A. Description of the Advisory Firm

Oak Creek Private Wealth Management LLC (hereinafter "OCPWM") is a Limited Liability Company organized in the State of Oklahoma. The firm was formed in October 2019, and the principal owner is Pinnacle Holdings LLC.

B. Types of Advisory Services

Portfolio Management Services

OCPWM offers ongoing portfolio management services based on the individual goals, objectives, time horizon, and risk tolerance of each client. OCPWM creates an Investment Policy Statement for each client, which outlines the client's current situation (income, tax levels, and risk tolerance levels). Portfolio management services include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Investment strategy
- Asset allocation
- Risk tolerance
- Personal investment policy
- Asset selection
- Regular portfolio monitoring

OCPWM evaluates the current investments of each client with respect to their risk tolerance levels and time horizon. OCPWM will request discretionary authority from clients in order to select securities and execute transactions without permission from the client prior to each transaction. Risk tolerance levels are documented in the Investment Policy Statement, which is given to each client.

OCPWM seeks to provide that investment decisions are made in accordance with the fiduciary duties owed to its accounts and without consideration of OCPWM's economic, investment or other financial interests. To meet its fiduciary obligations, OCPWM attempts to avoid, among other things, investment or trading practices that systematically advantage or disadvantage certain client portfolios, and accordingly, OCPWM's policy is to seek fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities/transactions among its clients to avoid favoring one client over another over time. It is OCPWM's policy to allocate investment opportunities and transactions it identifies as being appropriate and prudent among its clients on a fair and equitable basis over time.

Selection of Other Advisers

OCPWM will direct clients to third-party investment advisers. Before selecting other advisers for clients, OCPWM will verify that all recommended advisers are properly licensed, notice filed, or exempt in the states where OCPWM is recommending the adviser to clients. OCPWM will specifically direct clients to Envestnet Asset Management, Inc. (hereinafter "Envestnet") CRD#111694.

In general, Envestnet offers its services to OCPWM as sub-advisory services to be performed on Client's account at the direction of OCPWM, and in certain limited instances, Envestnet works directly with the Client. In addition to the Envestnet sub-advisory services offered in the Programs, Envestnet also offers OCPWM many advisory service tools, whereby Envestnet provides only administrative and technology services and investment research and due diligence. OCPWM determines which services and Programs of Envestnet to utilize with its Clients and may utilize the services of other third-party services providers in conjunction with the Programs. The selection of services offered by Envestnet include:

- ♣ Assessment assistance of the Client's investment needs and objectives
- ♣ Investment policy planning assistance
- ♣ Assistance in development of an asset allocation strategy designed to meet the Client's objectives
- ♣ Recommendations on suitable style allocations
- ♣ Identification of appropriate managers and investment vehicles suitable to the Client's goals
- ♣ Evaluation of asset managers and investment vehicles meeting style and allocation criteria

- ♣ Fully integrated back office support systems to advisors, including interfacing with Client's custodian, trade order placement, and confirmation and statement generation. Access to third party platforms and strategies through the ENV Platform.

All clients will be provided a copy of the ADV Part 2A brochure and Appendix 1 for Envestnet.

- identifying investment objectives and restrictions
- providing guidance on various assets classes and investment options
- recommending money managers to manage plan assets in ways designed to achieve objectives

OCPWM generally limits its investment advice to mutual funds, fixed income securities, real estate funds (including REITs), insurance products including annuities, equities, hedge funds, private equity funds, ETFs (including ETFs in the gold and precious metal sectors), non-U.S. securities, venture capital funds and private placements. OCPWM may use other securities as well to help diversify a portfolio when applicable.

C. Client Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

OCPWM offers the same suite of services to all of its clients. However, specific client investment strategies and their implementation are dependent upon the client Investment Policy Statement which outlines each client's current situation (income, tax levels, and risk tolerance levels). Clients may impose restrictions in investing in certain securities or types of securities in accordance with their values or beliefs. However, if the restrictions prevent OCPWM from properly servicing the client account, or if the restrictions would require OCPWM to deviate from its standard suite of services, OCPWM reserves the right to end the relationship.

D. Wrap Fee Programs

A wrap fee program is an investment program where the investor pays one stated fee that includes management fees, transaction costs, and certain other administrative fees. OCPWM recommends Envestnet Asset Management, Inc. which in turn manages a wrap fee program.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, & Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Methods of Analysis

OCPWM's methods of analysis include Fundamental analysis, Modern portfolio theory and Quantitative analysis.

Fundamental analysis involves the analysis of financial statements, the general financial health of companies, and/or the analysis of management or competitive advantages.

