This brochure (hereinafter referred to as the “Brochure”) provides information about the qualifications and business practices of The Institute for Wealth Advisors, Inc. If you have any questions about the contents of this Brochure, please contact us at (303) 572-3500 or info@instituteforwealth.com. The information in this Brochure has not been approved or verified by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) or by any state securities authority.

The Institute for Wealth Advisors, Inc. is a registered investment adviser. Registration with the SEC or any state securities authority does not imply a certain level of skill or training.

Additional information about The Institute for Wealth Advisors, Inc. is also available on the SEC’s website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov. The searchable Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD)/Central Registration Depository (CRD) number for The Institute for Wealth Advisors, Inc. is 149347.

Item 2—Material Changes

In this Item, registered investment advisors are to summarize material changes made to the Brochure since its last update. This Brochure materially updates the last brochure filed by the Institute for Wealth Advisors, Inc. (“IWA”) and dated January 31, 2019, and therefore prospective and current clients should review this Brochure in its entirety. In particular, we note the following material changes:

- Item 4 (“Advisory Business”): We made material updates to the description of our management entity structure, how IWA partners with its affiliated entities and the Affiliated IARs (as defined below) to service clients, and the ways in which clients engage IWM and the Affiliated IARs for investment advisory services.
- Item 5 (“Fees and Compensation”): We updated the description of our fees, although the actual fee rate and calculation methodology remain unchanged.
- Item 8 (“Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss”): We made material updates to the description of our investment program and strategies, including clarifying the function of IWM’s Investment Committee (as defined below) and the Affiliated IARs’ participation in investment decision-making (which is agreed to by clients in their investment advisory agreements), and updated the list of risk factors.
- Item 10 (“Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations”): We materially expanded the disclosure regarding Mr. Jeff Pietsh’s role within IWM and his outside business activities. His role and outside activities have not changed, but we determined additional disclosure was prudent.
- Item 16 (“Investment Discretion”): We clarified that certain Affiliated IARs have investment discretion over client accounts, as agreed to by clients in their Client Agreements (as defined below).

Other stylistic changes were made throughout the Brochure to clarify and simplify prior disclosures.

We will provide prospective and current clients with our current Brochure at any time without charge, upon request.

Item 4—Advisory Business

A. Firm Background

IWA is an SEC-registered investment adviser. IWA is a privately held Delaware corporation, which was founded in 2009. IWM is wholly owned by The Institute for Wealth Holdings, Inc. (“IWH”), which is principally owned by Mr. Matthew Medeiros. In addition to IWA, IWH also wholly owns and controls The Institute for Wealth Management, LLC (“IWM”) and The Institute for Wealth Consultants, Inc. (“IWC”), both SEC-registered investment advisers. IWA and IWC are referred to herein as the “Affiliated RIAs”. IWH, IWM, IWA and IWC are referred to collectively herein as “The Institute”. Mr. Medeiros is the President and Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”) of the IWM and IWH. Effective December 2018, Mr. Medeiros also became the Interim Manager of the Affiliate RIAs following the departure of their chief executive officer. Mr. Armin Sarabi is the General Counsel and Chief Compliance Officer (“CCO”) of IWM. Mr. Greg Syler is the CCO of the Affiliated RIAs.

IWM partners with the Affiliated RIAs to service clients. IWM and the Affiliated RIAs each have individuals registered as Investment Adviser Representatives (“IARs”), all of whom offer IWM’s services to clients and prospective clients. IARs registered with IWM or the Affiliated RIAs are referred to herein as the “Affiliated IARs”. The Affiliated IARs remain subject to oversight and supervision by IWM with respect to the services that they provide to IWM’s clients, notwithstanding that they may be registered with either IWA or IWC. Current and prospective clients may request IWM’s Form ADV from IWM or their relevant IAR.

Certain IARs are independent contractors of IWM or the Affiliated RIAs, and they may operate under a separate business name or Doing Business As (“DBA”) name. The DBA name of an IAR can be found in the Form ADV Part 1, Schedule D, Section 1.B, “Other Business Names” of IWM, IWA, or IWC, as applicable. Account statements and marketing materials provided to IWA’s clients may include the DBA name and logo associated with the DBA name of the IAR or group of IARs that services the relevant client.

The Affiliated RIAs only service IWM’s clients; neither Affiliated RIA accepts clients that are not also clients of IWM. In their written investment advisory agreements with IWM (the “Client Agreements”), clients acknowledge that their accounts will be serviced by IWM and a specific Affiliated IAR, if applicable. Given that all clients of IWA receive all or some investment advisory services and account management via IWM, portions of this Brochure relate to IWM’s operations and services.

When properly disclosed to The Institute as outside business activities, Affiliated IARs may themselves provide other products and services through their DBAs to third-parties and individuals that are not clients of, or affiliated with, The Institute. Those products and services are unrelated to The Institute, and are not associated with or supervised by The Institute.

B. Advisory Services via Managed Accounts

Each client enters into a Client Agreement whereby the client engages IWM and a specific Affiliated IAR to provide investment advisory services to the client. Within its Client Agreement, each client chooses whether to (1) have IWM provide all investment advisory services, with the IAR providing only client servicing and not having authority to make investment decisions or trade on behalf of the client’s account (this option (1) is referred to below as “IWM as PM”); or (2) have the IAR serve as the portfolio manager for the client’s account, with full investment discretion of the client’s account, implementing a version of IWM’s proprietary investment program that is tailored to the specific investment objectives chosen by the client (this option (2) is referred to below as the “Rep as PM”).

