

To Whom it May Concern:

In reference to certified mail dated Nov 22 2013: Matter of SEC, Administrative Action , and Joe Doxey and Wm James Daniels. File No. 3-15619

It is stated that I willfully violated certain laws of the Securities act of 1933.

I invested into PRHB because I believed that Mr. Doxey was telling the truth about his product. I invested my own money and believed at the time I was accredited because of my previous licensed series 7 status.

I did not intentionally do anything wrong.

I think is unfair for me to carry this administrative action on any type of record. It may in fact, prevent job opportunities for me.

I am currently enrolled in classes to receive a degree in Computer Networking.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere regret for adding shares to the market that were unregistered. It was not my intention to cause any problems whatsoever.

I do believe that the accredited status, in order to invest in some opportunities, should be modified. It is discriminatory in that, at times, very good opportunities present themselves but people with less money and assets are not allowed to participate. It assumes people have less intelligence and because of the separation of perceived classes it is discriminatory. I write this with all due respect to all parties involved and feel that the three attorneys that worked on this case for the SEC were professional and treated me with dignity.

Thank you,

Jim Daniels
