functions), employees or any other person who provides investment advice on the Firm’s behalf and is subject to the Firm’s supervision or control.

Advisory Services Offered

The Firm offers discretionary investment management and investment advisory services. Prior to the Firm rendering any of the foregoing advisory services, clients are required to enter into one or more written agreements with the Firm setting forth the relevant terms and conditions of the advisory relationship (the “Advisory Agreement”).

Investment Management Services

deFined offers continuous and regular investment supervisory services on a discretionary basis. We work with clients and have the ongoing responsibility to select and/or make recommendations based upon the objectives of the client, as to specific securities or other investments that he/she recommends or purchases/sells in clients’ accounts. We utilize a variety of investment types when making investment recommendations/purchases in client accounts which include, but are not limited to: equity securities, fixed income securities, alternatives and mutual funds. The investments recommended/purchased are based off of the clients’ individual needs, goals and objectives. deFined offers investment advice on any investment held by the client at the start of the advisory relationship. We describe the material investment risks under Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss. Financial Planning may be provided to clients as a part of the Investment Management Services. When being provided as a separate service it is described in this section under Financial Consulting Services below.

We discuss our discretionary authority below under Item 16 – Investment Discretion. For more information about the restrictions clients can put on their accounts, see Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions in this item below. We describe the fees charged for investment management services below under Item 5 – Fees and Compensation.

Financial Planning & Consulting Services

Our Financial Planning and Consulting Service offers clients the ability to have their investment portfolio allocated among different financial institutions and reviewed by an Investment Adviser Representative for a negotiated fee. This consultation offers the client a detailed look at their financial condition in relation to their investment objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, and any financial goals that they may be seeking to achieve. This Financial Consultation Service offered by us may or may not be in conjunction with one of our other fee-based programs.

We provide a variety of financial consulting services to individuals, families and other clients regarding the management of their financial resources based upon an analysis of client's current situation, goals, and objectives. Consulting encompasses one or more of the following areas: Investment Planning, Retirement Planning, Estate Planning, Charitable Planning, Education Planning, Corporate and Personal Tax Planning, Cost Segregation Study, Corporate Structure, Real Estate Analysis, Mortgage/Debt Analysis, Insurance Analysis, Lines of Credit Evaluation, Business and Personal Financial Planning.

Our financial consultations rendered to clients usually include general recommendations for a course of activity or specific actions to be taken by the clients. In performing these services, deFined is not required to verify any information received from the client or from the client's other professionals (e.g., attorneys, accountants, etc.,) and is expressly authorized to rely on such information. deFined may recommend clients engage the Firm for additional related services, its Supervised Persons in their individual capacities as registered representatives of a broker-dealer and/or other professionals to implement its recommendations. Clients are advised that a conflict of interest exists if clients engage the Firm or its affiliates to provide additional services for compensation. Clients retain absolute discretion over all decisions regarding implementation and are under no obligation to act upon any of the recommendations made by the Firm under a financial planning or consulting engagement. Clients are advised that it remains their responsibility to promptly notify the Firm of any change in their financial situation or investment objectives for the purpose of reviewing, evaluating or revising the Firm's recommendations and/or services.

For financial consulting engagements, we provide our clients with a written summary of our observations and recommendations. One-time consultations are typically completed within six (6) months of the client signing a contract with us, assuming that all the information and documents we request from the client are provided to us promptly. Services provided under an on-going consultation agreement are conducted on a regular basis, but no less than annually with the client. The client is under no obligation to act upon the investment adviser's recommendation. If the client elects to act on our recommendations, the client is under no obligation to effect the transaction through us.

We describe fees charged for Financial Consultation Services below under Item 5 - Fees and Compensation.

Betterment Program

Through the Betterment Program, we offer our Clients access to, and advice regarding, the Betterment for Advisers Service, which is an institutional wrap fee program (the "Betterment Program") sponsored by Betterment LLC, an SEC registered investment adviser (referred to as "Betterment Adviser"). Betterment Adviser is affiliated with MTG, LLC dba Betterment Securities (referred to "Betterment Broker"), an SEC-registered broker-dealer, and member of SIPC and the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"). deFined is not affiliated with Betterment Adviser or Betterment Broker.

Overview of deFined's Role in the Betterment Program

As explained in more detail below and in Client's separate agreement with Betterment Adviser and Betterment Securities (the "Betterment Program Agreement"), in general, deFined has entered into an Agreement with Betterment Adviser and Betterment Securities (the "Betterment Subadvisor Agreement"), pursuant to which Betterment Adviser agrees to provide the subadvisory services in connection with Clients who participate in the Betterment for Advisors Program, as described in the Betterment Subadvisor Agreement, and Betterment Securities agrees to provide trade execution services in connection with the orders placed by deFined's Clients through the Betterment for Advisors program (all the "Betterment Program").

deFined's role with respect to the Betterment Program account will be limited to assisting the Client in establishing accounts with Betterment Adviser and Betterment Securities, identifying the Suitability Information (as described below) for the account, and assisting the Client in developing the initial Portfolio and Allocation, as discussed below.

Once the initial Portfolio and Allocation have been selected, deFined will continue to assist the Client by answering general questions regarding the account, periodically discussing the Portfolio and Allocation with the Client to ensure it continues to meet the Client's needs, and recommending revisions to the Portfolio or Allocation in response to changes in the Suitability Information of which deFined is notified. deFined's Clients are required to participate in deFined's discretionary Investment Management Program which provide deFined discretion to "hire and fire," and reallocate the assets allocated to the Betterment Program to accounts managed by deFined if at any time deFined determines termination of the subadvisory relationship with Betterment is appropriate. However, refer to the limitations below on deFined's discretion to act with respect to the Betterment Program account.

Overview of Betterment Adviser's Role in Betterment Program

The selection of the securities that will be available for the Client Portfolios, the monitoring of the account and rebalancing according to established account parameters, and the reinvestment of investment dividends, among other key investment functions, are all functions for which Betterment Adviser is responsible on an ongoing basis. deFined does not supervise or participate in any way in Betterment Adviser's or Betterment Securities' performance of their responsibilities.