Item 8 below (“Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss”) describes IWM’s investment program, including a full list of strategies along with certain risks associated with those strategies. IWM’s Global Capital Markets Committee (the “Investment Committee”) utilizes a team approach to build a model portfolio for each strategy. The Investment Committee is led by Mr. Medeiros and consists of employees of the Institute, certain Affiliated IARs, and individuals selected to act as outside consultants to the Investment Committee due to specific knowledge or skills that the Investment Committee believes add value to the investment selection process. IWM may also engage from time to time unaffiliated investment managers to help advise on, and construct, the models and portfolios for certain strategies, including advising on specific client accounts. IWM pays any such unaffiliated investment manager directly, without increasing clients’ fees. IWM relies on a combination of both fundamental and technical indicators when making decisions regarding any of its strategies. Please see Item 8 (“Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss”) for additional details regarding the Investment Committee and Item 10 (“Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations”) regarding potential conflicts with certain members of the Investment Committee.

When a client selects IWM as PM, IWM will have full discretion to trade the client’s account and will do so in accordance with the models approved by the Investment Committee, as described above. When a client selects the Rep as PM, IWM and the IAR will both have authority to trade the client’s account, but the IAR will be responsible for all investment decisions and will have significant flexibility in providing tailored individualized investment advice to clients. Reps as PMs may invest in accordance with the models developed by IWM’s Investment Committee, choose a combination of assets and investments from within IWM’s models, or choose investments outside of IWM’s models and strategies, as disclosed by the IAR to the relevant client. IWM may provide Reps as PMs with operational and back office support, including trade execution, in connection with the execution of a client’s investment program. IARs are required by applicable rules and policies to obtain licenses and complete training to recommend certain investment products and services. Therefore, certain IARs may be unable to recommend investments, models or services that are otherwise approved and available from IWM. Clients should ask their IAR about the investments, models and services that are licensed and qualified to sell prior to engaging the IAR. For more information on the IARs and the Rep as PM services, clients should refer to the Brochure Supplement for each IAR. The Brochure Supplement is a separate document that is provided by each IAR along with this Brochure before or at the time a client engages the IAR and IWM. Clients may contact IWM, at info@instituteforwealth.com, to get copies of the most recent Brochure Supplement for any or all IARs any time without charge.

C. Advisory Services to Private Funds

IWA serves as investment adviser for Madison Park Harbor Fund LP (the “Fund”). The Fund is a private investment fund, operated by Madison Park Fund Advisors, LLC (“Madison Park”) as general partner. The principals of Madison Park are Mr. Randall Buck and Mr. Patrick Donnelly. Mr. Buck also serves as portfolio manager of the Fund. Mr. Buck is an IAR of IWA, and Mr. Donnelly is an IAR of IWC. Both are independent contractors of those entities. As portfolio manager of the Fund, Mr. Buck exercises primary investment advisory responsibility over the Fund, pursuant to the investment program disclosed to investors in the Fund’s offering documents. IWM does not advise the Fund.

D. Financial Planning Services

Through the Affiliated IARs, IWM offers financial planning services to clients of IWM. Financial planning services generally include an analysis of a client’s overall financial condition and investment needs; an analysis of net worth, asset distribution, asset growth and cash flow; and estate planning, retirement and other funding needs. The Affiliated IARs may also provide limited scope and consultation services focusing on specific areas of client concerns (i.e. portfolio review and evaluations or education funding planning). Limited scope and consultation services may not take all important financial issues into consideration.

IWM's financial planning services are tailored to the needs of the client and may vary from informal advice in connection with IWM's investment advisory services (for clients that have entered into Client Agreements) to a formal written financial plan developed by the IAR, in consultation with the client, and used for the term of the engagement. It should be understood by clients that proper financial planning is not a one-time event, and that as their circumstances change, their investment goals and opportunities may change as well.

As part of the financial planning services offered, certain conflicts exist (as discussed throughout this Brochure) between the interests of IWM and the interests of clients because the financial plans may recommend investments that can be effected through IWM's investment advisory services. However, clients are under no obligation to act upon any financial planning recommendation made, to implement any recommendations through IWM, or engage IWM for overall investment advisory services. If a financial planning client chooses to implement a recommendation through IWM pursuant to a Client Agreement, the IAR, in its discretion, may elect to waive or reduce the financial planning or consultation fees by the amount of the fees received for investment advisory services under the Client Agreement.

E. Wrap Fee Programs

IWA does not currently sponsor, or receive fees from, a wrap program.

F. Client Imposed Restrictions

Investment selections for a client account are determined by IWM as PM or the Rep as PM (depending on the option chosen by the client). A client may impose reasonable restrictions on investing in certain securities or groups of securities for the client's account, in accordance with the relevant Client Agreement. Most clients do not restrict the types of investments that IWM or the IAR, as applicable, can make on their behalf. In general, investments held in client accounts may include, and are not limited to, exchange-traded funds ("ETF"), exchange-traded notes ("ETN"), mutual funds, structured notes, single-stock equities, bonds, options, other fixed income securities, variable annuity sub-accounts, REITs, and other private offerings. The actual assets held in client accounts are reported to them in the account statements they receive.

G. Client Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2018, IWA managed $219,909,592.94 in discretionary assets and no non-discretionary assets. Certain assets are included as non-discretionary assets as The Institute believes it arranges for the purchase or sale by inputting trade information directly onto each platform's online trade system. The aggregate of the above numbers reflects IWA's total Regulatory Assets Under Management of $219,909,592.94.

Item 5–Fees and Compensation

A. Compensation and Fee Schedule

Investment Advisory Services for Managed Accounts – Fees are negotiable from client to client, and are tailored to the specific services that IWM and the IAR, as applicable, will provide to the client. The fee is negotiated between the IAR and the client, and the amount of the fee, as well as how IWM and the IAR may share the fee, is stated in the Client Agreement. In general, the maximum total fee that IWM charges its advisory clients is 2.25% per annum of a client’s assets under management, although certain clients may agree to a higher fee in certain limited circumstances. Wrap program clients are subject to the fees described in IWM’s Wrap Fee Program Brochure. In its discretion, IWM may charge an additional $10 flat monthly fee to small accounts that do not meet the minimum initial account values to offset certain fixed costs. IWM or an IAR, if applicable, may choose, in their discretion, to waive all or portions of their fee for a specific client. It should be expected that advisory fees will vary, materially and substantially, among IWM’s clients based on a variety of factors.

