Item 4: Advisory Business

Item 4A: Firm Description

Giverny Capital Advisors LLC, (“Giverny”, “Firm” or “We”) was founded in 2009. Giverny provides investment management services to individuals, trusts, and other institutional entities. The Firm’s investment management services are limited to the discretionary management of investment portfolios (mostly consisting of equity securities) in accordance with Giverny’s long-term investment management strategy. We do not provide financial planning, insurance planning, estate planning, or any other related or unrelated consulting services.

Giverny is strictly a fee-only investment management firm providing independent investment management services. The firm does not receive commissions for purchasing or selling annuities, insurance, stocks, bonds, mutual funds, limited partnerships, or other commissioned products. The Firm is not affiliated with entities that sell financial products or securities. No commissions in any form are accepted and no finder’s fees are accepted.

Giverny does not act as a custodian of client assets and the client always maintains asset control. Giverny’s third party custodian is TD Ameritrade Institutional and/or Charles Schwab & Co., though a client may also use a custodian of their own choice. Giverny places trades on behalf of clients under a limited power of attorney.

The principal owners of the Firm are Patrick Leger (50%) and Giverny Capital Management. (50%). Giverny Capital Management is entirely owned by Musee Giverny Capital, Inc. which is controlled by Francois Rochon.

Item 4B: Types of Advisory Services

Giverny provides investment management services, on a continuing basis, with respect to the investment and reinvestment of all cash, securities, and other property in a client’s account. A client’s account will normally contain a relatively small number of securities positions (typically between 20 and 30 equity securities) and may not constitute a fully diversified or balanced portfolio that is suitable for investment of all of a client’s assets.

Giverny manages a client account without the obligation to consider other investment assets or accounts that the client may have or maintain away from the Firm. A client’s account will generally not contain fixed income investments but may do so based on individual client needs.

The Firm offers and provides advice on the following types of investments and the Firm’s advice is limited to these types of securities:

- Domestic equities
- International equities
- Fixed income securities

- Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)
- Mutual Funds
- Money Market securities or Cash funds

Item 4C: Tailored Relationships

We have considerable flexibility in accommodating any unique client needs and constraints through our third party custodian that holds the assets of our clients in individualized accounts. This customization may include, but is not limited to, the types of asset classes selected, the securities selected, the size of the allocation to a particular security, etc. Clients may also impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Item 4D: Wrap Fee Programs

The Firm does not engage in any Wrap Fee Programs.

Item 4E: Client Assets

As of 12/31/18, Giverny manages approximately $139,807,419 in assets for approximately 142 clients (192 accounts). Approximately $139,807,419 is managed on a discretionary basis (representing 192 accounts), and no assets are managed on a non-discretionary basis (representing 0 accounts).

Investment Advisory Agreement

The scope of work and fee for a client is agreed upon in an Investment Advisory Agreement that is signed by the client prior to the start of the management of any client assets. This agreement provides detailed information concerning what services are provided, the scope and limitations of these services, how fees are paid, disclaimers around the potential risks involved with investing, liability, confidentiality, etc.

The annual Investment Advisory Agreement stipulates the fees related to Giverny's investment management services. The fee is based on a percentage of a client's assets under management:

.25% of assets per quarter (approximately 1% per annum)

The management fee is negotiable under certain circumstances. Current client relationships may exist where the management fees are higher or lower than the fee listed above.

Although the Investment Advisory Agreement is an ongoing agreement, the length of service to the client is at the client's discretion. A client may terminate the investment advisory relationship by written notice at any time without penalty. At termination, management fees will be billed on a pro rata basis for the portion of the quarter during which client assets were under Giverny's discretion.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Item 5A: Description

Giverny bases its fees on a percentage of assets under management. Giverny may charge a lesser or greater investment advisory fee based upon mutual agreement with the client and for certain criteria (e.g., historical relationship, type of assets, anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amounts of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with clients, etc.). Lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources.

