SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[Release No. 34-105997; File No. SR-NASDAQ-2026-061]

Self-Regulatory Organizations; The Nasdaq Stock Market LLC; Notice of Filing and Immediate Effectiveness of Proposed Rule Change to introduce Nasdaq TotalView Plus and Nasdaq Basic Plus Data Feeds

July 28, 2026.

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act"),[1] and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,[2] notice is hereby given that on July 24, 2026, The Nasdaq Stock Market LLC (the "Exchange" or "Nasdaq") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the Exchange. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The Exchange proposes to a proposal to introduce Nasdaq TotalView Plus and Nasdaq Basic Plus, two new data feeds which will offer consolidated top of book and depth of book information currently disseminated by The Nasdaq Stock Market LLC ("Nasdaq"), Nasdaq Texas, LLC ("Nasdaq Texas") and Nasdaq PHLX LLC equities ("Nasdaq PSX").

The text of the proposed rule change is available on the Exchange's Website at https://listingcenter.nasdaq.com/rulebook/nasdaq/rulefilings, and at the principal office of the Exchange.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The Exchange proposes to introduce Nasdaq TotalView Plus and Nasdaq Basic Plus, two new data feeds which will offer consolidated top of book and depth of book information currently disseminated by Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX. The new depth of book product, Nasdaq TotalView Plus, will combine information from Nasdaq TotalView, Nasdaq Texas TotalView, and PSX TotalView. The new top of book product, Nasdaq Basic Plus, will combine information from Nasdaq Basic (which includes both best bid and offer and last sale information), Nasdaq Texas BBO, Nasdaq Texas Last Sale, PSX BBO, and PSX Last Sale.

The proposed data feeds, Nasdaq TotalView Plus and Nasdaq Basic Plus, are modeled on the existing NLS Plus feed, which has disseminated consolidated last sale information from three Nasdaq-affiliated equity markets and the FINRA/Nasdaq TRF for over a decade.[3] Similar data feeds that consolidate data from multiple exchanges have been offered by other Self-Regulatory Organizations for about the same amount of time.[4]

[3] See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 74972 (May 15, 2015), 80 FR 29370 (May 21, 2015) (SR-Nasdaq-2015-055) (establishing the NLS Plus data feed).

This proposal will provide customers with a new option for consuming top-of-book and depth-of-book information. The current underlying feeds will remain available, and customers may choose to purchase those feeds as they do now. This proposal will also enable customers to purchase a consolidated feed through a single connection which may, for some customers, allow them to optimize the ingestion of data. Nothing in this proposal will change the depth of book or top of book information available in the market, as the underlying feeds will remain available, and the proposed feeds are simply amalgamations of those same underlying feeds.

Although the consolidation of top-of-book and depth-of-book data feeds from multiple affiliated exchanges is not new, the Exchange believes that such feeds will become more important with the commencement of overnight trading in December 2026. Because liquidity may be limited for certain stocks in the overnight session, the proposed consolidated feeds will provide investors with a broader view of the market than independent feeds, improving the ability of the investor to analyze market data in a lower liquidity environment. As such, we believe that the creation of these new feeds will facilitate the transition of investors to an overnight trading environment.

The Exchange also proposes two non-substantive changes to the NLS Plus feed, discussed in detail below.

Proposals to add Nasdaq TotalView Plus and Nasdaq Basic Plus to the Nasdaq Texas and Nasdaq PSX rulebooks are being submitted simultaneously.

Nasdaq Last Sale Plus

Nasdaq Last Sale Plus is a comprehensive data feed produced by Nasdaq Information LLC that provides last sale data from the Nasdaq U.S. equity markets (Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas,[15] Nasdaq PSX and the FINRA/Nasdaq TRF). Nasdaq Last Sale Plus also reflects cumulative volume real-time trading activity across all U.S. exchanges for Tape A, B, and C securities. Proposed Feeds

Nasdaq Basic Plus

The Exchange proposes Nasdaq Basic Plus, which will include the best bid and offer and last sale information for stocks listed on any of the Nasdaq U.S. Equity Markets (The Nasdaq Stock Market ("Nasdaq"), Nasdaq Texas ("NTX"), and Nasdaq PSX ("PSX")) or any exchange other than Nasdaq and displayed on any of the Nasdaq U.S. Equity Markets or the FINRA/Nasdaq TRF, including all information currently disseminated through Nasdaq Basic,[16] Nasdaq Texas BBO,[17] Nasdaq Texas Last Sale, PSX BBO,[18] and PSX Last Sale.

