Item 4. Advisory Business

The Adviser is an investment adviser its principal place of business is in New York, NY. The Adviser commenced operations as a Registered Investment Adviser on March 21, 2014 and has been registered with the State of Ohio since March 21, 2014. The Adviser filed as an SEC registered adviser in 2017. Revere Investment Holdings LLC is the Parent Company of the Adviser. The officers of the company are as follows:

William F. Moreno CEO, CFO, Managing Member

Scott H. Fullman – President, Chief Compliance Officer

The Adviser provides investment advisory services both on a discretionary and non-discretionary basis to its clients, which include individuals and institutions with separately managed accounts and pooled investment vehicles intended for sophisticated investors and institutional investors. The Adviser limits its advice to investments in fixed-income securities, equity and equity-related securities, exchange traded funds, mutual funds, and money market funds. The Adviser utilizes a fundamental investment approach that emphasizes research and business valuation. We focus on the individual characteristics of each investment portfolio. To determine a company's upside potential and downside protection, we perform a review that includes analysis of historical and account profitability, liquidity, leverage, and asset management.

The Adviser provides advice to client accounts based on specific investments objectives and strategies. Under Certain circumstances, the Adviser may agree to tailor advisory services to the individual needs of clients. Currently, the Adviser tailors its advisory services according to a client's investment objectives, risk tolerance, age (if applicable), investment time horizon and personal preferences. For example, a client may refuse to purchase tobacco-related securities or automotive-related securities.

The Adviser does participate in wrap-fee program. Please refer to the wrap brochure for additional information.

On August 16, 2021, Revere Wealth Management LLC became the sub-advisor/portfolio manager of the Revere Sector Opportunity ETF, which trades on the New York Stock Exchange, under the symbol "RSPY." RSPY uses technical and macro analysis to manage this fund. On July 27, 2023, Revere Wealth Management LLC decided to close down the RSPY.

As of March 24, Revere Wealth Management LLC has 101 client accounts under management, with total assets of approximately $76.8 million.

Information about the Adviser is publicly available via the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission's website at:

<http://www.sec.gov/investor/brokers.htm>

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

Asset-Based Compensation

Revere Wealth Management has two different fee schedules, the Revere Flat Fee Schedule, and the Revere Wealth Ladder Fee Schedule. The difference in these schedules is the Flat Fee Schedule charges a fixed fee on equities based on total assets within a dollar bracket while the Ladder Fee Schedule charges percentages that decrease as assets hit certain breakpoints.

For example, in a Ladder Fee scenario, the client would pay 2 ½ percent on assets up to $249,999 and pay 2 ¼ percent on assets between the $250,000 and $499,999 range. So, a client with $450,000 would pay 2 ½ percent annually on the first $249,999, while paying 2 ¼ percent annually on the remaining amount. In a Flat Fee Scenario example, if a client has $270,000, they will pay a flat 2 ¼ percent all the assets.

The individual Investment Advisor Representative may choose either fee schedule and the clients can request one fee schedule over the other, as a matter of choice.

Revere Flat Fee Schedule:

The Adviser charges each client an investment management fee based on the value of the client's assets under management, in accordance with the following schedule:

Assets in the Account	Investment Management Fee (As an Annual % of Assets)
$0 to $249,999	2 ½ %
$250,000 to $499,999	2 ¼ %
$500,000 to $999,999	2 %
$1,000,000 to $3,000,000	1 ½ %
More than $3,000,000	1 %

Revere Ladder Fee Schedule

The Adviser charges each client an investment management fee based on the value of the client's assets under management, in accordance with the following schedule:

Assets in the Account	Investment Management Fee (As an Annual % of Assets)
Assets up to $249,999	2 ½ %
Assets between $250,000 to $499,999	2 ¼ %
Assets between $500,000 to $999,999	2 %
Assets between $1,000,000 to $3,000,000	1 ½ %
All assets over $3,000,000	1 %

All fixed-income portfolios will be billed at one percent (1 %) regardless of chosen fee schedule, unless otherwise stated in the client's individual advisory agreement.

