Regulatory Information: Comparing Advisers and Brokers

There are different ways you can get help with your investments. You should carefully consider which types of accounts and services are right for you.

We are an investment adviser and provide advisory accounts and services rather than brokerage accounts and services. This document gives you a summary of the types of services we provide and how you pay. Please ask us for more information. There are some suggested questions on page 3.

Relationships and Services.

- If you open an advisory account, you will pay an on-going asset-based fee at the beginning of each half-year for our services, based on the value of the cash and investments in your advisory account.
- We will offer you advice on a regular basis. We will discuss your investment goals, design with you a strategy to achieve your investment goals, and regularly monitor your account. We will contact you (by phone or e-mail) at least quarterly to discuss your portfolio.
- You can choose an account that allows us to buy and sell investments in your account without asking you in advance (a “discretionary account”) or we may give you advice and you decide what investments to buy and sell (a “nondiscretionary account”).
- Our investment advice will cover a limited selection of investments. Other firms could provide advice on a wider range of choices, some of which might have lower costs.

Our Obligations to You. We must abide by certain laws and regulations in our interactions with you.

- We are held to a fiduciary standard that covers our entire investment advisory relationship with you. For example, we are required to monitor your portfolio, investment strategy, and investments on an ongoing basis.
- Our interests can conflict with your interests. We must eliminate these conflicts or tell you about them in a way you can understand, so that you can decide whether or not to agree to them.

Fees and Costs. Fees and costs affect the value of your account over time. Please ask your financial professional to give you personalized information on the fees and costs that you will pay.

- The amount paid to our firm and your financial professional generally does not vary based on the type of investments we select on your behalf. The asset-based fee reduces the value of your account and will be deducted from your account.
- Some investments (such as mutual funds and variable annuities) impose additional fees that will reduce the value of your investment over time. Also, with certain investments such as variable annuities, you may have to pay fees such as “surrender charges” to sell the investment.
- Our fees vary and are negotiable. The amount you pay will depend, for example, on the services you receive and the amount of assets in your account.
- You will pay a transaction fee, or a commission, to the broker holding your assets when we buy and sell an investment for you.
- The more assets you have in the advisory account, including cash, the more you will pay us. We therefore have an incentive to increase the assets in your account in order to increase our fees. You pay our fee semi-annually even if you do not buy or sell.

Compare with Typical Brokerage Accounts.

You could also open a brokerage account with a broker-dealer, where you will pay a transaction-based fee, generally referred to as a commission, when the broker-dealer buys or sells an investment for you. Features of a typical brokerage account include:

- With a broker-dealer, you may select investments or the broker-dealer may recommend investments for your account, but the ultimate decision for your investment strategy and the purchase and sale of investments will be yours.
- A broker-dealer must act in your best interest and not place its interests ahead of yours when the broker-dealer recommends an investment or an investment strategy involving securities. When a broker-dealer provides any service to you, the broker-dealer must treat you fairly and comply with a number of specific obligations. Unless you and the broker-dealer agree otherwise, the broker-dealer is not required to monitor your portfolio or investments on an ongoing basis.
- If you were to pay a transaction-based fee in a brokerage account, the more trades in your account, the more fees the broker-dealer charges you. So it has an incentive to encourage you to trade often.
- You can receive advice in either type of account, but you may prefer paying:

a transaction-based fee from a cost perspective, if you do not trade often or if you plan to buy and hold investments for longer periods of time.

an asset-based fee if you want continuing advice or want someone to make investment decisions for you, even though it may cost more than a transaction-based fee.

Conflicts of Interest. Our Firm Policies prohibit certain Conflicts of Interest

- Our Firm Policies prohibit us from making extra money by advising you to invest in certain investments, because they are managed by someone related to our firm, or from Our Firm receiving more money if you buy these investments.
- Our Firm Policies prohibit us from having an incentive to advise you to invest in certain investments where the manager or sponsor of those investments shares with us revenue it earns on those investments.
- Our firm Policies prohibit us from buying investments from you, or selling investments to you, from our own accounts (called “acting as principal”)

Additional Information. We encourage you to seek additional information.

- We have no legal or disciplinary events. Visit Investor.gov for a free and simple search tool to research our firm and our financial professionals.
- For additional information on our advisory services, see our Form ADV brochure on IAPD on Investor.gov.
- To report a problem to the SEC, visit Investor.gov or call the SEC's toll-free investor assistance line at (800) 732-0330. If you have a problem with your investments, account or any employee of our firm, call Mr. Jorgensen immediately in confidence.

Key Questions to Ask. Ask our financial professionals these key questions about our investment services and accounts.

1. Given my financial situation, why should I choose an advisory account?
2. Do the math for me. How much would I pay per year for an advisory account? What would make those fees more or less? What services will I receive for those fees?
3. What additional costs should I expect in connection with my account?
4. Tell me how you and your firm make money in connection with my account. Do you or your firm receive any payments from anyone besides me in connection with my investments?
5. What are the most common conflicts of interest in your advisory accounts? Explain how you will address those conflicts when providing services to my account.
6. How will you choose investments to recommend for my account?
7. How often will you monitor my account's performance and offer investment advice?
8. Do you or your firm have a disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?
9. What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? Please explain what the abbreviations in your licenses are and what they mean.
10. Who is the primary contact person for my account? What can you tell me about his or her legal obligations to me? If I have concerns about how this person is treating me, who can I talk to?

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. Advisory Business

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. is an investment advisory firm that manages investment accounts for families, their trusts, estates and retirement plans.

The principal of our firm and our sole owner is Mr. Edvard Jorgensen. Mr. Jorgensen, a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, incorporated our Firm in 1981, and has managed client accounts since 1983. Seahorse Financial Advisers is the personal investment advisory business of Mr. Jorgensen, who himself manages all accounts.

We render our investment advice by managing separate accounts that are maintained by our client at a brokerage firm.

Advisory Business: The Services We Offer

Seahorse Financial Advisors manages separate accounts held by our client at a brokerage house. We buy and sell investments that are available through the broker, based on our view of the investment mix that would be most advantageous for our client.

We select investments based first on our discussions with our client, seeking to create a portfolio that is appropriate to the individual needs and circumstances of our client. Our review of a client's individual needs includes their age, family circumstances, investment history, tolerance for risk and market fluctuations and other financial resources. Generally, our clients seek to both earn regular income from their investment accounts and realize some appreciation in the value of their account. In creating a portfolio, we review the businesses characteristics of individual companies whose stock is traded publicly, the general economic climate, and the overall performance of the broad investment markets. So, we use a combination of investment techniques, including fundamental analysis, economic analysis and market timing analysis. We tend to be long term investments, not frequent traders, and we prefer to buy and hold a security rather than attempt to predict the short-term direction of investment markets.

Advisory Business: How We Manage Your Brokerage Account

We manage our client's brokerage account under a written authority from our client, using a form from the brokerage house sometimes called a "limited power of attorney" or a "trading authority".

Kindly note that we do not call you to obtain prior approval of a purchase or sale. We make that decision on our own. Of course, we meet with you from time to time to assess your individual circumstances. But unlike a "stockbroker," we do not call you to recommend a purchase or sale. We place the orders.

We ask you not to request that we make investments you select. If you want to make your own investment decisions, you should run your own brokerage account instead of hiring an account manager. Naturally, if a particular investment is distasteful to you (for example, a tobacco company) please advise us and we will try to honor your preference not to invest in that company.

Seahorse Financial Advisers limits its business to separately managed accounts. We cannot act as a trustee of your trust or an executor of your estate. Further, our principal cannot act as a trustee or executor of any account that is managed by Seahorse Financial Advisers.

In addition to the managed accounts where Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. takes a trading authority from you, we may agree to provide you advice regarding the investments held in accounts where we do not take a trading authority, for example, your 401k where you are given the option by your employer to select among a menu of mutual funds for your account.

A copy of our Form of Investment Counseling Contract is annexed to this brochure so you can see the complete formal description of our relationship.

As of December 31, 2023, we managed $ 69,253,153 in discretionary accounts.

Meeting with Clients and Office Locations

Mr. Jorgensen, the Principal of our Company, customarily meets with clients by visiting them at their home or office.

Alternatively, we invited clients to visit us by appointment at one of our two offices:

Our Main Office, at 52 Front St. Millbrook NY 12545

Our Auxiliary Office, at 373 Shunpike, Millbrook NY 1254

(which is available whenever our Main Office is closed)

Our Long Island Office, at 15 Seatuck Lane, Remsenburg NY 12545

In addition, Mr. Jorgensen makes available to the Company work and meeting space at his residence in New York City, and by appointment, we can schedule a client meeting at this location:

New York City: 16 Park Avenue, New York NY 10016

Mr. Jorgensen travels extensively in order to call on clients. Accordingly, he can best be reached by calling our Main Office telephone number, 845-605-8122, at any time. In the event the Main Office is closed, a telephone call to that number will be forwarded to Mr. Jorgensen's private cell phone. Mr. Jorgensen is happy to take calls from clients after hours, and by all means clients should feel free to call our Main Office number at any time, during or outside by normal business hours, and Mr. Jorgensen looks forward to speaking with you.

Fees and Compensation

We are compensated by a fee paid directly by our client to us. We do not charge or collect brokerage commission, referral fees, or product sales charges.

Our Fee Schedule. Our fee is calculated as a percentage of the value of the accounts we manage. All of your accounts with us are added up, and our fee is calculated as a percentage of that total amount. Our Stated Standard Contract Rate is 1.45% annually. Our fee schedule applicable to the current year is lower, as follows:

Fee is calculated by Tiers

The Total Fee is the Sum of all Applicable Tiers

Fee Tier	From	To	Annual Billing Percentage
(1)	$ 0	$ 1,500,000	.95%
(2)	$ 1,500,000	$ 7,500,000	.45%
(3)	$ 7,500,000	$ 15,000,000	.40%
(4)	$ 15,000,000	$ 20,000,000	.35%
(5)	$ 20,000,000	$ (above)	.15%

Stated Standard Contract Rate is 1.45% annually

Your Rate in the current year is discounted to the above rates.

Fees are subject to credits and charges in individual circumstances

Fees are billed in advance as a retainer for the commenced Half Year and are pro-rata refundable if unused

Billing Months are January and July

January Bill covers the period January 1 to June 30

July Bill covers the period July 1 to December 31

Bills will be prorated for service for a partial period

Bills will be submitted to the Broker for debit to your account

14 days after presented to you, unless you have arranged with us for direct payment, as by check

Thank you for your many years as a Client of our Firm.