Clients will initially meet with their deFined Representative, who will obtain information regarding the Client's personal and financial situation, and the investment objective, tolerance for risk, liquidity needs, and investment time horizon for the account that will be managed through the Betterment Program (all referred to as the "Suitability Information"), as well as any reasonable investment restrictions the Client wishes to impose. Utilizing the online tools and investments available through the Betterment's online platform (the "Website"), the Representative will work with the Client to select a portfolio (the Portfolio") representing an "Allocation" among equity and fixed income exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), that are suitable for the account in view of the account's investment objective, liquidity needs, investment time horizon, risk tolerance, and any reasonable investment restrictions imposed by the Client. The Portfolio selection and Allocation will be based on the research and recommendations provided by Betterment Adviser. The Representative will work with the Client to match the Portfolio and Allocation to the account's needs.

deFined will not have discretion with respect to the assets invested in the Client's Betterment Program account; and deFined will not be responsible for or have discretion with respect to making any of the purchases or sales of securities in the Betterment Program account or selecting or removing the ETFs that are available through the Betterment Program. The Betterment Website provides self-help tools to help Clients understand their risks, access information related to transactions, and review their account's performance.

Advisory Agreements and Custodial Account

In addition to their existing Advisory Agreement with deFined, Clients who desire to participate in the Betterment Program will enter into an advisory agreement with Betterment Adviser, and a brokerage agreement with Betterment Broker, which will maintain the account's assets and provide brokerage services. We refer to Betterment Broker as the "Custodian" because it will serve as the qualified custodian of the Client's assets.

Betterment Discretion over the Account; Authority to Rebalance and Liquidate Securities

In the Betterment Adviser advisory agreement, Client will grant Betterment Adviser full discretion to select the investments, to designate the strategies, and to buy, sell, or otherwise invest the assets of the account, all without prior notice or consent of the Client or deFined. Betterment Adviser will periodically rebalanced account (within certain "drift" parameters) to maintain their designated Allocation. Betterment Adviser's portfolio management services also include a dividend reinvestment plan whereby dividends from Client investments are used to purchase additional investments in accordance with the account's Allocation. Betterment requires Clients to agree to have their accounts automatically rebalanced and dividends automatically reinvested.

Clients also grant Betterment Adviser authority to liquidate sufficient assets to pay the advisory fee, program fees, or any costs or expenses of the Betterment Program, when necessary; and authority to carry out related actions that the Betterment Adviser deems necessary or appropriate to fulfill these responsibilities.

Types of Investments

In general, the Portfolios consist of varying proportions of fixed income and equity ETFs selected by Betterment Adviser for the Betterment Program. ETFs are a type of Investment Company that aims to achieve the same return as a particular market index. They can be either open-end companies or unit investment trusts. ETFs are not considered to be, and are not permitted to call themselves, mutual funds.

ETFs differ from mutual funds and unit investment trusts because shares issued by ETFs are bought and sold by investors on a secondary market. Unlike mutual funds, retail investors generally cannot tender their shares directly to the ETF for redemption because shares of ETFs are redeemable from the fund only in very large blocks (blocks of 50,000 shares, for example).

Deposit Cash or Cash Equivalents

Generally, the Client is expected to deliver only cash or cash equivalents to the Custodian. With our consent, Client may transfer securities to the Custodian, but the securities will be liquidated to cash as soon as reasonably practical. Client may not transfer or deposit to the account any securities that are not publicly traded or that cannot be promptly sold. Client will grant us, Betterment Adviser, and the Custodian the authority, in our respective discretion, to liquidate securities transferred into the account.

Evaluate All Costs of Our Program

When evaluating the overall costs and benefits of the Betterment Program, Clients should consider not just our Advisory Fees, but also the Betterment Advisory Fees (which includes the cost of the purchases and sales of securities for the Client's Betterment Program account), and the ETF Expenses. Clients should consider carefully all of the direct and indirect fees and expenses of our services and the investment products we recommend to fully understand the total costs and assess the value of our services.

Account Billing Administration Fees

As one of its services, Betterment Adviser will perform account billing administration, whereby it will act as a billing service provider, to calculate and deduct from the Client's account our Advisory Fee together with the advisory fee owed to it through the Betterment Program, and pays the applicable parties. The Client account will not be charged separately for this service Betterment Adviser performs for our benefit; however, if Betterment Adviser did not provide this service, it is possible that the fees the Client paid might be lower.

Information about Wrap Fee Programs

The Betterment Program is a "wrap fee" program. The Client receives the Form ADV Part 2A Appendix 1 Wrap Fee Brochure from Betterment Adviser, which is the sole sponsor under the Betterment Program. Because deFined is not compensated for sponsoring, organizing, or administering the Betterment Program, and does not recommend any third-party managers, it is not a sponsor of the Betterment Program.

Wrap fee programs have important differences from traditional investment advisory arrangements. In a traditional investment advisory arrangement, the investment adviser provides investment advisory services for managing the Client's account, and then charges the Client an advisory fee that is based on a percentage of the account's assets (referred to as an "asset-based fee"). When the investment adviser places trade orders with a broker-dealer to invest the account's assets, the account pays brokerage commissions for the broker's services in executing the trade plus related costs (referred to as "transaction-based costs").

By contrast, in a wrap fee program, the Client pays a single fee (the “wrap fee”) that includes both the advisory services of the account’s investment adviser and the brokerage services of the account’s broker, and may also include custodial services of the account’s custodian. The wrap fee is based on a percentage of the account’s assets. In the Betterment Program, the fees payable to Betterment Adviser for its advisory services, and Betterment Securities, for its brokerage services, are combined and deducted from the Betterment Custodial Account. In addition, deFined’s Advisory Fee, which is owed pursuant to the Client’s Advisory Agreement, not the Betterment Agreement, will also be deducted from the Betterment Account.

Although wrap fee programs can be beneficial for some Clients, they are not appropriate for everyone. Some Clients may pay higher overall costs in a wrap program than in a traditional program where they pay separately for investment advisory services and brokerage costs. The benefits of a wrap fee arrangement depend on a number of factors, most particularly the amount of the wrap fee, the number and frequency of account trades, and the types of securities the account will trade.

Wrap fee programs calculate their fees based, in part, on certain assumptions regarding their expected brokerage commissions and other transaction costs. Clients who do not expect their accounts to trade frequently or for whose accounts the total number of shares traded each year is relatively low may find a wrap fee arrangement to be more costly than a traditional program where the Client pays the separate costs of brokerage commissions and fees for investment advice.