Investment management fees are charged each quarter in advance or in arrears based on the total market value of the assets in the client account (including net unrealized appreciation or depreciation of investments) on the last day of the prior quarter. If a new client account is established during a quarter or a client makes an addition to their account during a quarter the investment management fee will be charged as of the effective date of the investment management agreement, or the date of the additional contribution based on the value of the assets as of the applicable date and will be prorated for the number of days remaining in the quarter. Upon termination during a quarter, the fee payable to the advisor will be calculated based on the value of assets on termination date and prorated for the number of days during the quarter in which the agreement was in effect.

The above grids reflect our standard fees; however, fees are negotiable. The schedule above reflects the maximum amount that Revere Wealth Management LLC may charge.

Increasing Alpha Sector Model Portfolio

In addition to the fee schedule above, Revere Wealth Management offers a Sector Model Portfolio. The Increasing Alpha Sector Model Portfolio is an investment strategy based on the 11 economic sector Exchange Traded Funds ("ETFs") that, in total, comprise the entire S&P 500 Index ("SPX"). The SPX, also known as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index, is comprised of 500 large-cap companies which are generally well-known blue-chip stocks such as FedEx, Apple, and Intel.

The goal of the Sector Model Portfolio is to outperform the SPX by selectively weighting the 11 economic sector ETFs that comprise the SPX; overweighting those sectors expected to outperform while underweighting or not investing in sectors expected to underperform the SPX. Chief Strategist and Portfolio Manager, Scott Fullman is the Investment Manager for clients choosing this investment strategy.

The fees associated with this portfolio strategy are set on Schedule C of the Client's fee agreement. If client chooses the Sector Model Portfolio, Schedule A fees that are above 2% will be reduced by ½ percent to take into account the ½ percent charged for the Sector Model Portfolio. In other words, client's total fees will not exceed 2 ½ percent in total from Schedule A and Schedule C combined.

Revere Sector Opportunity ETF

The Revere Sector Opportunity ETF is an actively managed exchange traded fund that is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, under the ticker symbol "RSPY." The Adviser is the sub-advisor for RSPY. The objective of this fund is to outperform the S&P 500 Index ("SPX") by weighting the 11 economic sectors that comprise SPX through the use of the Select Sector SPDR funds.

This fund collects a management fee of 1.15%, which includes a management fee of 0.95%. The Adviser's share of the fee is 0.75%, which is in addition to other management fees that are charged by The Adviser.

RSPY was dissolved on July 27, 2023.

Refunds on Prepaid Advisory Services:

Clients may be billed for services in advance or in arrears. Clients billed in advance that terminate their contract prior to the next billing period are entitled to a partial, pro-rated refund for the pre-payment of such services based on the number of days services have been rendered. Upon receiving your termination notice, the Firm will calculate advance fees due and return such fees no later than 30 days after your termination notice. If you do not receive a refund and you believe you are entitled to such, please contact the firm's Chief Compliance Officer at 212-688-2350.

Household Billing:

Depending on your agreement with your Investment Advisor Representative, accounts may be billed individual or based on entire households.

Schwab Fees:

Schwab has eliminated commissions for online trades of equities, ETFs and options (subject to $0.65 per contract fee). This means that, in most cases, when we buy and sell these types of securities, we will not have to pay any commissions to Schwab. We encourage you to review Schwab's pricing to compare the total costs of entering into a wrap fee arrangement versus a non-wrap fee arrangement. If you choose to enter into a wrap fee arrangement, your total cost to invest could exceed the cost of paying for brokerage and advisory services separately. To see what you would pay for transactions in a non-wrap account please refer to Schwab's most recent pricing schedules available at schwab.com/aspricingguide.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

This item is applicable if the Adviser or any of its supervised persons accepts performance-based fees – that is fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client such as a client that is a Hedge fund. This item is not applicable to clients of Revere Wealth Management.

Item 7. Types of Clients

The Adviser's client consists of individuals, banks, thrift institutions, pension and profit-sharing plans, charitable organizations, corporations, and other business entities.

The Adviser requires that a client invests a minimum of $100,000 to open an account although specific minimum account sizes may vary. On a case-by-case basis, this minimum account value may be waived based on client type, asset class, pre-existing relationship with the client and other factors. If the account size falls below the minimum requirement due to market fluctuations only, a client will not be required to invest additional funds with the Adviser to meet the minimum account size.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies. The Adviser utilizes a variety of methods and strategies to make investment decisions and recommendations. The methods of analysis include fundamental research, charting analysis, macro analysis, cyclical analysis as well as use of technical analytical tools and approaches.