Our fees are negotiable. We may provide a discount for clients that have a long-standing relationship with our firm.

Our Annual Fee is billed and collected twice a year, in January and July of each year. We calculate the total value of your accounts as of December 31 or June 30, as the case may be, and then calculate a fee based on a rate of $\frac{1}{2}$ of the year.

We will submit our bill to you in January or July. We will wait not less than 14 days for you to review and discuss our bill with us as you wish. If we do not hear from you, we will submit your bill electronically to your broker custodian for automatic debiting to your account. At any time after payment, you may raise with us any concern regarding our fee, and we will be happy to review your concerns with you.

Identity Theft Credit Rebate Included in your Bill

We strongly advise clients to purchase identity theft protection.

In our billing to you, we have credited you with up to $750, which we hope you will use to purchase Identity Theft Protection.

We have reduced the fee applicable to the first $1,500,000 of your accounts from 1% to .95% annually, or $750.

This credit to your fee is automatic, and you do not need to confirm to us that you have purchased Identity Theft Protection.

But we hope you will!

We recommend Identity Theft Protection services from:

LifeLock (www.lifelock.com)

Similar services may be available through your bank or other vendors.

We also recommend that you use a two-step log on to your account or a password mechanical fob available through your broker and make your account password unique to the broker's website and complex per internet standards and recommendations.

Thank you for your many years as a Client of our Firm.

How We are Paid. We will send you a bill for your fee during the half year in progress, in January or June, as the case may be. You may pay by check, or alternatively, depending upon the brokerage house, we will, unless you have notified us that you wish to pay by check, submit either an electronic or paper instruction to your broker to deduct the fee from your account. We submit fees not less than 14 days after the fee statement is mailed to you. If at any time you have any questions, please advise us and we will correct or adjust any fee already submitted to the brokerage house.

Hourly Fee. We may from time to time be asked by a client to provide investment planning advice on an hourly basis in addition to the regular management of an account. In that event, our billing rate will be $995 per hour. We will agree with our client in advance regarding the scope of the advice.

Other Fees You May Incur. As the holder of an account, you will incur any fees charged by your broker, such as commissions, custodian fees etc. If your investments include mutual funds or exchange traded funds or other similar investments, the fund will have its own fees that will be in addition to the fees we charge you. In the event we select a mutual fund for purchase in your account, that mutual fund may have a sales charge (called a "load") in addition to our fee, or not (called a "no-load" fund). Also, the fund may have other charges or annual operating expenses borne by its shareholders. All these charges will be in addition to our fee. Currently, exchange-traded funds customarily have some annual expense borne by shareholders, and these expenses will be in addition to our fee. Please go to the Section entitled Brokerage Practices for a further discussion of brokerage commissions.

Other Brokers and Advisors. Since we select widely available individual investments and mutual funds and exchange traded funds, our clients always have the option of purchasing these same investments from other brokers or investment advisers without retaining our services.

Our Fees are a Retainer. We send our bill for the semester then in progress, so our bill is a retainer paid in advance. If your retainer with us is terminated, for example, if you wish to discontinue our services, during the semester then in progress, we will issue you a check in refund of the unused days of our retainer.

No other Compensation to Us. Our firm, and our principal Edvard Jorgensen, does not accept compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds or insurance products as to any investment held in any separately managed account managed by Seahorse Financial Advisers and covered by this Form ADV.

Performance-Based Fees.

We do not charge a fee based on a percentage of the investment gains your account earns. For example, we do not charge a fee based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client account. We believe that such a fee encourages speculation, and we disapprove of such a fee arrangement.

We charge only the percentage of assets fee listed above. We do not charge a “side-by-side” management fee, for example, a flat fee in addition to the percentage of the value of the account.

Types of Clients

Our clientele: We generally provide investment advice to individuals, families, minor's accounts, family trusts, family estates and family retirement plans, for example, personal IRAs or individual client accounts at a company 401k.

Our minimum size for a new account, or combination of family accounts, is $1,000,000. We may waive that requirement in our discretion.

We select our investments from among the publicly traded stocks and bonds of U.S. and foreign companies; commercial paper, certificates of deposit, municipal securities available through the brokerage house where you maintain your account; mutual fund shares and exchange traded funds; United States Government securities; publicly traded interests in real estate trusts; oil and gas partnerships; and other publicly traded commodity and business companies and partnerships.

We identify a group of investments that we favor in the current business, economic and market climate, and limit our investments to that group we have selected. The exact balance of investments that we select for your account will vary with our view of your individual needs and circumstances.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

We manage investment accounts with the goal of both generating annual income and some long-term appreciation in the value of the account. Accordingly, we analyze the business of stocks or other investments in which we invest; we review general economic conditions; we examine the recent activity of investment markets to see if investment prices appear “high”; and we try to buy good quality investments at a reasonable price. We tend to select investments from among common stock, preferred stock, real estate investment trusts, master limited partnerships, municipal and government bonds, money market funds, and mutual funds and exchange traded funds invested in these assets, although we do not limit our selection of investments to these asset classes. The investments we select will be traded on national or regional exchanges or over-the-counter and must be available through the broker which has custody of your account. We do not invest in private placements or private partnerships.

Investing in securities always involves a risk of loss, and you our client should be prepared to bear that loss. If you cannot stand loss, you should not be investing in securities whose price can go up or down.

We generally maintain long term (one year or more) positions in the securities we purchase for our clients. Under certain circumstances, in our discretion, we may sell a position held less than one year (a short-term position) or even less than 90 days (a trading position).

We generally do not buy on margin. However, most of the taxable accounts of our clients will be margin accounts. If our client withdraws cash before we have funded that withdrawal by a sale of securities, our client’s account will be “on margin” and will incur margin expense. We ask that you advise us of your planned withdrawals so we can work with you to minimize the period that your account is on margin.

We generally do not “sell short” a security, that is, sell as security your account does not own in the hope of buying it back at a lower price. Nor do we invest in options or futures. But depending upon our view of the markets, we reserve the right to make these transactions.

In summary, we provide traditional long term investment portfolios for our clients.

Kindly further note that investment portfolios result in income taxes, whether from interest, dividends, taxes on gains upon sale, or taxes upon distributions from tax-deferred accounts. We report to you your gain or loss before taxes. The actual gain or loss you have will be net of taxes ultimately payable based on your tax situation.

Disciplinary Information

There are no legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or a prospective client's evaluation of our company, Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc., or our principal, Mr. Edvard Jorgensen.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Our firm is not registered as a securities broker, futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, commodity trading advisor, and our principal, Mr. Edvard Jorgensen, is likewise not registered as any of the above.

Our principal, Mr. Edvard Jorgensen, is licensed as a lawyer in the State of New York and has been so licensed since he was admitted to the practice of law in 1977. Mr. Jorgensen is also licensed as a real estate broker and owns a real estate company known as Jorgensen Real Estate.

We do not have a relationship or arrangement to procure clients that is material to our business or to our clients with a broker, fund company, financial adviser or planner, futures merchant, bank, accountant, law firm, insurance company or agent, pension consultant, real estate broker or partnership sponsor or syndicator. Our new clients come by referrals from existing clients and by the personal social contacts of our principal, Edvard Jorgensen.

We do not recommend or select other investment advisers for our clients, and accordingly, do not receive compensation from other investment advisers for any such recommendations.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Our Code of Ethics

We have adopted the Investment Advisers Association Standards of Practice as our Firm's Statement of General Principles. Here is that Statement:

I. Fiduciary Duty and Professional Responsibility: An investment adviser stands in a special relationship of trust and confidence with, and therefore is a fiduciary to, its clients. As a fiduciary, an investment adviser has an affirmative duty of care, loyalty, honesty, and good faith to act in the best interests of its clients. The parameters of an investment adviser's duty depend on the scope of the advisory relationship and generally include:

- (1) the duty at all times to place the interests of clients first;
- (2) the duty to have a reasonable basis for its investment advice;
- (3) the duty to seek best execution for client securities transactions where the adviser directs such transactions;
- (4) the duty to make investment decisions consistent with any mutually agreed upon client objectives, strategies, policies, guidelines, and restrictions;
- (5) the duty to treat clients fairly;
- (6) the duty to make full and fair disclosure to clients of all material facts about the advisory relationship, particularly regarding conflicts of interest; and
- (7) the duty to respect the confidentiality of client information.

II. Professional Qualifications: To enable an investment advisory firm to serve its clientele effectively, its investment and managerial personnel should be individuals of experience, ability, competence, and integrity.

III. Responsible and Ethical Business Practices: An investment adviser should run its business responsibly and ethically, including ensuring that its financial condition, operations, and compliance structure are appropriate to protect its clients' interests.

IV. Compensation for Services: The compensation of an investment adviser for investment advisory services should be fair, reasonable, and fully disclosed to the client.

V. Communications with Clients and the Public: An investment adviser's oral and written statements, including those made to clients, prospective clients, their representatives, or the media, must be accurate, balanced, and not misleading.

In accordance with this Statement of General Principles, our Firm has adopted a complete Code of Ethics. We will be happy to supply you our client and any prospective client with a copy of our complete Code of Ethics at any time without charge upon your request. A copy of our current Code of Ethics is attached to this brochure.

Interest in Client Transactions

Mr. Jorgensen, the principal of our Firm, may from time to time buy, hold or sell (in his name, as trustee or in other capacities) publicly traded securities which are recommended or purchased for clients by us. Further, from time to time he may take differing action regarding the same security held in his accounts, and the accounts of our clients. All these actions are based on the individual needs and circumstances of the relevant investor, which needs and circumstances may differ. These needs and circumstances may include, for example, need for cash distribution, tax concerns, size and allocation of existing positions, risk tolerance and investment objectives.

Over the years, our clients have indicated that they like that Mr. Jorgensen is an active investor holding positions in any number of the securities that our Firm buys for clients. Our Code of Ethics, which is discussed below, contains provisions governing personal securities transactions by employees of our Firm, including Mr. Jorgensen. These ethics rules require generally that on a given day orders for clients in a security be executed before orders for any employee of our Firm in the same security or as part of a block trade being allocated that day. We will provide a copy of our Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request without charge.

