Item 4. Advisory Business

Renaissance Venture Capital Management, Inc. ("RVCM") is a Delaware corporation, formed on October 22, 2018. As of February 1, 2023, RVCM provides general advisory and management services to Renaissance Venture Capital Fund I, LP ("RVCF I"), Renaissance Venture Capital Fund II, LP ("RVCF II"), Renaissance Venture Capital Fund III, LP ("RVCF III"), Renaissance Venture Capital Fund IV, LP ("RVCF IV"), and Renaissance Venture Capital Fund V, LP ("RVCF V"). RVCF I, RVCF II, RVCF III, RVCF IV and RVCF V are collectively referred to as the "Funds" and each individually is referred to as a "Fund".) The Funds are our clients, and we refer to the limited partners in the Funds as investors.

RVCM is an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). The owners of RVCM consist of Christopher L. Rizik, Jeffrey Rinvelt and Kimberly Reno. We only provide advisory services to the Funds. We do not provide investment advice to the investors in the Funds, or any other individual investor.

Renaissance Venture Partners GP, LLC ("RVP GP") was formed February 21, 2008. RVP GP acts as the general partner to RVCF I and RVCF II. These Funds invest in private venture capital funds (the "Portfolio Funds"), direct private venture capital equity investments and public securities. RVCF I and RVCF II are closed and deploying a minimal amount of capital. RVCM acts as the investment adviser to these Funds.

Renaissance Venture Capital Fund III GP, LLC ("RVP GP III") was formed July 1, 2016. RVP GP III acts as the general partner to RVCF III. RVCF III invests in private venture capital funds. RVCF III is closed and still deploying capital. RVCM acts as the investment adviser to these Funds.

Renaissance Venture Capital Fund IV GP, LLC ("RVP GP IV") was formed September 4, 2019. RVP GP IV acts as the general partner to RVCF IV. RVCF IV invests in private venture capital funds. RVCF IV is closed and deploying capital. RVCM acts as the investment adviser to these Funds.

Renaissance Venture Capital Fund V GP, LLC ("RVP GP V") was formed July 12, 2023. RVP GP V acts as the general partner to RVCF V. RVCF V invests in private venture capital funds. RVCF V is open and is in the early stages of deploying capital. RVCM acts as the investment adviser to these Funds.

RVCM provides advisory services to the Funds consist of (i) investigating, identifying and evaluating investment opportunities; (ii) structuring, negotiating and making investments on behalf of the Funds; (iii) managing and monitoring the performance of such investments; and (d) exiting such investments on behalf of the Funds. RVCM advisory services to each Fund are subject to the specific investment objectives and restrictions applicable to such Fund, as set forth in such Fund's limited partnership agreement, confidential private placement memorandum and other governing documents (collectively, the "Governing Documents"). Investors and prospective investors should refer to the relevant Governing Documents for information on the investment objectives and investment restrictions with respect to that Fund. There can be no assurance that any of the Funds' investment objectives will be achieved. RVCM does not tailor advisory services to the needs of any particular investor in any of the Funds.

As of September 30, 2023, RVCM managed $326,397,027, all of which were managed on a discretionary basis. As of September 30, 2023, RVCM did not manage any assets on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

The Funds are generally obligated to reimburse all partnership expenses and a portion of all Management Expenses incurred by RVCN, as disclosed in the Governing Documents. During the active investment period, the Funds annual reimbursement of Management Expenses is limited to no more than 0.9% - 1.2% of the aggregate capital commitments of the Fund, and is reduced to 0.75% after the Fund's active investment period has ended. The fee percentage varies with the size of the Fund and also varies over the life of the Fund, as negotiated and set forth in its Governing Documents.

The Funds' generally allocate Management Expenses pro rata based on each Fund's management expense cap at the end of the quarter in which the expenses incurred. See example below for the calculation of Q3 2023 Management Expenses allocated to each Fund.

As of 9/30/2023	RVCF I	RVCF II	RVCF III	RVCF IV	RVCF V	Total
Capital Commitments	$44,555,556	$78,700,000	$81,500,000	$77,500,000	$41,650,000	$323,905,556

In addition to any Management Expenses, the Funds reimburse RVCN for certain charges imposed by third parties and other expenses ("Partnership Expenses"). Such Partnership Expenses for a Fund include (but are not limited to): (i) organizational expenses, up to a limit of $250,000; (ii) insurance premiums for insurance against potential fiduciary liability and errors and omission liability of the General Partner, the RVCN, and members of the Management Advisory Committee and members of the Advisory Board; (iii) all expenses attributable to any investment or proposed investment of the Funds; (iv) reasonable travel and entertainment expenses incurred in connection with the Fund's affairs; (v) expenses incurred in connection with compliance with any law, rule, regulation, policy directive or special measure, including any legal, administrator, consulting or other third-party service provider fees, costs and expenses related thereto and any regulatory expenses of the General Partner incurred in connection with the operation of the Fund; (vi) expenses incurred in connection with the maintenance of the Funds' books and records, and the preparation and delivery of checks, financial reports, tax returns, tax estimates, tax schedules (including Schedule K-1), notices, compliance or regulatory filings or reports (including Form PF) and other information pursuant to this Agreement; (vii) expenses incurred in connection with obtaining legal, tax, and accounting advice and the advice of other consultants and experts on behalf of the Fund; (viii) expenses incurred in connection with the registration, qualification, or exemption of the Fund under any applicable U.S. federal or state laws or any applicable non- U.S. laws; (ix) out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with the collection of amounts due to the Fund from any Person; (x) expenses incurred in connection with the preparation of amendments to the limited partners agreement; (xi) any taxes (including withholding taxes) imposed on the Fund as an entity, including any taxes imposed on the Fund or the General Partner in the capacity of withholding agent with respect to a Limited Partner (and any interest, penalties or expenses relating to any such taxes); (xii) all litigation-related and indemnification expenses of the Fund and the Fund's share of any such expenses of any Portfolio Fund; (xiii) all costs and expenses, if any, incurred in connection with the Fund's legal and regulatory compliance with applicable law (including, by way of example only, Form PF obligations under the Advisers Act and “know your client” or other anti-money laundering requirements, as applicable, and the preparation and administration of any reports, disclosures, filings or notifications prepared in accordance with the foregoing) or related to compliance with the provisions of the limited partnership agreement or any side letter; costs and expenses (including travel, lodging and meals) which reimbursement may include reimbursement to the General Partner, the Management Company and their respective Affiliates and any Affiliated party of the foregoing) incurred by the Fund, the General Partner, and/or their respective Affiliates or their respective partners, members, managers, officers, employees and agents (without duplication) in connection with any annual or other meetings of the Partners, whether individually or as a group (including but not limited to expenses associated with UnDemo Day and any community receptions). Annual meeting costs may include nominal costs and non-essential merchandise; (xiv) all other expenses of the Fund in connection with its operation and administration.

Renaissance will use its discretion to allocate Partnership Expenses using one of the following methodologies:

- Minor expenses (less than $5,000) determined by Renaissance to benefit the Funds equally will be allocated equally among the relevant funds.
- All other expenses will be allocated pro rata based on each Fund’s Management Expense cap at the time the expense was incurred.