The Adviser employs the following investment strategies:

Buy and Hold. The Adviser engages in a buy and hold investment strategy wherein the Adviser buys securities and generally holds them for an extended period of time, regardless of short-term factors such as fluctuations in the market or volatility of the stock price.

Equity. The Adviser's equity strategy focuses on a broad range of equity investment styles, including growth, core, value, and yield, as well as portfolios designed to be "style-neutral". Some client accounts focus on specific ranges on the capitalization scale, from micro-cap, through small-cap, mid-cap, and large-cap, to mega-cap. Other client accounts will focus on investment opportunities in more than one capitalization category or across all capitalization levels. In addition, the Adviser manages client accounts that are global, multi-national, or focused on specific geographic regions or specific countries.

Fundamental Value. The Adviser engages in a fundamental value investment strategy wherein the Adviser attempts to invest in asset-oriented securities the Adviser believes are undervalued by the market.

Growth. The Adviser engages in a capital growth investment strategy wherein the Adviser attempts to select securities of a company whose earnings the Adviser expects to grow at an above-average rate compared to the company's specific industry or the overall market.

Value and/or Yield. The Adviser engages in an investment strategy wherein the Adviser attempts to select securities that are considered to be “Value” oriented, with less growth potential and less volatile, but may also pay a higher dividend payment or “Yield.”

Option Trading. The Adviser may engage in option trading. Options are investments whose ultimate value is determined from the value of the underlying investment. The Adviser engages only in covered calls to enhance income on certain investments.

The Adviser may use any additional strategies and products it deems necessary to meet the clients’ investment goals.

Material Risks (Including Significant, or Unusual Risks) Relating to Investment Strategies.

Issuer-Specific Changes: Changes in the financial condition of an issuer or counterparty, changes in specific economic or political conditions that affect a particular type of security or issuer, and changes in general economic or political conditions can increase the risk of default by an issuer or counterparty, which can affect a security's or instrument's value. The value of securities of smaller, less well-known issuers can be more volatile than that of larger issuers. Smaller issuers can have more limited product lines, markets, or financial resources. Risks Associated with Types of Securities that are Primarily Recommended (Including Significant, or Unusual Risks).

Equity Securities: The value of equity securities fluctuates in response to issuer, political, market, and economic developments. Fluctuations can be dramatic over the short as well as long term, and different parts of the market and different types of equity securities can react differently to these developments. For example, large cap stocks can react differently from small cap stocks, and "growth" stocks can react differently from "value" stocks. Issuer, political, or economic developments can affect a single issuer, issuers within an industry or economic sector or geographic region, or the market as a whole. Changes in the financial condition of a single issuer can impact the market as a whole.

Terrorism: Terrorism and related geo-political risks have led, and may in the future lead, to increased short-term market volatility and may have adverse long-term effects on world economies and markets generally.

Epidemic and Pandemic: These risks, may significantly affect one security, one sector or an entire market. As with terrorism, these risks may lead to increased short-term market volatility and may have adverse long-term effects on world economies and markets generally.

Fixed-Income and Debt Securities: Investment in fixed-income and debt securities such as bonds, notes, and asset-backed securities, subject a client’s portfolios to the risk that the value of these securities overall will decline because of rising interest rates. Similarly, portfolios that hold such securities are subject to the risk that the portfolio’s income will decline because of falling interest rates. Investments in these types of securities will also be subject to the credit risk created when a debt issuer fails to pay interest and principal in a timely manner, or that negative perceptions of the issuer’s ability to make such payments will cause the price of that debt to decline. Lastly, investments in debt securities will also subject the investments to the risk that the securities may fluctuate more in price, and are less liquid than higher-rated securities because issuers of such lower-rated debt securities are not as strong financially and are more likely to encounter financial difficulties and be more vulnerable to adverse changes in the economy.

REITs (Real-Estate Investment Trusts): REITs in which the Adviser invests client accounts are affected by underlying real estate values, which may have an exaggerated effect to the extent that REITs in which the Adviser invests concentrate investments in particular geographic regions or property types of Investments in REITs are also subject to the risk of interest rate volatility. Further, rising interest rates will cause investors in REITs to demand a higher annual yield from future distributions, which will in turn decrease market prices for equity securities issued by REITs. REITs are subject to risks inherent in operating and financing a limited number of projects because they are dependent upon specialized management skills and have limited diversification. REITs depend generally on their ability to generate cash flow to make distributions to investors. Lastly, REITs are generally illiquid. This means there may not be a market to sell such investments. REITs are generally meant to be held for a period of 5-7 years, or longer.