A wrap fee arrangement is more likely to be beneficial for accounts that expect relatively frequent trading, such as where the account intends to pursue an active trading strategy using securities for which the transaction costs are relatively higher. In that case, the single wrap fee may cost less than the combined investment advisory fees and brokerage commissions that would be charged in a traditional arrangement.

Clients who choose strategies with modest levels of trading may not incur sufficient transaction costs to justify the higher fees charged in a wrap fee program, as compared to a traditional arrangement where they pay commissions out-of-pocket.

Clients are cautioned to review the information regarding the costs of the wrap fee, the anticipated level of trading anticipated for their account, the approximate transaction costs and advisory fees they might incur in a traditional arrangement, among the other matters discussed in this Brochure, to understand the costs and factors they should consider when deciding whether to participate in (or to continue to participate in) the Betterment Program. No assumption should be made that any particular fee arrangement, such as a wrap fee arrangement or a portfolio management service will provide better returns than any other fee arrangement, service, or investment strategy. Fees paid by Clients in the Betterment Program may be more or less than fees charged for advisory, custodial or brokerage services offered separately, depending on the nature, size and frequency of account transactions, and other services.

Depending upon, among other things, the size of the account, changes in value over time, ability to negotiate fees or commissions, and the number of transactions, the amount of the wrap fee compensation may be more than what a Representative would receive if the Client participated in other programs, or if the Client paid separately for investment advice, brokerage and other services. Therefore, while wrap account compensation cannot be determined in advance, the Representative may have an incentive to recommend the Betterment Program over other programs or services.

Further, Clients should consider that the wrap fee arrangement creates a disincentive for Betterment Adviser and Betterment Broker to trade Betterment Program accounts because the execution costs of each trade will reduce the potential profit from the Wrap Fee. A wrap program sponsor may have an incentive to limit referrals to or outright exclude from its program portfolio managers that trade actively.

Please refer to Item 8 for information about deFined's methods of analysis and investment strategies, the types of investments deFined generally recommends, and the material risks involved with respect to the Investment Management Program. Refer to Item 12 for information regarding brokerage.

ITEM 5 - FEES AND COMPENSATION

Fee Schedule & Billing Method

The Firm offers services on a fee basis, which may include fixed fees, as well as fees based upon assets under management or advisement.

Investment Management Services

The annual management fee for our Investment Management Services is based on the total dollar asset value of the assets under management. The fee assessed and/or charged is based on what is stipulated in the Investment Advisory Agreement signed by each client. This may include a minimum quarterly fee. The Firm offers services on a fee basis, which may include fixed fees, as well as fees based upon assets under management or advisement.

Our annual fee ranges are 0.30% - 1.50% annually, and is assessed and/or charged quarterly advance, based on prior month-end value. Inflows and outflows of cash are considered on a prorated basis in this calculation. Margin debits in accounts will decrease the fee calculated. Fees can be structured in one of the following ways: a fixed flat percentage fee on total assets in the account, a tiered fee schedule whereby the fee is calculated by applying different rates to different levels of assets or a linear fee schedule where a breakpoint percentage fee is assessed to total assets in the account.

We discuss our discretionary authority below under Item 16 – Investment Discretion.

Financial Consultation Service

We will quote the client a fixed fee that is based on the estimate of time to complete the project, or will negotiate another fee arrangement for the client, pursuant to the Financial Planning & Consulting Agreement. The total estimated fee, as well as the ultimate fee that we charge you, is based on the scope and complexity of our engagement with you. We may require a negotiable retainer, which is calculated based on the estimated total financial planning or consulting fee with the remainder of the fee directly billed to you and due to us within thirty (30) days of your financial plan being delivered or consultation rendered to you. In all cases, we will not require a retainer exceeding $1,200 when services cannot be rendered within six (6) months. In the event that the client or deFined terminates the financial consulting engagement before completion of the financial plan or consultation, deFined will determine the fees due for the services already completed. For flat fee engagements, Client may receive a pro-rata refund of unearned fees which will be based on the hours Advisor has spent on the engagement, billed at the Advisor's hourly rate for such engagements. If the retainer previously paid by you is more than the fees due, deFined will refund the amount of the unearned fees to you. If the amount due is more than the retainer we collected from you, deFined will send you an invoice for the remainder due, which will be due within thirty (30) days of the invoice date. For ongoing engagements, Client will receive a pro-rata refund for any remaining days left in the quarter in which the contract was terminated.

Other Fees and Expenses

In addition to the advisory fees paid to deFined, clients may incur certain charges imposed by other third parties, such as broker-dealers, custodians, trust companies, platform service providers, banks and other financial institutions (collectively "Financial Institutions"). These additional charges may include securities brokerage commissions, transaction fees, custodial fees, fees attributable to alternative assets, reporting charges, margin costs, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund or ETF in a client's account, as disclosed in the fund's prospectus (e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses), deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. The Firm's brokerage practices are described at length in Item 12, below.

Direct Fee Debit

Clients generally provide deFined with the authority to directly debit their accounts for payment of the investment advisory fees. The Financial Institutions that act as the qualified custodian for client accounts, from which the Firm retains the authority to directly deduct fees, have agreed to send statements to clients not less than quarterly detailing account transactions, including any amounts paid deFined.

Account Additions and Withdrawals

As stated above, clients may make additions to and withdrawals from their account at any time, subject to deFined's right to terminate an account. Additions may be in cash or securities provided that the Firm reserves the right to liquidate any transferred securities or declines to accept particular securities into a client's account. Clients may withdraw account assets on notice to the Firm, subject to the usual and customary securities settlement procedures. However, the Firm generally designs its portfolios as long-term investments and the withdrawal of assets may impair the achievement of a client's investment objectives. The Firm may consult with its clients about the options and implications of transferring securities. Clients are advised that when transferred securities are liquidated, they may be subject to transaction fees, short-term redemption fees, fees assessed at the mutual fund level (e.g., contingent deferred sales charges) and/or tax ramifications.

Termination

Either party may terminate the advisory agreement at any time by providing written notice to the other party. The client may terminate the agreement at any time by writing deFined at our office. deFined will refund any prepaid, unearned advisory fees.