Investment Advisory Services for the Fund – IWA charges the Fund an annual fee of 0.80% of the Fund’s total average annual net assets, calculated and paid quarterly.

Financial Planning Services – IWM charges a flat fee between $1,000 and $10,000 per engagement or an hourly fee depending on the level of service agreed to by the client. The financial planning consulting services may be complimentary and at no cost for certain clients with a broader relationship with IWM, including those who are or become investment advisory clients. Any such fee waivers will be determined on a case-by-case basis at IWM’s sole discretion. For financial planning clients who do not have an advisory agreement with IWM, the financial planning consulting services fee is collected upon execution of the financial planning consulting agreement, which is before the financial plan is delivered to the client. IWM generally seeks to provide the financial plan to its clients within weeks of receiving all required documents. IWM may provide the financial planning consulting service to unaffiliated advisors, rather than to clients directly, and such advisors may pay the applicable fees.

B. Deduction of Advisory Fees

Client fees are most often direct-debited from client accounts by assigned custodians. Fees are calculated and assessed either monthly or quarterly, in advance, based on the market value of the assets in client accounts as of the last business day of the preceding month or calendar quarter, as applicable. The investment advisory fee assessed on contributions into a client account during a calendar month or quarter, as applicable, will be prorated based on the number of days remaining in the month/quarter at the time of contribution. Fees are assessed on all assets under management, including securities, cash, and money market balances.

C. Advanced Billing of Fees and Client Refunds

Clients may be billed monthly or quarterly in advance, as set forth in the relevant Client Agreement. If a client has prepaid advisory fees and then chooses to terminate IWM’s management of the account prior to the month- or quarter-end, the client is entitled to receive a prorated refund of the fees for the days remaining in the month or quarter. A client may terminate the account by notifying IWM or the IAR, or by notifying the custodian and delinking the account from IWM, but subject to any notice provisions or requirements in the Client Agreement. The reimbursement due will be calculated by multiplying the advisory fee that was debited at the beginning of the month or quarter by the number of days remaining in the month or quarter from the date the account was transferred or distributed divided by the total number of days in the month or quarter. Such refunds are calculated and submitted on a monthly or quarterly basis depending on the fee arrangement with the client.

D. Other Fees

Custodian fees are independent of our fees and should be disclosed to you by your custodian.

Unless stated in the Client Agreement, IWM's investment advisory fees do not cover any applicable trading costs. Clients will incur brokerage and other transaction costs, and those fees will be reflected in the custodian statements. Please refer to Item 12 of this Brochure for a description of IWM's brokerage practices.

In addition, fees paid to IWM by clients are separate from any fees and expenses charged by the individual investments, such as the ETFs, ETNs, Mutual Funds, Structured Notes, or Private Placements held in client accounts. Clients may also incur certain charges imposed by other third parties, such as broker-dealers, custodians, trust companies, banks and other financial institutions. These additional charges may include: securities brokerage commissions, redemption fees, transaction fees, custodial fees, management fees charged by the managers of private placement or other underlying assets, margin costs, deferred sales charges, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund or ETF in a client's account, as disclosed in the fund's prospectus (e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses), odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. A complete explanation of the fees and expenses charged by each individual investment is available in the prospectus or offering document for that investment. Clients should contact their custodians to obtain copies of these documents.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

IWA does not charge its clients any performance-based fees. The Fund does not pay IWA any performance-based compensation, although it does pay its general partner an incentive fee. Mr. Randall Buck, a principal of the general partner and portfolio manager of the Fund, is an IAR with IWA. Therefore, although IWA does not directly receive the incentive fee, there could be a conflict of interest between the side-by-side management by Mr. Buck of the Fund and the IWA clients that do not pay performance-based compensation. Performance-based fee and allocation arrangements may create an incentive for an investment adviser to recommend investments that may be riskier or more speculative than those that recommended under a different fee arrangement. Such fee arrangements also create an incentive to favor higher fee-paying accounts over other accounts that use the same investment strategy but charge only an asset-based fee. This incentive could cause an investment adviser to allocate the “best” investment opportunities only to the higher-fee account and the better-executed trades to the higher fee account.

Item 7– Types of Clients

IWA generally provides investment advice via managed accounts to individuals, trusts, estates, 401(k) plans, pension and profit sharing plans, charitable organizations, corporations, state and municipal entities, and other business entities. IWA also serves as the investment adviser of the Fund.

In general, IWA requires a minimum initial account value of $100,000; however, IWA may accept accounts for less than the minimum. When IWA elects to accept accounts for less than the minimum, we may charge an additional fee to offset fixed costs, and client holdings may vary from portfolio models based on small position size. Please see Item 5 of this Brochure for a comprehensive description of our fees and compensation.

IWA does not set, nor can it waive, the minimum investment size with respect to the Fund.

Item 8—Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

A. General

As described in Item 4 (“Advisory Business”), IWM’s clients, in their Client Agreements, elect IWM as PM or a Rep as PM. When a client selects IWM as PM, IWM invests the client’s account in accordance with the models and strategies approved by the Investment Committee. When a client selects the Rep as PM, the IAR is responsible for all investment decisions and will have significant flexibility in providing tailored individualized investment advice to clients. Reps as PMs may invest in accordance with the models developed by IWM’s Investment Committee, may choose a combination of assets and investments from within IWM’s models, or may choose investments outside of IWM’s models and strategies, as disclosed by the IAR to the relevant client.

