Advisory Business - Item 4

Fiat Wealth Management, LLC ("Fiat Wealth" and/or "the firm") is a limited liability company formed in the State of Minnesota. Bradley J. Gotto is the principal owner of Fiat Wealth. Fiat Wealth has been offering investment advisory services since 2022.

The following paragraphs describe our services and fees. You may see the term Associated Person throughout this Brochure. As used in this Brochure, this term refers to anyone from our firm who is an officer, employee, and all individuals providing investment advice on behalf of our firm. Where required, such persons are properly licensed or registered as investment adviser representatives.

Financial Planning Services

We offer broad-based financial planning services regarding management of financial resources based upon an analysis of the client's individual needs. We will meet with you to gather information about your financial circumstances and objectives. Once we collect and analyse the documentation and information you provide, we work with you to develop a financial plan designed to help you achieve your financial goals and objectives. In this way, Fiat Wealth assists the client in developing a strategy for the management of income, assets, and liabilities. In general, financial planning services may include any one or all of the following:

- Cash Flow Analysis – Assessment of a client's present financial situation by collecting information regarding net worth and cash flow statements, tax returns, insurance policies, investment portfolios, pension plans, employee benefit statements, etc. The firm advises on ways to reduce risk, coordinate, and organize records and estate information.
- Tax Analysis and Planning – The goal of tax planning is to arrange your financial affairs so as to minimize your taxes. There are three basic ways to reduce your taxes, and each basic method might have several variations. You can reduce your income, increase your deductions, and take advantage of tax credits. We use Holistiplan, a third-party tax software, to assist us in delivering tax planning advice.
- Retirement Analysis – Identification of a client's long-term financial and personal goals and objectives includes advice for accumulating wealth for retirement income or appropriate distribution of assets following retirement. Tax consequences and implications are identified and evaluated.
- Portfolio Analysis/Investment Planning – We provide investment alternatives, including asset allocation, and effect on a client's portfolio. We evaluate economic and tax characteristics of existing investments as well as their suitability for a client's objectives. We identify and evaluate tax consequences and their implications.
- Insurance Analysis – Includes risk management associated with advisory recommendations based on a combination of insurance types to meet a client's needs, e.g., life, health, disability, and long-term care insurance. This will necessitate an analysis of cash needs of family at death, income needs of surviving dependents, and disability income analysis.
- Education Savings Analysis – Alternatives and strategies with respect to the complete or partial funding of college or other post-secondary education.
- Estate Analysis – Advising Clients with respect to property ownership, distribution strategies, estate tax reduction, and tax payment techniques.

Financial plans are based on a client's financial situation based on the information provided to the firm. The recommendations and solutions are designed to achieve the client's desired goals, subject to periodic evaluation of the financial plan, which may require revision to meet changing circumstances. Clients are advised to notify us promptly of any change to a client's financial situation, goals, objectives, or needs.

You may choose to accept or reject our recommendations. If you decide to proceed with our recommendations, you may do so either through our investment advisory services or by using the advisory/brokerage firm of your choice.

In some cases, our recommendations will involve the purchase of insurance products. Fiat Wealth is affiliated with Fiat Insurance Services, LLC, a licensed insurance agency, through common ownership and control. Additionally, Associated Persons of Fiat Wealth are licensed insurance agents. Fiat Insurance Services, LLC and our dually licensed Associated Persons can affect transactions in insurance products and earn commission-based compensation for these activities. Clients should be aware that a conflict of interest is inherent in such an arrangement. Clients are instructed that the fees paid to the firm for advisory services are separate and distinct from the commissions earned by Fiat Insurance Services, LLC and our dually licensed Associated Persons. Clients of Fiat Wealth are not required to purchase insurance products from Fiat Insurance Services, LLC or the firm's dually licensed Associated Persons and can purchase insurance products from any insurance agency and agent they choose.

Note: Information related legal consequences that is provided as part of the financial plan is for informative purposes only. Clients are instructed to contact their legal advisers for personalized advice.

Portfolio Management Services

Our firm offers discretionary, and in limited cases, non-discretionary portfolio management services to our clients. Discretionary portfolio management means we will make investment decisions and place buy or sell orders in your account without contacting you prior to each transaction. These decisions would be made based upon your stated investment objectives. If you wish, you may limit our discretionary authority by, for example, setting a limit on the type of securities that can be purchased for your portfolio. Simply provide us with your restrictions or guidelines in writing. Non-discretionary portfolio management service means that we must obtain your approval prior to making any transactions in your account.

Our investment advice is tailored to meet our clients' needs and investment objectives. If you decide to hire our firm to assist you with the management of your portfolio, an Associated Person of Fiat Wealth will meet with you and gather information about your financial situation, investment objectives, and any reasonable restrictions you would like to impose on the management of the account. The information we gather will help us implement an asset allocation strategy that will be specific to your needs and goals.

Currently our asset allocation and advisory services are offered directly by our firm or in conjunction with a sub adviser. Where we use the services of a sub adviser, the sub adviser assists our firm with back-office support, trading, report preparation, and billing.

We use model portfolios developed by our firm, the sub adviser and/or other registered investment advisers. Where third party models are used, these other investment advisers are responsible for the research and security selection within model portfolios, day-to-day trading, billing calculation, and other back-office operations. Fiat Wealth is responsible for the supervision of the account, portfolio reallocations and rebalancing, and ongoing client interaction and servicing.

All accounts are managed in accordance with the client's investment needs. Investments may include various types of securities such as equity securities, Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs), mutual funds, corporate debt securities, commercial paper, certificates of deposit, municipal securities, and U.S. Government securities. Other types of investments may also be recommended where such investments are appropriate based on the client's stated goals and objectives.

Investments and allocations are determined and based upon the client's predefined objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, financial horizon, financial information, and other various suitability factors. Further restrictions and guidelines imposed by the client may affect the composition and performance of a client's portfolio. For these reasons, performance of the portfolio may not be identical to other clients of Fiat Wealth. On an ongoing basis, Fiat Wealth reviews the client's financial circumstances and investment objectives, and instructs the sub adviser to make the necessary adjustments to the client's portfolio.