Our Firm has in the past, and may in the future, maintain its own investment account, but that account has and will be limited to mutual funds available at the Vanguard Company. Our Firm does not trade or own individual common stock or other market investments outside of the Vanguard funds.

Brokerage Practices

We will use whatever broker you select as custodian of your account and for executions of transactions in your account. We currently recommend one broker in particular, Charles Schwab & Co. Inc. We also recommend the mutual funds available at the Vanguard Company, if you ask for a mutual fund account recommendation separate from a brokerage house. In the past we have recommended other brokers, and we may recommend a different broker in the future. In our recommendations of brokers and our determination of the reasonableness of their commissions, we look for the lowest possible commission cost and best execution while taking into account the following additional factors:

- (i) Size, nationwide scope and account insurance offered by the broker.
- (ii) Provision of an effective Internet Web-based trading platform for order entry.
- (iii) Convenient local office locations.
- (iv) Clear and accurate brokerage house statements and service for clients.
- (v) Facility to provide a selection of tax-free, government and corporate bonds for income.

When you select a broker for custodian, that is, when you open an account at a broker, we will be using that broker for execution of trades. Other brokers may offer to execute trades at a lower commission cost. The selection of broker should be based on a review of all the factors noted above, for a combination of service, cost, reliability and safety.

We do not guarantee the financial security of a broker or custodian, including any broker we recommend. You must rely only on the broker, its financial condition, and any insurance protection for the security of your funds and securities held in the account.

Although we will use whatever broker you select, we currently recommend to you that you maintain your account at Charles Schwab & Co., which we believe offers a good combination of service, cost, reliability and safety. Presently, all the accounts over which we have trading authority are maintained by our clients at Charles Schwab & Co.

We are registered with the Institutional division of Charles Schwab & Co. As part of that relationship, our firm and your account at Charles Schwab & Co. receive the following services not available to accounts in the retail division:

- we are provided with a service department which services administrative matters regarding accounts.
- we are provided with an Internet Web-based trading platform for order entry.
- we receive a nightly electronic download of account information regarding transactions and positions of client accounts.

- we receive information regarding investment adviser regulatory compliance and practice management.

We believe that these services, which facilitate our management of your account, are of value to us and are of value to your account.

We have retained Morningstar Inc., a large national investment data and services provider, to maintain an accounting system of our accounts and a system that provides us with a wide range of investment reports regarding your account. This is in addition to a parallel accounting system that is a custom system we maintain in our office. For any client account not maintained at Charles Schwab & Co., we will incur an additional charge from Morningstar Inc. to obtain and process that brokerage data into the accounting system they maintain for us. For a prospective client who wishes to use a broker other than Charles Schwab & Co., we will obtain a quotation from Morningstar for their additional fee to process that brokerage account and that fee will be charged to our client in addition to the investment advisory fee set forth in our schedule of Fees and Compensation.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

Charles Schwab & Co. includes on its website research from specialty research firms and from investment banks and brokers. We do not place orders in exchange from this research, but it is there are available to us.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

We do not solicit client referrals from a brokerage house, and in selecting or recommending a broker for you, we and our principal do not consider, seek or accept such referrals.

Directed Brokerage

We currently routinely recommend that our clients select Charles Schwab & Co. as their broker and custodian. Not all advisers recommend a broker or request that their clients execute trades through a particular broker. It may be that another broker would execute your trades at a lower commission than Charles Schwab & Co. or give you some other service that Charles Schwab & Co. does not give you. By all means, please evaluate any other broker that you wish.

There are many other investment advisory services available to you from other advisers, individuals and institutions. You can place your investment funds with a broker at a brokerage house; you can investment in a broker's "wrap fee" program; you can hire a trustee, individual or institutional; you can invest directly in a limited partnership, hedge fund, tax-shelter; you can buy an investment product from a life insurance company, such as an annuity. We provide none of those services. As we have said, the business of Seahorse Financial Advisers is strictly limited to management of separate accounts that you open at an independent brokerage house.

It is possible that we may combine an order for a purchase or sale in your account with orders for purchase or sale in other client accounts. But most commonly, we execute your trade separately. It may be that another adviser could combine his trades for you with trades for his other clients and negotiate for you a commission charge that would be lower than the charge you would incur for a trade we make. You should evaluate this possibility in comparing us to another adviser, and we urge you to review to schedule of charges from Charles Schwab & Co. that will apply to your account and compare it to the schedule of charges available at other brokers or through other advisers.

Review of Accounts

All accounts are managed and reviewed by Mr. Edvard Jorgensen, President and principal of Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. Mr. Jorgensen monitors each account on a continuous basis. Since we are a personal practice, Mr. Jorgensen keeps in touch with each client individually by meetings, telephone conversations and correspondence. Clients are welcome to call Mr. Jorgensen at any time.

Our review of your account may be triggered by changes in our investment outlook, by developments in a particular security held in your account, by discussions we have with you regarding your personal situation, or by a combination of these factors. We do not set a regular weekly or monthly time slot to review your account; we review your account as these factors we have discussed may require.

We submit to you our client portfolio statements prepared by us four times a year, in January, April, July and October. In addition, a client will receive regular monthly portfolio statements from the brokerage house in which the client's accounts are placed. After year-end, we provide a statement for tax purposes of capital gains and losses in a client's accounts. The information on our tax statement should be reviewed against brokerage house tax statements by the client's accountant or tax preparer to ensure an accurate tax return.

The regularly monthly statement prepared by the broker who has custody of your account is the authoritative statement of what is in your account. You should always compare our statement, which is for information and description only, with the statement provided by your broker-custodian. If you see any discrepancy between our statement and the statements provided by your broker-custodian, please advise us immediately so that we may correct our records.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We have no relationship with any person or firm who provides us with an economic benefit for providing investment advice or other advisory services to our clients. For example, our firm does not earn “sales awards” or other prizes based on “sales production” of investment products to our clients.

As we noted above, we provide the investment management of our client’s brokerage account for a fee paid directly by the client.

Custody of Accounts

We are not a broker or trust company and we do not provide or otherwise take custody of your account. We also do not take any authority from you that would constitute custody, such as the authority to move money into or out of your account. Only your broker-custodian has custody, and only you will have authority to move money into or out of your account. Instructions for the movement of money, whether by internet or by wire per a standing letter of authorization, must be given by you to your broker. This limitation is for your protection, and for our protection as well, to avoid any misunderstandings.

Investment Discretion

We manage your separate account under an authority called a “limited trading authority” in accordance with a form provided by your broker-custodian. That form must be signed by you, in addition to our Investment Advisory Contract, before we will invest your account. That limited trading authority may be revoked by you at any time by notice to the custodian-broker and must be revoked upon cancellation of our investment counseling contract with you.

Voting Client Securities

We will set up your account so that you vote on the proxy matters relating to your investments. We view that voting on these matters is your privilege as a stockholder. A copy of our company policy regarding Voting of Securities is attached to this brochure.

Seahorse Financial Advisers

Business Continuity Plan

Security of Client Brokerage Accounts Regional Disasters and Client Account Records Policy Advisory Service and Market Risk during local Disasters Advisory Service in Disasters & Continuity of Business and Advice

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. maintains a Business Continuity Plan to ensure that our clients and their investment portfolios are serviced in the event of natural disasters and other disruptions of our business.

Security of Client Brokerage Accounts. We do not take custody of any of your investment assets, that is, of your stocks and bonds. Your investments are held by the Broker-Custodian of your brokerage account. We hold only a trading authorization to buy and sell in that account. Accordingly, the custody of your assets is not affected by natural disasters or other interruptions of the business continuity of Seahorse Advisers. Your broker-custodian will have its own plan to preserve the physical custody of your assets, including the book entry record of your positions, and you may consult with the broker-custodian for information regarding that plan.

Regional Disasters and Client Account Records Policy. Seahorse Advisers retains a national data records firm, Morningstar Inc., to keep a copy of every transaction in your brokerage account. Morningstar also provides a reporting program from which we print your quarterly reports and calculates statistical reports such as the income generated by your portfolio and your portfolio's performance. The original record of every transaction in your brokerage account is kept by the broker-custodian. In addition, you receive from the broker-custodian their monthly report of the holdings in your account and the transactions in your account during the past month.

Morningstar retains its copy of the records of your account at its national data centers. Likewise, your broker-custodian retains its copy of the records of your account at its national data centers. All such data centers are separate from our offices and would not be affected by natural disasters or other disruptions unique to our business offices. Both Morningstar and your broker-custodian will have their own policies to ensure that copies of your records survive regional disasters, and you may consult with these firms regarding these policies. You may also wish to keep your copy of the monthly statements and confirmations sent to you by your broker-custodian.

Advisory Service and Market Risk during Local Disasters. Disasters and other disruptions local to our business offices may prevent us from placing trades or otherwise managing your account from our Main Office. To provide continuity of service, we maintain off-site computers in Millbrook NY, New York City, and Remsenburg, Long Island, NY, able to log in and manage your account. Accordingly, we can promptly move to an unaffected location and resume managing your account. In that event, the long-term holdings in your account will remain in your account until we resume service at one of our other locations. We do not invest in options, futures or highly margined positions where the passage of time will inherently change, and particular diminish, the market value of the investment, but all market-traded securities fluctuate in price during trading hours, and all accounts will be subject to market and individual event risk until our trading supervision resumes.

Personal Incapacity of Mr. Jorgensen; Continuity of Business and Advice.

Seahorse Advisers is the personal investment practice of Mr. Jorgensen. We have employees able to manage our office and communicate with your broker-custodian, but the selection of investments in your portfolios reflects the unique individual judgment and philosophy of Mr. Jorgensen and is his personal advice and service to you. In the event of Mr. Jorgensen's death or incapacity, that personal advice would no longer be possible. In such an event, our office, by our legal counsel, will notify you, and will recommend that you retain new investment counsel or manage your investments yourself. The portfolio Mr. Jorgensen selects for you will likely contain individual stocks, real estate trusts, publicly traded limited partnerships and exchange traded funds whose management requires specialized knowledge and research. In the event you elect to manage your investments yourself, we recommend that you consider liquidating the individual positions selected by Mr. Jorgensen and instead invest in widely held and well-known funds such as S&P 500 index funds or other well-known broad market funds available to you. The custodian broker, Charles Schwab & Co., offers investment management services and support described on their website www.Schwab.com under the tab, "Investment Help." If you elect to retain a new investment adviser, that adviser will manage the portfolio. Complete tax basis (purchase price cost) records are now maintained at your broker-custodian.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc.