The Investment Committee utilizes a team approach to build a model portfolio for each strategy, and relies on a combination of both fundamental and technical indicators when making decisions regarding these strategies. IWM’s current model strategies include: Strategic, Tactical, Global Alternative, Hedging, Individual Stock and Individual Bond. Each strategy includes different sub-strategies. IWM may update these, and may add new strategies, sub-strategies and models from time to time, in its discretion. Reps as PMs may themselves implement additional strategies and sub-strategies outside those described below, as agreed to with individual clients.

With respect to the Fund, Mr. Buck implements the investment program in accordance with the Fund’s offering documents provided to investors.

IWM may engage from time to time unaffiliated investment managers to help advise on, and construct, the models and portfolios for certain strategies, including advising on specific client accounts. In general, IWM would do so for strategies/models where the portfolio construction decisions are nuanced and need to take into account client-level considerations. IWM pays any such unaffiliated investment manager directly, without increasing clients’ fees. Currently, IWM has engaged Northern Capital Securities Corporation, a fixed-income specialized RIA and broker-dealer (“Northern Capital”), to advise IWM on the construction and monitoring of the Individual Bond Strategies. Additional information about Northern Capital is available on the SEC’s website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov. The searchable Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD)/Central Registration Depository (CRD) number for Northern Capital is 40659.

B. Investment Strategies

IWM’s strategies and sub-strategies as of the date of this Brochure are summarized below. The descriptions of IWM’s strategies should not be understood to limit in any way the potential scope of IWM’s or the Rep as PM’s investment activities or the securities, instruments or other assets in which client accounts may invest. Strategies and sub-strategies may be recategorized from time to time. Clients may obtain an updated list of all available strategies or sub-strategies at any time, upon request. Investors in the Fund should review fully the description of the Fund’s investment program described in the Fund’s offering documents, as it may be materially different from the strategies described below.

STRATEGIC STRATEGIES

Global Strategic Strategy

The Global Strategic Strategy is a passive, low-cost strategic asset allocation constructed from the Vanguard family of funds, managed on a discretionary basis. Global Strategic combines enhanced portfolio construction concepts with low-cost securities to capture the long-term performance of a globally-diversified portfolio with exposure to domestic equities, international equities, emerging market equities, fixed income, real estate, commodities, and cash/money market.

MoneyPlus Strategy

MoneyPlus Strategy invests solely in cash and fixed income Mutual Funds and Exchange Traded Funds and Notes (ETF/Ns). While seeking a lower term to maturity than traditional bond benchmarks, this strategy may incorporate exposure to cash, U.S. treasuries, government-related debt, corporate bonds, securitized bonds, derivatives and global fixed income securities.

Impact Investing Strategy

The Impact Investing Strategy uses Morningstar's ESG and SRI Ratings to develop a universe of investable assets that meet specific impact goals and to which IWM can apply its models.

TACTICAL STRATEGIES

Aspire Strategy

The Aspire Strategy is built upon allocations towards our own proprietary dynamic selection models for growth versus value stocks and fixed income, as well as active fund managers.

Sector Rotation Strategy

The Sector Rotation Strategy provides a rules-based approach that seeks to preserve capital by closely observing sector behavior and adjusting market exposure accordingly. The program is an active, tactical strategy that seeks to capture a proportionate share of S&P 500 upside in bull markets, while reducing participation in bear markets by holding above-average cash or money market balances when any of nine tracked sectors is underperforming.

Global Tactical Asset Allocation Strategy

The Global Tactical Asset Allocation Strategy ("GTAA") is designed to pursue growth while also placing a premium on downside protection through active selection of diversified assets and defensive lower-correlation strategies according to shifting market dynamics. GTAA includes three goals and objectives categories, including: Conservative, Moderate, and Growth. Each portfolio holds approximately 20 positions, most appropriate for accounts $100,000 and higher. As a "go-anywhere" approach, GTAA adapts its focus according to our expectations of future outperforming asset classes, sectors, styles, and countries, supplemented by a variety of hedged alternative strategies that seek to mitigate risk, such as long-short, managed futures, and put-write approaches. Finally, a blend of fixed income funds in the portfolios seek to provide income while further offsetting equity risk.

Global Alternative Strategy

The Global Alternative Strategy takes many of the non-stock correlated components of our GTAA portfolios and provides them as a stand-alone liquid alternative to traditional bond portfolios while continuing to place a premium on downside protection. Through blending a variety of hedged alternative Exchange Trade Product and Mutual Funds that seek to mitigate risk, such as long-short, managed futures and put-write approaches, together with fixed income funds, this strategy may be blended with more stock-centric holdings. The program seeks to provide income while offsetting equity risk with reduced interest rate-sensitivity as compared to traditional bond-only portfolios.

Signature 5 Series Strategy

The Signature 5 Series Strategy incorporates investments in structured notes alongside the GTAA strategy, seeking to limit downside by investing a portion of the portfolios in a structured note. Investments in structured notes are intended to be held until maturity of the note (up to six years depending on the specific note). The note issuer may be the only "market maker" in the structured note and, therefore, the issuer may be the only party that provides note holders with liquidity. Information concerning the offering of the structured note, including risks and expenses, are contained in the publicly-filed prospectus for the specific note. We are not responsible for any disclosures contained in the prospectus of such structured notes.

HEDGING STRATEGIES

Global Alternative Strategy

For some portfolios, the Global Alternative Strategy described above serves as a hedging, rather than a tactical, strategy based on the overall portfolio composition.

Unconstrained Long/Short

Unconstrained Long/Short Strategy provides a rules-based approach that seeks to reduce stock market exposure and potentially participate in bear market environments by closely observing sector and bond behavior and adjusting market exposure accordingly. The program is an active tactical strategy that starts with our Sector Rotation algorithms, then adds 50% short/inverse exposures for those stock sectors or bond durations, that are quantitatively determined to be weak. Proprietary quantitative entry and exit criteria are used to manage risk, determine position weightings, and when to increase or decrease long, inverse or money market balances using Mutual Funds and Exchange Traded Products. The strategy may be appropriate for investors with a Moderate to Growth objective and a 3-5-year horizon.