Clients are advised to provide the firm with prompt notice of any changes in their personal financial circumstances, investment objectives, goals, and tolerance for risk. However, Fiat Wealth will contact the client at least annually to determine whether there have been any changes in the client's personal financial circumstances, investment objectives, and tolerance for risk.

Pension Consulting Services

Fiat Wealth provides several pension consulting related services. While the primary clients for these services will be pension, profit sharing and 401(k) plans, Fiat Wealth will also offer these services, where appropriate, to individuals and trusts, estates, and charitable organizations. Pension Consulting Services are comprised of the following components. Clients may choose to use any or all of these services.

Investment Policy Statement Preparation ("IPS"):

An IPS lists the criteria for selection of investment vehicles as well as the procedures and timing interval for monitoring of investment performance. Fiat Wealth will meet with the client (in person or over the telephone) to determine an appropriate investment strategy that reflects the plan sponsor's stated investment objectives for management of the overall plan. Fiat Wealth then reviews an existing IPS or, if needed, prepares a written IPS detailing those needs and goals, including an encompassing policy under which these goals are to be achieved.

Selection of Investment Vehicles

Fiat Wealth will create or review the plan's existing investment lineup, primarily consisting of mutual funds (both index and managed) and clients will select the lineup that is most appropriate for their investment needs. The plan's investment lineup may also include individual equities, bonds, and other investment products. The number of investments to be recommended will be determined by the plan, based on the plan's stated goals.

Monitoring of Investment Performance

Client investments will be monitored and reviewed based on the procedures and timing intervals outlined in the agreement with the client and the plan's IPS. Where Fiat Wealth has no access to client account statements, the client is instructed to make such statements available to the firm. Although Fiat Wealth will not be involved in any way in the purchase or sale of these investments, Fiat Wealth will make recommendations to the client as market factors and the client's needs dictate.

Employee Communications

For pension, profit sharing and 401(k) plans where the individual account participant exercises control over assets in their own account (hereinafter "self-directed plans"), Fiat Wealth also provides educational support designed for the plan participants. The nature of the topics to be covered will be determined by Fiat Wealth and the client under the guidelines established in Employee Retirement Income Securities Act ("ERISA"). Educational support services will NOT provide plan participants with individualized, tailored investment advice or individualized, tailored asset allocation recommendations.

Investment Management

We offer ongoing and continuous discretionary investment management with respect to the asset classes and investments for the plan in accordance with the plan's investment policies and objectives. This service is described in more detail in the "Portfolio Management Services" section above.

Other pension consulting services are available on request. All of our pension consulting services, whether general or customized, will be outlined in an agreement that shows the services that will be provided and the fees that will be charged for those services.

Fiat Wealth is registered as an investment advisor and represents that it is not subject to any disqualification as set forth in ERISA. To the extent Fiat Wealth performs Fiduciary Services, Fiat Wealth acts as a fiduciary of the plan as defined in Section 3(21) or Section 3(38) under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA").

Wrap Fee Programs

A wrap fee program combines asset management, advisory services, and trade execution for a single fee. We do not sponsor or manage, or participate in any wrap fee programs. Our portfolio management fees are exclusive of, and in addition to brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses, which will be incurred by the client. However, we will not receive any portion of the commissions, fees, and costs. Please see Item 5 below for information regarding additional fees and Item 12 below for further information on brokerage practices, fees, and transaction costs.

Assets Under Management

As of March 4, 2024, we manage $254,591,422 in client assets on a discretionary basis and $0 in assets on a non-discretionary basis.

Fees and Compensation - Item 5

Financial Planning Fees

Fiat Wealth provides its clients financial planning and consulting services. Prior to engaging Fiat Wealth to provide consulting services, the client will be required to enter into a financial planning agreement with our firm. The Agreement will set forth the terms and conditions of the engagement and describe the scope of the services to be provided and the fee that is due from the client. Fiat Wealth will charge a fixed fee of up to $10,000.00 for financial planning services. Fees are payable upon execution of the financial planning agreement. All agreed upon services will be completed within 6 months of payment. If the client hires our firm for ongoing portfolio management services, we will either refund the financial planning fee or we will reduce our portfolio management fees by the amount of financial planning fee paid by the client.

Either party may terminate the financial planning agreement by written notice to the other. In the event the client terminates Fiat Wealth's financial planning services, the balance of prepaid, unearned fees (if any) will be refunded to the client promptly.

Portfolio Management Services Fees

For portfolio management services, Fiat Wealth charges an annual fee of up to 2.00% of assets under management, payable monthly in arrears, and based on the average daily value of the assets of the month just ended. Other fee payment arrangements can be negotiated on a case-by-case basis. All fee payment arrangements will be listed in the advisory agreement signed by the firm and the client. Legacy clients may be subject to a different fee schedule and payment arrangement from the one listed here. Such fees and payment arrangements will be clearly listed in the advisory agreement signed by the client and the firm.

The fee is deducted from the client's account held at the custodian. The client authorizes us to debit the fee from the client's account. If insufficient cash is available to pay such fees, securities in an amount equal to the balance of unpaid fees will be liquidated to pay for the unpaid balance. We may deduct the fee from a single, Client-designated account to facilitate billing. We encourage you to carefully review the statements you receive from the qualified custodian. If you have questions about your statements, or if you did not receive a statement from the qualified custodian, please call our office number located on the cover page of this brochure. In limited cases, we may invoice the client directly for the payment of fees.

The fee listed above includes the compensation received by the model provider. We may modify the fee at any time upon 30 days' written notice.

Our annual fee is exclusive of and in addition to brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses, which will be incurred by the client. However, we will not receive any portion of the commissions, fees, and costs. Please see Item 12 – Brokerage Practices for further information on brokerage and transaction costs.