Item 5B: Fee Billing

Clients engage Giverny to provide investment management services on a fee-only basis. The Firm charges an annual investment management fee based upon a percentage of the market value of the assets managed by Giverny. The annual investment management fee charged is approximately 1.00% of the market value of a client's assets under management, inclusive of cash and accrued income. Lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources.

Giverny's annual investment management fee is paid in arrears on a calendar quarterly basis (i.e. January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1) and calculated based on .25% (approximately 1% per year) of the market value of a client's assets under management on the last trading day of the prior calendar quarter. Unless otherwise directed by the client, Giverny's management fee is debited directly by the custodian from the client's account on a quarterly basis.

If the investment management relationship begins subsequent to the beginning of a calendar quarter, then the initial fee is prorated over the remaining days in the initial calendar quarter and debited on the first day of the following quarter. In the event that the client terminates the engagement prior to the end of a calendar quarter, the investment management fee is debited from the client's account on a prorated basis using the number of days in the calendar quarter that the client's account was under management and the market value of the account on the day the engagement was terminated.

Giverny's fees are not adjusted to reflect account deposits or withdrawals during a quarter, except if the deposit or withdrawal equals or exceeds 10% of the market value of the account (measured before the deposit or withdrawal). In the event of such a significant deposit or withdrawal, Giverny calculates its fees by separating into separate periods the portion of the quarter occurring before the event and the portion of the quarter following it, and then calculating fees for each period pro rata based on the number of days in the given period and the market value of the account at the end of the period. The fees for each of the periods are then totaled to arrive at the quarterly fee.

If a client has more than one account with Giverny on which investment advisory fees are charged, then the fees computed will be based on the combined market value of those accounts, and the management fee can be charged to any of the client's underlying accounts as deemed most appropriate by the Firm. In the situation where multiple accounts exist under the same household, then all accounts will be treated on a combined basis for the purpose of calculating fees, account size, and the previously mentioned 10% deposit and 10% withdrawal thresholds.

Giverny reserves the right to negotiate the management fee under certain circumstances. Giverny does not impose a per client minimum for investment management services but does have the discretion to do so if the initial account value is deemed too small to cover expenses related to the management of the account. The Firm considers accounts of less than $250,000 as small in proportion to their associated expenses.

Giverny is authorized to receive its management fee directly from a client's custodian. The custodian does not determine whether the fee has been properly calculated.

Giverny reserves the right to terminate any client relationship for any reason. Such termination is done in writing by the Firm and the management fee would be prorated according to the number of days that a client's assets were under management by the Firm.

Fees are withdrawn directly from client accounts held at our custodian. The custodian is sent an invoice to process the debiting of fees from client accounts, unless an alternate arrangement has been made by the client. Clients are sent a copy of the management fee invoice along with their quarterly statements from Giverny. The availability of this invoice to the client occurs in a timely manner but isn't exactly contemporaneous with the custodian receiving an invoice for the purpose of processing a deduction of management fees. Our custodian provides a list of all transactions on the monthly statements it sends to our clients, including all management fees paid on an account. Our clients provide written authorization to Giverny and to our custodian to directly deduct management fees.

Item 5C: Other Fees

We buy and sell client securities primarily through TD Ameritrade Institutional, Charles Schwab & Co., or other custodians and executing brokers, depending on each client. There are commission charges assessed to these transactions which are debited directly from the client's account by the custodian. Client may choose their own custodian and broker if they prefer. Please refer to Item 12 for additional information on brokerage.

TD Ameritrade Institutional and Charles Schwab & Co. do not charge any fees for maintaining custody of our client assets.

Although Giverny typically selects individual equity securities on behalf of clients, and therefore avoids additional management fees, a portion of a client's account may be invested in money market or other types of mutual funds ("Funds"). These Funds charge investment management fees. The advisory fees paid by a client to the Firm are distinct from, and in addition to, the fees and expenses paid or allocated to a client as a shareholder of a Fund. A complete explanation of fees and expenses charged by the Funds is contained in the prospectus delivered by each Fund.

Item 5D: Prepayment

No clients pay fees in advance to the Firm.

Item 5E: Compensation for Sale of Securities

No person at our firm accepts compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds. Our compensation is based on a percentage of the assets we manage.