Terminations will not affect liabilities or obligations from transactions initiated in client accounts prior to termination. In the event the client terminates the investment advisory agreement, deFined will not liquidate any securities in the account unless instructed by the client to do so. In the event of client's death or disability, deFined will continue management of the account until we are notified of client's death or disability and given alternative instructions by an authorized party.

ITEM 6 - PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

deFined does not charge performance-based fees or other fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client.

ITEM 7 - TYPES OF CLIENTS

deFined provides asset management, financial consulting, ERISA plan advisory & consulting, investment advisory consultation, and selection of third party money managers. Our services are provided on a discretionary and non-discretionary basis to a variety of clients, such as institutional investors, individuals, high net worth individuals, trusts and estates, qualified purchasers and individual participants of retirement plans. In addition, we may also provide advisory services to entities such as pension and profit sharing plans, businesses, and other investment advisers.

Account Requirements

deFined does not have a specific account minimum.

ITEM 8 - METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

We will typically use fundamental, cyclical, charting, and/or technical analysis in the selection of individual securities. deFined selects categories of investments based on the clients' attitudes about risk and their need for capital appreciation or income. Different instruments involve different levels of exposure to risk. We seek to select individual securities with characteristics that are most consistent with the client's objectives. Since deFined treats each client account uniquely, client portfolios with a similar investment objectives and asset allocation goals may own different securities. Tax factors will not influence deFined's investment decisions.

General Investment Strategies

deFined generally uses diversification in an effort to minimize risk and optimize the potential return of a portfolio. More specifically, we utilize multiple asset classes, investment styles, market capitalizations, sectors, and regions to provide diversification. Each portfolio composition is determined in accordance with the clients' investment objectives, risk tolerance, and time horizon. We utilize both passive and active investment management strategies in an effort to optimize portfolios.

Our general investment strategy is to seek real capital growth proportionate with the level of risk the client is willing to take. We develop a Client Profile to help identify the client's investment objectives, time horizon, risk tolerance, tax considerations, target asset allocation, and any special considerations and/or restrictions the client chooses to place on the management of the account. deFined will then recommend investments that we feel are consistent with the Client Profile.

After defining client needs, deFined develops and implements plans for the client's account. Then, we monitor the results and make adjustments as needed. As the initial assumptions change, the plans themselves may need to be adapted. Continuous portfolio management is important in an effort to keep the client's portfolio consistent with the client's objectives.

Methods of Analysis for Selecting Securities

deFined's IARs may use, among others, technical, fundamental, and/or charting analysis in the selection of individual equity securities. Additionally, our IARs may use specific strategies or resources in the method of analysis and selection of mutual funds.

Technical Analysis

The effectiveness of technical analysis depends upon the accurate forecasting of major price moves or trends in the securities traded by the IAR. However, there is no assurance of accurate forecasts or that trends will develop in the markets we follow. In the past, there have been periods without discernable trends and similar periods will presumably occur in the future. Even where major trends develop, outside factors like government intervention could potentially shorten them.

Furthermore, one limitation of technical analysis is that it requires price movement data, which can translate into price trends sufficient to dictate a market entry or exit decision. In a trendless or erratic market, a technical method may fail to identify trends requiring action. In addition, technical methods may overreact to minor price movements, establishing positions contrary to overall price trends, which may result in losses. Finally, a technical trading method may under perform other trading methods when fundamental factors dominate price moves within a given market.

The calculations that underline our system, methods, and strategies involve many variables, including determinants from information generated by computers and/or charts. The use of a computer in collating information or in developing and operating a trading method does not assure the success of the method because a computer is merely an aid in compiling and organizing trade information.

Accordingly, no assurance is given that the decisions based on computer-generated information will produce profits for a client's account.

Relative Strength Analysis

Relative strength measures one stock versus another or a group of stocks versus an index, such as the S&P

500. Through relative strength analysis, we can rank areas of the market that are outperforming or underperforming the broad market, whether the Russell 3000 or S&P 500. For our purposes, we use the S&P 500. We then add the highest relative strength sectors and macro areas (i.e. small cap vs. large cap) to our investment model, using primarily ETFs. The general premise is that those areas of the market with highest relative strength outperform over the long term. Additionally, as a risk override, we run moving average analysis to identify when markets are most vulnerable, and from time to time lighten market exposure.

Fundamental Analysis

Fundamental analysis assesses the financial health and management effectiveness of a business by analyzing a company's financial reports, key financial ratios, industry developments, economic data, competitive landscape, and management. The objective of fundamental analysis is to use historical and current financial data to assess the stock valuation of a company, evaluate company profitability, credit risk, and forecast future performance of the company and its share price. Fundamental analysis assumptions and calculations are based on historical data and forecasts; therefore the quality of information and assumptions used are critical. Differences can exist between market fundamentals and how you analyze them.

Charting Analysis

Charting analysis involves the use of patterns in performance charts. Our IARs use this charting technique to search for patterns in an effort to predict favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Mutual Funds

In analyzing mutual funds, our IARs use various sources of information, including data provided by ycharts. We review key characteristics such as historical performance, consistency of returns, risk level, and size of fund. Expense ratio and other costs are also significant factors in fund selection. We also subscribe to/access additional information from other sources that inform our general macro- economic view.

Options

IARs may use options as an investment strategy. An option is a contract that gives the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell an asset (such as a share of stock) at a specific price on or before a certain date. An option, just like a stock or bond, is a security. An option is also a derivative, because it derives its value from an underlying asset. The two types of options are calls and puts. A call gives the holder the right to buy an asset at a certain price within a specific period of time. A call may be purchased if the expectation is that the stock will increase substantially in value before the option expires. It may also be sold as a hedge to protect gains or principal of an existing holding (covered calls). A put gives the holder the right to sell an asset at a certain price within a specific period of time. A put may be purchased if the expectation is that the stock will decrease substantially in value before the option expires. They are typically purchased as a hedge to protect gains or principal of a portfolio. There are various options strategies that our IARs may deploy in a strategy, as appropriate for a client's needs. These include, but may not be limited to: covered options (selling a call or put for a premium payment while retaining the cash or securities required to facilitate the underlying purchase or sale of securities if an option is exercised) or spreads/straddles (buying or selling call or put options on the same or opposite side of the market to benefit from the bid/ask “spread” or to straddle the market based on value or time variances).