The types of other fees and expenses incurred vary from Fund to Fund. Please refer to the Governing Documents of each applicable Fund for more complete information.

In addition, RVP GP, RVP GP III, RVP GP IV, and RVP GP V receive certain allocations and/or distributions as general partners to the Funds, based on a share of capital gains or capital appreciation of the assets of the applicable Fund, as negotiated and set forth in its Governing Documents. These allocations and distributions are commonly known as “carried interest.”

Please refer to the Governing Documents of each applicable Fund for complete information on the fees and compensation payable with respect to such Fund.

Each Fund pays fees and expenses as a limited partner of the Portfolio Funds in which it invests. These include management fees and Partnership Expenses charged to the Portfolio Funds and carried interest.

Deduction of Fees; Timing of Payments; Termination

The Funds’ Governing Documents authorize RVCM to charge and deduct management fees directly from the assets of the Funds. Payments of management fees are generally made quarterly in accordance with the terms of the Governing Documents. Please refer to the Governing Documents of each of the Funds for complete information on the timing of management fee payments.

Upon termination of any Fund’s management relationship with RVCM, any prepaid, unearned management fees (based on daily pro ration of the fee paid in advance for the applicable period) will be promptly refunded to such Fund, and any earned, unpaid fees will be immediately due and payable.

Transaction-Based Compensation

RVCM does not receive any transaction-based compensation from the Funds for the sale of securities or other investment products. Please refer to the subsection titled “Economic Benefits Received from Third Parties” in Item 14 for information on types of compensation that RVCM may receive with respect to investments by the Funds. None of RVCM’s supervised persons receives compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Performance-Based Fees

As discussed under the section titled “Fees and Compensation” in Item 5, RVP GP, RVP GP III, RVP GP IV, and RVP GP V receive carried interest based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of the Funds as set forth in each Fund’s Governing Documents.

Any share of profits allocated and/or distributed to the general partner of a Fund is separate and distinct from the management fees charged by RVCM to such Fund for advisory services.

Performance-based carried interest arrangements may create an incentive for RVCM to recommend investments that may be riskier or more speculative than those that would be recommended under a different fee or compensation arrangement. Please refer to the Governing Documents of each Fund for complete information on the “performance-based fee” arrangements of each Fund.

Side-by-Side Management

RVCM provides concurrent advisory services to Funds that are charged different performance-based fees or carried interests or that are more likely to generate performance-based fees or carried interest. The potential for RVCM’s related persons to receive different fees or carried interests creates a conflict of interest with respect to the allocation of investment opportunities. In other words, RVCM has an incentive to allocate investments or make other advisory service decisions to benefit the Fund that pays a more favorable performance fee or carried interest (or pay a performance fee or carried interest sooner).

To mitigate this conflict of interest, the allocation of investment opportunities among Funds is made by RVCM in accordance with the investment allocation section of RVCM’s Compliance Manual, which takes into account multiple criteria, including: (i) differences with respect to available capital (e.g., current or anticipated capital available for investment, including anticipated follow-on investments, if applicable), size, and remaining life of each Fund; (ii) the nature of the investment opportunity (including the size and anticipated follow-on investment requirements); (iii) potential conflicts of interest (including whether a Fund has an existing investment in the opportunity in question); (iv) the relevant allocation of investment opportunity provisions and restrictions in each Fund’s Governing Documents; (v) tax, legal or regulatory considerations; and (vi) current and anticipated market conditions. In the event that investment opportunities are suitable for more than one Fund, RVCM and its related persons seek to derive an allocation that in their judgment is fair and equitable to each Fund relative to other Funds over the life of such Fund, taking into account all relevant facts and circumstances. Generally, each Fund makes its commitments in Portfolio Funds until RVCM considers that Fund to be fully allocated.

Direct co-investments in portfolio companies generally are made by the Fund that is the investor in the Portfolio Fund that has brought the co-investment opportunity to the Fund. A follow-on direct co-investment opportunity generally will first be considered as an opportunity for the Fund that has an existing investment in that company. If more than one Fund has an existing investment in the portfolio company, the follow-on opportunity will first be considered as an opportunity for those Funds, in proportion to their pre-existing investments in the portfolio company. RVCN may determine, however, that a pro rata follow-on investment is inappropriate (for example, if a Fund does not have enough unreserved capital or it would result in exceeding certain limitations in the Fund's Governing Documents). If, after RVCN has determined how much to invest for the Funds with priority on such opportunity, there is an additional amount available to the Funds, RVCN may consider that remaining amount for other Funds, subject to any applicable provisions of the Funds' Governing Documents.

Item 7. Types of Clients

RVCN only provides investment advice to pooled investment vehicles, such as the Funds. The investors in the Funds may include corporations, financial institutions, governmental bodies or agencies, insurance companies, endowments, foundations, trusts, estates, high net worth individuals, and pension and profit-sharing plans.

The Funds are not required to register under the U.S. Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "Investment Company Act") or register their securities under the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"), pursuant to various exceptions and exemptions provided under those statutes. As a result, RVCN generally offers limited partner (or equivalent) interests in the Funds to a limited number of "accredited investors" as defined in Regulation D under the Securities Act and, in some cases, exclusively to "qualified purchasers" as defined in Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act. The Funds generally require substantial minimum initial investments, which vary by fund from $0.25 million to $1 million. These minimum initial investments may be waived or reduced at the discretion of the Fund's general partner.

Because affiliates of RVCN, the general partner entities RVP GP, RVP GP III, RVP GP IV, and RVP GP V receive performance-based compensation from the Funds, investors in the Funds must be "qualified clients" under the definition in Rule 205-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Investment Advisers Act"). Generally, qualified clients include (1) a person or company with at least $1.1 million under management by RVCN; (2) a person or company with a net worth of more than $2.2 million or who is a qualified purchaser; and (3) certain key employees of RVCN.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

RVCN actively reviews investment opportunities and employs a confirmatory and disciplined review process. The confirmatory process includes an independent due diligence review of all investments. Due diligence procedures include a detailed review of the sponsoring firm's principals, reputation, strategy and record.

Investment in a Fund involves a significant degree of risk and is suitable only for sophisticated investors for whom an investment in the Fund does not represent a complete investment program and who fully understand and can bear the risks of an investment in the Fund. There can be no assurance that a Fund will be able to achieve its investment objective or that an investor will receive a return of its capital. Set forth below are the principal risks of investing in the Funds. Many of these risks are also present for Portfolio Funds and portfolio companies in which the Funds invest.

Risk Factors

Reliance on Manager and General Partner. The Funds are managed by RVCM and the general partners. Investors will not make decisions with respect to the management, disposition or other realization of any investment, or other decisions regarding the Fund's business and affairs. Consequently, the success of the Fund will depend, in large part, upon the skill and expertise of RVCM and the general partners. Although RVCM believes that the success of a Fund is not dependent upon any individual, there can be no assurance that any of the current employees of RVCM and the general partners will continue to serve in their current positions.