The portfolio management agreement may be canceled at any time by the client or by Fiat Wealth with 30 days' prior written notice to the other party. Refunds are not applicable because the fee is payable in arrears.

Pension Consulting Services Fees

The compensation arrangement for pension consulting services is based on hourly fees, fixed fees, or a percentage of the plan assets. Services will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis. The exact services to be provided, the fee to be paid by the client, fee payment arrangements, how to terminate the contract, and other terms will be clearly stated in the pension consulting agreement signed by the client and Fiat Wealth.

Clients who choose to have Fiat Wealth's fee deducted directly from their account must provide authorization. The qualified custodian holding client funds and securities, or the plan recordkeeper will send an account statement on at least a quarterly basis. This statement will detail account activity. Clients are encouraged to review each statement for accuracy.

Additional Information About Fees and Expenses

Advisory recommendations are based on financial information and situation that you disclose to us at the time the services are provided. Certain assumptions may be made with respect to interest and inflation rates and the use of past trends and performance of the market and economy. Past performance is in no way an indication of future returns. As your financial situation, goals, objectives, or needs change, you must notify us promptly.

Fiat Wealth's fees are negotiable based on the complexity of client goals and objectives and level of services rendered. Fees are charged as described above and are not based on a share of capital gains of the funds of an advisory client. We also allow Associated Persons servicing the account to negotiate the exact investment management fees within the range disclosed in our Form ADV Part 2A Brochure. As a result, the Associated Person servicing your account may charge more or less for the same service than another Associated Person of our firm. Further, our annual investment management fee may be higher than that charged by other investment advisors offering similar services/programs.

All fees paid to Fiat Wealth for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds or exchange traded funds to their shareholders. These fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus. These fees generally include management fees, other fund expenses, early redemption fees, and possible distribution fees. A client could invest in a mutual fund directly, without the services of Fiat Wealth. In that case, the client would not receive the services provided by Fiat Wealth, which are designed, among other things, to assist the client in determining which mutual fund or funds are most appropriate to each client's financial condition and objectives. Accordingly, the client should review both the fees charged by the funds and the fees charged by Fiat Wealth to understand fully the total amount of fees to be paid by the client and to evaluate the advisory services being provided.

Mutual funds generally offer multiple share classes based upon certain eligibility and/or purchase requirements. For instance, in addition to retail share classes (typically referred to as class A, class B, and class C shares), mutual funds may also offer institutional share classes or other share classes that are specifically designed for purchase by investors who meet certain specified eligibility criteria, including, for example, whether an account meets certain minimum dollar amount thresholds or is enrolled in an eligible fee-based investment advisory program. Institutional share classes usually have a lower expense ratio than other share classes.

For clients investing in mutual funds, the firm requires that the Associated Person purchase the share class most beneficial to the client, generally the institutional or advisory share class. In some cases, these share classes are not made available by the sponsor fund. Here, the firm will direct the Associated Person to seek a comparable, similar mutual fund that provides an advisory share class, and offer the fund and share class to the client. If no comparable fund with an advisory share class is available, the client may pay higher fees that include 12b-1 fees.

Class A shares that transfer into client accounts are periodically converted to the advisory or institutional share class. The firm requires advisory or institutional share classes in accounts, and does not permit purchases of Class A, B, or C shares in advisory accounts unless there is no advisory share class available, and no similar mutual fund with an advisory share class.

Further information regarding fees and charges assessed by a mutual fund is available in each mutual fund's prospectus. Although the firm uses its best efforts to purchase lower cost mutual fund shares when available, some mutual fund companies do not offer institutional classes or funds that do not pay 12b-1 distribution fees.

Billing on Cash Positions: The firm treats cash and cash equivalents as an asset class. Accordingly, unless otherwise agreed in writing, all cash and cash equivalent positions (e.g., money market funds, etc.) are included as part of assets under management for purposes of calculating the firm's advisory fee. At any specific point in time, depending upon perceived or anticipated market conditions/events (there being no guarantee that such anticipated market conditions/events will occur), the firm may maintain cash and/or cash equivalent positions for defensive, liquidity, or other purposes. While assets are maintained in cash or cash equivalents, such amounts could miss market advances and, depending upon current yields, at any point in time, the firm's advisory fee could exceed the interest paid by the client's cash or cash equivalent positions.

Periods of Portfolio Inactivity: The firm has a fiduciary duty to provide services consistent with the client's best interest. As part of its investment advisory services, the firm will review client portfolios on an ongoing basis to determine if any changes are necessary based upon various factors, including but not limited to investment performance, fund manager tenure, style drift, account additions/withdrawals, the client's financial circumstances, and changes in the client's investment objectives. Based upon these and other factors, there may be extended periods of time when the firm determines that changes to a client's portfolio are neither necessary nor prudent. Notwithstanding, unless otherwise agreed in writing, the firm's annual investment advisory fee will continue to apply during these periods, and there can be no assurance that investment decisions made by the firm will be profitable or equal any specific performance level(s).

IRA Rollover Considerations

As a normal extension of financial advice, we provide education or recommendations related to the rollover of an employer-sponsored retirement plan. A plan participant leaving employment has several options. Each choice offers advantages and disadvantages, depending on desired investment options and services, fees and expenses, withdrawal options, required minimum distributions, tax treatment, and the investor's unique financial needs and retirement plans. The complexity of these choices may lead an investor to seek assistance from us.

An Associated Person who recommends an investor roll over plan assets into an Individual Retirement Account ("IRA") may earn an asset-based fee as a result, but no compensation if assets are retained in the plan. Thus, we have an economic incentive to encourage an investor to roll plan assets into an IRA. In most cases, fees and expenses will increase to the investor as a result because the above-described fees will apply to assets rolled over to an IRA and outlined ongoing services will be extended to these assets.

We are fiduciaries under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and when we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are also fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. We have to act in your best interests and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests.