1. We do not see any conflict of interest from our compensation method. We receive more compensation when the value of our accounts increases and less when they decrease. We invest directly in individual stocks when we construct client portfolios and we do not invest in mutual funds or other funds that charge fees to clients and compensate us in any way. The only additional fees that are assessed to a client accounts are for trading commissions and are paid directly to our custodian, TD Ameritrade Institutional and/or Charles Schwab & Co. Under no circumstance do we receive compensation as a result of trading commissions. As such, we do not believe any conflicts of interest exist as a result of our compensation arrangement and we do not believe that our judgment is affected in any way that may compromise the integrity of our decision-making and in the types of investments we recommend for our clients.
2. Our clients can choose their own custodian and their own broker if they wish to not use TD Ameritrade Institutional or Charles Schwab & Co. This is explicitly stated in our Investment Advisory Agreement.
3. We do not receive commissions and other compensation for the sale of investment products.
4. Advisory fees (or management fees) are the only fees that our Firm assesses on a client account.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees & Side-by-Side Management

The management fee structure does not change based on a share of the capital gains or capital appreciation of managed securities. No fees are considered performance-based fees.

Giverny does not use a performance-based fee structure because of the potential conflict of interest. Performance-based compensation may create an incentive for an advisor to recommend an investment that may carry a higher degree of risk to the client.

Item 7: Types of Clients

Giverny generally provides investment management services to individuals, trusts, and other institutional entities. Client relationships vary in scope and length of service. Giverny does not impose a strict per client minimum for investment management services but does have the discretion to do so if the initial account value is deemed too small to cover expenses related to the management of the account. The Firm considers accounts of less than $250,000 as small in proportion to their associated expenses.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Item 8A: Methods of Analysis

Our objective is to achieve superior risk-adjusted investment returns for our clients over the long term.

Our primary method of analyzing securities suitable for our clients is fundamental research and our investment approach is based on Value Investing. Fundamental research entails analyzing information that is pertinent to evaluating and estimating the intrinsic value of a company. This can include, among other things, a company's annual reports, regulatory filings, analyst reports, information gathered during meetings with management, financial newspapers and company press releases.

Item 8B: Investment Strategies

We developed an investment process founded on the core principles of Value Investing: buying shares in companies with durable competitive advantages, when the intrinsic value of these businesses is meaningfully higher than their current share prices.

Each suitable investment is then placed in a Master Portfolio, usually consisting of between 20-30 equity securities. Each security in the portfolio is allocated a certain weight in the portfolio. Each client account is then based on the Master Portfolio to determine the securities included in the client portfolio and their approximate weight within that portfolio. Each client's account is individually managed and may experience performance dispersion from the Master Portfolio depending on a number of factors, including but not limited to, the timing of the opening of a client account, specific client needs, differences in the weight of a particular security that are deemed reasonable by the Firm, etc. Our investment strategy is long-term in nature which has the added benefit of keeping portfolio turnover low and minimizing capital gain and transaction costs relative to many more active strategies.

Item 8C: Risk of Loss

All forms of investing have certain risks that are borne by the client. While our investment approach keeps the risk of loss in mind, clients still face the following risks, among others:

- Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.
- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.
- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.
- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

Risk Acknowledgment: Giverny does not guarantee the future performance of any client account or any specific level of performance, the success of any investment that the Firm may purchase for the client, or the success of the Firm's overall management of the client's account or accounts. The client understands that the investment decisions made for his/her account by the Firm are subject to various market, currency, economic, political and business risks, and that investment decisions will not always be profitable.

In addition, the Firm is responsible for the implementation of such portfolio model for its clients and may deviate from such portfolio model. As a result, there may be material differences,

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Item 11A: Code of Ethics

The employees of Giverny have committed to a Code of Ethics that is available for review by clients and prospective clients upon request. The Code of Ethics is an integral part of the Firm's Compliance Manual.

Item 11B, 11C, 11D: Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Giverny and its employees may buy or sell securities that are also held by clients. Employees may not trade their own securities ahead of client trades. All employees comply with the provisions of Giverny's Compliance Manual.