Alternative Investments

IARs may use Alternative Investments as a way to diversify a portfolio. Alternative Investments are considered to be “non-correlated” assets, meaning that they do not tend to run up or down (track) with the market like standard securities typically do. The main goal of alternatives is to provide access to other return sources, with the potential benefit of reducing risk of a client’s portfolio, improving returns, or both.

Specific Investment Strategies for Managing Portfolios

IARs may use Modern Portfolio Theory tactical asset allocation, cash as a strategic asset, long-term holding, trend, dollar-cost-averaging, defensive portfolio strategies in the construction and management of client portfolios. There is no guarantee that any of the following strategies will be successful and we make no promises or warranties as to the accuracy of our market analysis.

Modern Portfolio Theory (MPT)

IARs use the Modern Portfolio Theory, which has a basic concept of using diversification in an effort to help minimize risk and optimize the potential return of a portfolio.

Tactical Asset Allocation

IARs may use a tactical asset allocation strategy in the shorter term to deviate from a client’s long-term strategic asset allocation target in an effort to take advantage of what we perceive as market pricing anomalies or strong market sectors or to avoid perceived weak sectors. Once they achieve the desired short-term opportunities or perceives that opportunities have passed, we generally return a client’s portfolio to the original strategic asset mix.

Cash as a Strategic Asset

IARs may use cash as a strategic asset and at times move or keep client’s assets in cash or cash equivalents. While high cash levels can help protect a client’s assets during periods of market decline, there is a risk that our timing in moving to cash is less than optimal upon either exit or reentry into the market, potentially resulting in missed opportunities during positive market moves.

Long-term Holding

IARs do not generally purchase securities for clients with the intent to sell the securities within 30 days of purchase, as we do not generally use short-term trading as an investment strategy. However, there may be times when we will sell a security for a client when the client has held the position for less than 30 days.

IARs do not attempt to time short-term market swings. Short term buying and selling of securities is typically limited to those cases where a purchase has resulted in an unanticipated gain or loss in which we believe that a subsequent sale is in the best interest of the client.

Trend

IARs may manage client assets using a trend following methodology based on the 200-day average and grounded in a strong sell discipline for all positions within the portfolio.

Dollar-Cost-Averaging

Dollar cost averaging involves investing money in multiple installments overtime to take advantage of price fluctuations in the attempt to get a lower average cost per share.

Defensive Strategies

If our IAR anticipates poor near-term prospects for equity markets, we may adopt a defensive strategy for clients' accounts by investing substantially in fixed income securities and/or money market instruments. We may also utilize low, non or negative correlated investments through mutual funds and EFT's. There can be no guarantee that the use of defensive techniques would be successful in avoiding losses.

Margin

Some clients of deFined maintain margin accounts to facilitate short-term borrowing needs, which are unrelated to our investment strategy (ies). For some high-net worth (HNW) clients that are seeking a more aggressive strategy for their portfolio, our IARs may work with those clients on an individual basis to develop a leveraged strategy utilizing margin to increase market participation portfolio as part of a customized investment strategy. Clients are responsible for any brokerage or margin charges in addition to advisory fees. Risks of using margin include "margin calls" (also called "fed calls" or "maintenance calls.") Margin calls occur when account values decrease below minimum maintenance margin levels established by the broker-dealer that holds the securities in the client's account, requiring the investor to deposit additional money or securities into their margin account.

While the use of margin borrowing can increase returns, it can also magnify losses. Clients must specifically request to establish a margin account.

Additional Strategies

Clients interested in learning more about any of the above strategies should contact us for more information and/or refer to the prospectus of any mutual fund. We may also consider additional strategies by specific client request.

Investing Involves Risk

General Risks of Owning Securities

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. While the stock market may increase and your account(s) could enjoy again, it is also possible that the stock market may decrease and your account(s) could suffer a loss. It is important that you understand the risks associated with investing in the stock market, are appropriately diversified in your investments, and ask us any questions you may have.

Risk of Loss

Diversification does not guarantee a profit or guarantee to protect you against loss, and there is no guarantee that your investment objectives will be achieved. deFined strategies and recommendations may lose value. All investments have certain risks involved including, but not limited to the following: Stock Market Risk: The value of securities in the portfolio will fluctuate and, as a result, the value may decline suddenly or over a sustained period of time.

- Managed Portfolio Risk: The manager's investment strategies or choice of specific securities may be unsuccessful and may cause the portfolio to incur losses.
- Industry Risk: The portfolio's investments could be concentrated within one industry or group of industries. Any factors detrimental to the performance of such industries will disproportionately impact your portfolio. Investments focused in a particular industry are subject to greater risk and are more greatly impacted by market volatility than less concentrated investments.
- Non-U.S. Securities Risk: Non-U.S. securities are subject to the risks of foreign currency fluctuations, generally higher volatility and lower liquidity than U.S. securities, less developed securities markets and economic systems and political economic instability.
- Emerging Markets Risk: To the extent that your portfolio invests in issuers located in emerging markets, the risk may be heightened by political changes and changes in taxation or currency controls that could adversely affect the values of these investments. Emerging markets have been more volatile than the markets of developed countries with more mature economies.
- Currency Risk: The value of your portfolio's investments may fall as a result of changes in exchange rates.
- Credit Risk: Most fixed income instruments are dependent on the underlying credit of the issuer. If we are wrong about the underlying financial strength of an issuer, we may purchase securities where the issuer is unable to meet its obligations. If this happens, your portfolio could sustain an unrealized or realized loss.
- Inflation Risk: Most fixed income instruments will sustain losses if inflation increases or the market anticipates increases in inflation. If we enter a period of moderate or heavy inflation, the value of your fixed income securities could go down.
- Interest Rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate.