Code of Ethics

Seahorse Financial Advisers is proud to offer clients independent financial advice under the highest ethical standards.

1. General Principles

Our Firm is the personal advisory practice of Mr. Edvard Jorgensen, our founder and sole principal. Our clients are families and their diverse accounts, including personal accounts and trusts.

Our Firm, and Mr. Jorgensen, believe strongly in the investment adviser's overarching fiduciary duty to clients and the obligation of firm personnel to uphold that fundamental duty.

We support as a Firm and require of our employees to observe:

1. The duty at all times to place the interests of clients first;
2. The requirement that all personal securities transactions be conducted in such a manner as to be consistent with the code of ethics and to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest or any abuse of an employee's position of trust and responsibility;
3. The principle that investment adviser personnel should not take inappropriate advantage of their positions;
4. The fiduciary principle that information concerning the identity of security holdings and financial circumstances of clients is confidential; and
5. The principle that independence in the investment decision-making process is paramount.

Our Firm values highly the firm's reputation, as well as principles of honesty, integrity, and professionalism.

We further emphasize to all directors, officers, and employees that these general principles govern all conduct, whether or not the conduct also is covered by more specific standards and procedures set forth below.

The failure to comply with the firm's code of ethics may result in disciplinary action, including termination of employment.

2. Scope of this Code

Our Firm presently consists of Mr. Jorgensen, our sole Director and Officer, and non-professional personnel, including clerical and maintenance. In order to provide general application to our Firm in the event we add personnel, our Code is written to apply to a business with multiple directors, officers and personnel. Our Code is drawn from the Investment Advisers Association Model Code, edited to make the Model Code more directly applicable to a firm of our size and organization.

A. Persons Covered by the Code

Our Code of Ethics covers the following persons:

Supervised Persons include:

1. Directors, officers, and partners of the adviser (or other persons occupying a similar status or performing similar functions);
2. Employees of the adviser; and
3. Any other person who provides advice on behalf of the adviser and is subject to the adviser's supervision and control,

Access Person includes any supervised person who:

1. has access to nonpublic information regarding any clients' purchase or sale of securities, or nonpublic information regarding the portfolio holdings of any fund the adviser or its control affiliates manage; or
2. is involved in making securities recommendations to clients, or has access to such recommendations that are nonpublic.

Our firm's primary business is providing investment advice, and all of the firm's directors, officers, and partners are presumed to be access persons.

Family Members. For purposes of personal securities reporting requirements, terms such as "employee," "account," "supervised person," and "access person" are defined to also include the person's immediate family (including any relative by blood or marriage living in the employee's household).

Investment Personnel. In this Code of Ethics, "investment personnel" includes, portfolio managers, portfolio assistants, securities analysts, and traders.

C. Securities Covered by the Code

Covered Security means any stock, bond, future, investment contract or any other instrument that is considered a "security" under the Investment Advisers Act. The term "covered security" is very broad and includes items you might not ordinarily think of as "securities," such as:

1. Options on securities, on indexes, and on currencies;
2. All kinds of limited partnerships;
3. Foreign unit trusts and foreign mutual funds; and
4. Private investment funds, hedge funds, and investment clubs.

Covered Security does not include:

1. Direct obligations of the U.S. government or Federal Agencies.
2. Bankers' acceptances, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper, and high quality short-term debt obligations, including repurchase agreements;
3. Shares issued by money market funds;
4. Shares of open-end mutual funds that are not advised or sub-advised by the firm (or certain affiliates, where applicable); and
5. Shares issued by unit investment trusts that are invested exclusively in one or more open-end funds, none of which are funds advised or sub-advised by the firm (or certain affiliates, where applicable).

3. STANDARDS OF BUSINESS CONDUCT

A. Compliance with Laws and Regulations. We require the highest standard of conduct from all employees. All employees must comply with all applicable Federal and State Laws, including without limitation securities laws, privacy laws and anti-money-laundering laws.

All provisions of Federal or State Law, including without limitation any provision for an investment adviser code of ethics required of our Company and not otherwise specifically set forth in this Policy, is hereby incorporated and made a part of the Policy by reference.

As part of this requirement, supervised persons are not permitted, in connection with the purchase or sale, directly or indirectly, of a security held or to be acquired by a client:

- a. To defraud such client in any manner;
- b. To mislead such client, including by making a statement that omits material facts;
- c. To engage in any act, practice or course of conduct which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon such client;
- d. To engage in any manipulative practice with respect to such client; or
- e. To engage in any manipulative practice with respect to securities, including price manipulation.

B. Conflicts of Interest. As a fiduciary, the firm has an affirmative duty of care, loyalty, honesty, and good faith to act in the best interests of its clients. Compliance with this duty can be achieved by trying to avoid conflicts of interest and by fully disclosing all material facts concerning any conflict that does arise with respect to any client. In addition, our Firm imposes a higher standard by providing that individuals subject to the code must try to avoid situations that have even the appearance of conflict or impropriety.

1. Conflicts Among Client Interests. Conflicts of interest may arise where the firm or its supervised persons might have reason to favor the interests of one client over another client (e.g., larger accounts over smaller accounts, accounts compensated by performance fees over accounts not so compensated, accounts in which employees have made material personal investments, accounts of close friends or relatives of supervised persons). Our Firm specifically prohibits inappropriate favoritism of one client over another client that would constitute a breach of fiduciary duty.

2. Competing with Client Trades. Our Firm prohibits access persons from using knowledge about pending or currently considered securities transactions for clients to profit personally, directly or indirectly, as a result of such transactions, including by purchasing or selling such securities. Conflicts raised by personal securities transactions also are addressed more specifically in section D below.

3. Other Potential Conflicts Provisions.

a. Disclosure of personal interest. Our Firm prohibits investment personnel from recommending, implementing or considering any securities transaction in a covered security for a client without having disclosed any material beneficial ownership, business or personal relationship, or other material interest in the issuer or its affiliates, to an appropriate designated person (e.g., the chief investment officer or, with respect to the chief investment officer's interests, another designated senior officer). If such designated person deems the disclosed interest to present a material conflict, the investment personnel may not participate in any decision-making process regarding the securities of that issuer. As noted below, Mr. Jorgensen is an active investor, and may hold positions in the same securities in which we invest on behalf of our clients. Mr. Jorgensen's personal securities transactions are regulated by our firm as discussed below. All other employees of our firm are required to limit their securities holdings to open end mutual funds, as discussed below.

b. Referrals of Brokerage. Our Firm requires supervised persons to act in the best interests of the firm's clients regarding execution and other costs paid by clients for brokerage services, and to provide referrals with offer clients a combination of custody, service and low commission costs which believe offers our clients good value.

c. Vendors and Suppliers. Our Firm requires supervised persons to disclose any personal investments or other interests in vendors or suppliers with respect to which the person negotiates or makes decisions on behalf of the firm. We generally prohibit supervised persons with such interests from negotiating or making decisions regarding the firm's business with those companies,

d. No Transactions with Clients. Supervised persons are not permitted to knowingly sell to or purchase from a client any security or other property, except securities issued by the client.

C. Insider Trading. Our Firm strictly prohibits supervised persons from trading, either personally or on behalf of others, while in possession of material, nonpublic information. Further, we prohibit personnel from communicating material nonpublic information to others in violation of the law.

1. Penalties. Although access persons are most likely to come in contact with material nonpublic information, the prohibition on insider trading and potential sanctions apply to all employees, officers, and directors. Any violation of our prohibition on Insider Trading will result in dismissal from our firm in addition to application federal and state penalties.

2. Material Nonpublic Information. We note the SEC's position that the term "material nonpublic information" relates not only to issuers but also to the adviser's securities recommendations and client securities holdings and transactions.

D. Personal Securities Transactions.

Mr. Jorgensen is an active investor. Over the years, our clients have indicated that they like that Mr. Jorgensen is an active investor holding positions in any number of the securities that our Firm buys for clients. In order to avoid actual or apparent conflict of interest, we have adopted the following ethics rules which require generally that orders for clients in a security be executed either before orders for Mr. Jorgensen in the same security, or as part of a block trade.

All other employees are required to notify the Firm of any proposed trade, including a mutual fund or ETF, prior the entry thereof so that Mr. Jorgensen, as chief compliance officer of the Firm, can confirm that the proposed trade does not involve conflicts or irregularities.

Personal Trading of Mr. Jorgensen.

As of the date of this Code, our sole employee participating in the management of our client accounts is our Founder, sole Director and Officer, Mr. Edvard Jorgensen.

We are proud to inform clients that Mr. Jorgensen is an active investor, and that his investments include many securities that we also recommend to, and purchase for, clients. Over the years, our clients have told us that they take assurance from Mr. Jorgensen's investing "side by side" with them. We also inform clients that because of personal financial circumstances – such as taxes, cash needs, funds available for investment or reinvestment, estate planning, etc. -- we may take different actions regarding different securities in client or Mr. Jorgensen's account. Also, Mr. Jorgensen may hold some but not all securities held in client accounts, and may hold them in different percentages than clients. This is in keeping with our business of managing each client account individually, taking into account the needs and circumstances of the client. With that in mind, the following rules apply to Mr. Jorgensen's investment account and any account of his family or where he is a trustee but is not managed by our Firm:

a. For market orders, Mr. Jorgensen's order shall be placed after all client market orders entered that day have been executed, or as part of a block trade.

b. For limit orders, Mr. Jorgensen's order shall be placed either (1) at a price that ensures that all client limit orders will be filled first, or (2) if placed at the same limit as client limit orders, after all client limit orders have been transmitted so that all client limit orders have "first in time" priority.

Other Provisions. Initial Public Offerings - Prohibition. We prohibit investment personnel from acquiring any securities in an initial public offering, in order to preclude any possibility of their profiting improperly from their positions with an adviser. Limited or Private Offerings - We further prohibit any acquisition of securities by access persons in a limited offering (e.g., private placement).

E. Gifts and Entertainment.

1. General Statement. A conflict of interest occurs when the personal interests of employees interfere or could potentially interfere with their responsibilities to the firm and its clients. The overriding principle is that supervised persons should not accept inappropriate gifts, favors, entertainment, special accommodations, or other things of material value that could influence their decision-making or make them feel beholden to a person or firm.