Options: In connection with the use of options, there may be an imperfect correlation between the change in market value of a security and the prices of the options in the client's account. In addition, the risks associated with the advisor's investment in covered calls may result in the client's underlying investment or stock being called away if the option is exercised.

IMPORTANT: Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

The Firm's affiliated broker-dealer, Revere Securities LLC and its owners do have disciplinary disclosures. They are available for review from FINRA's Brokercheck and also disclosed via the SEC's Investment Advisor Public Disclosure Websites.

Brokercheck: <http://brokercheck.finra.org/>

SEC Public Disclosure: <https://www.sec.gov/investor/brokers.htm>

Copies of these disclosures are also available upon written request to either address on the cover page of this document.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

In addition to being registered as an investment adviser, the Firm recommends its affiliated broker-dealer, Revere Securities LLC (CRD Number 14178). Certain members of the Adviser's management are also registered representatives.

The affiliated broker-dealer, effects securities transactions on behalf of its Revere Wealth Management's advisory clients. This arrangement represents a conflict of interest because the Adviser has an economic incentive to use its affiliated broker-dealer for its clients' securities transactions, in lieu of selecting other broker-dealers to effect client securities transactions. Further, as certain Investment Advisor Representatives are also registered representatives with our affiliated broker-dealer, registered representatives in such capacity will receive remuneration for brokered services in the form of commissions. This conflict of interest is disclosed to clients and the Adviser follows the evaluation policies and procedures disclosed in Item 12 to minimize such conflicts.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

The Adviser has adopted a Code of Ethics (the “Code”) that obligates the Adviser and its related persons to put the interests of the Adviser’s clients before their own interests and to act honestly and fairly in all respects in their dealings with clients. All of the Adviser’s personnel are also required to comply with applicable Federal and State securities laws. Clients or prospective clients may obtain a copy of the Code by contacting Scott Fullman (Chief Compliance Officer) by email at Compliance@reveresecurities.com, or by telephone at (212)-688-2661.

See below for further provisions of the Code as they relate to the pre-clearing and reporting of securities transactions by related persons.

The Adviser, in the course of its investment management and other activities (e.g., board or creditor committee service), may come into possession of confidential or material nonpublic information about Issuers, including issuers in which the Adviser or its related persons have invested or seek to invest on behalf of clients. The Adviser is prohibited from improperly disclosing or using such information for its own benefit or for the benefit of any other person, regardless of whether such other person is a client.

The Adviser maintains and enforces written policies and procedures that prohibit the communication of such information to persons who do not have a legitimate need to know such information and to assure that the Adviser is meeting its obligations to clients and remains in compliance with applicable law. In certain circumstances, the Adviser may possess certain confidential or material, nonpublic information that, if disclosed, might be material to a decision to buy, sell or hold a security, but the Adviser will be prohibited from communicating such information to the client or using such information for the client’s benefit. In such circumstances, the Adviser will have no responsibility or liability to the client for not disclosing such information to the client (or the fact that the Adviser possesses such information), or not using such information for the client’s benefit, as a result of following the Adviser’s policies and procedures designed to provide reasonable assurances that it is complying with applicable law.

The Adviser related persons may invest in the same securities (or related securities, e.g., warrants, options, or futures) that the Adviser or a related person recommends to clients. Such practices present a conflict where, because of the information an Adviser has, the Adviser or its related person are in a position to trade in a manner that could adversely affect clients (e.g., place their own trades before or after client trades are executed in order to benefit from any price movements due to the clients’ trades).

In addition to affecting the Adviser’s or its related person’s objectivity, these practices by the Adviser or its related persons may also harm clients by adversely affecting the price at which the clients’ trades are executed. In an effort to minimize such conflicts the Adviser’s code prohibits the Adviser’s related persons from executing personal securities transactions of any kind in any securities on a restricted securities list maintained by the Chief Compliance

Officer. All of the Adviser's related persons are also required to disclose their securities transactions on a monthly basis and holdings on a monthly basis. All of the Adviser's related persons are also required to provide broker confirmations of each transaction in which they engage. Trading in employee accounts will be reviewed by the Chief Compliance Officer and compared with transactions for the client accounts and reviewed against the restricted securities list.