Sales Compensation

Fiat Wealth is affiliated with Fiat Insurance Services, LLC, a licensed insurance agency, through common ownership and control. Additionally, certain Associated Persons of our firm are licensed as independent insurance agents. These persons will earn commission-based compensation for selling insurance products, including insurance products they sell to our clients. Insurance commissions earned by these persons are separate from and in addition to our advisory fees. The sale of insurance instruments and other commissionable products offered by Associated Persons are intended to complement our advisory services. However, this practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on behalf of our firm who are insurance agents have an incentive to recommend insurance products to you for the purpose of generating commissions rather than solely based on your needs. We address this conflict of interest by recommending insurance products only where we, in good faith, believe that it is appropriate for the client's particular needs and circumstances and only after a full presentation of the recommended insurance product to our client. In addition, we explain the insurance underwriting process to our clients to illustrate how the insurer also reviews the client's application and disclosures prior to the issuance of a resulting insuring agreement. Clients to whom the firm offers advisory services are informed that they are under no obligation to purchase insurance services. Clients who do choose to purchase insurance services are under no obligation to use our licensed Associated Persons and may use the insurance brokerage firm and agent of their choice.

Where fixed annuities are sold, clients should also note that the annuity sales result in substantial up-front commissions and ongoing trails based on the annuity's total value. In addition, many annuities contain surrender charges and/or restrictions on access to your funds. Payments and withdrawals can have tax consequences. Optional lifetime income benefit riders are used to calculate lifetime payments only and are not available for cash surrender or in a death benefit unless specified in the annuity contract. In some annuity products, fees can apply when using an income rider. Annuity guarantees are based on the financial strength and claims-paying ability of the issuing insurance company. We urge our clients to read all insurance contract disclosures carefully before making a purchase decision. Rates and returns mentioned on any program presented are subject to change without notice. Insurance products are subject to fees and additional expenses.

The sale of annuity contracts or insurance products offered by Associated Persons are intended to complement Fiat Wealth's advisory services. However, a conflict of interest exists due to the potential receipt of dual forms of compensation. Fiat Wealth has policies and procedures in place to monitor all client transactions and all client transaction costs will be disclosed to the client. Clients to whom the firm offers advisory services are informed that they are under no obligation to use the firm's Associated Persons for insurance services and may use the insurance brokerage firm and agent of their choice.

We strive to identify all potential and actual conflicts of interest between you, our firm, and our Associated Persons in this Disclosure Brochure. If additional conflicts arise in the future, we will notify you in writing and/or provide you an updated Disclosure Brochure.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management - Item 6

Performance-based fees are based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the client's assets. Side by-side management refers to managing accounts that pay performance-based fees alongside those that do not pay performance-based fees. Our firm and Associated Persons do not accept performance-based fees.

Types of Clients - Item 7

We generally offer investment advisory services to individuals, pension and profit-sharing plans and their participants, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations, and other business entities.

Fiat Wealth requires a minimum of $250,000 to open and maintain an advisory account. In our sole discretion, we may waive this requirement. This requirement can be met by combining two or more accounts owned by you or related family members.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss - Item 8

All asset allocation models are developed by the third-party model providers in accordance with investment programs developed by these entities. Fiat Wealth will not implement its own methods of analysis. Clients should refer to the relevant third-party model provider's Form ADV Part 2 Brochures or other disclosure documents for more information about the methods of analysis used by those firms.

Investment Strategies

The investment strategy for a specific client is based upon the objectives stated by the client during consultations and documented in the client profile. The client may change these objectives at any time. Each client's profile contains information related to the client's risk tolerance and any investment restrictions. Any other documentation as required by our firm that documents the client's objectives and their desired investment strategy will be retained as part of the client's file.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Clients should fully understand the nature of the contractual relationship(s) into which they are entering and the extent of their exposure to risk. Certain investing strategies may not be suitable for many members of the public. You should carefully consider whether the strategies employed would be appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources, and other relevant circumstances.

Recommendation of Particular Types of Securities: As disclosed under the "Advisory Business" section in this Brochure, we provide advice on various types of securities and we do not necessarily recommend one particular type of security over another since each client has different needs and different tolerance for risk. Each type of security has its own unique set of risks associated with it and it would not be possible to list here all of the specific risks of every type of investment. Even within the same type of investment, risks can vary widely. However, in very general terms, the higher the anticipated return of an investment, the higher the risk of loss associated with it.

General Investment Risk: All investments come with the risk of losing money. Investing involves substantial risks, including complete possible loss of principal plus other losses and may not be suitable for many members of the public. Investments, unlike savings and checking accounts at a bank, are not insured by the government to protect against market losses. Different market instruments carry different types and degrees of risk and you should familiarize yourself with the risks involved in the particular market instruments in which you intend to invest.

Loss of Value: There can be no assurance that a specific investment will achieve its investment objectives and past performance should not be seen as a guide to future returns. The value of investments and the income derived may fall as well as rise and investors may not recoup the original amount invested. Investments may also be affected by any changes in exchange control regulation, tax laws, withholding taxes, international, political and economic developments, and governmental economic or monetary policies.

Interest Rate Risk: Fixed income securities and funds that invest in bonds and other fixed income securities may fall in value if interest rates change. Generally, the prices of debt securities rise when interest rates fall, and their prices fall when interest rates rise. Longer-term debt securities are usually more sensitive to interest rate changes.

Credit Risk: Investments in bonds and other fixed income securities are subject to the risk that the issuer(s) may not make required interest payments. An issuer suffering an adverse change in its financial condition could lower the credit quality of a security, leading to greater price volatility of the security. A lowering of the credit rating of a security may also offset the security's liquidity, making it more difficult to sell. Funds investing in lower quality debt securities are more susceptible to these problems and their value may be more volatile.

Foreign Exchange Risk: Foreign investments may be affected favorably or unfavorably by exchange control regulations or changes in the exchange rates. Changes in currency exchange rates may influence the share value, the dividends or interest earned and the gains and losses realized. Exchange rates between currencies are determined by supply and demand in the currency exchange markets, the international balance of payments, governmental intervention, speculation, and other economic and political conditions. If the currency in which a security is denominated appreciates against the US Dollar, the value of the security will increase. Conversely, a decline in the exchange rate of the currency would adversely affect the value of the security.