2. Gifts. No supervised person may receive any gift, service, or other thing of more than de minimis value from any person or entity that does business as a vendor with or the adviser. Our Clients are often personal friends of our Firm and of Mr. Jorgensen, and all clients should understand that Mr. Jorgensen, his Family and our Firm may exchange gifts, including Holiday gifts, with clients.

3. Entertainment. No supervised person may provide or accept extravagant or excessive entertainment from vendor that does or seeks to do business with or on behalf of the adviser. Supervised persons may provide or accept a business entertainment event, such as dinner or a sporting event, of reasonable value, if the person or entity providing the entertainment is present.

F. Political and Charitable Contributions. Our Firm prohibits employees from making political contributions for the purpose of obtaining or retaining advisory contracts with government entities. In addition, we prohibit our supervised persons from considering the adviser's current or anticipated business relationships as a factor in soliciting political or charitable donations.

G. Confidentiality. We start with the basic fiduciary premise that information concerning the identity of security holdings and financial circumstances of clients is confidential.

1. Firm Duties. Our Firm, and each of our employees, must not disclose or share and personal non-public information regarding any client to any third party, unless we have been directed by the Client to disclose such information. Clients normally will direct us to disclose personal non-public information to the Client's custodian broker in the course of administering the client's account; to the Client's accountant or tax preparer to assist in preparing taxes; and to the client's lawyer to assist in estate planning. Except as directed by clients, our Firm must keep all information about clients (including former clients) in strict confidence, including the client's identity (unless the client consents), the client's financial circumstances, the client's security holdings, and advice furnished to the client by the firm.

2. Supervised Persons' Duties. We prohibit supervised persons from disclosing to persons outside the firm any material nonpublic information about any client, the securities investments made by the firm on behalf of a client, information about contemplated securities transactions, or information regarding the firm's trading strategies, except as required to effectuate securities transactions on behalf of a client or as directed by a client.

3. Regulation of Privacy. Supervised persons shall comply with the firm's privacy policy and with every provision of applicable law.

H. Other Outside Activities.

1. General. We discourage supervised persons from engaging in outside business or investment activities that may interfere with their duties with the firm. We note that Mr. Jorgensen, principal of the Firm, is a lawyer licensed in the State of New York. He is entitled to maintain his practice, but must do so in a way that is consistent with his fiduciary obligation of Clients of our Firm and his obligations under this Code of Ethics and application federal and state law.

2. Fiduciary Appointments. No employee of our Firm may accept a position of trustee under the trust of any client nor general partner of any partnership that is a fee-paying client of this Firm. Employees of our Firm may serve as Trustee of the trust of any family member, relative or other person, provided that such trust is not a fee-paying client of this Firm.

3. Creditors Committees. We prohibit a supervised person from serving on a creditors committee except as approved by the firm as part of the person's employment duties.

4. Disclosure. Supervised persons should disclose any personal interest that might present a conflict of interest or harm the reputation of the firm.

J. Marketing and Promotional Activities. All oral and written statements, including those made to clients, prospective clients, their representatives, or the media, must be professional, accurate, balanced, and not misleading in any way.

4. COMPLIANCE PROCEDURES

A. Personal Securities Transaction Procedures and Reporting.

1. Reporting Requirements

a. Holdings Reports. We require access persons to submit to the chief compliance officer a report of all holdings in covered/reportable securities within 10 days of becoming an access person and thereafter on a monthly basis. The holdings report must include: (i) the title and exchange ticker symbol or CUSIP number, type of security, number of shares and principal amount (if applicable) of each reportable security in which the access person has any direct or indirect beneficial ownership; (ii) the name of any broker, dealer or bank with which the access person maintains an account in which any securities are held for the access person's direct or indirect benefit; and (iii) the date the report is submitted. This requirement shall be met by filing with the Firm a copy of the brokerage statement showing the holding.

In our Firm, Mr. Jorgensen is presently the only access person or employee permitted to invest in covered securities. Accordingly, Mr. Jorgensen shall maintain, with the Firm's monthly client account records, copies of all brokerage house statements for any account containing covered securities in which he has a legal or beneficial interest.

Current information. The information supplied must be current as of a date no more than 45 days before the annual report is submitted. For new access persons, the information must be current as of a date no more than 45 days before the person became an access person.

b. Quarterly Transaction Reports. We require access persons to submit to the chief compliance officer transaction reports no later than 30 days after the end of each calendar quarter covering all transactions in covered/reportable securities during the quarter. The transaction reports must include information about each transaction involving a reportable security in which the access person had, or as a result of the transaction acquired, any direct or indirect beneficial ownership. The reports must include: (i) the date of the transaction, the title and exchange ticker symbol or CUSIP number, the interest rate and maturity date (if applicable), the number of shares and the principal amount (if applicable) of each reportable security involved; (ii) the nature of the transaction (e.g., purchase, sale); (iii) the price of the security at which the transaction was effected; (iv) the name of the broker, dealer, or bank with or through which the transaction was effected; and (v) the date the report is submitted.

This requirement shall be met by filing with the Firm a copy of the brokerage statement showing the holding and the transaction.

c. Confidentiality of Reports. We assure access persons that their transactions and holdings reports will be maintained in confidence, except to the extent necessary to implement and enforce the provisions of the code or to comply with requests for information from government agencies.

4. Duplicate Brokerage Confirmations and Statements. We require Mr. Jorgensen and other access persons to direct their brokers to provide to the chief compliance officer or other designated compliance official, on a timely basis, duplicate copies of confirmations of all personal securities transactions and copies of periodic statements for all securities accounts. As noted above, Mr. Jorgensen and other access persons may use such duplicate brokerage confirmations and account statements in lieu of submitting their quarterly transaction reports, provided that all of the required information is contained in those confirmations and statements.

5. Monitoring of Personal Securities Transactions. Our Firm will review personal securities transactions and holdings reports periodically.

6. Our Firm designates our President as responsible for reviewing and monitoring personal securities transactions and trading patterns of access persons ("Reviewer").

7. Since our President is the sole professional employed by our Firm, he must act as Reviewer for his own account and shall comply with this Code of Ethics and the rules of Personal Trading.

B. Certification of Compliance

1. Initial Certification. The firm is required to provide all supervised persons with a copy of the code. We require all supervised persons to certify in writing that they have: (a) received a copy of the code; (b) read and understand all provisions of the code; and (c) agreed to comply with the terms of the code.

2. Acknowledgement of Amendments. We will provide supervised persons with any amendments to the code and supervised persons should submit a written acknowledgement that they have received, read, and understood the amendments to the code.

3. Annual Certification. We require that all supervised persons annually certify that they have read, understood, and complied with the code of ethics.

5. RECORDKEEPING

Our Firm will maintain the following records at our principal place of business, for the period of time required by all applicable laws.

A. A copy of each code that has been in effect at any time during the past five years;

B. A record of any violation of the code and any action taken as a result of such violation for five years from the end of the fiscal year in which the violation occurred;

C. A record of all written acknowledgements of receipt of the code and amendments for each person who is currently, or within the past five years was, a supervised person;

These records must be kept for five years after the individual ceases to be a supervised person of the firm.

D. Holdings and transactions reports made pursuant to the code, including any brokerage confirmation and account statements made in lieu of these reports;

E. A list of the names of persons who are currently, or within the past five years were, access persons;

F. A record of persons responsible for reviewing access persons' reports currently or during the last five years; and

6. FORM ADV DISCLOSURE

Our Firm will include on Schedule F of Form ADV, Part 11 a description of the firm's code and will state that the firm will provide a copy of the code to any client or prospective client upon request.

7. ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT OF THE CODE

A. Training and Education. Our principal, Mr. Jorgensen, will be the chief compliance officer for our Firm, and will undertake to main current information regarding Code of Ethics requirements.

B. Annual Review. The chief compliance officer shall review at least annually the adequacy of the code and the effectiveness of its implementation.

C. Report to senior Management (All Advisers). Mr. Jorgensen shall file the annual compliance review and report in an appropriate compliance folder.

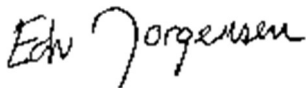

D. Reporting Violations. We require all supervised persons to report violations of the firm's code of ethics promptly to the chief compliance officer or other appropriate personnel designated in the code (provided the chief compliance officer also receives reports of all violations). Such reports will be treated confidentially to the extent permitted by law and investigated promptly and appropriately.

E. Advice of Counsel. Upon any apparent violation of this Code of Ethics, management of the Firm shall consider referral and advice of outside counsel.

F. Miscellaneous. We require supervised persons to report "apparent" or "suspected" violations in addition to actual or known violations of the code. Retaliation against an individual who reports a violation is prohibited and constitutes a further violation of the code.

G. Sanctions. We warn supervised persons that any violation of the code may result in any disciplinary action that a designated person or group (e.g., chief compliance officer, compliance committee) deems appropriate, including but not limited to a warning, fines, disgorgement, suspension, demotion, or termination of employment. In addition to sanctions, violations may result in referral to civil or criminal authorities where appropriate.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. Brokerage and Best Execution Policy

Selecting Your Broker

We will use whatever broker you select as custodian of your account and for executions of transactions in your account. We currently recommend one broker in particular, Charles Schwab & Co. Inc. We also recommend the mutual funds available at the Vanguard Company, if you ask for a mutual fund account recommendation separate from a brokerage house. In the past we have recommended other brokers, and we may recommend a different broker in the future. In our recommendations of brokers and our determination of the reasonableness of their commissions, we look for the lowest possible commission cost and best execution while taking into account the following additional factors:

- (i) Size, nationwide scope and account insurance offered by the broker;
- (ii) Provision of an effective Internet Web-based trading platform for order entry.
- (iii) Convenient local office locations;
- (iv) Clear and accurate brokerage house statements and service for clients;
- (v) Facility to provide a selection of tax-free, government and corporate bonds for income.

When you select a broker for custodian, that is, when you open an account at a broker, we will be using that broker for execution of trades. Other brokers may offer to execute trades at a lower commission cost. The selection of broker should be based on a review of all the factors noted above, for a combination of service, cost, reliability and safety.

We do not guarantee the financial security of a broker or custodian, including any broker we recommend. You must rely only on the broker, its financial condition, and any insurance protection for the security of your funds and securities held in the account.