Reliance on Portfolio Fund Management. Each Fund will be investing in the Portfolio Funds and, indirectly, in investments selected by such Portfolio Funds. Funds will not have an active role in the day-to-day management of the Portfolio Funds in which the Fund invests. Moreover, Funds will not have the opportunity to evaluate the specific investments made by any Portfolio Fund. Accordingly, the returns of Funds will primarily depend on the performance of the managers and investment professionals of the Portfolio Funds and could be substantially adversely affected by the unfavorable performance of such Portfolio Fund managers and investment professionals. Although RVCM believes that the success of any Portfolio Fund is not dependent on any individual, there can be no assurance that any of the current officers and employees of the managers and investment professionals of the Portfolio Funds will continue to be associated with any such Portfolio Fund. In addition, the investment professionals employed by the Portfolio Funds and/or their predecessor funds, including those professionals who serve or have served on the investment committees of the Portfolio Funds and/or their predecessor funds, have changed over time as a result of arrivals and departures of professionals, and may change further over the term of the Fund.

Investment Allocation. A Portfolio Fund may make only a limited number of investments. Consequently, the aggregate return on an investor's commitment to the Fund may be the product of a limited number of investments by the Portfolio Funds and therefore may be substantially and adversely affected by the unfavorable performance of even one portfolio company investment.

Financial and Business Risk. A Fund's investments in Portfolio Funds and direct investments in portfolio companies will generally involve a significant degree of financial and/or business risk. Portfolio companies in which Portfolio Funds or the Fund invest may be highly leveraged and therefore may be more sensitive to adverse business, financial developments or economic factors. Such investments may face intense competition, changing business or economic conditions or other developments that may adversely affect their performance. Business risks may be more significant in smaller investments or those companies that are early stage, embarking on a build-up strategy, or operating turnaround strategy. If for any of these reasons a portfolio company of the Fund or a Portfolio Fund is unable to generate sufficient cash flow to meet principal or interest payments on its indebtedness or make regular dividend payments, the value of the Fund's investment could be significantly reduced or even eliminated.

Risks Inherent in Venture Capital Investments. The types of investments that the Fund anticipates making, either through Portfolio Funds or direct investments, involve a high degree of risk. In general, financial and operating risks confronting portfolio companies can be significant. There can be no assurance that the Fund will be adequately compensated for risks taken. A loss of an investor's entire investment is possible. An investment in the Fund is thus designated for sophisticated investors who are able to bear such risk of loss. The timing of profit realization is highly uncertain.

Early-stage and development-stage companies often experience unexpected problems in the areas of product development, manufacturing, marketing, financing and general management, which, in some cases, cannot be adequately solved. In addition, such companies may require substantial amounts of financing which may not be available through institutional private placements or the public markets. The percentage of companies that survive and prosper can be small.

Investments in more mature companies in the expansion or profitable stage involve substantial risks. Such companies typically have obtained capital in the form of debt and/or equity to expand rapidly, reorganize operations, acquire other businesses, or develop new products and markets. These activities involve a significant amount of change in a company and could give rise to significant problems in sales, manufacturing, and general management of these activities.

In addition, the success of any venture is dependent upon the availability of high quality personnel. Competition for qualified personnel at any stage of development can be intense. Turnover of personnel can seriously disrupt a portfolio company's business plan. Similarly, the ability of a portfolio company's personnel to accept and make the transitions that occur as the company matures is difficult to predict or manage. No assurance can be given that the Fund or Portfolio Fund's portfolio companies will be able to attract and retain the qualified personnel necessary for success.

Insufficient Opportunities. The business of investing in portfolio companies is highly competitive and involves a high degree of uncertainty. Funds will rely on the investment professionals and managers of the Portfolio Funds to identify attractive investment opportunities. It is possible that a Portfolio Fund will never be fully invested if enough sufficiently attractive investments are not identified during its investment period. Even if an attractive investment opportunity is identified, there is no certainty that a Portfolio Fund or the Fund itself will be permitted to invest in such opportunity (or invest in such opportunity to the fullest extent desired). Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the Fund will be able, through the Portfolio Funds or directly, to identify and complete attractive investments in the future or that it will be able to invest fully its committed capital.

Unspecified Investments. Portfolio Funds may not yet have identified or acquired investments. Investors, therefore, will be relying on the ability of the investment professionals and managers of the Portfolio Funds to identify and acquire investments. Because such investments may occur over time, the Funds face the risks of adverse changes in the venture capital and private equity markets, changes in interest rates and other potentially adverse changes in economic conditions.

Inadequate Return. There can be no assurance that the return from investment in a Fund will be commensurate with the risk of investment in the Fund. Each investor should have the ability to sustain the loss of its entire commitment to the Fund.

Long-Term Investments. Even if the investment strategy of a Fund proves successful it is unlikely to produce a realized return to an investor in excess of its capital contributions to the Fund for a number of years.

Lack of Portfolio Liquidity. The portfolio company investments in which a Portfolio Fund invests, as well as the direct investments of Funds, may, at any given time, consist of significant amounts of securities and other financial instruments or obligations that are very thinly traded, or for which no market exists, or which are restricted as to their transferability under U.S. federal, state or non-U.S. securities laws. In some cases, the Portfolio Funds or the Fund itself may also be prohibited by contract from selling securities of portfolio companies, funds or other assets for a period of time or otherwise be restricted from disposing of such securities, interests or other assets. In other cases, the Portfolio Fund and direct investments may require a substantial length of time to liquidate. Consequently, there is a significant risk that a Portfolio Fund and the Fund itself will be unable to realize its investment objectives by sale or other disposition of its securities or other assets at attractive prices or will otherwise be unable to complete any exit strategy with respect to its investments. These risks can be further increased by changes in the financial condition or business prospects of Portfolio Fund and direct investments, changes in economic conditions, changes in laws, regulations, fiscal policies or political conditions of countries in which Portfolio Fund and direct investments are made or in which they conduct their businesses.

In addition, a Portfolio Fund may distribute its investments “in kind” to its investors, including the Fund, in various forms of securities. There can be no assurance that a Fund will be able to dispose of these securities or that the value of these securities, as determined pursuant to the terms of the Portfolio Fund for purposes of the determination of the distributions and the calculation of the carried interest charged by any Portfolio Fund, will ultimately be realized.

Moreover, a Fund’s investments will be illiquid. An investor in a Portfolio Fund is expected to hold its investment for the entire term of the Portfolio Fund, which is typically ten years or more. An investor in a Portfolio Fund generally cannot transfer an interest in the Portfolio Fund without the consent of the Portfolio Fund’s sponsor, which can usually be granted or withheld in the sponsor’s discretion. In addition, direct investments may take years to achieve liquidity and the timing of a liquidity event is dependent on a variety of factors, none of which can be predicted.

Investments Longer than Term. A Portfolio Fund may make investments which may not be advantageously disposed of prior to the date such Portfolio Fund will be dissolved, either by expiration of such Portfolio Fund’s term or otherwise. Although the general partner of each Portfolio Fund expects that its investments will be disposed of prior to dissolution of such Portfolio Fund or be suitable for in-kind distribution at dissolution, such Portfolio Fund may have to sell, distribute or otherwise dispose of investments at a disadvantageous time as a result of dissolution.

Conflicts of Interest. Instances are expected to arise in which a Portfolio Fund or RVCN will have potential or actual conflicts of interest with the Fund and the investors. There is a risk that such conflicts will have an adverse effect on the availability of investment opportunities for the Fund or the investment returns of the Fund. See “Conflicts of Interest” below.

Illiquidity of Interests; Restrictions on Transfer. The interests in the Fund represent highly illiquid investments and should only be acquired by investors able to commit their funds for an indefinite period of time. An investor will not be permitted to transfer, or otherwise pledge or dispose of, any portion of its interest in the Fund without the prior written consent of RVCN, which may be granted or withheld in its sole discretion. Investors should not expect RVCN to grant its consent to transfers. In addition, the transferability of interests in the Fund will be subject to certain restrictions contained in the Fund Governing Documents and may be affected by restrictions on resales imposed under applicable securities laws. There is currently no market for interests in the Fund and it is not contemplated that one will develop. Accordingly, an investor should only make a commitment to the Fund if it is able to commit its funds for an indefinite period of time.

Each investor is required to represent that it has acquired its interests in the Fund for investment purposes only and not with a view to resale or distribution. The interests have not been registered under the Securities Act and, therefore, are subject to restrictions on transfer under the Securities Act.

Leverage. Portfolio Funds and portfolio companies in which the Fund invests may be highly leveraged. These investments may be subject to increased exposure to adverse economic factors such as a significant rise in interest rates, general availability of debt financing, a severe downturn in the economy or deterioration in the condition of such investment or its industry.

Portfolio companies may be subject to restrictive financial and operating covenants as a result of their use of leverage. This leverage may impair their ability to finance their future operations and capital needs. As a result, their flexibility to respond to changing business and economic conditions and to business opportunities may be limited. A leveraged company's income and net assets will tend to increase or decrease at a greater rate than if borrowed money were not used.

Non-U.S. Investments. Certain Portfolio Funds may invest globally, including in portfolio companies located in emerging markets. Non-U.S. securities involve certain risks not typically associated with investing in U.S. securities, including risks relating to (a) differences between the U.S. and non-U.S. securities markets, including potential price volatility in and relative illiquidity of some non-U.S. securities markets, the absence of uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, practices and disclosure requirements and less government supervision and regulation; (b) certain economic and political risks, including potential exchange control regulations and restrictions on foreign investment and repatriation of capital, the risks of political, economic or social instability and the possibility of expropriation or confiscatory taxation; and (c) the possible imposition of foreign taxes on income and gains recognized with respect to such securities. Anti-fraud and anti-insider trading legislation in these countries may be rudimentary. There may be no prohibitions or restrictions on the ability of the management to terminate existing business operations, sell or otherwise dispose of a portfolio company's assets, or otherwise materially affect the value of the portfolio company without the consent of its shareholders. Anti-dilution protection also may be very limited. In these countries, the concept of fiduciary duty on the part of the management or directors of companies to shareholders may be limited. The legal systems in these countries may offer no effective means for the Portfolio Funds to seek to enforce their rights or otherwise seek legal redress or to seek to enforce foreign legal judgments.

Currency Risks. Each Portfolio Fund's investments that are denominated in a currency different from the currency of such Portfolio Fund are subject to the risk that the value of such currency will change in relation to the currency of such Portfolio Fund. Among the factors that may affect currency values are trade balances, the level of short-term interest rates, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation and political developments. The investment professionals or managers of the Portfolio Funds may (if permitted) try to hedge these risks by investing directly in currencies other than the currency in which such Portfolio Funds' investments are denominated, buying and selling forward currency exchange contracts on such currencies and buying and selling options on such currencies, but there can be no assurance such strategies will be effective.

Lack of Uniform Reporting Standards for Portfolio Funds; Portfolio Valuation. Sponsors of the Portfolio Funds may utilize divergent reporting standards that may make it difficult for the Fund to accurately assess the performance of the sponsor of a Portfolio Fund. In addition, such reporting variances may affect the ability of the Funds to accurately value and monitor investments. Such variances typically involve the calculation of the internal rate of return on investment; a Portfolio Fund may have different policies regarding the inclusion of fees due to the manager and/or investment professionals and expenses of such Portfolio Fund when calculating the return on investment.

Portfolio companies are difficult to value. In most cases, the Fund will rely on the Portfolio Funds' valuation of a portfolio company to value the Funds direct investment in the portfolio company. Investors should be aware that situations involving uncertainties as to the valuation of assets held by a Fund could have an adverse effect on the returns of the Fund.

Indemnification; Return of Prior Distributions. RVCN or any affiliate, director, officer, stockholder, employee, member, partner, agent or representative of any of the foregoing persons and any liquidator of the Funds are entitled to indemnification, except under certain circumstances, from the applicable Fund. The obligation to fund any indemnification will survive the final liquidation of the Funds and may require investors to return prior distributions. Furthermore, with respect to any distributions from a Portfolio Fund that were in turn distributed by the Fund to the investors, the Funds may require the investors to return such distributions to the extent any Portfolio Fund (or the investment manager or investment professionals thereof) requires the Fund to return distributions to such Portfolio Fund (or such investment manager or investment professionals).

Exclusion from Investments. RVCN will be authorized to take any remedial action necessary or desirable in order (i) for a Fund not to be in violation of the Investment Company Act, (ii) for a Fund, RVCN or any of their affiliates not to be in violation of any other law, regulation, executive order or policy applicable to the Fund, RVCN or such affiliate, or (iii) to prevent, at any time during the term of a Fund, any further participation by an investor in the Fund's affairs that would be materially detrimental to the business or commercial reputation of any Portfolio Fund, any portfolio company investment, any direct investment, the Fund, any other investor, or RVCN and the general partner or any of their respective affiliates. Such remedial action by RVCN may include (w) making structural, operating or other changes in a Fund, (x) requiring the sale in whole or in part of any investment or any other asset of a Fund, (y) canceling or reducing the capital commitment of an investor, or (z) requiring the sale in whole or in part of an investor's interest in a Fund or otherwise causing the withdrawal of an investor from the Fund.

Fees and Expenses. Each investor will bear its share of the expenses of a Fund and its share of the Fund's portion of the fees. (e.g., management fees payable to the sponsor of a Portfolio Fund) and expenses of the Portfolio Funds in which the Fund invests. Similarly, each investor will bear its share of any carried interest paid by a Fund to a sponsor of a Portfolio Fund to the extent that a carried interest is paid in connection with such Portfolio Fund's investments.

Capital Calls. A Fund will be required to meet capital calls of Portfolio Funds over an extended period of time. Failure by an investor to meet a capital call from the Fund could result in the failure of the Fund to meet a capital call from a Portfolio Fund, which could have adverse consequences for the Fund and its investors.

Defaulting Investors. An investor in default with respect to its obligation to fund required capital contributions to the Fund may be forced to forfeit a portion of its capital account, forego any future income or gains on Investments made prior to such default and may, among other things, be subject to legal proceedings to recover such default. Unless the General Partner elects to cancel a defaulting investor's share of the Fund's unused commitment, the defaulting investor will continue to remain obligated to make capital contributions to the Fund up to the full amount of its unused commitment to the Fund. Any investor with insufficient funds to meet its commitment obligations may, therefore, incur significant losses.

Control and Non-Control Positions. Some Portfolio Funds may take control positions in portfolio companies. The exercise of control over a portfolio company imposes additional risks of liability for environmental damage, product defects, failure to supervise, violation of government regulations (including securities laws) or other types of liability in which the limited liability generally characteristic of business ownership may be ignored. If such liabilities were to occur, the Fund might suffer a significant loss.

Other Portfolio Funds may not hold the dominant or majority share of outstanding equity securities of any portfolio company and therefore, may have a limited ability to protect investments in such portfolio companies, although as a condition of investment in a portfolio company, such Portfolio Funds expect to negotiate appropriate shareholder and supervisory rights. There can be no assurance, however, that such minority shareholder rights will be available or will provide the requisite protection. The Fund will suffer the same risks with respect to direct investments.

Fund Not Registered. The Funds are not registered as investment companies under the Investment Company Act in reliance upon an exemption available to privately offered investment companies and, accordingly, the provisions of the Investment Company Act are not applicable to the Funds. The Management Company will, however, be required to submit certain reports to the SEC as an investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act.

Interests Not Registered. Interests in the Funds have not been and will not be registered under the laws of any jurisdiction (including the Securities Act, the laws of any state of the United States, or the laws of any non-U.S. jurisdiction). Investment in the Funds has not been recommended by any U.S. federal or state, or any non-U.S., securities commission or regulatory authority.

Hedging. The Portfolio Funds in which a Fund invests may engage in hedging transactions, such as hedging for currency and interest rate risks as well as other risks. Hedging techniques could involve a variety of derivative transactions, including transactions in forward contracts and swaps (collectively "Hedging Instruments"). While these transactions may attempt to reduce certain risks, these transactions themselves entail other risks. Unanticipated changes in securities or currency prices or other rates may result in a poorer overall performance for a party than if it had not entered into any transactions involving Hedging Instruments. In the event of an imperfect correlation between a position in a Hedging Instrument and a portfolio position that it is intended to protect, the desired protection may not be obtained, and a party may be exposed to risk of loss. In addition, it is not possible to hedge fully or perfectly against any particular risk. Moreover, Hedging Instruments may not be available or may not be available at a reasonable cost to the Fund.

Recourse to a Fund's Assets. Fund assets, including any investments made by a Fund and any capital held by Fund, are available to satisfy all liabilities and other obligations of the Fund. If the Fund becomes subject to a liability, parties seeking to have the liability satisfied may have recourse to the Fund's assets generally and may not be limited to any particular asset, such as the investment giving rise to the liability.

Investments in Companies Experiencing Financial Difficulties. The Portfolio Funds may invest in companies that are experiencing or have experienced severe financial difficulties. Many such investments will be illiquid, and there can be no assurance that a Portfolio Fund will be able to realize profits on its investments in a timely manner. Such investments could, in certain circumstances, subject a Portfolio Fund to certain additional potential liabilities that may exceed the value of such Portfolio Fund's original investments therein. For example, under certain circumstances, a lender who has inappropriately exercised control over the management and policies of a debtor may have its claims subordinated or disallowed or may be found liable for damages suffered by parties as a result of such actions. In addition, under certain circumstances, payments to a Portfolio Fund and distributions by such Portfolio Fund to the investors in such Portfolio Fund (including the Fund) may be reclaimed if any such payment or distribution is later determined to have been a fraudulent conveyance, preferential payment or similar transaction under applicable bankruptcy and insolvency laws.

Contingent Liabilities on Disposition of Portfolio Investments. In connection with the disposition of certain investments, a Portfolio Fund may make customary representations. Such Portfolio Fund also may be required to indemnify the purchasers of such investments to the extent that any such representations are inaccurate. These arrangements may result in the incurrence of contingent liabilities for which the investment professionals or manager of such Portfolio Fund may establish reserves or escrow accounts. Investors (including the Fund) also may be required to return amounts distributed to them to fund indemnity obligations.

In addition, the Portfolio Funds may sell investments in public offerings. Such offerings can give rise to liability if the disclosure relating to any such public offering proves to be inaccurate or incomplete.

Bridge Financing. Certain Portfolio Funds may provide bridge financing in connection with one or more of their portfolio company investments. Such Portfolio Funds will bear the risk of any changes in capital markets which may adversely affect the ability of a portfolio company to refinance any bridge investments. If the portfolio company was unable to complete a refinancing, the Portfolio Fund could have a long-term investment in a junior security or that junior security might be converted to equity at an unfavorable valuation that has an adverse effect on the value of the Fund's assets.

Public Disclosure. Some of the interests in the Portfolio Funds will be held by investors, such as public pension plans and listed investment vehicles that are subject to public disclosure requirements. The amount of information about their investments that is required to be disclosed has increased in recent years, and that trend may continue. To the extent that the disclosure of confidential information relating to a Portfolio Fund or its portfolio companies results from interests being held by public investors, such Portfolio Fund may be adversely affected.

Certain Information Regarding the Portfolio Funds May Not be Disclosed to Limited Partners. The Portfolio Funds, their sponsors or their respective affiliates may have certain confidential information relating to the Portfolio Fund and its portfolio companies that has not been and will not be disclosed to the Limited Partners of the Fund. In addition, the General Partner and its affiliates may have certain confidential information relating to the Fund, a Portfolio Fund and its Portfolio Companies or a Direct Investment that has not been and will not be disclosed to the Limited Partners of the Fund.

Side Letters. The Fund and/or the General Partner acting in its capacity as general partner of the Fund may enter into other written agreements (“Side Letters”) with one or more Limited Partners of the Fund. These Side Letters may entitle a Limited Partner to make an investment in the Fund on terms other than those described, in the applicable Fund’s Governing Documents, for the purchase of the Interests in the Fund. Any such terms, including but not limited to (i) reporting obligations of the Fund, (ii) transfers to affiliates, (iii) withdrawal rights due to adverse tax or regulatory events, (iv) consent rights to certain Partnership Agreement amendments, or (v) any other matters, may be more favorable than those offered to any other Limited Partners. If the Fund and/or the General Partner acting in its capacity as general partner of the Fund enter into a Side Letter entitling an investor to withdraw from the Fund, any election to withdraw by such investor may increase any other investors’ pro rata Interest.

Repayment of Distributions. The Fund may be required to repay to a Portfolio Fund or to pay creditors of a Portfolio Fund, as applicable, distributions previously received by it. In addition, the Fund may be required to pay to a Portfolio Fund amounts that are required to be withheld by a Portfolio Fund for tax purposes or taxes arising from the participation of the Fund in the relevant Portfolio Fund. Subject to the limitations set forth in the Fund’s Governing Documents, the Fund may require investors to return to the Fund all or part of any distribution by the Fund to the investors in order to satisfy all or any portion of the Fund’s indemnification and other obligations, whether to a Portfolio Fund or otherwise. Similarly, investors may be required to repay or pay such amounts to the Fund if the Fund is unable otherwise to meet its indemnification or other obligations.

Board Participation. A Portfolio Fund may be represented on the boards of directors of certain of its portfolio companies or may have its representatives serve as observers to such boards of directors. Although such positions in certain circumstances may be important to such Portfolio Fund’s investment strategy and may enhance the ability of such Portfolio Fund to manage its portfolio investments, they may also have the effect of impairing such Portfolio Fund’s ability to sell the related securities when, and upon the terms, it may otherwise desire, and may subject such Portfolio Fund and its management to claims they would not otherwise be subject to as an investor, including claims of breach of duty of loyalty, securities claims and other director related claims. In general, such Portfolio Fund will indemnify its general partner and manager from such claims. Although the Funds plan to avoid having a representative serve as a member of the board of directors or other governing body of a portfolio company in which the Funds have made a direct investment, it would be subject to the same risk if it does so.

Financial and Tax Situation. The results of a Portfolio Fund’s activities may affect its investors differently, depending upon their individual financial and tax situations. Some examples include the timing of a cash distribution, realization event, and its characterization as long-term or short-term gain or loss. The general partner of such Portfolio Fund will endeavor to make decisions in the best interest of such Portfolio Fund as a whole, but there can be no assurance that a result will not be more advantageous to the general partner than to a particular investor.

Changing Economic Conditions. The success of the Fund's investment strategy could be significantly impacted by changing external economic conditions in the United States and global economies. The stability and sustainability of growth in global economies may be impacted by terrorism or acts of war. The availability, unavailability, or hindered operation of external credit markets, equity markets and other economic systems which the Fund may depend upon to achieve its objectives may have a significant negative impact on the Fund's operations and profitability. There can be no assurance that such markets and economic systems will be available or will be available as anticipated or needed for the Fund to operate successfully. Changing economic conditions could potentially adversely impact the valuation of portfolio holdings.

Cyber Security Breaches, Identity Theft and Fraud. Renaissance's information and technology systems may be vulnerable to damage or interruption from computer viruses, network failures, computer and telecommunication failures, infiltration by unauthorized persons and security breaches, usage errors by their professionals, power outages and catastrophic events such as fires, tornadoes, floods, hurricanes and earthquakes. The failure of these systems and/or of disaster recovery plans for any reason could cause significant interruptions in RVCN or the Fund's operations and result in a failure to maintain the security, confidentiality or privacy of sensitive data, including personal information relating to investors (and the beneficial owners of investors). Such a failure could harm Renaissance's reputation, subject any such entity and its respective affiliates to legal claims and otherwise affect their business and financial performance. In addition, RVCN and its affiliates are also subject to the risk of fraud. While systems and procedures may be in place which RVCN believes are designed to detect and deter fraud, such systems and procedures may not be effective in all circumstances to prevent fraud.

Impact of Disease Epidemics. The outbreak of an infectious disease in the United States or elsewhere, such as novel Coronavirus ("COVID-19"), together with any resulting travel restrictions or quarantines, could result in disruptions to employment and supply chains and otherwise have a negative impact on the economy and business activity in the United States and worldwide and thereby adversely affect the business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects of certain companies in which the Portfolio Funds and the Fund may be directly or indirectly invested, and may adversely impact the performance of such investments. The risk of further spreading of COVID-19 has led to significant uncertainty and volatility in the financial markets.

The extent to which any Fund Investments and, indirectly, any Portfolio Fund investments, are adversely impacted by the COVID-19 outbreak will largely depend on future developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be accurately predicted, including the severity and duration of the outbreak and the actions taken to contain the outbreak. An outbreak of an infectious disease could also have a material adverse effect on the Fund's and an Portfolio Funds' business prospects, financial condition and operations, including the ability of the Fund, its administrator and the Portfolio Funds' managers and their respective employees and/or third party service providers and other counterparties to render adequate services to or otherwise fully support the administration and operation of the Fund and the Portfolio Funds. Additionally, the perception of an outbreak of COVID-19 or another contagious disease may also have an adverse effect on the economic conditions of a particular region and may result in significant market volatility, which could have an adverse effect on the performance of the investments of the Portfolio Funds and the Fund.

Impact of War and Geopolitical Risks. The value of the Fund's and an Portfolio Fund's investments could be negatively affected by factors impacting the economy and securities markets generally, such as real or perceived adverse economic conditions, supply and demand for particular instruments, changes in the general outlook for certain markets or corporate earnings, interest rates, announcements of political information or adverse investor sentiment generally. In addition, the values of the Fund's or the Portfolio Funds' investments may decline for a number of reasons, including increases in defaults resulting from changes in overall economic conditions. Unfavorable market conditions may also increase funding costs, limit access to the capital markets or result in credit terms changing or credit becoming unavailable. These events could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's and the Portfolio Funds' investments and the Portfolio Funds' and the Fund's overall performance.

Events such as war, terrorism and related geopolitical risks have led, and may in the future lead, to increased short-term market volatility and may have adverse long-term effects on U.S. and world economies and markets generally. These risks could also adversely affect individual issuers and securities markets, interest rates, auctions, secondary trading, ratings, credit risk, inflation, deflation and other factors relating to the Fund's and the Portfolio Funds' investments.

Continuing market uncertainty may have a significant impact on the business of the Portfolio Funds and the Fund.

Change of Law. Changes in legal, tax and regulatory regimes may occur during the life of the Funds and the Portfolio Funds which may have an adverse effect on their respective investments.

Potential Reporting Obligations. Although a Fund's investment objectives are not consistent with Portfolio Funds that invest in publicly-traded companies, in connection with any acquisition of beneficial ownership by a Portfolio Fund or by a group that includes such Portfolio Fund of more than 5% of any class of the equity securities of a company registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"), such Portfolio Fund may be required to make certain filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Generally, these filings require disclosure of the identity and background of the purchasers, the source and amount of funds used to acquire the securities, the purpose of the transaction, the purchaser's interest in the securities and any contracts, arrangements or undertakings regarding the securities. In certain circumstances, such Portfolio Fund may be required to aggregate its investment position in a given portfolio company with the beneficial ownership of that portfolio company's securities by, or on behalf of, such Portfolio Fund's general partner and its affiliates or other members of a group that includes such Portfolio Fund, which could require such Portfolio Fund, together with such other parties, to make certain disclosure filings or otherwise restrict such Portfolio Fund's activities with respect to such portfolio company securities.

If a Portfolio Fund becomes the beneficial owner of more than 10% of any class of equity securities of a company registered under the Exchange Act, or otherwise becomes an "affiliate" of such a company, such Portfolio Fund may be subject to certain additional reporting requirements and to liability for short-swing profits under Section 16 of the Exchange Act.

Though it is unlikely because of restrictions applicable to the Funds with respect to direct investments, the Funds could be subject to the same requirements if the securities at a portfolio company in which the Funds invest became publicly traded.

Investments with Third Parties. Certain Portfolio Funds may co-invest with third parties through joint ventures or other entities. Such investments may involve risks in connection with such third-party involvement, including the possibility that a third-party co-venturer may have financial difficulties, resulting in a negative impact on such investment, may have economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with those of such Portfolio Fund, or may be in a position to take (or block) action in a manner contrary to such Portfolio Fund's investment objectives. In addition, such Portfolio Fund may, in certain circumstances, be liable for the actions of its third-party co-venturers. In those circumstances where such third parties involve a management group, such third parties may receive compensation arrangements relating to such investments, including incentive compensation arrangements.