Risks Associated with Investing in Equities: Investments in equities generally refers to buying shares of stocks by an individual or firms in return for receiving a future payment of dividends and capital gains if the value of the stock increases. There is an innate risk involved when purchasing a stock that it may decrease in value and the investment may incur a loss.

Risks Associated with Investing in Mutual Funds: Mutual funds are professionally managed collective investment systems that pool money from many investors and invest in stocks, bonds, short-term money market instruments, other mutual funds, other securities, or any combination thereof. The fund will have a manager that trades the fund's investments in accordance with the fund's investment objective. While mutual funds generally provide diversification, risks can be significantly increased if the fund is concentrated in a particular sector of the market, primarily invests in small cap or speculative companies, uses leverage (i.e., borrows money) to a significant degree, or concentrates in a particular type of security (i.e., equities) rather than balancing the fund with different types of securities. The returns on mutual funds can be reduced by the costs to manage the funds. In addition, while some mutual funds are "no load" and charge no fee to buy into, or sell out of, other types of mutual funds do charge such fees which can also reduce returns.

Risks Associated with Investing in Exchange Traded Funds (ETF): Investing in ETF's carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding bankruptcy). Investments in these securities are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency.

Risks Associated with Investing in Private Funds: Private Funds are not registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission and may not be registered with any other regulatory authority. Accordingly, they are not subject to certain regulatory restrictions and oversight to which other issuers are subject. There may be little public information available about their investments and performance. Moreover, as sales of shares of private investment companies are generally restricted to certain qualified purchasers, it could be difficult for a client to sell its shares of a private investment company at an advantageous price and time. Since shares of private investment companies are not publicly traded, from time to time it may be difficult to establish a fair value for the client's investment in these companies. Private Funds often engage in leveraging and other speculative investment practices that increases the risk of investment loss. A Private Fund's performance can be volatile. An investor could lose all or a substantial portion of his or her investment. There may be no secondary market for the investor's interest in the fund. Private Funds can be highly illiquid and there may be restrictions on transferring interests in the fund. Private Funds are not required to provide periodic pricing or valuation information to investors. Private Funds may have complex tax structures. There may be delays in distributing important tax information. Private Funds are not subject to the same regulatory requirements as mutual funds. Private Funds often charge high fees. The fund's high fees and expenses may offset the fund's trading profits. Additional information about the risks associated with each Private Fund is available in the funds' private placement memorandum, and other subscription documents.

Risks Associated with Investing in Alternative Investments: We may recommend to qualified clients the use of alternative investments such as investments in real estate, private equity, or hedge funds. We may also recommend a direct investment into a private company. Investments in such "alternative assets" are generally illiquid, which will impair the ability of the client to exit such investments in times of adversity. Alternative investments may utilize highly speculative investment techniques, including leverage, highly concentrated portfolios, senior and/or subordinated securities positions, control positions and illiquid investments. In addition, they may utilize derivative instruments to attempt to hedge the risks associated with certain of their investments. Transactions in such derivative instruments may expose the assets of investment funds to the risks of material financial loss, which may in turn adversely affect the financial results of the client.

Buffer ETFs: Buffer ETFs are also known as defined-outcome ETFs, since the ETF is designed to offer downside protection for a specified period of time. These ETFs are modeled after options-based structured notes, but are generally cheaper, and offer more liquidity. Buffer ETFs are designed to safeguard against market downturns by employing complex options strategies. Buffer ETFs typically charge higher management fees that are considerably more than the index funds whose performance they attempt to track. Additionally, because buffer funds own options, they do not receive dividends from their equity holdings. Both factors result in the underperformance of the Buffer ETF compared to the index they attempt to track. Clients should carefully read the prospectus for a buffer ETF to fully understand the cost structures, risks and features of these complex products.

Structured Notes: Below are some specific risks related to the structured notes recommended by our firm:

- Complexity: Structured notes are complex financial instruments. Clients should understand the reference asset(s) or index(es) and determine how the note's payoff structure incorporates such reference asset(s) or index(es) in calculating the note's performance. This payoff calculation may include leverage multiplied on the performance of the reference asset or index, protection from losses should the reference asset or index produce negative returns, and fees. Structured notes may have complicated payoff structures that can make it difficult for clients to accurately assess their value, risk and potential for growth through the term of the structured note. Determining the performance of each note can be complex and this calculation can vary significantly from note to note depending on the structure. Notes can be structured in a wide variety of ways. Payoff structures can be leveraged, inverse, or inverse-leveraged, which may result in larger returns or losses. Clients should carefully read the prospectus for a structured note to fully understand how the payoff on a note will be calculated and discuss these issues with our firm.
- Market risk. Some structured notes provide for the repayment of principal at maturity, which is often referred to as "principal protection." This principal protection is subject to the credit risk of the issuing financial institution. Many structured notes do not offer this feature. For structured notes that do not offer principal protection, the performance of the linked asset or index may cause clients to lose some, or all, of their principal. Depending on the nature of the linked asset or index, the market risk of the structured note may include changes in equity or commodity prices, changes in interest rates or foreign exchange rates, and/or market volatility.