The adviser's related persons may recommend securities to clients at or about the same time that such related persons buy or sell the same securities for their own account provided that either (1) the advisor receives the same or worse execution price as the client or (2) the advisor's transaction is executed only after all other transactions in the same security are executed for that particular trading day.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

The Adviser, acting in its capacity as a broker-dealer, executes securities transactions on behalf of its clients. Consistent with its duty to seek best execution, the Adviser, acting in its capacity as a broker-dealer considers several factors in setting the price of executing such securities transactions and determining the reasonableness of its compensation for such services. Such factors include net price, reputation, stability, efficiency of execution and error resolution of broker-dealers. When executing securities transactions and determining the reasonableness of the broker-dealer's compensation, the Adviser need not solicit competitive bids and does not have an obligation to seek the lowest available commission cost. The Adviser's Chief Compliance Officer performs periodic reviews to evaluate the Adviser's execution of client trades using the foregoing factors.

The Adviser, acting in its investment advisory capacity, does not receive research or other products or services other than execution in connection with its broker-dealer activities on behalf of advisory clients.

The Adviser often purchases or sells the same security for many clients at or near the same time and using itself as the executing broker. It is the Adviser's practice, where possible, to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of the same security submitted at or near the same time for execution. The Adviser will also aggregate in the same transaction, the same securities for accounts where the Adviser has brokerage discretion. Such aggregation may enable the Adviser to obtain for clients a more favorable price based upon the volume of a particular transaction. In cases where trading or investment restrictions are placed on a client's account, the Adviser may be precluded from aggregating that client's transaction with others. In such a case, the client may pay a higher commission rate and/or receive less favorable prices than clients who are able to participate in an aggregated order. When an aggregated order is completely filled, the Adviser allocates the securities purchase or proceeds of sale pro-rata among the participating accounts, based on the purchase or sale order. Adjustments or changes may be made under certain circumstances, such as to avoid odd lots or excessively small allocations. If the order at a particular broker is filled at several different prices, through multiple trades, generally all such participating accounts will receive the average price and pay the average commission, subject to odd lots, rounding, and market practice. If an aggregated order is only partially filled, the Adviser's procedures provide that the securities or proceeds are to be allocated in a manner deemed fair and equitable to clients. Depending on the investment strategy pursued and the type of security, this may result in a pro-rata allocation to all participating clients.

The Adviser and the broker-dealer are affiliates, which may create a conflict of interest. When a client directs the Adviser to use Revere Securities LLC (the broker-dealer which is affiliated with the Adviser) to effect transactions for the client, a conflict of interest arises because the Adviser has an incentive to place client trades with its affiliated broker-dealer instead of unaffiliated broker-dealers because the Adviser's organization earns commissions on such trades. By directing the Adviser to use the Adviser's affiliated broker-dealer or other broker-dealer to effect transactions, a client may receive higher brokerage and commission rates, less favorable execution of transactions and the potential of exclusion from the client's portfolio of certain foreign ordinary shares and/or small capitalization of illiquid securities due to the inability of the particular broker-dealer in question can provide adequate price and execution of all types of securities transactions. Not all advisors require their clients to direct brokerage. Generally, due to certain efficiencies and system integration, clients are expected to use Revere Securities LLC as the broker-dealer and any non-directed brokerage will use this affiliate. Requests for advisory accounts held outside of the Revere Securities platform may be denied due to numerous issues, including system integration issues, familiarity with the platform and services, and required minimal assets by the other custodian / broker-dealer in order to maintain accounts there. These, among other factors, may prohibit Revere Wealth Management LLC from using such other platforms or custodians.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Each client account is reviewed by a portfolio manager no less than quarterly to determine whether securities positions should be maintained in view of current market conditions. Matters reviewed include specific securities held, adherence to investment guidelines and the performance of each client account.

Significant market events affecting the prices of one or more securities in client accounts, changes in the investment objectives or guidelines of a particular client, a high number of trades or specific arrangements with a particular client may trigger reviews of client accounts on other than a periodic basis. This may be completed by the portfolio manager or the Chief Compliance Officer.