INDIVIDUAL STOCK STRATEGIES

The Individual Stock Strategies utilize an “active money management” approach to value investing for our clients’ individually managed accounts. The strategies treat each investment as a partial ownership of a company, clearly defining the difference between intrinsic value and market value and adopting a preference for strong dividend payers. There are three sub-strategies: Dividend Income, which focuses on global companies; International, which focuses on ex-US stocks; and Dividend Value, which holds only US-based companies.

INDIVIDUAL BOND STRATEGIES

Corporate Bond

The Corporate Bond Strategy seeks to provide a total return orientation to outperform a specific relevant index. The portfolio seeks to preserve capital and enhance current income, with an emphasis on sector allocation and security selection with maturity laddering as opposed to active duration management.

Corporate/Government Blend

The Corporate/Government Strategy seeks to provide a moderate and sustainable level of current income by investing in government and investment grade corporate bonds with reasonable safety of principal and a predictable level of cash flow. The strategy is intended to be a more stable portion of an overall investment allocation and is primarily utilized to earn income while offsetting volatility from riskier assets such as equities.

Municipal Bond

The Municipal Bond Strategy seeks to provide a sustainable level of current income that is exempt from applicable personal income taxes. Investments are investment grade municipal bonds with regional diversification.

C. Risk of Loss

Described below are what IWM believes are the material risks of its investment program, but this section does not attempt to identify every risk or to describe completely those risks it does identify. In particular, this Brochure does not include a description of any strategies employed, or investment made, by Reps as PMs that are outside of IWM’s stated investment program. Reps as PMs may pursue different strategies, with different risks, than those described below. In addition, investors in the Fund should review fully the description of the risk factors applicable to the Fund in the Fund's offering documents, as they may be materially different from those described below.

The risks described below or others could result in significant losses or even a complete loss of clients' investments. Clients should be prepared to bear all of the risks described below and others if they invest with IWM. Clients should discuss with their IARs any questions regarding the investment strategies employed for their particular accounts and their applicable risks.

An understanding of risk in different forms can help clients to understand the opportunities, trade-offs and costs involved with different investment approaches. The principal risk of any investment is that, despite any comprehensive analysis, the security will not perform as expected. This can be due to, among other things:

Market Risk: The success of investment activities will be affected by general economic and market conditions, such as interest rates, availability of credit, inflation rates, commodity prices, economic uncertainty, changes in laws, trade barriers, currency fluctuations and controls, and national and international political circumstances. These factors may affect the level of volatility of securities prices and the liquidity of investments in client portfolios. Such volatility or illiquidity could impair profitability or result in losses.

Management Risk: Certain strategies are actively managed, and their performance therefore will reflect in part IWM's and the Rep as PM's ability to make investment decisions that are suited to achieving an account's investment objective. Due to its active management, an account could underperform investments with similar investment objectives.

Investment Selection: The investments chosen for clients may decline in value. Investment selection risk may cause an account to underperform other accounts with a similar investment objective. Investments are selected in part on the basis of criteria developed and implemented from time to time. Those selection criteria do not include all of the information available regarding a particular security. In addition, investment decisions rely on information obtained from others regarding financial, economic, business and market conditions, factors and trends, and IWM and Reps and PMs will not be in a position to confirm the completeness, genuineness or accuracy of such information and data.

Volatility of Securities Markets: The value of securities held in client accounts that are traded on exchanges, and the risks associated with holding these positions, vary in response to events that affect asset markets in general. Market disruptions could lead to dramatic price swings in securities held within client portfolios and could result in substantial losses.

Liquidity: Some investments may lack liquidity or be thinly traded. This could present a problem in realizing the prices quoted and in effectively trading the position(s). Certain portfolios may invest in illiquid investments, which will reduce an account's overall liquidity and could result in significant losses. In addition, an account could be exposed to substantial losses should we find it necessary to liquidate positions during periods of illiquidity.

Price and Interest Rate Risk: When interest rates change, the price of a bond is likely to adjust up or down so that its yield, based on the new price, is in line with the new level of interest rates. Interest rate risk is probably the most significant risk facing clients in fixed income securities because it affects all bonds similarly.

Tax Risk: Investment may be made without considering a client's specific tax consequences. Some strategies, including transactions in options, can be subject to special tax rules, which may have adverse tax consequences for the account holder.

Extraordinary Events: Global terrorist activity and U.S. involvement in armed conflict may negatively affect general economic fortunes, including sales, profits, and production, and may lead to depressed securities prices and problems with trading facilities and infrastructure.

Concentration Risk: Client portfolios may have highly concentrated positions in issuers engaged in one or a few industries. This increases the risk of loss relative to the market as a whole.

ETF and ETN Risks: While the prospectus for each underlying ETF or ETN contains detailed descriptions of the risks associated with these investments, in particular, they include the potential for: (1) tracking error (in which the ETF/ETN does not accurately track its index as a result of factors such as transaction fees and expenses, or changes in the composition of the underlying index); (2) pricing error (in which the ETF/ETN trades at a discount or premium to its inherent net asset value); (3) liquidity risk (which may occur if an ETF/ETN fails to attract a sufficient number of market makers); and (4) counterparty risk specific to ETNs (a risk regarding the creditworthiness of a party that assists in the replication of the underlying index).

Equity Risk: Investments in equity securities generally involve a high degree of risk. Prices are volatile and market movements are difficult to predict. These price movements may result from factors affecting individual companies or industries. Price changes may be temporary or last for extended periods. In addition to, or in spite of, the impact of movements in the overall stock market, the value of investments may decline if the particular investments within the portfolio do not perform well in the market. Prices of growth stocks may be more sensitive to changes in current or expected earnings than prices of other stocks. Prices of stocks may fall or fail to appreciate regardless of movements in securities markets. A higher turnover rate, or increased trading may result in higher transactions costs and higher taxes in taxable accounts and may also affect the strategies' overall performance.