- Issuance price and note value: The price of a structured note at issuance will likely be higher than the fair value of the structured note on the date of issuance. Issuers now generally disclose an estimated value of the structured note on the cover page of the offering prospectus, allowing investors to gauge the difference between the issuer's estimated value of the note and the issuance price. The estimated value of the notes is likely lower than the issuance price of the note to investors because issuers include the costs for selling, structuring and/or hedging the exposure on the note in the initial price of their notes. After issuance, structured notes may not be re-sold on a daily basis and thus may be difficult to value given their complexity.
- Liquidity: The ability to trade or sell structured notes in a secondary market is often very limited, as structured notes (other than exchange-traded notes known as ETNs) are not listed for trading on securities exchanges. As a result, the only potential buyer for a structured note may be the issuing financial institution's broker-dealer affiliate or the broker-dealer distributor of the structured note. In addition, issuers often specifically disclaim their intention to repurchase or make markets in the notes they issue. Clients should, therefore, be prepared to hold a structured note to its maturity date, or risk selling the note at a discount to its value at the time of sale.
- Credit risk: Structured notes are unsecured debt obligations of the issuer, meaning that the issuer is obligated to make payments on the notes as promised. These promises, including any principal protection, are only as good as the financial health of the structured note issuer. If the structured note issuer defaults on these obligations, investors may lose some, or all, of the principal amount they invested in the structured notes as well as any other payments that may be due on the structured notes.

Risks Associated with Investing in Options: Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk. A relatively small market movement will have a proportionately larger impact, which may work for or against the investor. The placing of certain orders, which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts, may not be effective because market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. Selling ("writing" or "granting") an option, generally entails considerably greater risk than purchasing options. Although the premium received by the seller is fixed, the seller may sustain a loss well in excess of that amount. The seller will also be exposed to the risk of the purchaser exercising the option and the seller will be obliged either to settle the option in cash or to acquire or deliver the underlying investment. If the option is "covered" by the seller holding a corresponding position in the underlying investment or a future on another option, the risk may be reduced.

Cybersecurity Risks: Our firm and our service providers are subject to risks associated with a breach in cybersecurity. Cybersecurity is a generic term used to describe the technology, processes, and practices designed to protect networks, systems, computers, programs, and data from cyber-attacks and hacking by other computer users, and to avoid the resulting damage and disruption of hardware and software systems, loss or corruption of data, and/or misappropriation of confidential information. In general, cyber-attacks are deliberate; however, unintentional events may have similar effects. Cyber-attacks may cause losses to clients by interfering with the processing of transactions, affecting the ability to calculate net asset value or impeding or sabotaging trading. Clients may also incur substantial costs as the result of a cybersecurity breach, including those associated with forensic analysis of the origin and scope of the breach, increased and upgraded cybersecurity, identity theft, unauthorized use of proprietary information, litigation, and the dissemination of confidential and proprietary information. Any such breach could expose our firm to civil liability as well as regulatory inquiry and/or action. In addition, clients could be exposed to additional losses as a result of unauthorized use of their personal information. While our firm has established business continuity plans, incident response plans and systems designed to prevent cyber-attacks, there are inherent limitations in such plans and systems, including the possibility that certain risks have not been identified. Similar types of cyber security risks also are present for issuers of securities in which we invest, which could result in material adverse consequences for such issuers and may cause a client's investment in such securities to lose value.

Public Health-Related Risk: Public health crises, such as viral outbreaks and other communicable diseases, can spread quickly throughout the country and the world. Various measures taken by countries, including the United States, both on a macro countrywide level and on a local level, to combat such crises, including quarantines, travel bans, bans on public events, bans on large public gatherings, closures of public venues (e.g., restaurants, concert halls, museums, theaters, schools, and stadiums), or shelter-in-place orders can significantly impact world economies. The effect on the economy and on the public can be severe. The impact of epidemics or pandemics, or widespread fear that such events may occur, could cause uncertainty for or negatively affect the global economy, as well as the economies of individual countries, the financial performance of individual companies and sectors, and markets generally in significant and unforeseeable ways. Any such impact could adversely affect the prices and liquidity of the securities and other instruments in which clients are invested, which in turn could negatively impact the account performance and cause investment losses. Recent examples include pandemic risks related to COVID-19 and aggressive measures taken worldwide in response by governments, including closing borders, restricting international and domestic travel, restrictions on businesses whose operations are deemed likely to encourage the spread of a virus, including curtailments of operations and reductions in staff, the downstream effects of those restrictions, and the imposition of prolonged quarantines of large populations. The impact of such crises could be short term or may last for extended periods of time, and in either case could result in substantial market disruptions, economic downturns, or recessions.

Disciplinary Information - Item 9

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of us or the integrity of our management. There is no history of reportable material legal or disciplinary events by our firm or our management persons.

Other Financial Industry Activities or Affiliations - Item 10

Insurance Activities

Bradly J. Gotto is the principal owner of Fiat Insurance Services, LLC, a licensed insurance agency. Additionally, Associated Persons of Fiat Wealth are licensed insurance agents. Fiat Insurance Services, LLC and our dually licensed Associated Persons can affect transactions in insurance products and earn commission-based compensation and production-based bonuses for these activities. Clients are instructed that the fees paid to the firm for advisory services are separate and distinct from the commissions earned by Fiat Insurance Services, LLC and our dually licensed Associated Persons.

Receipt of commission-based compensation presents a conflict of interest because our firm and persons providing investment advice on behalf of our firm who are licensed insurance agents have an incentive to recommend insurance products to you for the purpose of generating commissions rather than recommendations made solely based on your needs. We address this conflict of interest by recommending insurance products only where we, in good faith, believe that it is appropriate for the client's particular needs and circumstances and only after a full presentation of the recommended insurance product to our client. In addition, we explain the insurance underwriting process to our clients in illustrating how the insurer also reviews the client's application and disclosures prior to the issuance of a resulting insuring agreement. Ultimately, all insurance sales are on a non-discretionary basis and are offered by duly licensed and supervised insurance professionals by our affiliated entity.

Clients are under no obligation contractually or otherwise, to purchase insurance products through any person or entity affiliated with our firm.