- Margin Risk: The use of margin is not suitable for all investors, since it increases leverage in your Account and therefore risk.
- ETF and Mutual Fund Risk: When we invest in an ETF or mutual fund for a client, the client will bear additional expenses based on its pro rata share of the ETFs or mutual fund's operation expenses, including the potential duplication of management fees. The risk of owning an ETF or mutual fund greatly reflects the risks of owning the underlying securities the ETF or mutual fund holds. Clients may also incur brokerage costs when purchasing ETFs.
- Derivative Risk: Derivatives are securities, such as futures contracts or options, whose value is derived from that of other securities or indices. Derivatives can be used for hedging (attempting to reduce risk by offsetting one investment position with another) or non-hedging purposes. Hedging with derivatives may increase expenses, and there is no guarantee that a hedging strategy will achieve the desired results. Utilizing derivatives can cause greater than ordinary investment risk, which could result in losses.
- Alternative Investment Risk: Alternative Investments involve a high degree of risk, often engage in leveraging and other speculative investment practices that may increase the risk of investment loss, can be highly illiquid, are not always required to provide periodic pricing or valuation information to investors, may involve complex tax structures and delays in distributing important tax information, are not subject to the same regulatory requirements as mutual funds, often charge high fees which may offset any trading profits, and in many cases the underlying investments are not transparent and are known only to the investment manager. Alternative investment performance can be volatile. An investor could lose all or a substantial amount of his or her investment.
- Management Risk: Your investment with us varies with the success and failure of our investment strategies, research, analysis and determination of portfolio securities. If our investment strategies do not produce the expected returns, the value of the investment may decrease.

ITEM 9 - DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

deFined and our personnel seek to maintain the highest level of business professionalism, integrity, and ethics. We are required to disclose the facts of any legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's evaluation of our business or the integrity of our management. We do not have any required disclosures to this Item.

ITEM 10 - OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

deFined is required to disclose any relationship or arrangement that is material to its advisory business or to its clients with certain related persons.

Licensed Insurance Agents

Certain of the Firm's Supervised Persons are licensed insurance agents and may offer certain insurance products on a fully-disclosed commissionable basis. A conflict of interest exists to the extent that the Firm recommends the purchase of insurance products where its Supervised Persons may be entitled to insurance commissions or other additional compensation. The Firm has procedures in place whereby it seeks to ensure that all recommendations are made in its clients' best interest regardless of any such affiliations.

Relationship with tru Independence, LLC deFined maintains a business relationship with tru Independence, LLC ("tru Independence"), a service platform for investment professionals and an SEC registered investment adviser. Through its relationship with tru Independence, deFined gains access to services related to reporting, custody, investments, compliance, trading, technology, transition support and other related services.

In fulfilling its duties to its clients, deFined endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. The Firm reviews all of its service provider relationships on an ongoing basis in an effort to ensure decisions are made in the best interests of clients. Clients should be aware, however, that this relationship may pose certain conflicts of interest. Specifically, tru Independence charges deFined a platform fee that decreases as assets increase. Accordingly, deFined has an incentive to increase the assets it places through the tru Independence platform. tru Independence also provided transition support aimed at helping deFined launch its new advisory firm. The receipt of economic and other benefits as described above from tru Independence creates an incentive for the Firm to choose tru Independence over other service providers that do not furnish similar benefits.

ITEM 11 - CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

deFined believes that we owe clients the highest level of trust and fair dealing. As part of our fiduciary duty, we place the interests of our clients ahead of the interests of the firm and our personnel. deFined has adopted a Code of Ethics that emphasizes the high standards of conduct that deFined seeks to observe. The Firm's personnel are required to conduct themselves with integrity at all times and follow the principles and policies detailed in our Code of Ethics.

deFined's Code of Ethics attempts to address specific conflicts of interest that either we have identified or that could likely arise. deFined's personnel are required to follow clear guidelines from the Code of Ethics in areas such as gifts and entertainment, other business activities, prohibitions of insider trading, and adherence to applicable federal securities laws. Additionally, individuals who formulate investment advice for clients, or who have access to nonpublic information regarding any clients' purchase or sale

deFined will provide a complete copy of the Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

Personal Trading Practices

deFined and our personnel may purchase or sell securities for themselves, regardless of whether the transaction would be appropriate for a client's account. The Firm and our personnel may purchase or sell securities for themselves that we also recommend/utilize for clients. This includes related securities (e.g., warrants, options, or other derivatives). This presents a potential conflict of interest, as we have an incentive to take investment opportunities from clients for our own benefit, favor our personal trades over client transactions when allocating trades, or use the information about the transactions we intend to make for clients to our personal benefit by trading ahead of clients.

Our policies to address these conflicts include the following:

1. The client receives the opportunity to act on investment decisions/recommendations prior to and in preference to accounts of your deFined's investment advisor representative ("IAR").
2. deFined prohibits trading in a manner that takes personal advantage of price movements caused by client transactions.
3. If your IAR wishes to purchase or sell the same security as he/she recommends or takes action to purchase or sell for a client, he/she will not do so until the custodian fills the client's order, if the order cannot be aggregated with the client order. As a result of this policy, it is possible that clients may receive a better or worse price than deFined's IAR for transactions in the same security on the same day as a client.
4. deFined requires our IARs to report personal securities transactions on at least a quarterly basis.
5. Conflicts of interest also may arise when deFined's IARs become aware of limited offerings or IPOs, including private placements or offerings of interests in limited partnerships or any thinly traded securities, whether public or private. Given the inherent potential for conflict, limited offerings and IPOs demand extreme care. deFined's IARs are required to obtain pre-approval from the Chief Compliance Officer before trading in limited offerings and are prohibited from transacting in IPOs for personal accounts.
6. Under certain limited circumstances, we make exceptions to the policies stated above. deFined will maintain records of these trades, including the reasons for any exceptions.

ITEM 12 - BROKERAGE PRACTICES deFined requires accounts that are not managed by third-party investment managers to be established with Fidelity Investments, member FINRA/SIPC. deFined engages the custodians to clear transactions and custody assets. The custodians provide deFined with services that assist us in managing and administering clients' accounts which include software and other technology that (i) provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); (ii) facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts; (iii) provide research, pricing and other market data; (iv) facilitate payment of fees from its clients' accounts; and (v) assist with certain back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

As part of the arrangement described above, the custodians also make certain research and brokerage services available at no additional cost to our firm. These services include certain research and brokerage services, including research services obtained by the custodians directly from independent research companies, as selected by our firm (within specific parameters). Research products and services provided by the custodians to our firm may include research reports on recommendations or other information about, particular companies or industries; economic surveys, data and analyses; financial publications; portfolio evaluation services; financial database software services; computerized news and pricing services; quotation equipment for use in running software used in investment decision-making; and other products or services that provide lawful and appropriate assistance by the custodians to our firm in the performance of our investment decision-making responsibilities. The aforementioned research and brokerage services are used by our firm to manage accounts. Without this arrangement, our firm might be compelled to purchase the same or similar services at our own expense.