Fixed Income Risks: Investments in fixed income securities represent numerous risks such as credit, interest rate, reinvestment, and prepayment risk, all of which affect their price/value. These risks represent the potential for a large amount of price volatility. In general, securities with longer maturities are more sensitive to price changes. Additionally, the prices of high-yield fixed income securities fluctuate more than high quality debt issues. Prices are especially sensitive to developments affecting the company's business and to changes in the ratings assigned by rating agencies. Prices are often closely linked with the company's stock prices. High-yield securities can experience sudden and sharp price swings due to changes in economic conditions, stock market activity, large sales by major investors, default, or other factors. In the event of a default, the investment may suffer a partial or total loss.

Options Risk: Options involve the risk that the counter-party who wrote the option will be unable or unwilling to perform its obligations under the option contract, or the option may become illiquid and difficult to close. An option derives its value from the price of the underlying stock. Therefore, their value is heavily dependent on underlying stock price. Structured notes often have a derivative component imbedded within.

Foreign Security Risk: The special risks associated with investing in foreign securities include fluctuating currencies, political risk, social or economic instability, trade imbalances, imposition of exchange control regulation, withholding taxes, limitations on the removal of funds or other assets, and possible nationalization of assets or industries.

Leverage/Margin Risk: The use of borrowed capital, such as margin, to increase the potential return of an investment may increase the risk of an investment and can magnify the effect of any losses. The use of leverage is a speculative technique and may not be suitable for all investors. Using borrowed money (whether through trading on margin or any other method of borrowing) to finance the purchase of securities involves interest charges and entails greater risk than using cash resources only.

Cybersecurity Breaches: IWM, the IARs, clients and their service providers are subject to a possible cybersecurity attack or breach. Cybersecurity is a broad term referring to the body of technologies, processes and practices designed to protect networks, computers, programs and data from attack, damage or unauthorized access. If a cybersecurity breach were to occur, substantial costs could be incurred, including without limitation those associated with: forensic analysis of the origin and scope of the breach; increased and upgraded cybersecurity; investment or other losses; identity theft; unauthorized use of proprietary information; litigation; adverse investor or client reaction; the dissemination of confidential and proprietary information; and reputational damage. Any such breach could expose IWM and the IARs to liability as well as regulatory inquiry and/or action.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered Investment Advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to the evaluation of the adviser or the integrity of its management. IWA and its management personnel have no reportable disciplinary events to disclose.

For more information about disciplinary events involving Affiliated IARs, please refer to Investment Advisor Public Disclosure at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov or FINRA BrokerCheck at www.finra.org.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

As discussed in Item 4 (“Advisory Business”), IWM is controlled and managed by IWH, which also wholly owns the Affiliated RIAs. None of The Institute or any of its management persons are registered as broker-dealers, futures commission merchants, commodity pool operators, commodity trading advisors, or associated persons of the foregoing entities.

Mr. Matthew Medeiros, President & CEO of The Institute, serves on an advisory board for a New York-based mutual fund company, Exceed Investments LLC (“Exceed”), for which he is eligible to receive equity in the company. Exceed offers a collection of index-based investment solutions and is affiliated with a Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc. (“FINRA”) registered broker-dealer (Exceed Securities LLC), a registered investment advisor that seeks to offer investment services and products (Exceed Advisory LLC), and a non-registered entity which publishes and licenses financial indexes (Exceed Indexes LLC). Mr. Medeiros may benefit based on his position on the Exceed board because the IWM’s models/strategies, or other Rep as PM investments, may include shares of mutual funds and other investment products offered by Exceed. IWM believes that this conflict is mitigated by the fact that investment decisions for IWM’s client accounts, including any investment in an Exceed-affiliated entity, are made by the Investment Committee or the Reps as PM, as applicable, rather than by Mr. Medeiros individually.

The Investment Committee is permitted to engage non-affiliated outside consultants as members of the committee, and each outside consultant may have outside business interests. Currently, Jeff Pietsch is a member of the Investment Committee and provides research, tactical investment counsel and intellectual capital to the Investment Committee for the development of its models and strategies. Mr. Pietsch also serves as Managing Director of Eastsound Capital Advisors, LLC (“ECA”), a registered investment adviser unaffiliated with The Institute, where he performs portfolio management for ECA’s clients. A conflict of interest is present with Mr. Pietsch’s management of the ECA accounts alongside his consulting to the Investment Committee. IWM believes that this risk is mitigated by the facts that (1) ECA employees a unique set of strategies that are not the same as those implemented by IWM and (2) Mr. Pietsch does not maintain discretion over any IWM client account, but rather provides guidance to the Investment Committee on asset allocation, fund selection and implementation.

IWM permits the Affiliated IARs, including Reps as PMs, to engage in outside business activities. In certain cases, an IAR could receive greater compensation through the outside business than through The Institute. For example, an IAR could also be an accountant, real estate agent, tax preparer, lawyer or refer customers to other service providers and receive referral fees. Similarly, an IAR could provide advisory or financial planning services through an unaffiliated investment advisory firm, sell insurance through a separate business, or provide third-party administration to retirement plans through a separate firm. If an IAR provides investment services to an IWA client, and also provides other services to such client directly or through a separate firm, this typically means the IAR is compensated for the two services, as agreed to with the specific client. Anyone who engages with an IAR for services outside of The Institute should specifically discuss with the IAR the compensation that he or she receives from the engagement.