Nasdaq TotalView Plus

The Exchange proposes Nasdaq TotalView Plus, which will include, with respect to stocks listed on Nasdaq or on any exchange other than Nasdaq, all orders and quotes from all members of any of the Nasdaq U.S. Equity Markets and displayed on a Nasdaq U.S. Equity Market, including all information currently disseminated through Nasdaq TotalView, Nasdaq Texas TotalView, and PSX TotalView, and the aggregate size of such orders and quotes at each price level in the execution functionality of the Nasdaq U.S. equity markets.

In offering Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus, Nasdaq will be acting as a redistributor of depth-of-book[19] and top-of-book[20] products from Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX. Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus will be compiled from the same underlying feeds from Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX that are distributed to the purchasers of those feeds.

All of the market data distributed through Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus will be taken from the Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX data feeds, which will remain available to vendors. Although the proposed feeds will differ from the underlying feeds in certain ancillary characteristics, none of these ancillary characteristics will advantage the Exchange in any way relative to vendors, as all depend on independent sources of information equally available to both the Exchange and vendors.[21]

Nasdaq will have no competitive advantage over other market data vendors because the Exchange will consolidate the trading information needed to form Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus at the same time and using the same data feeds distributed to other vendors. Although Nasdaq will propose specific fees in a separate filing, the Exchange expects to set fees at a level that will provide vendors with the ability to offer competing products using the same underlying feeds at no cost disadvantage. As such, the Exchange will not have a speed, information, or cost advantage relative to other vendors in the creation or sale of consolidated data feeds.

With respect to speed, the path for the distribution of the information by the Exchange will not be faster than the path for distribution that would be used by a market data vendor to distribute similar, independently created products. As such, the Exchange will have no latency advantage over a competing market data vendor.

With respect to information, the same source of the market data to be used by the Exchange to create the two proposed products will also be available to any other market data vendor. Specifically, the Nasdaq system that will create and support Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus will access the underlying feeds from Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX from the same point as any market data vendor.

21 The proposed feeds will use timestamps in Epoch (or "Unix") time (the number of seconds since January 1, 1970). Epoch time is based on a universal standard available to all market participants and freely convertible from any other time measurement. The configuration of Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus will also differ from the underlying feeds through the creation of standardized headers or message structures. Such ancillary characteristics can be replicated by any vendor.

With respect to cost, the Exchange will submit a separate proposal to establish fees for Nasdaq Basic Plus and Nasdaq TotalView Plus. In that filing, the Exchange expects to set fees at a level that will provide vendors with the ability to offer a competing product using the same underlying feeds at no cost disadvantage.

As such, Nasdaq will have no competitive advantage over any market data vendor that may offer a similar or comparable product.

Other Changes

Nasdaq Last Sale Plus

The Exchange proposes two non-substantive changes to the Nasdaq Last Sale Plus data feed. First, the Exchange proposes removing a reference to Nasdaq Information LLC as the distributor of the feed because the legal entity distributing information is not necessary for the product description and not identified elsewhere in the Nasdaq rulebook for any other product. Second, the Exchange proposes to change an incorrect reference to Nasdaq BX to Nasdaq Texas, LLC.

Fees

Fees for Nasdaq TotalView Plus and Nasdaq Basic Plus will be proposed in a separate filing.

Implementation

The Exchange will announce the operative date of the proposed rule change to members and member organizations in an Equity Trader Alert.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,[22] in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,[23] in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest. This is because the proposal will offer customers additional choice in how they consume their depth of book and best bid and offer information and allow certain customers to optimize how they consume such information.

