ITEM 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Investment Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

TriMarC's method of analysis include charting analysis, fundamental analysis, technical analysis, and cyclical analysis.

Charting analysis involves the use of patterns in performance charts. TriMarC may use this technique to search for pattern used to help predict favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Fundamental analysis involves the analysis of financial statements, general financial health of companies, and/or the analysis of management or competitive advantages.

Technical analysis involves the analysis of past market data: primarily price and volume.

Cyclical Analysis involves the analysis of business cycles to find favorable conditions for buying and or selling a security.

Investment Strategies

TriMarC uses long term trading, short term trading, short sales, margin transactions and options writing (including covered options, uncovered options, or spreading strategies).

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

B. Material Risks Involved

Methods of Analysis

Charting analysis strategy involves using and comparing various charts to predict long and short term performance or market trends. The risk involved solely using this method is that only past performance data is considered without using other methods to crosscheck data. Using charting analysis without other methods of analysis would be making an assumption that past performance will be indicative of future performance. This may not be the case.

Fundamental analysis concentrates on factors that determine a company's value and expected future earnings. This strategy would normally encourage equity purchases in stocks that are undervalued or priced below their perceived value. The risk assumed is that the market will fail to reach expectations of perceived value.

Technical analysis attempts to predict a future stock price or direction based on market trends. The assumption is that the market follows discernible patterns and if these patterns can be identified then a prediction can be made. The risk is that markets do not always follow patterns and relying solely on this method may not work long term.

Cyclical analysis assumes that the markets react to cyclical patterns which, once identified, can be leveraged to provide performance. The risk with this strategy are two fold: 1) the markets do not always repeat cyclical patterns and 2) if too many investors begin to implement the strategy, it changes the very cycles they are trying to take advantage of.

Investment Strategies

Long term trading is designed to capture market rates of both return and risk. Frequent trading, when done, can affect investment performance, particularly through increased brokerage and other transaction costs and taxes.

Short term trading, short sales, margin transactions, and options writing generally hold greater risks and clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any of these strategies.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

C. Risks of Specific Securities Utilized

TriMarC generally seeks investment strategies that do not involve significant or unusual risk beyond that of general domestic and/or international equity markets. However, it will utilize short sales, margin transactions, and options writing. Short sales, margin transactions, and option writing generally hold greater risk of capital loss and clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any of those strategies.

Mutual Funds: Investing in mutual funds carries the risk of capital loss. Mutual funds are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency. You can lose money investing in mutual funds. All mutual funds have costs that lower investment returns. They can be of bond “fixed income” nature (lower risk) or stock “equity” nature (mentioned above).

Equity investment generally refers to buying shares of stocks by an individual or firms in return for receiving future payment of dividends and capital gains if the value of stock increases. There is an innate risk involved when purchasing a stock that it may decrease in value and the investment may incur a loss.

Treasury Inflation Protected/Inflation Linked Bonds: The risk of default on these bonds is dependent upon the U.S. Treasury defaulting (extremely unlikely); however, they carry a potential risk of losing share price value; albeit minimal.

Fixed Income is an investment that guarantees fixed periodic payments in the future that may involve economic risk such as inflationary risk, interest rate risk, default risk, repayment of principal risk, etc.

Debt Securities carry risk such as the possibility of default on the principal, fluctuation in interest rates, counterparties being unable to meet obligations.

Stock & Exchange Traded Funds (ETF's): Investing in stocks and ETF's carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding company bankruptcy). Investment in these securities are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency.

Real Estate funds face several kinds of risks that are inherent in the sector of the market. Liquidity risk, market risk and interest rate risk are just some of the factors that can influence the gain or loss that is passed on to the investor.

Hedge Funds are not suitable for all investors and involve a high degree of risk due to several factors that may contribute to above average gains or significant losses. Such factors include leveraging or other speculative investment practices, commodity trading,

Complex tax structures, a lack of transparency in the underlying investments, and generally the absence of a secondary market.

REITs have specific risks including valuation due to cash flows, dividends paid in stock rather than cash, and a payment of debt resulting in dilution of shares.

Private placements carry substantial risk as they are largely unregulated offering not subject to securities laws.

Precious Metal ETFs (Gold, Silver, and Palladium Bullion backed by “electronic shares” (not physical metal): Investing in precious metal ETFs carries the risk of capital loss.