No officer, partner or employee of Giverny may effect for himself or herself or for his or her immediate family (i.e. spouse, minor children) (collectively "Covered Persons") any transactions in a security which is being actively purchased or sold, or is being considered for purchase or sale, on behalf of any of the Firm's clients, unless in accordance with the following Firm Procedures. The following procedures have been put into place with respect to the Firm and its Covered Persons:

1. If the Firm is purchasing or considering for purchase any security on behalf of a Firm's client, no Covered Persons may transact in that security prior to the client purchase having been completed by the Firm or until a decision has been made not to purchase the security on behalf of the client; and

2. If the Firm is selling or considering the sale of any security on behalf of a Firm's client, no Covered Persons may transact in that security prior to the sale on behalf of the client having been completed by the Firm or until a decision has been made not to sell the security on behalf of the client.

Exceptions:

1. This policy has been established recognizing that some securities being considered for purchase and sale on behalf of the Firm's clients trade in sufficiently broad markets to permit transactions to be completed without any appreciable impact on the markets of the securities. Under certain circumstances exceptions may be made to the policies stated above. Records of these trades, including the reasons for the exceptions, will be maintained by the Firm.
2. Open-end mutual funds and/or the investment subdivisions which may comprise a variable insurance product are purchased or redeemed at a fixed net asset value price per share specific to the date of purchase or redemption. As such, transactions in mutual funds and/or variable insurance products by Covered Persons are not likely to have an impact on the prices of the fund shares in which clients invest, and are therefore not prohibited by the Firm.
3. Some differences may exist between the Firm and its affiliated firm due to securities being purchased on different exchanges and/or at different times and other possible factors.

In accordance with Section 204A of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, the Firm also maintains and enforces written policies reasonably designed to prevent the misuse of material non-public information by the Firm or any person associated with the Firm. There are reporting requirements, detailed in the Firm's Compliance Manual, regarding these policies.

The Chief Compliance Officer of Giverny Capital Advisors is Patrick Leger. He reviews all employee trades each quarter. The personal trading reviews ensure that the personal trading of employees does not affect the markets, and that clients of the Firm receive equal or preferential treatment.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

Item 12A: Selecting Brokerage Firms

To the extent that the client requests that the Firm recommend a broker-dealer/custodian for execution and/or custodial services, the Firm generally recommends that investment management accounts be maintained at either Charles Schwab & Co. or TD AMERITRADE Institutional, a division of TD AMERITRADE, Inc. Member FINRA/SIPC ("TDAI"). Prior to engaging the Firm to provide investment management services, the client will be required to enter into an Investment Advisory Agreement with the Firm setting forth the terms and conditions under which the Firm shall manage the client's assets, and a separate custodial/clearing agreement with each designated broker-dealer/custodian. The Investment Advisory Agreement between the Firm and the client will continue in effect until terminated by either party by written notice in accordance with the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement.

Giverny provides investment management services on a discretionary basis. Unless mitigating circumstances dictate otherwise, account positions are generally maintained over a long-term basis. Broker-dealers/custodians charge commissions and/or transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions. In addition to the Firm's investment management fee, brokerage commissions and/or transaction fees, the client will also incur, relative to all money market mutual funds purchased by the Firm to hold account cash balances, charges imposed at the mutual fund level (e.g. fund management fees and other fund expenses).

Factors which the Firm considers in recommending a particular broker-dealer/custodian to clients (including TDAI or Charles Schwab & Co.) include financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, research, and service. In return for effecting securities transactions through a designated broker-dealer/custodian, The Firm may receive certain investment research products and/or services which assist the Firm in its investment decision-making process for the client pursuant to Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

Although the commissions paid by Firm's clients shall comply with the Firm's duty to obtain best execution, a client may pay a commission that is higher than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction where the Firm determines, in good faith, that the commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although the Firm will seek competitive rates, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client account transactions. The brokerage commission paid by a specific client that may be used to pay for research is exclusive of, and in addition to, the Firm's investment management fee.