The proposal will expand customer choice by allowing them to select whether to purchase best bid and offer information through the separate data feeds of Nasdaq Basic, Nasdaq Texas BBO and PSX BBO (or any combination thereof) separately or in a single feed. Customers will similarly be able to consume Nasdaq TotalView, Nasdaq Texas TotalView, and PSX TotalView (or any combination thereof) separately or in a single feed. This is a well-established market feed structure offered by multiple exchanges over many years. The NLS Plus feed is one such example, and has been available for over a decade.[24] The New York Stock Exchange has offered a similar bid and offer feed for as long a period,[25] as have other exchanges.[26]

As set forth in more detail in Section 7, Nasdaq Basic Plus will provide substantially the same top-of-book information as the NYSE BQT feed, which provides best bid and offer and last sale information for the New York Stock Exchange and its affiliates,[27] and the Cboe One feed, which disseminates the aggregate best bid and offer of all displayed orders traded on Cboe's affiliated exchanges.[28]

The proposed Nasdaq TotalView Plus feed will also provide substantially the same depth-of-book information as the Cboe One Premium feed, which disseminates aggregated depth-of-book information for up to twelve price levels for the Cboe-affiliated exchanges,[29] and the NYSE Pillar Depth feed, which provides a consolidated view of the ten best price levels on both the bid and offer sides across the NYSE Group's combined limit order books for the NYSE-affiliated exchanges.[30]

The proposal will also allow certain customers to optimize consumption by ingesting information from multiple markets in a single connection, allowing subscribers to onboard and maintain access to market data more efficiently, which may result in cost savings for subscribers based on a more efficient configuration of data feeds.

This proposal will not change the depth of book or top of book information available in the market, as the consolidated feed will have the same information as the underlying feeds. As explained above, Nasdaq is acting as a redistributor of depth-of-book[31] and top-of-book[32] products from Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX. Also, as noted above, the proposed feeds will differ from the underlying feeds in certain ancillary characteristics, but none of these ancillary characteristics will advantage the Exchange in any way relative to vendors, as all depend on independent sources of information equally available to both the Exchange and vendors. Nasdaq will have no competitive advantage over other market data vendors because the Exchange will take the same data available to other market data vendors at the same time, and therefore will have neither a speed nor an information advantage over them. With respect to cost, the Exchange will propose in a separate filing to set fees at a level that will provide vendors with the ability to offer a competing product using the same underlying feeds at no cost disadvantage.

The non-substantive changes to the description of the NLS Plus data feed are designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest by removing an unnecessary reference to a corporate entity distributing market data and correcting the name of one of the Nasdaq affiliated exchanges.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Nothing in the proposal burdens inter-market competition (the competition among self-regulatory organizations) because the proposed changes do not alter the ability of non-affiliated markets to propose changes to their respective rulebooks to offer similar feeds, or alternative feeds to compete against these products, in response to these changes.

Nothing in the proposal burdens intra-market competition (the competition among consumers of exchange data) because the proposed feeds will be available to any market participant on a non-discriminatory basis.

Nothing in the proposal will burden the ability of market data vendors to compete with the Exchange. As explained above, Nasdaq is acting as a redistributor of depth of book and top of book products from Nasdaq, Nasdaq Texas, and Nasdaq PSX.

Nasdaq will have no competitive advantage over other market data vendors because the Exchange will take the same data available to other market data vendors at the same time, and therefore will have neither a speed nor an information advantage over them. With respect to cost, the Exchange will propose in a separate filing to set fees at a level that will provide vendors with the ability to offer a competing product using the same underlying feeds at no cost disadvantage. Although the proposed feeds will differ from the underlying feeds in certain ancillary characteristics, none of these ancillary characteristics will advantage the Exchange in any way relative to vendors, as all depend on independent sources of information equally available to both the Exchange and vendors.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were either solicited or received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Because the foregoing proposed rule change does not: (i) significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (ii) impose any significant burden on competition; and (iii) become operative for 30 days from the date on which it was filed, or such shorter time as the Commission may designate, it has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act[33] and subparagraph (f)(6) of Rule 19b-4 thereunder.[34]

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. If the Commission takes such action, the Commission shall institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule should be approved or disapproved.