Long term trading is designed to capture markets rates of both return and risk. Due to its nature, the long term investment strategy can expose clients to various other types of risk that will typically surface at various intervals during the time the client owns the investments. These risks include but are not limited to inflation (purchasing power) risk, interest rate risk, economic risk, market risk, and political/regulatory risk.

Short term trading risks include liquidity, economic stability and inflation.

Short sales risk includes the upward trend of the market and the infinite possibility of loss.

Margin transactions use leverage that is borrowed from a brokerage firm as collateral.

Options writing involve a contract to purchase a security at a given price, not necessarily at market value, depending on the market.

Past Performance is not a guarantee of future returns. Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

D. Selection of Other Advisors or Managers and How this Advisor is Compensated for Those Selections.

B. Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

From time to time, representatives of TriMarC may buy or sell securities for themselves that they recommend to clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of TriMarC to buy or sell the same securities before or after recommending the same securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. TriMarC will always document any transactions that could be construed as conflicts of interests and will always transact client business before their own when similar securities are being bought or sold.

C. Trading Securities At/Around the Same Time as Clients' Securities

From time to time, representatives of TriMarC may buy or sell securities for themselves that they recommend to clients. Such transactions may create a conflict of interest. TriMarC will always transact client's transaction before its own when similar securities are being bought or sold.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker/Dealers

The Custodian will be chosen based on their relatively low transaction fees and access to mutual funds and ETF's. TriMarC will never charge a premium or commission on transactions beyond the actual cost imposed by the Custodian.

1. Research and Other Soft Dollar Arrangements.

TriMarC does not receive any soft dollar benefits other than execution from custodians and or broker/dealers. TriMarC may receive research, dedicated custodian website for client records, trading platforms. There is no minimum client number or dollar number that TriMarC must meet in order to receive the above services. There is no incentive for TriMarC to direct clients to a particular broker/dealer over another broker/dealer who offer the same services.

The first consideration when recommending broker/dealer to clients is best execution. TriMarC always acts in the best interest of the client.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

TriMarC receives no referrals from broker dealer or third party in exchange for using that broker dealer or third party.

3. Clients Directing Which Broker/Dealer/Custodian to Use

TriMarC allows clients to direct brokerage. TriMarC may be unable to achieve most favorable execution of client transactions if clients choose to direct brokerage. This may cost client money because without the ability to direct brokerage TriMarC may not be able to aggregate orders to reduce transaction costs resulting in higher brokerage commissions and less favorable prices. Not all investment advisors allow clients to direct brokerage.

B. Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

TriMarC maintains the ability to block trade purchases across accounts. Block trading may benefit a large group of clients by providing TriMarC the ability to purchase larger blocks resulting in smaller transaction costs to the client. Declining to block trade can cause more expensive trades for clients.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

A. Frequency and Nature of Periodic Review and Who Makes Those Reviews

Client accounts are reviewed at least monthly by Dominick J Trimarchi, Managing Member. Dominick J. Trimarchi is the chief advisor and is instructed to review clients accounts with regard to their investment policy and risk tolerance levels. All accounts at TriMarC are assigned to this reviewer.

All financial planning accounts are reviewed upon inception and quarterly thereafter by Dominick J. Trimarchi, Managing Member. There is only one level of review and that is the total review.

B. Factors That Will Trigger a Non-Periodic Review of Client Accounts

Reviews may be triggered by material market, economic or political events, or by changes in client's financial situations (such as retirement, termination of employment, physical move, or inheritance)

D. Content and Frequency of Regular Reports Provided to Clients

Each client will receive at least quarterly from the custodian, a written report that details the client's account including assets held and asset value which will come from the custodian.

Clients are provided a one-time financial consultation concerning their financial situation. After such review, clients are provided at least annually a financial report on the clients portfolio. Such may include asset allocation and performance reporting.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

- A. TriMarC does not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly from any third party for advice rendered to TriMarC clients.
- B. TriMarC does not directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not advisory personnel for client referrals.

For those client accounts where TriMarC provides ongoing supervision, the client has given TriMarC written discretionary authority over the client's accounts with respect to securities to be bought and sold and the amount of securities to be bought or sold. Details of this relationship are fully disclosed to the client before any advisory relationship has commenced. The client provides TriMarC discretionary authority via a limited power of attorney in the Investment Advisory Contract and in the contract between the client and the custodian.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities (Proxy Voting)