Although we will use whatever broker you select, we currently recommend to you that you maintain your account at Charles Schwab & Co., which we believe offers a good combination of service, cost, reliability and safety. Presently, all the accounts over which we have trading authority are maintained by our clients at Charles Schwab & Co.

We are registered with the Institutional division of Charles Schwab & Co. As part of that relationship, our firm and your account at Charles Schwab & Co. receive the following services not available to accounts in the retail division:

- we are provided with a service department which services administrative matters regarding accounts.
- we are provided with an Internet Web-based trading platform for order entry.
- we receive a nightly electronic download of account information regarding transactions and positions of client accounts.
- we receive information regarding investment adviser regulatory compliance and practice management.

We believe that these services, which facilitate our management of your account, are of value to us and are of value to your account.

We have retained Morningstar Inc., a large national investment data and services provider, to maintain an accounting system of our accounts and a system that provides us with a wide range of investment reports regarding your account. This is in addition to a parallel accounting system that is a custom system we maintain in our office. For any client account not maintained at Charles Schwab & Co., we will incur an additional charge from Morningstar Inc. to obtain and process that brokerage data into the accounting system they maintain for us. For a prospective client who wishes to use a broker other than Charles Schwab & Co., we will obtain a quotation from Morningstar for their additional fee to process that brokerage account and that fee will be charged to our client in addition to the investment advisory fee set forth in our schedule of Fees and Compensation.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Privacy Pledge and Corporate Privacy Policy

Client Privacy Promise. Seahorse Financial Advisers respects your privacy and we will not share your personal non-public information that we may collect with any other person unless you so direct us.

Information We Collect. Seahorse Financial Advisers collects non-public personal information such as your name, age, address, marital status, social security number and employments, wealth, income, expenditures, investment and tax information. You have provided this information to us to assist us in formulating financial objectives and managing your financial affairs.

Basic Pledge: We will not share your personal non-public information that we may collect with any other person unless you so direct us. Your personal non-public information will be given to your brokerage house, in the course of their servicing your account, and to our data manager, Morningstar Inc. Each such institution maintains its own policies and protections of your personal non-public information.

When You Ask Us to Share Your Information. If you ask us to share your non-public personal information, such as with your accountant, lawyer or estate planner, we of course will do so. But you must ask us first. You may ask us by individual requests, or by general authorization such as requests regularly to send information to your accountant.

Government Requirements. Seahorse Financial Advisers will share information when we are so required by law, such as in examinations by regulators.

Confidentiality Safeguards Seahorse Financial Advisers simply does not release your personal information except as noted above. We do not release your personal information for marketing or advertising purposes.

The Internet and Privacy. Access to your brokerage account, by you or by us, is often over the Internet. Brokerage houses strive to maintain "secure" web sites, and the security of brokerage house web sites is the responsibility of the broker. We advise that you have Internet firewall, virus, worm, and other confidentiality safeguards built in to your computer system and maintained current. Although imperfect, these protections are advisable. We recommend that you safeguard your personal information in your dealings with vendors and other advisers, and in your use of the Internet. In addition, we do not consider any unencrypted e-mail containing personal financial information as secure. We will not send forms containing your social security number, or any tax form, by unencrypted e-mail, and we ask that you do the same. If you suspect a breach of your privacy, please advise us immediately so we may take steps to minimize the impact upon you.

Theft of Identity Monitoring. We strongly advise that you enroll in a theft of identity monitoring program with a major credit agency.

Custody of Assets and Preservation of Account records. Your investment assets are held in custody by the broker for your account. We do not take custody nor exercise any power – such as disbursement authority – which might be construed as custody. Further, your broker maintains your original account records. Our records are duplicates of the broker's records and the records the broker sends to you. Thus, your assets and records relating to them are always maintained separately from our office locations.

Federal and State Laws. Our privacy policy will be updated periodically to conform to applicable Federal and State laws, and all such laws apply to our privacy policy and are automatically incorporated in to it.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Corporate Notice to Employees

Insider Trading Review and Audit Confidentiality of Client Information Confidentiality of Company Information

General Statement. Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. (the “Company”) is a fiduciary to our clients and their families, and is a regulated investment adviser in multiple jurisdictions. All employees must at all times observe Company policies regarding ethics, privacy, confidentiality and insider trading or their employment will be terminated.

Confidentiality of Information. All information and records concerning our clients, our business, the families of our employees, and any family, personal, trust, partnership or other accounts or related party accounts of our corporate officers shall be retained on our premises and shall never be removed from our premises, or copied in any fashion except as authorized by the administrator of our ethics and investment adviser compliance programs, which is Mr. Jorgensen, President of the Company. The only exception is that each employee may of course keep the original of their own investment and personal records at their own personal location of their choosing, but must provide a copy to the Company to assist our compliance with our ethics and insider trading compliance programs.

Certain Non-Client Accounts and Persons Covered. The Company maintains the records and accounts of certain family trusts, partnerships, or other entities of Mr. Jorgensen or which Mr. Jorgensen manages or serves as a trustee, and the families interested in such records and accounts, even though such accounts and persons may not be paying clients of the Company. All such records and accounts are subject to the insider trading compliance program of the Company and are subject to the ethics, privacy, confidentiality and fiduciary obligations of the Company and our employees, and are explicitly covered by this Notice and the policies set forth herein.

Company Information. The business records and information of the Company are also fully covered and subject to the provisions of this Notice and the obligations of confidentiality set forth herein.

Company Electronics. The Company may from time to time provide electronic equipment and services to employees (the “Electronics”). These electronic equipment and services may include computers, cell phones, email accounts (which may be under the Company server or outside servers such as AT&T-Global, Microsoft Hotmail, Google, Yahoo or other servers), dictation and transcription machines and recording and video equipment, and any other electronic equipment or services available from time to time. The Electronics are by their nature portable and usable outside the premises of the Company. Our ethics, confidentiality, privacy and insider trading policies shall apply to all such Electronics. All Electronics are subject to inspection, review, audit and monitoring by the Company at the Company's discretion, with or without notice to an employee. All such Electronics may be recalled by the Company at any time and for any reason, and shall be immediately surrendered to the Company, and no copies of any records contained on or in such Electronics may be retained by any employee after recall by the Company. No employee shall have any right or expectation of privacy in any Electronics. Our fiduciary obligations to our Clients and other persons whose information we collect and maintain, and our regulatory obligations and liabilities take precedence and fully void any such expectation of privacy. Employees should keep their personal information on electronics and electronic services of their own choosing and separate from any Company Electronics. In the event the Company or any regulatory agency has reason to believe that an employee has breached the ethics, privacy, confidentiality, insider trading or other such policies of the Company, such employee shall immediately, in accordance with applicable law, make such employee's personal electronics and records available for inspection by the Company, its legal advisers, or regulators.

Communications at our Locations. All communications to which any employee is a party and which are conducted at one of our locations, whether in Millbrook NY or Remsenburg NY or any temporary location, and whether by telephone, letter, email, texting or any other manner ("Communications") are subject to monitoring, recording, copying and archiving by the Company to ensure compliance with our fiduciary obligations as an investment adviser. Each employee as a condition of continuing employment agrees and consents to all such monitoring, recording, copying or archiving of any Communications to which such employee is a party, and no employee shall have any expectation or right of privacy in and to any such Communications. Employees desiring privacy in their personal communications should make such communications away from our locations.

Federal and State Laws. This Notice and the policies described herein are intended to, and shall be interpreted so as to, comply with applicable Federal and State Laws and the laws of any other body, domestic or international, having jurisdiction of the subject matter hereof.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc.
Corporate Proxy Policy
Corporate Voting as a Shareholder

If you own stock in your account, you will receive corporate proxy solicitations for voting on corporate matters, such as election of Directors and shareholder votes on certain matters of corporate policy.

Voting on corporate matters is your right as a shareholder, and your choice.

As investment adviser, we limit our activity as holder of a trading authorization in your account to buying and selling securities. We do not vote your shares, so we encourage you to read the proxy solicitation materials you receive and exercise your rights as a shareholder. We are always happy to discuss any question you may have about any particular proxy solicitation, but voting your shares will remain your right alone.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Business Continuity Plan

Security of Client Brokerage Accounts Regional Disasters and Client Account Records Policy Advisory Service and Market Risk during local Disasters Advisory Service in Disasters & Continuity of Business and Advice

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. maintains a Business Continuity Plan to ensure that our clients and their investment portfolios are serviced in the event of natural disasters and other disruptions of our business.

Security of Client Brokerage Accounts. We do not take custody of any of your investment assets, that is, of your stocks and bonds. Your investments are held by the Broker-Custodian of your brokerage account. We hold only a trading authorization to buy and sell in that account. Accordingly, the custody of your assets is not affected by natural disasters or other interruptions of the business continuity of Seahorse Advisers. Your broker-custodian will have its own plan to preserve the physical custody of your assets, including the book entry record of your positions, and you may consult with the broker-custodian for information regarding that plan.

Regional Disasters and Client Account Records Policy. Seahorse Advisers retains a national data records firm, Morningstar Inc., to keep a copy of every transaction in your brokerage account. Morningstar also provides a reporting program from which we print your quarterly reports, and calculates statistical reports such as the income generated by your portfolio and your portfolio's performance. The original record of every transaction in your brokerage account is kept by the broker-custodian. In addition, you receive from the broker-custodian their monthly report of the holdings in your account and the transactions in your account during the past month.

Morningstar retains its copy of the records of your account at its national data centers. Likewise, your broker-custodian retains its copy of the records of your account at its national data centers. All such data centers are separate from our offices and would not be affected by natural disasters or other disruptions unique to our business offices. Both Morningstar and your broker-custodian will have their own policies to ensure that copies of your records survive regional disasters, and you may consult with these firms regarding these policies. You may also wish to keep your copy of the monthly statements and confirmations sent to you by your broker-custodian.

Advisory Service and Market Risk during Local Disasters. Disasters and other disruptions local to our business offices may prevent us from placing trades or otherwise managing your account from our office. Since we maintain off-site computers able to log in and manage your account, we can promptly move to an unaffected location and resume managing your account. In that event, the long-term holdings in your account will remain in your account until we resume service at one of our other locations. We do not invest in options, futures or highly margined positions where the passage of time will inherently change, and particular diminish, the market value of the investment, but all market-traded securities fluctuate in price during trading hours, and all accounts will be subject to market and individual event risk until our trading supervision resumes.