None of the entities within The Institute are broker-dealers. If an Affiliated IAR is required to be registered with a broker-dealer due to an outside business activity not associated with their services with The Institute, an IAR is permitted to register with a broker dealer with the Institute’s approval.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

Ensuring an ethical culture is of critical importance to The Institute. As such, The Institute has adopted a Code of Ethics that sets forth standards of conduct expected of its personnel. The Code of Ethics addresses, among other things, personal trading, outside business activities, gifts, the prohibition against the use of inside information, and other situations where there is a possibility for conflicts of interest. The Code of Ethics is reasonably designed to protect The Institute's clients by deterring misconduct, educating personnel regarding expectations and laws governing their conduct, reminding personnel that they are in a position of trust and must act with complete propriety at all times, guarding against violations of the securities laws, and establishing procedures for personnel to follow so that the Institute may determine whether personnel are complying with ethical principles. All supervised persons must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, and as amended.

The Institute's officers, directors and employees may trade for their own accounts in securities which are recommended to or purchased for clients. The Code of Ethics is reasonably designed to ensure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of the employees will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. In addition, the Code of Ethics requires pre-clearance of certain transactions and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because The Institute permits employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee.

The Institute will provide a copy of the Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request. Please call (303) 572-3500, or email info@instituteforwealth.com.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

As a fiduciary, IWA's policy is to seek to execute client securities transactions in a manner that a client's total cost or proceeds in each transaction are most favorable under the circumstances. Whenever possible, IWA's IARs will seek to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts. The determining factor in the selection of a broker-dealer to execute transactions for client accounts is not simply the lowest possible transaction cost but whether the broker-dealer can provide what is, in the IAR's view, the best qualitative execution for a client account (i.e., best execution).

Unless otherwise specified in a Client Agreement, IWM and/or the Rep as PM, as applicable, has authority to select brokers on behalf of client accounts and to determine the commissions and other fees that the clients will pay to those brokers. Generally, clients do not direct IWM or the Affiliated IAR to utilize a particular broker-dealer to execute some or all transactions for the client's account. However, clients do choose their custodians, generally from a list provided by IWM of custodians with whom it has an existing relationship. Once a client selects its custodian of choice, the client directs IWM and/or the Affiliated IAR, as applicable, to transmit trading instructions to such custodian. Custodians execute client trades or transmit orders for the execution of trades to other broker-dealers. IWM and the Affiliated IARs do not execute trades or monitor the quality of execution in client accounts by the custodian or its selected broker-dealers on a trade-by-trade basis. IWM and the Affiliated IARs do review holdings in client accounts and the general performance and reliability of client custodians and the trade execution process. However, in these circumstances, IWM and the Affiliated IAR are unable to influence the transaction costs charged by the custodian to settle trades for clients. Clients should be aware that if they, or their custodians, direct trading to a particular broker or dealer, clients may pay higher transaction costs or execution prices as neither IWM nor the Affiliated IARs will have authority to obtain volume discounts, lower commissions, or narrower spreads. Consequently, clients directing the use of a particular broker or dealer may not receive best execution, and may incur higher trading costs.

When IWM or an Affiliated IAR does select broker and dealers for client accounts, it does so based on factors that it deems relevant at the time of determining whether the broker can provide best execution. These factors may include, without limitation:

- whether the broker provides a combination of transaction execution services along with asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody);
- capability to execute, clear and settle trades (buy and sell securities for the client account);
- capabilities to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.);
- breadth of investment products made available (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange traded funds (ETFs), etc.);
- availability of investment research and tools that assist IWM or the Affiliated IAR in making investment decisions;
- quality of services;
- competitiveness of the price of services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate them;
- reputation, financial strength and stability of the provider; and
- their prior service to The Institute or the Affiliated IAR and their other clients.

Please refer to Item 14 (“Client Referrals and Other Compensation”) for a discussion of the conflicts of interest posed by IWM receiving client referrals from TD Ameritrade (as defined below).

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

IWM, through the Investment Committee, and/or the Reps as PMs, as applicable, monitor and review client portfolios on a periodic basis. The frequency of reviews is at the discretion of IWM and, if applicable, the Rep as PM, but accounts are typically reviewed not less than quarterly. Accounts are reviewed for performance, consistency with the targeted investment strategy or model, and other account parameters to determine if any adjustments are necessary. Results are often compared to the performance of an applicable benchmark. In cases where material deviations appear between client account performance and composite account performance, IWM or the Rep as PM, as applicable, may take steps to rebalance accounts to bring them more closely aligned with the respective models.

Clients receive written monthly statements from their account custodians. These statements will include the account balances, positions held and transactions that were made throughout the period, and will reflect a deduction for the monthly or quarterly advisory fee, as applicable. In addition, IWM may produce a written monthly or quarterly performance report for certain clients. These reports may include transactions made in the account, account positions, time-weighted returns, a summary of investment advisory fees, market commentary, and such other information as IWM elects to provide to clients from time to time. Clients who receive this additional report are urged to carefully review and compare the official custodial statements to the monthly/quarterly performance report. The monthly/quarterly performance reports may vary from the custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities. Clients should notify IWM or the applicable IAR immediately if there is ever a material difference between the two documents.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

IWM shares its investment advisory and financial planning fees with the Affiliated IARs that service the relevant client accounts, as disclosed to clients in their Client Agreements. IWA does not directly have any other arrangements whereby it compensates third parties for client referrals. However, IWM does have such arrangements, and given its common ownership and operations with IWA, below is the full description of IWM's relationships.

Unaffiliated IARs, RIAs or broker-dealers may recommend to their clients IWM's investment advisory services. In such instances, IWM will share a portion of its investment advisory fee with such third parties, as documented in writing and disclosed to clients in accordance with applicable law. The fee percentage shared varies and is negotiated by IWM and such third parties. As disclosed in Item 5 ("Fees and Compensation"), in no event will clients' annual advisory fee to IWM exceed 2.25%, even when IWM shares its fee with third-parties.