As a result of receiving the services discussed above, we have an incentive to continue to use or expand the use of the custodians' services. Our firm examined this conflict of interest when we chose to enter into the relationship with the custodians and we have determined that the relationship is in the best interest of our firm's clients and satisfies our client obligations, including our duty to seek best execution.

The custodians charge brokerage commissions and transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions (i.e., transaction fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds, commissions are charged for individual equity and debt securities transactions).

The custodians generally do not charge clients separately for custody services but are compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through the custodians or that settle into accounts at the custodians. The custodians charge brokerage commissions and transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions (i.e., transaction fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds, commissions are charged for individual equity and debt securities transactions). The custodians enable us to obtain many no-load mutual funds without transaction charges and other no-load funds at nominal transaction charges. The custodians' commission rates are generally discounted from customary retail commission rates. However, the commission and transaction fees charged by the custodians may be higher or lower than those charged by other custodians and broker-dealers.

We may aggregate (combine) trades for ourselves or our associated persons with your trades, providing that the following conditions are met:

1. Our policy for the aggregation of transactions shall be fully disclosed separately to our existing clients (if any) and the broker-dealer(s) through which such transactions will be placed;
2. We will not aggregate transactions unless we believe that aggregation is consistent with our duty to seek the best execution (which includes the duty to seek best price) for you and is consistent with the terms of our investment advisory agreement with you for which trades are being aggregated.
3. No advisory client will be favored over any other client; each client that participates in an aggregated order will participate at the average share price for all our transactions in a given security on a given business day, with transaction costs based on each client's participation in the transaction;
4. We will prepare a procedure specifying how to allocate the order among those clients;
5. If the aggregated order is filled in its entirety, it will be allocated among clients in accordance with the allocation statement; if the order is partially filled, it will be allocated pro-rata based on the allocation statement;
6. Our books and records will separately reflect, for each client account, the orders of which aggregated, the securities held by, and bought for that account.
7. We will receive no additional compensation or remuneration of any kind as a result of the proposed aggregation; and,
8. Individual advice and treatment will be accorded to each advisory client.

As a matter of policy and practice, we do not utilize research, research-related products and other services obtained from broker-dealers, or third parties, on a soft dollar commission basis other than what is described above.

Factors Considered in Recommending Custodians

We consider several factors in recommending custodians to a client. Factors that we consider when recommending custodians may include financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, reporting, research, and service. We will also take into consideration the availability of the products and services received or offered (detailed above) by the custodians.

Directed Brokerage Transactions

deFined does not allow clients to direct brokerage to a specific broker-dealer. For an individual third party money manager's policy on directed brokerage transactions, you must refer to Item 12 – Brokerage Practices of that managers form ADV 2A brochure.

Special Considerations for ERISA Clients

A retirement or ERISA plan client may direct all or part of portfolio transactions for its account through a specific broker or dealer in order to obtain goods or services on behalf of the plan. Such direction is permitted provided that the goods and services provided are reasonable expenses of the plan incurred in the ordinary course of its business for which it otherwise would be obligated and empowered to pay. ERISA prohibits directed brokerage arrangements when the goods or services purchased are not for the exclusive benefit of the plan. Consequently, we will request that plan sponsors who directs plan brokerage provide us with a letter documenting that this arrangement will be for the exclusive benefit of the plan.

Trade Errors

We have implemented procedures designed to prevent trade errors; however, trade errors in client accounts cannot always be avoided. Consistent with our fiduciary duty, it is our policy to correct trade errors in a manner that is in the best interest of the client. In cases where the client causes the trade error, the client will be responsible for any loss resulting from the correction. Depending on the specific circumstances of the trade error, the client may not be able to receive any gains generated as a result of the error correction. In all situations where the client does not cause the trade error, the client will be made whole and we will absorb any loss resulting from the trade error if the error was caused by the firm. If the error is caused by the Custodian, the Custodian will be responsible for covering all trade error costs. If an investment gain results from the correcting trade, the gain will be donated to charity. We will never benefit or profit from trade errors.

ITEM 13 - REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Account Reviews & Reporting

Managed Accounts Reviews

We manage portfolios on a continuous basis and generally review all positions in client accounts on a regular basis, but no less than annually. We generally offer account reviews to clients annually. Clients may choose to receive reviews in person, by telephone, or via e-mail. deFined's IARs conduct reviews based on a variety of factors. These factors include, but are not limited to, stated investment objectives, economic environment, outlook for the securities markets, and the merits of the securities in the accounts.

In addition, we may conduct a special review of an account based on, but not limited to, the following:

1. A change in the client's investment objectives, guidelines and/or financial situation;
2. Changes in diversification;

3. Tax considerations; or
4. Material cash deposits or withdrawals.

Third Party Accounts

Investment Adviser Representatives periodically review third party money managers' reports provided to the client, but no less often than on a semi-annual basis. Our Investment Adviser Representatives contact clients from time to time, as agreed to with the client, in order to review their financial situation and objectives; communicate information to third party money managers as warranted; and, assist the client in understanding and evaluating the services provided by the third party money manager. The client is expected to notify us of any changes in his/her financial situation, investment objectives, or account restrictions that could affect their account. The client may also directly contact the third party money manager managing the account or sponsoring the program. Clients who utilize third party money managers should review the third party money manager's Form ADV Part 2 Item 13 – Review of Accounts regarding account reviews, types of written reports provided and frequency of such reports.

Financial Consultation Service

Financial consultation clients do not receive reviews of their written plans unless they take action to schedule a financial consultation with us or separately contract with us for a post-financial plan meeting or update to their initial written financial plan. The type of reporting is agreed upon by deFined and the client on a case-by-case basis. We do not provide ongoing services to financial consultation clients but are willing to meet with such clients upon their request to discuss updates to their plans or changes in their circumstances. The clients IAR provides the financial consultation services to the client. In cases when we have been contracted to conduct ongoing financial consultation services, the Investment Adviser Representatives will conduct reviews as agreed upon with the client.

ITEM 14 - CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Brokerage Support Products and Services

We receive an economic benefit from the brokers used for transactions in client accounts in the form of the support products and services they make available to us and other independent firms whose clients maintain their accounts at the broker. These products and services, how they benefit us, and the related conflicts of interest are described above (see Item 12 – Brokerage Practices). We do not base particular investment advice, such as buying particular securities for our clients, on the availability of the brokers' products and services to us.

Outside Compensation

We do not pay referral fees (non-commission based) to independent solicitors for the referral of their clients to our firm.

deFined's IARs may refer clients to unaffiliated professionals for specific needs, such as mortgage brokerage, real estate sales, estate planning, legal, and/or tax/accounting. In turn, these professionals may refer clients to our IARs for investment management needs. We do not have any arrangements with individuals or companies that we refer clients to, and we do not receive any compensation for these referrals.

However, it could be concluded that our IARs are receiving an indirect economic benefit from this practice, as the relationships are mutually beneficial. For example, there could be an incentive for us to recommend services of firms who refer clients to deFined.

Our IARs only refer clients to professionals we believe are competent and qualified in their field, but it is ultimately the client's responsibility to evaluate the provider, and it is solely the client's decision whether to engage a recommended firm. Clients are under no obligation to purchase any products or services through these professionals, and our IARs have no control over the services provided by another firm. Clients who chose to engage these professionals will sign a separate agreement with the other firm. Fees charged by the other firm are separate from and in addition to fees charged by deFined.

If the client desires, our IARs will work with these professionals or the client's other advisers (such as an accountant, attorney, or other investment adviser) to help ensure that the provider understands the client's investments and to coordinate services for the client. We do not share information with an unaffiliated professional unless first authorized by the client.

Third Party Money Manager

Our IARs may work with third party money managers or advisors to service client accounts. They may receive ongoing compensation in relation to these arrangements, of which details are fully disclosed to the clients at the time of account opening. See also Item 5 - Third Party Accounts and Item 10 – Third Party Managers. Other Financial Institutions deFined has established agreements to provide consulting services to other financial institutions regarding business development or investment advisory services provided to clients. If the consultation being provided is specific to services provided to the client account, the specifics of this arrangement, including the compensation paid to deFined, will be fully disclosed to clients in their signed agreements.

ITEM 15 - CUSTODY

deFined has limited custody of some of our clients' funds or securities when the clients authorize us to deduct our management fees directly from the client's account. A qualified custodian (generally a broker-dealer, bank, trust company, or other financial institution) holds clients' funds and securities. Clients will receive statements directly from their qualified custodian at least quarterly. The statements will reflect the client's funds and securities held with the qualified custodian as well as any transactions that occurred in the account, including the deduction of our fee.

Clients should carefully review the account statements they receive from the qualified custodian. When clients receive statements from deFined as well as from the qualified custodian, they should compare these two reports carefully. Clients with any questions about their statements should contact us at the address or phone number on the cover of this brochure. Clients who do not receive a statement from their qualified custodian at least quarterly should also notify us.

Third-Party Standing Letters of Authorization (“SLOA”)

Our firm is deemed to have custody of clients’ funds or securities when clients have standing authorizations with their custodian to move money from a client’s account to a third-party (“SLOA”) and, under that SLOA, it authorizes us to designate the amount or timing of transfers with the custodian. The SEC has set forth a set of standards intended to protect client assets in such situations, which we follow. We do not have a beneficial interest on any of the accounts we are deemed to have Custody where SLOAs are on file. In addition, account statements reflecting all activity on the account(s), are delivered directly from the qualified custodian to each client or the client’s independent representative, at least quarterly. You should carefully review those statements and are urged to compare the statements against reports received from us. When you have questions about your account statements, you should contact us, your Advisor or the qualified custodian preparing the statement.

ITEM 16 - INVESTMENT DISCRETION

deFined accepts discretionary authority over client accounts. If deFined’s IAR is acting in a discretionary capacity, the IAR may place trades within a client account without pre-approval from the client. If the IAR is working in a non-discretionary capacity, then the IAR will make recommendations to clients on investment selections and the client must approve the transactions prior to the trade being placed.

When working with third party managers, we may recommend certain third party money managers to clients and then it is up to the client to approve our recommendations. The third party investment adviser chosen by the client is responsible for all investment decisions made in the client’s account(s). Generally, clients who utilize a third party money manager will sign agreements directly with the third party manager. It is important to note that we do not offer advice on any specific securities or other investments in connection with this service. Clients can find more information about the discretionary authority granted to third party managers in Item 16 – Investment Discretion of each manager’s Form ADV disclosure brochure.

ITEM 17 - VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Proxy Voting

We do not accept or have the authority to vote client securities. However, clients may call us if they have questions about a particular solicitation. We will not be deemed to have proxy voting authority solely as a result of providing advice or information about a particular proxy vote to a client. Clients will receive their proxies or other solicitations directly from their custodian or a transfer agent.

However, third party money managers recommended by our firm may vote proxies for clients. Therefore, except in the event a third party money manager votes proxies, clients maintain exclusive responsibility for: (1) directing the manner in which proxies solicited by issuers of securities beneficially owned by the client shall be voted, and (2) making all elections relative to any mergers, acquisitions, tender offers, bankruptcy proceedings or other type events pertaining to the client's investment assets. Therefore (except for proxies that may be voted by a third party money manager), our firm and/or you shall instruct your qualified custodian to forward to you copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to your investment assets.

Mutual Funds

The investment adviser that manages the assets of a registered investment company (i.e., mutual fund) generally votes proxies issued on securities held by the mutual fund.

Class Actions

deFined does not instruct or give advice to clients on whether or not to participate as a member of class action lawsuits and will not automatically file claims on the client's behalf. However, if a client notifies us that they wish to participate in a class action, we will provide the client with any transaction information pertaining to the client's account needed for the client to file a proof of claim in a class action.

ITEM 18 - FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Registered investment advisers are required in this item to provide clients with certain financial information or disclosures about the firm's financial condition. deFined does not require the prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance, does not have or foresee any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to clients, and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