Accounting and Tax Preparation Services

Fiat Wealth has a controlling ownership interest in Fiat Tax, PLLC, an accounting and tax preparation firm. Mr. Gotto and other Associated Persons of our firm will recommend Fiat Tax, PLLC's services to their clients, and conversely, Fiat Tax, PLLC and its Associates will recommend our services to their accounting and tax clients. This presents a conflict of interest because our firm and its Associated Persons have an incentive to recommend an affiliated firm for accounting and tax services over firms with which we have no affiliation. Clients are instructed that the fees paid to Fiat Wealth for advisory services are separate and distinct from fees paid to Fiat Tax, PLLC for accounting and tax services. Clients are also informed that they are under no obligation to use Fiat Tax, PLLC for tax services and may use the accounting and tax preparation firm of their choosing. In some cases, and only upon our firm's discretion, we may opt to absorb the accounting and tax preparation fee for the client.

Additional Non-Investment Advisory Service

Fiat Wealth offers an additional non-investment advisory service to various industry professionals in the form of business coaching, sales training, mentorship, operations guidance, marketing and branding development, and other services that are designed to assist such individuals in implementing a growth plan for their businesses. Such services are offered for a fixed fee. We do not expect this activity to create a disclosable conflict of interest because the service will not impact our advisory clients.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading - Item 11

Description of Our Code of Ethics

Fiat Wealth has adopted a Code of Ethics (the "Code") to address investment advisory conduct. The Code focuses primarily on fiduciary duty, personal securities transactions, insider trading, gifts, and conflicts of interest. The Code includes Fiat Wealth's policies and procedures developed to protect clients' interests in relation to the following topics:

- The duty at all times to place the interests of clients first;
- The requirement that all personal securities transactions be conducted in such a manner as to be consistent with the code of ethics;
- The responsibility to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest or misuse of an employee's position of trust and responsibility;
- The fiduciary principle that information concerning the identity of security holdings and financial circumstances of clients is confidential; and
- The principle that independence in the investment decision-making process is paramount.

A copy of Fiat Wealth's Code of Ethics is available upon request to Bradly J. Gotto, Chief Compliance Officer, at (952) 426-9116 or at hello@fiatwm.com.

Personal Trading Practices

At times, Fiat Wealth and/or its Advisory Representatives may take positions in the same securities as clients. This is considered a conflict of interest with clients. Fiat Wealth and its Advisory Representatives will generally be "last in" and "last out" for the trading day when trading occurs in close proximity to client trades, however, we will uphold our fiduciary responsibilities to our clients. Front running (trading shortly ahead of clients) is prohibited. Should a conflict occur because of materiality (e.g., a thinly traded stock), disclosure will be made to the client(s) at the time of trading. Mutual fund purchases are not subject to these policies because the transactions are executed at NAV at the end of the trading day.

Brokerage Practices - Item 12

We recommend the services of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (Schwab). Schwab is an independent and unaffiliated registered broker-dealer and member of FINRA and SIPC. The primary factor in suggesting a broker/dealer or custodian is that the services of the recommended firm are provided in a cost-effective manner. While quality of execution at the best price is an important determinant, best execution does not necessarily mean lowest price and it is not the sole consideration. The trading process of any broker/dealer suggested by Fiat Wealth must be efficient, seamless, and straight-forward. Overall custodial support services, trade correction services, and statement preparation are some of the other factors determined when suggesting a broker/dealer.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits received from Schwab

Fiat Wealth has an institutional custodial relationship with Schwab Advisor Services (formerly called Schwab Institutional) is Schwab's business serving independent investment advisory firms like us. We are independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab will hold your assets in a brokerage account and will buy and sell securities in your account(s) upon our instructions. While we recommend that you use Schwab as custodian/broker, you will decide whether to do so and you will open your account with Schwab by entering into an account agreement directly with them. We do not open the account for you.

Your Custody and Brokerage Costs

Schwab generally does not charge you separately for custody services, but it is compensated by charging commissions or other fees on trades that it executes or that settle into your Schwab account. In addition to commissions, Schwab charges a flat dollar amount as a "prime broker" or "trade away" fee for each trade that we have executed by a different broker-dealer but where the securities bought or the funds from the securities sold are deposited (settled) into your Schwab account.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

Although not considered "soft dollar" compensation, Fiat Wealth may receive some economic benefits from Schwab Advisor Services in the form of access to its institutional brokerage, trading, custody, reporting and related services, many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help us manage or administer our clients' accounts while others help us manage and grow our business. Schwab's support services are generally available on an unsolicited basis (we do not have to request them) and at no charge to us. Below is a detailed description of Schwab's support services:

Services that Benefit You: Schwab's institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions, and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which we might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by our clients. Schwab's services described in this paragraph generally benefit you and your account.

Services that May Not Directly Benefit You: Schwab also makes available to us other products and services that benefit us but may not directly benefit you or your account. These products and services assist us in managing and administering our clients' accounts. They include investment research, both Schwab's own and that of third parties. We may use this research to service all or some substantial number of our clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition to investment research, Schwab also makes available software and other technology that:

- provide access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements);

- facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts;
- provide pricing and other market data;
- facilitate payment of our fees from our clients' accounts; and
- assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting.

Services that Generally Benefit Only Us: Schwab also offers other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services include:

- educational conferences and events;
- technology, compliance, legal, and business consulting;
- publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and
- access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, and insurance providers.

Schwab may provide some of these services itself. In other cases, it will arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to us. Schwab may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees. Schwab may also provide us with other benefits such as occasional business entertainment of our personnel.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

We do not receive client referrals from broker-dealers in exchange for cash or other compensation, such as brokerage services or research.

Directed Brokerage

Fiat Wealth allows clients to direct brokerage. Fiat Wealth may be unable to achieve most favorable execution of client transactions if clients choose to direct brokerage. This may be more costly because without the ability to use Schwab, Fiat Wealth will not be able to aggregate orders to reduce transactions costs, resulting in higher brokerage commissions and less favorable prices. Not all investment advisers allow their clients to direct brokerage.

Aggregation of Orders (Block Trading)

When suitable, we combine multiple orders for shares of the same securities purchased for advisory accounts we manage (this practice is commonly referred to as "block trading"). The shares are then distributed across participating accounts in a fair and equitable manner. The distribution of the shares purchased is typically proportionate to the size of the account, but it is not based on account performance or the amount or structure of management fees. Accounts owned by our firm or persons associated with our firm may participate in block trading with your accounts; however, they will not be given preferential treatment.