Finally, IWM participates in TD Ameritrade's institutional advisor program, AdvisorDirect (the "Program"), through which IWM compensated TD Ameritrade for client referrals. TD Ameritrade Institutional is a division of TD Ameritrade Inc., member FINRA/Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC), and an SEC-registered broker-dealer (collectively, "TD Ameritrade"). TD Ameritrade offers to independent investment advisors services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. TD Ameritrade is a discount broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with the Institute, and there is no employee or agency relationship between The Institute and TD Ameritrade. The Institute participates in the Program, which provides certain benefits to IWM, while at the same time IWM may recommend TD Ameritrade to clients for custody services. In addition to meeting the minimum eligibility criteria for participation in the Program, IWM may have been selected to participate in the Program based on the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, IWM client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade. Some of the products and services made available by TD Ameritrade through the Program may benefit the Institute, but may not directly benefit client accounts. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, IWM endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of these benefits by the Institute creates a potential conflict of interest for and may influence IWM when it recommends a custodian to clients. The benefits that The Institute may receive from TD Ameritrade are described below.

Client Referrals

IWM receives client referrals from TD Ameritrade through its participation in the Program. TD Ameritrade has established the referral program as a means of referring its brokerage customers and other investors seeking fee-based personal investment management services or financial planning services to independent investment advisers. TD Ameritrade does not supervise IWM or the Reps as PMs, and has no responsibility for the management of client portfolios or IWM's other services.

IWM pays TD Ameritrade an on-going fee for each successful client referral. This fee is usually a percentage of the advisory fee (not to exceed 0.25%) that the clients pay to IWM for the life of IWM's relationship with the referred client ("Solicitation Fee"). IWM also pays TD Ameritrade the Solicitation Fee on any advisory fees received from any family members of a referred client, including a spouse, child, or any other immediate family member who resides with the referred client and hires IWM on the recommendation of such referred client. IWM does not charge clients referred through the Program any fees or costs higher than its standard fees. For information regarding additional or other fees paid directly or indirectly to TD Ameritrade, please refer to the TD

Ameritrade Advisor Direct Disclosure and Acknowledgement Form which will be provided prior to establishing an account.

For (i) referred client relationships initiated on or after April 10, 2017; or (ii) any referred client relationship initiated before April 10, 2017, or such later date as the Conflict of Interest Rule, Retirement Investment Advice, 29 CFR 2509 & 2510 (“Conflict of Interest Rule”) becomes applicable, that receives additional Program referral services provided by TD Ameritrade; or (iii) at our one-time election to move all existing and new client relationships to the new referral fee set forth in our agreement with TD Ameritrade, the following referral fee applies:

Referred Client Assets	Referral Fee on Assets
Assets up to $2 million	0.25%
Assets over $2 million up to $10 million	0.10%
Assets over $10 million	0.05%

TD Ameritrade will most likely refer clients through the Program to investment advisers that encourage their clients to custody their assets at TD Ameritrade and whose client accounts are profitable to TD Ameritrade. Consequently, in order to obtain client referrals from TD Ameritrade, IWM has incentives to (i) recommend to clients that the assets under management be held in custody with TD Ameritrade, (ii) to provide trading instructions to TD Ameritrade for clients whose accounts are custodied at TD Ameritrade, and (iii) to the extent trading in a client account may cause TD Ameritrade to absorb additional trading expenses, to reduce trading in such client accounts. In addition, IWM has agreed not to solicit clients referred through the Program to transfer their accounts from TD Ameritrade or to establish brokerage or custody accounts at other custodians, except when our fiduciary duties require doing so.

Other Benefits

IWM may receive other benefits through the Program. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations; research-related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk; access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts); the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers; and discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided by third party vendors. TD Ameritrade may also pay for business consulting and professional services received by The Institute. These products or services may assist IWM in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at TD Ameritrade. Other services made available by TD Ameritrade are intended to help us manage and further develop the Institute’s business. The benefits received by The Institute through participation in the Program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade.

The Institute’s relationship with TD Ameritrade thus poses a number of conflicts of interest. It is IWM’s goal to ensure that all clients receive the full benefit of its investment advice. In order to address potential conflicts of interest with TD Ameritrade, IWM monitors client account performance to identify situations in which the performance of any group of client accounts lags that of other, substantially similar client accounts, and will take steps, when practicable, to ensure comparable performance among similarly situated client accounts. The Institute’s participation in the Program does not diminish IWM’s duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

Item 15 – Custody

IWA does not take physical or constructive custody of client assets other than to deduct fees for advisory services. Clients receive monthly account statements from their respective custodians. These statements will include the account balances, positions held and transactions that were made throughout the period, and will reflect a deduction for the monthly or quarterly advisory fee, as applicable.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

IWM and each Rep as PM, if applicable, receive discretionary authority from a client at the outset of an advisory relationship through the Client Agreement and the applicable custodian's paperwork. These agreements provide IWM and the Rep as PM, if applicable, with the discretionary authority (e.g., through a limited power of attorney) to select the identity and amount of securities or other assets to be bought or sold for the relevant client account. For customized advisory services, a client may engage IWM and the Rep as PM, if applicable, on a non-discretionary basis as stated in the Client Agreement. In all cases, investment selections and recommendations are made in a manner consistent with the clients' stated investment objectives. IWM and the Rep as PM, as applicable, will use their best efforts to ascertain the suitability of investment strategies and products to be implemented in the management of a client's accounts.

Item 17–Voting Client Securities

As a matter of policy and practice, IWM and the Affiliated IARs do not have the authority to vote, and do not vote, proxies on behalf of advisory clients. Clients retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for all securities maintained in client portfolios. Clients should contact their custodians if they have questions about proxy voting. Clients may also contact IWM by phone at 303-572-3500 if they have questions about a particular proxy solicitation.

Item 18—Financial Information

IWA has no financial condition that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding
