Our brokerage services principally consist of executing buy and sell orders of securities on your behalf via a brokerage account. You will pay us a transaction-based fee each time you buy or sell an investment. When we provide brokerage services, we may recommend investments, or you may select them, but the ultimate decision regarding an investment strategy or the purchase or sale of an investment will be yours. Although we do not provide ongoing monitoring of brokerage accounts, we will review your account and consider your indicated objectives before making a recommendation. You will be provided brokerage account statements on a quarterly or monthly basis. There is no minimum to open a brokerage account.	We offer retail investors<sup>3</sup> advisory services through managed accounts, including investment management and/or a wrap program that we act as sponsor and portfolio manager. Our advisory services are based on your investment profile, particular investment strategy selected, subject to account restrictions we agree to follow. We do not restrict our advice to proprietary products or limited products or investments. However, our wrap fee program is limited to certain investment strategies. Our account minimums and other requirements vary depending on the particular service or program. We typically manage accounts on a discretionary basis, which means you allow us to buy and sell investments in your account and/or choose independent managers without asking you in advance. Advisory services, with the exception of our wrap program or asset management team, may be offered on a non-discretionary basis, which means we may give you advice and you decide which

What Fees Will I Pay?

Broker-Dealer Brokerage Accounts	Registered Investment Adviser Advisory Accounts
When you transact in a brokerage account, you will pay a transaction-based fee, generally known as a commission. The commission is based on the specific transaction, not the value of your account. With stocks or exchange-traded funds this fee is a commission. For other investments, such as a bond, this fee might be part of the price you pay for the investment, which is also known as "mark-up" or "mark-down". With other investments, such as mutual funds, this fee is usually referred to as a sales charge or "load" and can reduce the value of your investment. Certain investments, such as mutual funds, impose additional fees that will reduce the value of your investment over time. Also, with certain investments you may have to pay fees, such as surrender charges, when you sell the investment. In a brokerage account, more transactions result in higher costs. Fees are negotiated on an individual client basis. The amount you pay may depend on services you receive, program you select, an amount of assets in your account. For investment advisory services, in addition to an asset-based fee, you will also pay transaction fees, account maintenance fees, external manager fees, and/or additional administrative fees (such as wire fees, transfer fees, bank charges and other fees). You may choose to have an account with Bulltick BD or another broker-dealer. For our wrap program, our wrap fee is a comprehensive asset based fee which includes transaction costs for transactions that are generally executed through Bulltick BD (not including transactions executed away from Bulltick BD in limited circumstances) exchange fees, and other miscellaneous fees described in the Wrap Program Brochure). Our wrap fee is typically higher than our asset

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?</li> </ul>
What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations as my broker-dealer or when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?
When we provide you with a recommendation as your broker-dealer or act as your investment adviser, we must act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. Although these conflicts exist, we will always act in your best interest when we make a recommendation to you. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations and investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.
Broker-Dealer Brokerage Accounts	Registered Investment Adviser Advisory Accounts
In a brokerage account, we make money by buying and selling you securities and investment products. We could have an incentive to encourage you to make larger investments and buy and sell more frequently. Certain products, such as mutual funds, we receive continuing payments, known as “trails”. We could have an incentive to recommend investment products that include trails, even if other investments available to you have lower costs or may perform better. Because we are related to Bulltick RIA and Bulltick Insurance Agency (“BIA”), we have an incentive to encourage you to select them for affiliated products and services as it relates in additional compensation for your financial professional and the enterprise.	In a managed account, we are paid a fee based on the total assets in your account. We have an incentive for you to maximize the total assets in your account either through investing with us or adding cash or other investments to your account. We also have an incentive to engage in transactions that result in higher total assets in your account. In our wrap program, because transaction fees and costs are bundled, we could be incented to trade less frequently in your account. We, including our affiliates and financial professionals may earn higher fees, compensation, and other benefits when you invest in products, services or accounts that we (or one of our affiliates) advise, manage, or sponsor. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?</li> </ul>
How does your financial professionals make money?
Broker-Dealer Brokerage Accounts For brokerage accounts, your financial professional is paid a percentage of the selling compensation (commissions, markup, markdowns, loads—as described above) as well as trailing compensation. Therefore, the financial professional is incented to trade more frequently and to recommend, buy or sell investments that pay more compensation. Your financial professional is also paid a percentage of commission under a revenue sharing agreement with an unaffiliated electronic money institution for certain derivative products. These investments that result in revenue sharing payments may charge higher fees and return lower investment yields than lower cost options available to you that don't result in any revenue sharing payments.	Registered Investment Adviser Advisory Accounts For advisory accounts, your financial professional is paid a percentage of the total assets under management. Your financial professional if a registered representative of Bulltick BD or BIA will also receive a percentage of commissions and rate spreads on certain external financial products. Financial professional may also receive a portion of any hourly or flat fees attributed to financial planning and other services. There is an incentive for your financial professional to recommend investment products, not necessarily based on your needs, but based on the compensation received. We are required to put your interest first as part of our fiduciary duty. We have implemented policies to mitigate this conflict, including setting maximum sales charges.
Your financial professional may also receive non-cash compensation (e.g., reimbursement for certain expenses, gift, meal, entertainment and/or vendor conferences which may lead to recommendation or use of these vendors' products and services over vendors that don't provide them with non-cash compensation.