Additional Capital. Certain of a Portfolio Fund's or a Fund's portfolio companies, especially those in earlier stages of development, may be expected to require additional financing to satisfy their working capital requirements or acquisition strategies. The amount of such additional financing needed will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the particular portfolio company. Each such round of financing (whether from the applicable Portfolio Fund, the Fund or other investors) is typically intended to provide a portfolio company with enough capital to reach the next major corporate milestone. If the funds provided are not sufficient, a portfolio company may have to raise additional capital at a price unfavorable to the existing investors, including the Portfolio Fund and the Fund. In addition, a Portfolio Fund and/or the Fund may make additional debt and equity investments or exercise warrants, options, or convertible securities that were acquired in the initial investment in such portfolio company in order to preserve proportionate ownership when a subsequent financing is planned, or to protect such Portfolio Fund's (or the Fund's) investment when such portfolio company's performance does not meet expectations. The availability of capital is generally a function of capital market conditions that are beyond the control of such Portfolio Fund, the Fund or any portfolio company. There can be no assurance that portfolio companies will be able to predict accurately the future capital requirements necessary for success or that additional funds will be available from any source. Furthermore, uncertainty regarding the U.S. debt markets may negatively affect the ability of a Portfolio Fund to obtain additional funds necessary to finance a particular portfolio company and its operations.

Investment in Life Sciences Industry. A Fund's assets either through Portfolio Funds or direct investments will likely be invested, at least in part, in young companies focused upon the highly competitive and rapidly changing life sciences/health care industry. This industry is dominated by large multi-national corporations with substantially greater financing and technical resources than generally will be available to portfolio companies. Such larger corporations may be better able to adapt to challenges presented by continuing rapid and major scientific, regulatory and technological changes as well as related changes in governmental and third-party reimbursement policies.

Within the life sciences/health care industry, the development of products generally is a costly and time-consuming process. Many highly promising products ultimately fail to prove safe and effective. Products under development and pre-clinical testing generally will require extensive clinical testing prior to application for commercial use. There can be no assurance that the research or product development efforts of portfolio companies or those of their collaborative partners will be successfully completed, will not suffer from lack of funding or the high cost of the regulatory approval process, that specific products can be manufactured in adequate quantities at an acceptable cost and with appropriate quality, or that such products can be successfully marketed or achieve customer acceptance.

The research, development, pre-clinical and clinical trials, manufacturing, and marketing of products developed by life sciences/health care companies are subject to extensive regulation by numerous governmental authorities in the United States and other countries. There can be no assurance that products developed by portfolio companies will ever be approved by such governmental authorities.

Intellectual Property. Many of the portfolio companies of the Portfolio Funds will be at least partially dependent for their success upon governmental and third-party reimbursement policies that are under constant review and are subject to change at any time. Any such change could adversely affect the validity of one or more of such companies.

Many of the portfolio companies will depend heavily upon intellectual property for their competitive position. There can be no assurance that such portfolio companies will be able to obtain patents for key inventions. Moreover, and particularly within the life sciences/health care industry, patent challenges are frequent. Even if patents held by portfolio companies are upheld, any challenges thereto may be costly and distracting to such portfolio company's management.

Investment in the Communications Industry. A Fund or a Portfolio Fund may make investments in communications companies. Communications companies are undergoing changes, mainly due to evolving levels of governmental regulation or deregulation as well as the development of communication technologies. Competitive pressures within the communications industry are intense and the securities of communications companies may be subject to significant price volatility. In addition, because the communications industry is subject to significant changes in technology, portfolio companies in which a Portfolio Fund or the Fund invests may face competition from technologies being developed or to be developed in the future by other entities, which may make such portfolio companies' products and services obsolete.

Risks Arising from Provision of Managerial Assistance. The general partner of a Portfolio Fund may be required to try to structure investments of such Portfolio Fund and operate such Portfolio Fund in such a manner to qualify such Portfolio Fund as a "venture capital operating company" (a "VCOC") so that the underlying assets of such Portfolio Fund will not constitute "plan assets" of any investor in such Portfolio Fund that is a benefit plan subject to ERISA. Operating a Portfolio Fund as a VCOC will require such Portfolio Fund to obtain rights to participate substantially in or influence the conduct of the management of a number of such Portfolio Fund's portfolio companies. Such Portfolio Fund will typically designate one or more directors to serve on the board of directors of each portfolio company as to which it obtains such rights. The designation of directors and other measures contemplated could expose the assets of such Portfolio Fund to claims by a portfolio company, its security holders and its creditors for, among other things, breach of fiduciary duty. While the general partner of such Portfolio Fund would intend to manage such Portfolio Fund to minimize exposure to these risks, the possibility of successful claims cannot be precluded.

ERISA Considerations. In the event a Portfolio Fund is operated to qualify as a VCOC to avoid holding "plan assets" within the meaning of the Plan Asset Regulations, such Portfolio Fund may be restricted or precluded from making certain investments. In addition, it could be necessary for the general partner of such Portfolio Fund to liquidate investments at a disadvantageous time in order to avoid holding "plan assets” within the meaning of the Plan Asset Regulations, resulting in lower proceeds to such Portfolio Fund than might have been the case without the need to qualify as a VCOC.

If the Fund is subject to the Plan Asset Regulations, the Fund may be precluded from making certain Investments or taking other actions because such activities would not meet ERISA’s prudence and fiduciary duty standards, or because such activities would constitute prohibited transactions under ERISA. This preclusion could adversely affect returns to Fund investors.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

RVCM and its management persons have no legal or disciplinary information to report.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Registered Broker-Dealers

Neither RVCM nor any of its management persons are registered, or have an application pending to register, as a broker-dealer or a registered representative of a broker-dealer. Nor is RVCM affiliated with any broker-dealers.

Registered Futures Commission Merchants, Commodity Pool Operators and Commodity Trading Advisors

Neither RVCM nor any of its management persons are registered, or have an application pending to register, as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, commodity trading advisor, or an associated person of any of the foregoing. Nor is RVCM affiliated with any futures commission merchants, commodity pool operators, or commodity trading advisors.

Relationships with Related Persons

RVCM and its related persons are, directly or indirectly, the general partner, investor and/or managing members/general partners of the general partner of each of the Funds. RVCM and its related persons spend substantially all of their business time on one or more of the Funds as required pursuant to the terms of each Fund’s Governing Documents. There are conflicts of interest as it relates to the allocation of time, resources and investment opportunities among the Funds. RVCM allocates its time and resources and investment opportunities among the Funds in a manner that RVCM believes is consistent with its fiduciary duties under federal and state law, which require RVCM to act in the best interests of each Fund and its Investors. Investors should refer to the Governing Documents of each Fund for more complete information on the requisite time commitments (if any) of RVCM, and its related persons to the Funds. With regard to investment opportunities, investors should refer to the description of RVCM’s investment allocation policy described in the subsection “Side-by-Side Management” in Item 6.

Selection or Recommendation of Other Investment Advisers

RVCM does not recommend or select other investment advisers for its clients or investors and does not receive compensation from such advisers in a manner that would create a material conflict of interest. During 2019, RVCM entered into an arrangement with a third party investment adviser in which RVCM receives a portion of the adviser’s carried interest in exchange for an employee of RVCM sitting on the adviser’s investment committee. This creates a conflict of interest, as the investment adviser could be presented with the same investment opportunities as a Fund managed by RVCM. In such a circumstance, the employee of RVCM will recuse himself or herself from the deliberations regarding the investment opportunity for the third party adviser. RVCM does not have other business relationships with other investment advisers that create a material conflict of interest.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

RVCM has a fiduciary responsibility to treat clients fairly and avoid actual or potential conflicts of interest. The employees of RVCM have an obligation to act solely in the best interests of our clients, and to make full and fair disclosure of all material facts, particularly where the interests of one or more of our clients may conflict with the interests of RVCM or its employees.