While we combine multiple orders for shares of the same securities purchased for client accounts, we do not combine multiple orders for shares of the same mutual funds purchased for advisory accounts we manage because mutual funds do not trade in blocks.

Review of Accounts - Item 13

Accounts are reviewed by the Associated Person named as adviser of record on the account. The frequency of reviews is determined based on the client's investment objectives, but reviews are conducted no less frequently than annually. Additional reviews are usually triggered by a change in the client's investment objectives, tax considerations, large deposits or withdrawals, large purchases or sales, loss of confidence in corporate management, or changes in macro-economic climate.

A financial plan is a snapshot in time and no ongoing reviews are conducted, unless you have engaged us for periodic updates. We recommend a plan review at least annually. Unless otherwise agreed, the plan review will be subject to an additional fee.

The client's independent custodian provides account statements directly to the client no less frequently than quarterly. Sub advisers will also provide clients with performance reports on at least a quarterly basis. The custodian's statement is the official record of the client's securities account and supersedes any statements or reports created on behalf of the client by Fiat Wealth.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation - Item 14

Custodial Benefits

As described in Item 12 above, we receive economic benefits from our custodial broker dealer in the form of support products and services they make available to us and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at these custodial broker dealers. The availability of custodial products and services is not dependent upon or based on the specific investment advice we provide our clients, such as buying or selling specific securities or specific types of securities for our clients. The products and services provided by the custodial broker dealer, how they benefit us, and the related conflicts of interest are described above (see Item 12 – Brokerage Practices).

Economic Benefits Received from Vendors and Product Sponsors

Occasionally, our firm and our Associated Persons will receive additional compensation from vendors. Compensation could include such items as gifts; an occasional dinner or ticket to a sporting event; reimbursement in connection with educational meetings with an Associated Person, reimbursement for consulting services, client workshops, or events; or marketing events or advertising initiatives, including services for identifying prospective clients. Receipt of additional economic benefits presents a conflict of interest because our firm and Associated Persons have an incentive to recommend and use vendors based on the additional economic benefits obtained rather than solely on the client's needs. We address this conflict of interest by recommending vendors that we, in good faith, believe are appropriate for the client's particular needs. Clients are under no obligation contractually or otherwise, to use any of the vendors recommended by us.

Sale of Insurance Products

IARs of Fiat Wealth will solicit, offer, and sell insurance products to you for commissions in their separate capacity as insurance agents. This represents a conflict of interest since Fiat Wealth and the IARs receive fees and/or commissions if you choose to implement the recommendations of your IAR in his or her separate capacity as an insurance agent. You are under no obligation to implement recommendations through your IAR and are free to choose any insurance company you wish to implement the recommendations.

Compensation for Client Referrals

Non-employee (outside) consultants, individuals, and/or entities, who are directly responsible for bringing a client to Fiat Wealth, may receive compensation from the firm. Such arrangements will comply with the requirements under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, including the requirement that the relationship between the promoter and the investment adviser be disclosed to the client at the time of the referral. In addition, all applicable state laws will be observed. Under these arrangements, the client does not pay higher fees than Fiat Wealth's normal/typical advisory fees.

Custody - Item 15

We do not have physical custody of any client funds and/or securities. However, where clients grant us written authorization to deduct advisory fees from their account(s), we are deemed to have custody over client funds or securities limited to the deduction of advisory fees.

With respect to third party standing letters of authorization ("SLOA") where a client grants us authority to direct custodians to disburse funds to one or more third party accounts, we are deemed to have custody pursuant to Rule 206(4)-2 (the "Custody Rule"). We have taken steps to have controls and oversight in place to comply with the no-action letter issued by the SEC on February 21, 2017 (the "SEC no-action letter"). We are not required to comply with the surprise examination requirements of the Custody Rule if we comply with the representations noted in the SEC no-action letter. Where our firm acts pursuant to a SLOA, we believe we are making a good faith effort to comply with the representations noted in the SEC no-action letter. Additionally, since many of the representations noted in the SEC no-action letter involve the qualified custodian's operations, we will collaborate closely with our custodian(s) to ensure that the representations are met.

Your funds and securities will be held with a bank, broker-dealer, or other independent, qualified custodian. You will receive account statements from the independent, qualified custodian(s) holding your funds and securities at least quarterly. The account statements from your custodian(s) will indicate the amount of our advisory fees deducted from your account. You should carefully review account statements for accuracy. If you have questions regarding your account or if you did not receive a statement from your custodian, please contact us at (952) 426-9116 or at hello@fiatwm.com.

Investment Discretion - Item 16

Fiat Wealth's portfolio management services are offered on a discretionary basis. This authority is granted to us by you in the Asset Management Agreement. This allows our firm to choose the quantity of the securities to be purchased or sold and whether to place buy or sell orders for your account without obtaining your approval for each transaction.

If you wish, you may limit our discretionary authority by, for example, setting a limit on the type of securities that can be purchased for your account. Simply provide us with your restrictions or guidelines in writing. Please refer to the "Advisory Business" section in this Brochure for more information on our discretionary management services.

If you have engaged us for non-discretionary portfolio management services, we will obtain your approval prior to executing any transactions in your account(s).

Voting Client Securities - Item 17

Fiat Wealth does not vote proxies. It is the client's responsibility to vote proxies. Clients will receive proxy materials directly from the custodian. Questions about proxies may be made via the contact information on the cover page.

Financial Information - Item 18

We are required in this Item to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about Fiat Wealth's, financial condition. Fiat Wealth does not require the prepayment of over $1,200, six or more months in advance. Additionally, Fiat Wealth has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and Fiat Wealth has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.

Requirements of State-Registered Advisers - Item 19

This section is not applicable because our firm is SEC-registered.