Each client receives, at a minimum, monthly account statements (quarterly, if no activity occurred the prior 2 months) that are delivered by U.S. Postal Service or electronically, if so, elected by the client. These are provided directly from the custodian on the accounts. In addition, each client that is a separate account may receive quarterly portfolio appraisals, performance reports and a client letter from the Adviser. Such appraisals, reports or letters may contain a brief synopsis of the market, a review of featured stocks, anticipated changes, and status of the client's account. Such reports may be delivered electronically to clients in accordance with the client's agreement with the Adviser.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

If someone who is not a client provides an economic benefit to the Advisor for providing investment advice or other advisory services to its clients, generally describe the arrangements, explain the conflicts of interest, and describe how the Adviser addresses the conflicts of interest. Economic benefits include any sales awards or other prizes.

Revere Securities LLC produces research or market commentaries that may be distributed to our advisory clients, along with clients of Revere Securities LLC. Revere Wealth Management LLC does not pay for such commentaries, and they are made available by our affiliate as a courtesy to our clients.

If the Advisor or a related person directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not its supervised person for client referrals, the arrangement and the compensation must be disclosed. This item is not applicable at the present time.

Revere Securities LLC. (“RS”) Cash Sweep Program Rebates:

RS receives rebates from our custodian (it’s clearing firm), StoneX Financial Inc. (“StoneX”) for funds placed in its Cash Sweep Program. Revere Securities can receive up to 45 basis points for investments carried in money market products. This creates a conflict of interest, as Revere Wealth Management is incentivized to carry funds in such product, resulting in rebates to its affiliated broker-dealer. It should be noted that such rebates do not affect the cost of such products to RWM clients in any way and neither RWM nor your individual Investment Advisor Representative receive any form of compensation from this arrangement.

Revere Securities Postage and Handling Fees:

To help cover the cost of charges from its clearing firm, StoneX, RS charges $5.95 postage and handling fees for each transaction, which is directly charged through its clearing firm (RWM’s custodian), StoneX and rebated back to Revere Securities LLC. As your Investment Advisory Representative may also be a registered account executive at Revere Securities, LLC; this creates a conflict of interest, and more transactions will generate additional postage and handling fees. Your individual Investment Advisor Representative may choose to absorb these fees on your behalf. If you are unsure if you are being charged, please discuss this with your Investment Advisor Representative and review your contract with Revere Wealth Management advisor.

Economic benefits of being on the Schwab platform

Revere Wealth Management may recommend/require that clients establish brokerage accounts with the Schwab Advisor Services division of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (Schwab), a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, to maintain custody of clients’ assets and to effect trades for their accounts. The final decision to custody assets with Schwab is at the discretion of the Advisor’s clients, including those accounts under ERISA or IRA rules and regulations, in which case the client is acting as either the plan sponsor or IRA accountholder. Revere Wealth Management is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab provides Revere Wealth Management with access to its institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to Schwab retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisors on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to advisors. Schwab’s services include brokerage services that are related to the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, including that in the form of advice, analyses and reports, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

Schwab also makes available to Revere Wealth Management other products and services that benefit Revere Wealth Management but may not benefit its clients' accounts. These benefits may include national, regional or Revere Wealth Management specific educational events organized and/or sponsored by Schwab Advisor Services. Other of these products and services assist Revere Wealth Management in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology (and related technological training) that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts), provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of Revere Wealth Management's fees from its clients' accounts, and assist with back-office training and support functions, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or some substantial number of Revere Wealth Management's accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab Advisor Services. Schwab Advisor Services also makes available to Revere Wealth Management's other services intended to help Revere Wealth Management manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include professional compliance, legal and business consulting, publications and conferences on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance, employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, insurance, and marketing. In addition, Schwab may make available, arrange and/or pay vendors for these types of services rendered to Revere Wealth Management by independent third parties. Schwab Advisor Services may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to Revere Wealth Management. While, as a fiduciary, Revere Wealth Management endeavors to act in its clients' best interests, Revere Wealth Management recommendation/requirement that clients maintain their assets in accounts at Schwab may be based in part on the benefit to Revere Wealth Management of the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements and not solely on the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab, which may create a potential conflict of interest.