A client may direct the Firm to use a particular broker-dealer (subject to the Firm's right to decline and/or terminate the engagement) to execute some or all transactions for the client's account. In such event, the client will negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with that broker-dealer, and the Firm will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to "batch" the client's transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts managed by the Firm. As a result, client may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case. In the event that transactions for client accounts are effected through a broker-dealer that refers investment management clients to the Firm, the potential for conflict of interest may arise.

The Firm does not engage in soft dollar transactions or benefit from soft dollars. The services the Firm receives from its custodians are related to the management of client accounts. For example, the custodial interface we use allows us to manage all our client accounts at one through a common IT interface. Our custodians also have a customer service organization that specifically works with our Firm to resolve client issues. Since our relationship with our custodians facilitate the management of our client accounts and is a benefit to us, there is a conflict of interest that arises from those benefits we receive which could affect our ability to select another broker dealer which could better serve our client needs.

Item 12B: Order Aggregation

Transactions for each client account can be effected independently but can also be purchased or sold for several clients at approximately the same time. The Firm may (but is not obligated to) combine or "batch" such orders to obtain best execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates or to allocate equitably among the Firm's clients differences in prices and commissions or other transaction costs that might have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. Under this procedure, transactions will be averaged as to price and will be allocated among Firm's clients in proportion to the purchase and sale orders placed for each client account on any given day. To the extent that the Firm determines to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which the Firm's principal(s) and/or associated person(s) may invest, the Firm shall generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. The Firm shall not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of the aggregation.

Since the Firm conducts portfolio management decisions in collaboration with Giverny Capital, Inc., an SEC-registered advisor based in Montreal, Canada, which has a different custodian and broker than that of the Firm, individual and "batch" trades will not be executed at the same time or price for clients of the Firm and clients of Giverny Capital, Inc. These differences may be material. Further, given that the Firm has custodial relationships with both TD Ameritrade Institutional and Charles Schwab & Co., and that these two custodians use different trading organizations and systems, the Firm will attempt to place trades at approximately similar times but there is no way to achieve the same trade executions given the distinct organizations. These differences also apply to any other custodial arrangements that are maintained due to Client preference. These differences may be material.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

Item 13A: Periodic Reviews

A review of each account is conducted by the Firm on no less than a quarterly basis. Patrick Leger (Managing Partner and Chief Compliance Officer) reviews each account and reallocates and/or rebalances investment securities to meet client investment objectives.

Item 13B: Review Triggers

Other conditions that may trigger a review are changes in the tax laws, new investment information, and changes in a client's own situation. Clients are advised that they are responsible to advise Giverny of any changes in their personal objectives and/or financial situation, and all clients are encouraged to contact the Firm to review their account performance on a regular basis. To the extent that Giverny relies on information provided by client consultants (accountants, attorneys, etc.), Giverny assumes that such information is accurate and reflective of the client's financial situation.

Item 13C: Regular Reports

Each client receives quarterly reports from the Firm which include an appraisal of the account or accounts, a performance history report that includes the performance of the account relative to our benchmark (the S&P 500), and a statement of management fees assessed to the account. Realized gains and losses information is provided at the end of each fiscal year for a client's tax preparation. The custodian sends monthly statements to each client.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Item 14A: Other Compensation

The Firm does not receive an economic benefit from outside parties (non-clients) to provide investment advice or other advisory services to our clients.

Item 14B: Referrals

Giverny Capital, Inc. does not directly solicit clients on behalf of Giverny Capital Advisors and does not directly provide any services to clients or prospective clients of Giverny Capital Advisors at this time. Some individuals who are considered Investment Adviser Representatives by FINRA who work for Giverny Capital, Inc. are also registered as Investment Adviser Representatives with Giverny Capital Advisors.

The Firm, from time to time, compensates either directly or indirectly, third parties for client referrals. Any such referral arrangements will comply with the relevant portions of the "cash solicitation" rule (Rule 206(4)-3). In particular, third party referral arrangements will be pursuant to an agreement between Giverny and the solicitor, and all required disclosures will be made by the party providing the referral.