Personal Incapacity of Mr. Jorgensen; Continuity of Business and Advice. Seahorse Advisers is the personal investment practice of Mr. Jorgensen. We have employees able to manage our office and communicate with your broker-custodian, but the selection of investments in your portfolios reflects the unique individual judgment and philosophy of Mr. Jorgensen, and is his personal advice and service to you. In the event of Mr. Jorgensen's death or incapacity, that personal advice would no longer be possible. In such an event, our office, by our legal counsel, will notify you, and will recommend that you retain new investment counsel or manage your investments yourself. The portfolio Mr. Jorgensen selects for you will likely contain individual stocks, real estate trusts, publicly traded limited partnerships and exchange traded funds whose management requires specialized knowledge and research. In the event you elect to manage your investments yourself, we recommend that you liquidate the individual positions selected by Mr. Jorgensen and instead invest in widely held and well-known funds such as the Vanguard S&P 500 fund or other well-known broad market funds available to you. The custodian broker, Charles Schwab & Co., offers investment management services and support described on their website www.Schwab.com under the tab, "Investment Help." If you elect to retain a new investment adviser, that adviser will manage the portfolio. Complete tax basis (purchase price cost) records are now maintained at your broker-custodian.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc.

Our Recommendations: Identity Theft and Cyber-Security

These are our latest recommendations to protect your identity and your investment accounts from the proliferating threats of identity theft and account hacking. In addition to safe practices in your internet use (an internet security program such as Norton, do not respond to Phishing, never e-mail your account or social security numbers), we recommend:

1. Secure Password. A secure log-on to your brokerage account is your most important line of defense.

We, and your brokers, all recommend that:

- Your password to your investment account be complex (letters, numbers and symbols)
- Your password to your investment account be unique (not used for other sites, like internet shopping)
- You change your password at least twice a year, if only by one character.

2. Secure log-on device.

Charles Schwab offers top-of-the-line security through a mechanical log-on device, a fob which is picture here on my NYC laptop. You attach this fob to your computer and it generates a unique password known only to you and Schwab for each log-on. We use and recommend a fob.

3. Two-Step log-Ons

Some brokers offer "two step" log-ons where in addition to entering your password you receive by cell phone a code from the broker to complete log on. We recommend this.

4. Verbal Password for telephone requests to the Broker

Charles Schwab also offers a "Verbal Password" which you set up with Schwab and is known only to you, to assist Schwab in identifying you when you call Schwab for account service, such as move money requests. This is in lieu of questions from your background, such as "your mother's maiden name." We recommend this.

5. Identity Monitoring Service

We recommend an identity monitoring service that notifies you if a financial account is opened in your name or your information at credit agencies is changed. We use Lifelock.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc.

Our Recommendations: Identity Theft and Cyber-Security

Identity Theft Credit Rebate Included in your Bill

We strongly advise clients to purchase identity theft protection.

In our billing to you, we have credited you with up to $500, which we hope you will use to purchase Identity Theft Protection.

We have reduced the fee applicable to the first $1,500,000 of your accounts from 1% to .95% annually, or $750.

This credit to your fee is automatic, and you do not need to confirm to us that you have purchased Identity Theft Protection.

But we hope you will!

Identity Theft Protection services are available from:

Lifelock (www.lifelock.com)
and may be available through your bank or other vendors.

We also recommend that you use a two-step log on to your account or a password mechanical fob available through your broker and make your account password unique to the broker's website and complex per internet standards and recommendations.

Thank you for your many years as a Client of our Firm.

Seahorse Financial Advisers

Social Media Policy

Seahorse Financial Advisers may maintain a program of client communication using social media to complement the in-person consultations we have from time to time with our clients.

This social media communication may include a series of short videos prepared by us and posted to a YouTube or similar internet video platform and/or posted to a Facebook or similar internet business information platform.

We request that Clients kindly consider the following when reviewing our social media postings:

1. Postings reflect our thoughts on the date of the posting. Events in financial markets and the economic and political landscape surrounding financial markets constantly changes, with new news and events every day. Therefore, our postings may become out of date. Our opinions and perspective may change. This is no different from discussions we might have in person.
2. We are one investment adviser in an industry encompassing trillions of dollars of investments and numerous advisers. Other participants in the investment industry will of course have a variety of viewpoints, often different from ours.
3. Posting of public videos and other public appearances by commentators can give an aura of authority to the opinions expressed, including ours in our videos and appearances. Kindly understand that our public opinions, thoughts, perspectives and forecasts are simply our views. Others may, and many will, differ. Appearing in public forums does not make an adviser a genius!
4. From time to time we may discuss past markets and the past performance of investments. Kindly recall the admonition that no discussion of past markets or past performance is any guarantee of future performance of any market or investment. We would go further: the future is unknowable. As investors, we simply do our best to create investment portfolios to cope with that unknowable future.
5. We plan to avoid mention of specific securities that may currently be in our portfolios. Our videos may be viewable by the general public and it is our policy to keep our current holdings private. Of course, we look forward to talking with you personally about individual holdings.

Seahorse Financial Advisers

Office Cyber-Security Policies

Seahorse Financial Advisers maintains cyber-security policies in our office designed to mitigate the risk of cyber-criminal disruption of our business and theft of client or firm information.

These Cyber-Security Policies are maintained and communicated to our staff by a series of Posters at our office.

Copies of our Posters follow:

- E-mail Precautions to Avoid Viruses
- Ransom-Ware Policy
- Prevent Client Impersonation Fraud
- Internet Security: Client Communications

Seahorse Financial Advisers also maintains a video surveillance camera security system with surveillance storage. A copy of our warning notice posted at our premises follows:

Retirement Plan Roll-Overs

When you reach retirement age, or leave an employer, you may be presented with a decision regarding management of an existing employer retirement plan, such as a 401k.

We may have been providing advice regarding your existing retirement plan, such as allocation among investment options offered by your employer.

Upon retirement or job change, you may be presented with options to leave your retirement assets in the existing plan or roll them over to a special IRA account.

When you consider your options, you may wish to take into account that:

- Your employer may offer options, such as an annuity, that are not available in a roll-over IRA or are available at a different and perhaps higher cost. An annuity is a payments-for-life contract, like social security. We do not sell annuities (indeed we do not sell any investment product). In a roll-over IRA, we will recommend individual investments that become part of your estate plan. There are advantages and disadvantages to annuities, and we recommend that you familiarize yourself with this possible option under an employer retirement plan.
- Your employer may offer a particular selection of investment funds, and the selection available in a roll-over IRA may be different and costs may be higher or lower.

- Our fee would be an additional cost, and the combination of our fee and the cost of any purchases, including for example exchange traded funds, may be higher or lower than the costs of investment funds available at your employer's plan.
- We will be able to consolidate your roll-over account on the investment reports you receive from us. Whether we can import and consolidate the investment funds available at your employer is uncertain, and will depend, among other things, upon your employer's choice of custodian.
- The future performance of investment options available through your employer will be different from the future performance of investments we recommend and may be higher or lower.
- Please always consult with your tax advisor about the tax implications of retirement planning and roll-overs.

We are always happy to assist you with your retirement plan, whether it is maintained at your employer or rolled over to an IRA. We hope you will review all your options and the attendant costs and consult with your employer's human resources or benefits counselor.

Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. Investment Counseling Contract Standard Terms and Conditions

These Investment Counseling Contract Standard Terms (sometimes called this "Contract") set out the terms and conditions on which we will render our investment counseling service. By paying our periodic statement for fees, you retain our services for the period designated in our statement and agree to the terms and conditions set forth in this Contract. Accordingly, our investment counseling service to you is governed by (1) the Application and any Updating Form you submitted to us, (2) these Standard Terms, and (3) the statement of Billing Rates submitted with your first application and then updated and attached to any future Fee Statement we render to you.

1. The Investment Counseling Services Included.

We will render the following investment counseling services during the term for which we are retained by you our Client:

- (a) Continuing Investment Counseling. We will provide on a continuing basis our recommendations, advice, and counseling for the general management of your portfolio investments. Our advice will include a general investment strategy and the selection of individual investments as we believe appropriate, all based upon your personal circumstances.
- (b) Discretionary Account Management. Upon your request, we will take a limited power of attorney, also known as a trading authorization, permitting us to enter trades in
- (c) Individual Investments Selected. Our investment counseling services may be rendered with respect to individual stocks, bonds, partnerships, real estate trusts, mutual funds and exchange traded funds or any other publicly traded security that is available for purchase through your designated brokerage account.
- (d) Portfolio Statements. You will receive regular monthly account statements from the brokerage house which is the custodian of each of your accounts, which contain the original record of holdings in your name. The brokerage house custodian will be responsible for preparing tax reporting for your account. We will prepare and send to you quarterly reviews of your holdings at the brokerage house custodian.

2. Period of Service and Fee.

(a) Our Continuing Investment Counseling service is rendered for six-month periods, running from January through June, and July through December. The initial period for which we are retained may be some portion of the half year in progress. The annual rate is 1.45% of assets under management unless we agree with you for a lower rate for the applicable billing period. In the case of a living or testamentary trust, our fee may be a fixed periodic fee or hourly charge agreed upon between us and the Trustees, taking into account that the Trustees may be charging trustee commissions or fees to the Trust by negotiated agreement or in accordance with applicable local law.

(b) The billing rate that applies to your account will be stated in your renewal bill. We expect that because of inflation we will change our billing rate schedule from time to time, and you should examine the billing rate schedule attached to your Fee Statement. If our billing rate schedule is a sliding scale of rates based on account size, the final aggregate rate you pay will be an effective rate reflecting your account sizes and our sliding rate schedule. There may be other fees charged by your custodian broker or securities in your account, including without limitation commissions, exchange fees, mutual fund / ETF / ADR fees, margin interest charges, and processing fees. Any and all such other fees are borne by your account and are not included in our investment counseling fee we charge you.

(c) When you first retain us, we will send you a statement of fees for the balance of the six-month period then in progress. Paying our statement will retain us for the period noted in the statement.

(c) Right to Terminate within 5 days. As required by Federal Law, you have the right to terminate this Contract without penalty within five (5) business days of entering into this Contract.