Products & Services Available to Us from Schwab

Schwab Advisor Services is Schwab's business serving independent investment advisory firms like ours. They provide us and our clients with access to its institutional brokerage – trading, custody, reporting and related services – many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help us manage or administer our clients' accounts while others help us manage and grow our business. Schwab's support services are generally available on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to advisors.

Services that Benefit Client

Schwab's institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions, and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which we might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by our clients. Schwab's services described in this paragraph generally benefit clients or their account(s).

Services that May Not Directly Benefit Clients

Schwab also makes available to us other products and services that benefit us but may not directly benefit the client or their account(s). These products and services assist us in managing and administering our clients' accounts. They include investment research, both Schwab's own and that of third parties. We may use this research to service all or some substantial number of our clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition to investment research, Schwab also makes available software and other technology that:

- provides access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements);
- facilitates trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts;
- provides pricing and other market data;
- facilitates payment of our fees from our clients' accounts; and
- assists with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

Schwab also offers other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services include:

- educational conferences and events
- technology, compliance, legal, and business consulting;
- publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and
- access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers.

Schwab may provide some of these services itself. In other cases, it will arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to us. Schwab may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees.

Irrespective of direct or indirect benefits to our client through Schwab, we strive to enhance the client's experience, help reach their goals and put their interests before that of our firm or its associated persons.

Item 15. Custody

If the Adviser has custody of client funds or securities and a qualified custodian sends quarterly, or more frequent, account statements directly to the Adviser's clients, clients should carefully review those statements. This item is not applicable. The Adviser currently uses the Revere Securities LLC's trading platform, as provided by StoneX or Charles Schwab. StoneX is custodian for both firms, and they are a FINRA and SEC regulated broker-dealer and clearing firm. Schwab is an alternative clearing firm that is a FINRA and SEC regulated broker-dealer and clearing firm.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

The Adviser provides investment advisory services on a discretionary basis to clients, unless specifically stated otherwise in the client's contract. Please see Item 4 for a description of any limitation's clients may place on the Adviser's discretionary authority.

Prior to assuming limited discretion in managing a client's assets, the Adviser enters into an investment management agreement or other agreement that sets forth the scope of the Adviser's discretion.

Unless otherwise instructed or directed by a discretionary client, the Adviser has the authority to determine (i) the securities to be purchased and sold for the client account (subject to restrictions on its activities set forth in the applicable investment management agreement and any written investment guidelines) (ii) the amount of securities to be purchased or sold for the client account. Because of the differences in client investment objectives and strategies, risk tolerances, tax status and other criteria, there may be differences among clients in invested positions and securities held. The Adviser submits an allocation statement to the Adviser's trading desk describing the allocation of securities to client accounts for each trade/order submitted. The Adviser consider the following factors, among others, in allocating securities among clients: (i) client investment objectives and strategies; (ii) client risk profiles; (iii) tax status and restrictions placed on a client's portfolio by the client or by applicable law; (iv) size of the client account; (v) nature and liquidity of the security to be allocated; (vi) size of available position; (vii) current market conditions; and (viii) account liquidity, account requirements for liquidity and timing of cash flows. Although it is the Adviser's policy to allocate investment opportunities to eligible client accounts on a pro rata basis based on the value of the assets of each participating account relative to value of the assets of all participating accounts, these factors may lead the Adviser to allocate securities to client accounts in varying amounts. Even client accounts that are typically managed on a pari passu basis may from time to time receive differing allocations of securities based on total assets of each account eligible to invest in the particular investment type (e.g., equities) divided by the total assets of all accounts eligible to invest in the particular investment.

If it appears that a trade error has occurred, the Adviser will review the relevant facts and circumstances to determine an appropriate course of action. To the extent that trade errors and breaches of investment guidelines and restrictions occur, the Adviser's error correction procedure is to ensure that clients are treated fairly and, following error correction, are in the same position they would have been if the error had not occurred. The Adviser has discretion to resolve a particular error in any appropriate manner that is consistent with the above stated policy. All Trade errors are reviewed and approved in writing by the Chief Compliance Officer.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

The Adviser does not have authority to vote client securities. Clients will receive their proxies or other solicitations directly from their custodian. With respect to any questions about a particular solicitation, clients can contact Scott Fullman, Chief Compliance Officer by email at Compliance@reversecurities.com or by telephone at 212-688-2661.