RVCM has adopted a Compliance Manual for all supervised persons which describes its fiduciary responsibility to its clients and imposes certain restrictions and prohibitions on personal trading and other related policies by employees under the Code of Ethics and Business Conduct (the "Code"). The Code describes RVCM's fiduciary duties to its clients and sets forth RVCM's policies and procedures relating to the following:

- Compliance with the Code and applicable laws and regulations
- Personal trading / prohibition on insider trading
- Outside business and other activities
- Confidential information
- Restrictions of accepting gifts and entertainment
- Pay-to-Play rules
- Recordkeeping; reporting; and certifications

Under RVCM's Code, all supervised persons have a duty to act in the best interests of the Funds and are required to promptly report all violations to RVCM's Chief Compliance Officer. All supervised persons at RVCM must acknowledge the terms of the Code annually, or as amended.

The Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of the employees of RVCM will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Under the Code, certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would materially not interfere with the best interest of RVCM's clients. In addition, the Code requires pre-clearance of many transactions, and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because the Code in some circumstances would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code, and to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between RVCM and its clients.

RVCM's clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code by contacting Kimberly Reno, Chief Compliance Officer at (734) 997-8661 or at kimberlyr@renvcf.com.

While RVCN endeavors at all times to act in the best interests of the Funds, and their investors, should be aware that the types of transactions described above create potential conflicts of interest with respect to RVCN and the Funds.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

RVCN is responsible for implementing each Fund's investment objectives and strategies, as set forth in the applicable Fund's Governing Documents.

In general, RVCN does not utilize broker-dealers to purchase portfolio investments for the Funds, however, if RVCN were ever required to utilize a broker, RVCN would do so in accordance with its duty to seek best execution for the Funds.

It is common, however, for the Funds to receive in-kind distributions in the form of publicly traded securities from RVCN's Portfolio Fund investments. Additionally, the Funds may own publicly traded stock as a result of an IPO or acquisitions of its direct portfolio company investments. In either case, RVCN will need to select a broker-dealer to either sell such shares or distribute them to the investors in the Funds. In selecting broker-dealers, RVCN seeks to obtain best execution by considering factors including, but not limited to, timing, execution quality, price, the level of service offered, reliability, experience in liquidating distributions from private equity funds and such other factors as RVCN considers relevant and beneficial to the Funds. Soft dollar arrangements are not utilized by RVCN.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Fund accounts are reviewed on a daily or weekly basis by RVCN personnel. The scope of these reviews typically includes the composition of the portfolios, cash management, relevant pricing information, risk exposure and compliance with any specific portfolio guidelines.

Investors generally receive information about their accounts quarterly as well as when a Fund makes a distribution or capital call. Account statements generally outline the type and size of the investments comprising the relevant investor's portfolio.

Additionally, upon an investor's request, RVCN will make an annual or other periodic presentation to the investor's board of directors or comparable governing body, which typically summarizes the investment strategies employed and the trading activity in the account over the relevant period.

Investors should refer to the Governing Documents of the relevant Fund for further information on the reports provided by a particular Fund to its investors.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Economic Benefits Received from Third Parties

In connection with investments made by the Funds, RVCN (or persons associated with RVCN) from time to time receives directors' or other fees (whether in cash or options or other securities) from a portfolio company or Portfolio Fund while the applicable Fund continues to have an investment in such portfolio company or Portfolio Fund. Additionally, during 2019, RVCN entered into an arrangement with a third party investment adviser in which RVCN receives a portion of the adviser's carried interest in exchange for sitting on the adviser's investment committee.

These types of arrangements present conflicts of interest and provide RVCN with an incentive to recommend investments based on compensation received rather than the best interests of a Fund. To help mitigate potential conflicts, such benefits received by RVCN or its employees in connection with services rendered to portfolio companies or transactions of a Fund are normally offset in whole (and therefore reduce) advisory fees payable by the relevant Fund, to the extent provided in the Governing Documents of such Fund.

Third Party Compensation for Investor Referrals

RVCN does not utilize third parties for investment referrals.

Item 15. Custody

RVCN does not have physical custody of any client assets (other than certain privately offered securities to the extent permitted by the Advisers Act and related SEC interpretive guidance). Even when RVCN does not have physical custody of Fund assets, RVCN is deemed for purposes of the custody rules under the Advisers Act to have custody of the assets of the Funds because RVCN has the authority to charge and deduct management fees directly from the assets of the Funds, and because RVP GP, RVP GP III and RVP GP IV are deemed to have custody as general partners to the Funds.

It is RVCN's policy to cause each Fund with assets over which RVCN is deemed to have "custody" to be audited annually by an accountant that is registered with, and regularly examined by, the Public Company Oversight Board. The audited financial statements are prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and are distributed to investors no later than 180 days after the end of each fiscal year. In addition, upon the final liquidation of any such Fund, RVCN will obtain a final audit and distribute audited financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP with respect to such Fund to all investors promptly after completion of the audit. Investors will not receive account statements from the bank or other qualified custodian holding physical custody of the Funds' assets.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

RVCN is responsible for implementing each Fund's investment objectives and strategies, as set forth in the applicable Fund's Governing Documents. RVCN has full discretionary authority over the investment activities of each Fund pursuant to each Fund's Governing Documents. Any limitations on RVCN's discretionary authority with respect to a Fund's investments are set forth in that Fund's Governing Documents. RVCN's investment advice is provided directly to the Funds and not to investors in the Funds individually. RVCN is not required to contact investors in the Funds prior to transacting any business for the Funds.

To invest in a Fund, an investor must execute a subscription agreement (or similar agreement) with such Fund. Investors in a Fund may seek to impose limitations on RVCN's authority with respect to such Fund through "side letter" or similar agreements, and RVCN, in its discretion, may choose to accept limitations or restrictions that it considers to be reasonable and consistent with the principal investment strategy described in such Fund's Governing Documents.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

RVCM has adopted proxy voting policies and procedures as is required under Rule 206(4)-6 of the Advisers Act. These policies and procedures are designed to ensure that proxies received with respect to securities in a Fund account where RVCM exercises voting discretion are voted in the best interests of such Fund.

RVCM will vote proxies consistent with general guidelines that RVCM has adopted and which RVCM believes reflect the best interests of the Fund and their investors, after taking into consideration all relevant facts and circumstances at the time of the vote. RVCM reviews each proposal submitted to the Funds for a vote on a case-by-case basis. When exercising its voting authority with respect to securities held by a Fund, RVCM considers information related to the applicable company, evaluates other issues that could have an impact on the value of the Fund's investment in the applicable company and votes with a view toward maximizing overall value to the Fund.

Item 18. Financial Information

RVCM does not require prepayment of any advisory fees six or more months in advance. There is no financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair RVCM's ability to continue to meet its contractual commitments and provide services to its clients. RVCM has never filed for bankruptcy protection.