(d) Shortly after commencement of each subsequent six-month period, we will send you a statement of fees for that period. You may pay your fee on one of several ways:

(i) If you wish to charge your fee automatically to your account, we will, where available from the broker, arrange for the appropriate fee payment authorization to be filed by you with the broker at the time your account is set up. In this case, we will send to you our fee statement at the time of billing. We will then wait 14 days from the time of mailing our statement of fees. If you do not contact us regarding that fee statement, we will send notification to the custodian broker in the manner it designates and request that our fee be deducted directly from the account in accordance with your fee payment authorization.

(ii) If you wish, you may pay our statement of fees by check rather than by debit to your account.

(e) Your investment advisory relationship with us, and this Investment Counseling Contract, renews every six months. Shortly after the close of each six-month calendar period, we will report to you your results for the period just ended and submit to you a Fee Statement proposing a fee for renewing our service for the six-month period just begun. You continue our service by paying our Fee Statement. The provisions of this Investment Counseling Contract Standard Terms may be revised from time to time, and the provisions currently in effect, which are the provisions that will apply to your account at each renewal of our services, and our current fee schedule applicable to your account, and our latest government regulatory information forms, will all be posted at our website at www.seahorseadvisers.com. At your request, we will be pleased to send you printed copies by regular mail or e-mail. When you renew our service by paying our submitted Fee Statement, the currently posted Investment Counseling Contract Standard Terms, fee schedule, and government disclosures, will automatically apply to your account. If you do not wish to continue our service, inform us when you receive our Fee Statement, and we will cancel any open orders to buy or sell securities in your account, and cancel the Fee Statement. We will cease managing your account, terminate our trading authority at your broker, and you will thenceforth be responsible for all management of your accounts. Your custodian broker will have all information regarding the historical record of your account, including tax information. As the account holder, you always have the continuing right and ability to invest in your account even during the term of our service, and that right – and responsibility – will continue after our service ends.

(f) In addition, either you or we may terminate our investment counseling service at any time, such termination being effective when written notice is received by the other party. Upon any termination, you will receive a pro-rata refund of any balance of your fee. After we receive your notice that you wish to terminate our investment counseling relationship, we will cancel any open orders we have placed to buy or sell securities in your account, and you will immediately be responsible for management of your accounts. Accordingly, you must be prepared to provide management of your accounts immediately and make whatever investment judgments you wish.

3. Investment Results Are Not Guaranteed.

(a) We will recommend an investment strategy and individual investments, and we will manage any discretionary account over which we have authority, as we believe advisable. But we cannot, and do not, guarantee that any investment will be profitable or maintain its cost of purchase.

(b) In the course of recommending an investment strategy, we may include projections of your financial situation and investment alternatives. These projections are estimates based on assumptions. They may be right or wrong and in any case are not guarantees.

4. Discretionary Accounts.

(a) Designating an Account. You designate an account for investment management by signing the limited power of attorney or trading authorization form ("Trading Authorization") supplied by the bank or brokerage house which has custody of your funds and investments. Once the Trading Authorization has been signed, delivered to the custodian, and is in effect, our discretionary authority commences. The Trading Authorization will name as the agent authorized to trade in your account either Mr. Edvard Jorgensen personally or our company by any of its officers. Whether Mr. Jorgensen or our company is the named agent, this Contract shall apply to such discretionary account and trading therein.

(b) Our Contract Continues. Nothing in the Trading Authorization shall change, as between you and us, any of the terms and conditions of our investment counseling service to you as set forth in this Contract.

(c) We Will Act in Our Discretion. Under the Trading Authorization we will manage the funds and investments in the designated account at our discretion, placing orders to buy and sell directly with the custodian. Customarily, you will receive confirmations of our orders and regular account statements sent by the custodian, but you should not expect prior advice from us of the actions we take. We will of course discuss with you such matters as we feel we should bring to your attention, and you may call us with your questions. Investments in your account will be reported in the quarterly Portfolio Statements we send you as provided in this Contract.

(d) Kinds of Securities Which We May Buy or Sell. We are authorized to buy or sell on a discretionary basis in any kind of security which may be traded through your brokerage account.

(e) Terminating the Trading Authorization. Please note that you may terminate the Trading Authorization only by notifying the brokerage house in the manner set forth in the Trading Authorization. As between you and us, you continue our authority to manage the account in our discretion until our authority is terminated in the manner set out in Section 2 of this Contract.

(f) Existing Positions; Trading by You. If any of your accounts holds an investment position purchased before you retained us as investment counselors with regard to that account, we will manage those existing positions as we deem advisable. If you wish to purchase an investment on your own initiative, please do so in a separate account not managed by us.

(g) Brokerage Commissions. Please be advised that commissions charged by brokers vary and that lower commissions may be available at other brokers. We will use the broker you select. If you would like our assistance seeking a different broker, please advise us.

5. Investments by Our Company and Employees. Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc., its officers and employees, and their families, may from time to time buy, hold or sell (in their name, as trustee, or in other capacities) securities which are recommended by us to you. All of such holdings and transactions will remain private and confidential.

6. Your Lawyer and Accountant. We render investment counseling services only. Accordingly, any aspect of our services which involves estate matters, would require the preparation of legal documents, or would otherwise entail legal advice should be referred to your lawyer. Similarly, our discussion of the tax consequences of certain investments should be reviewed by your accountant prior to implementation. If you request, we will be glad to consult with your lawyer or accountant regarding our recommendations and advice.

7. Cash Management in Accounts; No Custody of Funds. (a) All cash transfers and delivery of securities in to and out of your accounts are the responsibility of you and the custodian or brokerage house holding your account. At your request, we will assist you in meeting the requirements of the custodian regarding such transfers, but we will not, because of regulatory and insurance requirements, initiate or control such transfers.

(b) If you use cash management features of an investment account covered by this Contract, such as checking or charge card features, or trade in such account, or withdraw cash from such account, you are fully responsible to assure that cash balances in the account cover all pending settlements, including of trades made by us, and to keep us fully informed of all your transactions.

(c) In no case will we accept custody of any of your funds or securities, nor will we accept or exercise any authority over any of your funds or investments which might cause us to be deemed in custody under any applicable law or regulation. If you should desire, we will assist you in arranging for custody of funds and securities. The choice of custodian is entirely in your discretion. Accordingly, we are not responsible for, and do not guarantee, the custodian, its acts or omissions.

8. Accounts Covered by This Contract. (a) In the case of an individual client who retains us, the Client under this Contract is you and any minor custodial children you may designate. This Contract applies to all investment counseling services you request of us, whether rendered you or such other family member (1) individually, (2) as beneficiary of an IRA established by you, (3) as beneficiary of a self-directed retirement plan account or other similar account where you exercise some investment discretion, (4) as trustee of a revocable inter-vivos trust of which you are the grantor and beneficiary, (5) in any other capacity in which you exercise investment discretion on behalf, beneficially, of yourself, or, (6) custodian or guardian of your minor dependents.

(b) In the case of a Testamentary Trust, this contract covers only accounts registered in the name of the Trust.

(c) As regards all such accounts and relationships, you warrant and represent to us that you have full legal authority to retain us and to grant us any discretion under paragraph 4 above, and that your retainer of us under this Contract, and the terms of this Contract, are fully binding on all other persons legally or beneficially interested in all such accounts. If any of your warranties or representations made above is untrue, and any such person legally or beneficially interested in such accounts, or their estates, successors or assigns, asserts any claim against us, you agree to hold us harmless and indemnify us against such claims in full and to pay our expenses in defending such claims.

9. Privacy. We will not discuss your personal information with any other party except: (i) the broker custodian of your accounts; (ii) any professional, such as accountant or lawyer, with whom you ask us to communicate. At your request, we will send your tax information directly to an accountant you nominate.

10. Other Contract Terms. This Contract constitutes our investment advisory contract with you and is governed and interpreted in accordance with applicable Federal Law and the Laws of the State of New York; and in any other state where a client may be resident, is subject to applicable law of that state. This Contract contains all the terms and conditions of our contract; it is not, and may not be, modified or supplemented by discussion, advertising literature or otherwise, but may be modified or supplemented only by a subsequent agreement in writing, signed by you and us, and described as an amendment to this Contract. This Contract, and each of its provisions, benefits and obligations, may not be assigned by you or by us without the prior written consent of the other to such assignment.

Thank you for retaining Seahorse Financial Advisers Inc. for management of your accounts.

Billing Rates

Our stated Standard Contract Rate is 1.45% annually of assets under management.

In our discretion, and after consultation and agreement with you our client, we may offer a lower Billing Rate depending on, among other things, the length of our client relationship and the number and size of accounts for which our investment advisory service is requested. That lower Billing Rate schedule, which we call our Billing Rate for Long Term Clients, as presently in effect, is set forth below.

The Billing Rate for Long Term Clients is a fee is calculated by Tiers.
The Total Fee is the Sum of all Applicable Tiers. Presently, that schedule of tiers is as follows:

Fee Tier	From	To	Annual Billing Percentage
(1)	$ 0	$ 1,500,000	.95%
(2)	$ 1,500,000	$ 7,500,000	.45%
(3)	$ 7,500,000	$ 15,000,000	.40%
(4)	$ 15,000,000	$ 20,000,000	.35%
(5)	$ 20,000,000	$ (above)	.15%

We expect that those tiers will, in the future, be adjusted frequently to account for inflation. The currently effective Billing Rate schedule for Long Term Clients will be posted from time to time at our website at www.seahorseadvisers.com and will be attached to Fee Statements submitted to clients from time to time.

We will calculate and propose to you a fee applicable to our investment counseling service to you in our Fee Statements rendered at the beginning of our service and then from time to time at six-month billing periods. That Fee Statement will also show the “effective rate” for your fee, which is the sum of your billing tiers divided by the total accounts under our management. The effective rate will vary depending on the total size of your accounts. The larger the total size of your accounts over the first tier, the lower will be the calculated effective rate.

Fees are subject to credits and charges in individual circumstances.

Fees are billed in advance as a retainer for the commenced Half Year in progress and are pro-rata refundable if unused.

Since our retainer is for a six-month period commenced and in progress, the retainer period will always be a period less than six months.

Billing Months are January and July.

The January Bill covers the period January 1 to June 30.

The July Bill covers the period July 1 to December 31.

Bills will be prorated for service for a partial period.

Unless you elect to pay by check, bills will be submitted to your Broker for debit to your account 14 days after sent to you unless you advise us that you do not wish to renew.

Thank you for your many years as a Client of our Firm.