Item 15: Custody

In addition to the quarterly statement sent by the Firm, each client with assets custodied at TD Ameritrade Institutional or Charles Schwab & Co. will receive a monthly statement from either of these custodians that includes an appraisal of the account or accounts, as well as a list of all transactions on the account or accounts. Tax reporting information is also sent by custodian at the end of the fiscal year. Client should compare the statements provided by their custodian with those from Giverny to ensure accuracy.

The Firm provides a performance history report to each client on a quarterly basis. This report included the performance of the account or accounts relative to our benchmark, the S&P 500. The Firm provides an appraisal of a client's account or accounts on a quarterly basis.

Giverny, when authorized in writing by its clients, deducts advisory fees directly from their accounts held at the custodian and therefore has limited custody of these clients' assets. In such cases, the client's custodian will send the client periodic account statements indicating the amounts of any funds or securities in the account as of the end of the statement period and any transactions in the account during the statement period. Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the custodian that holds and maintains the client's investment assets. Giverny urges clients to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that Giverny provides.

The Firm should not be considered to have custody of client assets since all of the following safeguards are met:

- a) The Firm has custody of the funds and securities solely as a consequence of its authority to make withdrawals from client accounts to pay its advisory fee.
- b) The Firm has written authorization from the client to deduct advisory fees from the account held with the qualified custodian.
- c) Each time a fee is directly deducted from a client account, the Firm concurrently:
 - i. Sends our custodian an invoice or statement of the amount of the fee to be deducted from the client's account; and
 - ii. Sends the client an invoice or statement itemizing the fee. This invoice includes itemization of the formula used to calculate the fee, the value of the assets under management on which the fee is based, and the time period covered by the fee. Since this invoice is sent by US Mail and is being delivered to different parts of the country at different time, it should be noted that all clients also have immediate access to the management fee amount that was assessed on their account through our custodian's online interface.

- d) We provide written notice to all state and federal regulatory bodies that require us to inform them that we comply with the above mentioned requirements.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

The Firm has discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of its clients. The Firm has the authority to determine, without obtaining specific client consent, the securities to be bought or sold, and the amount of the securities to be bought or sold. This is agreed upon between the Firm and the client in the Investment Advisory Agreement.

The client approves the custodian to be used and the commission rates paid to the custodian. Giverny does not receive any portion of the transaction fees or commissions paid by the client to the custodian.

Discretionary trading authority facilitates placing trades in accounts on a client's behalf so that we may promptly implement the investment management of the client's assets under the Firm's discretion.

A limited power of attorney is a trading authorization for this purpose. A client signs a limited power of attorney so that we may execute trades on the account.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

Item 17A: Proxy Votes

Giverny votes proxies for securities over which it maintains discretionary authority, unless a client wishes to vote their own proxy statements. A copy of Giverny's proxy voting policy is provided to all clients and prospects and is available upon request. A form from TD Ameritrade Institutional or Charles Schwab & Co. regarding proxy voting is provided to each new client. By using this form, a client determines whether they wish to vote their own proxies. In summary, the Proxy Voting Policy details our approach to Proxy Voting. It includes a general philosophy towards proxy voting, as well as more detail regarding specific categories of issues that often are presented for shareholder vote. Our policy also describes how a log is kept at the Firm which provides information on how each issue was voted. Decisions on proxy voting are made with the goal of enhancing the value of Giverny's clients' investments. In the case where a potential conflict of interest is identified between a client and a proxy-related action by the Firm, the client will be contacted to discuss such a conflict and determine an appropriate course of action regarding the proxies for that particular client. Client may obtain a copy of our proxy voting log at any moment by providing us with a written request.

Item 18: Financial Information

Items 18A, 18B, 18C: Financial Information

A balance sheet is not required to be provided because Giverny does not require prepayment of fees of more than $1200 per client, six months or more in advance. .

The Firm does not maintain custody of client funds or securities and does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client, six months or more in advance and the Firm does not have any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to clients.

The Firm has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

Additional Disclosure: Business Continuity Plan