Modern portfolio theory is a theory of investment that attempts to maximize portfolio expected return for a given amount of portfolio risk, or equivalently minimize risk for a given level of expected return, each by carefully choosing the proportions of various asset.

Quantitative analysis deals with measurable factors as distinguished from qualitative considerations such as the character of management or the state of employee morale, such as the value of assets, the cost of capital, historical projections of sales, and so on.

Investment Strategies

OCPWM uses long term trading and short term trading.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

B. Material Risks Involved

Methods of Analysis

Fundamental analysis concentrates on factors that determine a company's value and expected future earnings. This strategy would normally encourage equity purchases in stocks that are undervalued or priced below their perceived value. The risk assumed is that the market will fail to reach expectations of perceived value.

Modern portfolio theory assumes that investors are risk averse, meaning that given two portfolios that offer the same expected return, investors will prefer the less risky one. Thus, an investor will take on increased risk only if compensated by higher expected returns. Conversely, an investor who wants higher expected returns must accept more risk. The exact trade-off will be the same for all investors, but different investors will evaluate the trade-off differently based on individual risk aversion characteristics. The implication is that a rational investor will not invest in a portfolio if a second portfolio exists with a more favorable risk-expected return profile – i.e., if for that level of risk an alternative portfolio exists which has better expected returns.

Quantitative analysis Investment strategies using quantitative models may perform differently than expected as a result of, among other things, the factors used in the models, the weight placed on each factor, changes from the factors' historical trends, and technical issues in the construction and implementation of the models.

Investment Strategies

Long term trading is designed to capture market rates of both return and risk. Due to its nature, the long-term investment strategy can expose clients to various types of risk that will typically surface at various intervals during the time the client owns the investments. These risks include but are not limited to inflation (purchasing power) risk, interest rate risk, economic risk, market risk, and political/regulatory risk.

Selection of Other Advisers: OCPWM's selection process cannot ensure that money managers will perform as desired and OCPWM will have no control over the day-to-day operations of any of its selected money managers. OCPWM would not necessarily be aware of certain activities at the underlying money manager level, including without limitation a money manager's engaging in unreported risks, investment "style drift" or even regulatory breaches or fraud.

Short term trading risks include liquidity, economic stability, and inflation, in addition to the long term trading risks listed above. Frequent trading can affect investment performance, particularly through increased brokerage and other transaction costs and taxes.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

C. Risks of Specific Securities Utilized

Clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any investment strategy. The investment types listed below are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency.

Mutual Funds: Investing in mutual funds carries the risk of capital loss and thus you may lose money investing in mutual funds. All mutual funds have costs that lower investment returns. The funds can be of bond “fixed income” nature (lower risk) or stock “equity” nature.

Equity investment generally refers to buying shares of stocks in return for receiving a future payment of dividends and/or capital gains if the value of the stock increases. The value of equity securities may fluctuate in response to specific situations for each company, industry conditions and the general economic environments.

Fixed income investments generally pay a return on a fixed schedule, though the amount of the payments can vary. This type of investment can include corporate and government debt securities, leveraged loans, high yield, and investment grade debt and structured products, such as mortgage and other asset-backed securities, although individual bonds may be the best known type of fixed income security. In general, the fixed income market is volatile and fixed income securities carry interest rate risk. (As interest rates rise, bond prices usually fall, and vice versa. This effect is usually more pronounced for longer-term securities.) Fixed income securities also carry inflation risk, liquidity risk, call risk, and credit and default risks for both issuers and counterparties. The risk of default on treasury inflation protected/inflation linked bonds is dependent upon the U.S. Treasury defaulting (extremely unlikely); however, they carry a potential risk of losing share price value, albeit rather minimal. Risks of investing in foreign fixed income securities also include the general risk of non-U.S. investing described below.

Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs): An ETF is an investment fund traded on stock exchanges, similar to stocks. Investing in ETFs carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding bankruptcy). Areas of concern include the lack of transparency in products and increasing complexity, conflicts of interest and the possibility of inadequate regulatory compliance. Risks in investing in ETFs include trading risks, liquidity and shutdown risks, risks associated with a change in authorized participants and non-participation of authorized participants, risks that trading price differs from indicative net asset value (iNAV), or price fluctuation and disassociation from the index being tracked. With regard to trading risks, regular trading adds cost to your portfolio thus counteracting the low fees that one of the typical benefits of ETFs. Additionally, regular trading to beneficially “time the market” is difficult to achieve. Even paid fund managers struggle to do this every year, with the majority failing to beat the relevant indexes. With regard to liquidity and shutdown risks, not all ETFs have the same level of liquidity. Since ETFs are at least as liquid as their underlying assets, trading conditions are more accurately reflected in implied liquidity rather than the average daily volume of the ETF itself. Implied liquidity is a measure of what can potentially be traded in ETFs based on its underlying assets. ETFs are subject to market volatility and the risks of their underlying securities, which may include the risks associated with investing in smaller companies, foreign securities, commodities, and fixed income investments (as applicable). Foreign securities in particular are subject to interest rate, currency exchange rate, economic, and political risks, all of which are magnified in emerging markets. ETFs that target a small universe of securities, such as a specific region or market sector, are generally subject to greater market volatility, as well as to the specific risks associated with that sector, region, or other focus. ETFs that use derivatives, leverage, or complex investment strategies are subject to additional risks. Precious Metal ETFs (e.g., Gold, Silver, or Palladium Bullion backed “electronic shares” not physical metal) specifically may be negatively impacted by several unique factors, among them (1) large sales by the official sector which own a significant portion of aggregate world holdings in gold and other precious metals, (2) a significant increase in hedging activities by producers of gold or other precious metals, (3) a significant change in the attitude of speculators and investors. The return of an index ETF is usually different from that of the index it tracks because of fees, expenses, and tracking error. An ETF may trade at a premium or discount to its net asset value (NAV) (or indicative value in the case of exchange-traded notes). The degree of liquidity can vary significantly from one ETF to another and losses may be magnified if no liquid market exists for the ETF's shares when attempting to sell them. Each ETF has a unique risk profile, detailed in its prospectus, offering circular, or similar material, which should be considered carefully when making investment decisions.

Real estate funds (including REITs) face several kinds of risk that are inherent in the real estate sector, which historically has experienced significant fluctuations and cycles in performance. Revenues and cash flows may be adversely affected by: changes in local real estate market conditions due to changes in national or local economic conditions or changes in local property market characteristics; competition from other properties offering the same or similar services; changes in interest rates and in the state of the debt and equity credit markets; the ongoing need for capital improvements; changes in real estate tax rates and other operating expenses; adverse changes in governmental rules and fiscal policies; adverse changes in zoning laws; the impact of present or future environmental legislation and compliance with environmental laws.

Annuities are a retirement product for those who may have the ability to pay a premium now and want to guarantee they receive certain monthly payments or a return on investment later in the future. Annuities are contracts issued by a life insurance company designed to meet requirement or other long-term goals. An annuity is not a life insurance policy. Variable annuities are designed to be long-term investments, to meet retirement and other long-range goals. Variable annuities are not suitable for meeting short-term goals because substantial taxes and insurance company charges may apply if you withdraw your money early. Variable annuities also involve investment risks, just as mutual funds do.

Hedge funds often engage in leveraging and other speculative investment practices that may increase the risk of loss; can be highly illiquid; are not required to provide periodic pricing or valuation information to investors; May involve complex tax structures and delays in distributing important tax information; are not subject to the same regulatory requirements as mutual funds; and often charge high fees. In addition, hedge funds may invest in risky securities and engage in risky strategies.

Private equity funds carry certain risks. Capital calls will be made on short notice, and the failure to meet capital calls can result in significant adverse consequences, including but not limited to a total loss of investment.

Private placements carry a substantial risk as they are subject to less regulation than are publicly offered securities, the market to resell these assets under applicable securities laws may be illiquid, due to restrictions, and the liquidation may be taken at a substantial discount to the underlying value or result in the entire loss of the value of such assets.

Venture capital funds invest in start-up companies at an early stage of development in the interest of generating a return through an eventual realization event; the risk is high as a result of the uncertainty involved at that stage of development.

Non-U.S. securities present certain risks such as currency fluctuation, political and economic change, social unrest, changes in government regulation, differences in accounting and the lesser degree of accurate public information available.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

A. Criminal or Civil Actions

There are no criminal or civil actions to report.

B. Administrative Proceedings

There are no administrative proceedings to report.

C. Self-regulatory Organization (SRO) Proceedings

There are no self-regulatory organization proceedings to report.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

A. Registration as a Broker/Dealer or Broker/Dealer Representative

Neither OCPWM nor its representatives are registered as, or have pending applications to become, a broker/dealer or a representative of a broker/dealer.

B. Registration as a Futures Commission Merchant, Commodity Pool Operator, or a Commodity Trading Advisor

Neither OCPWM nor its representatives are registered as or have pending applications to become either a Futures Commission Merchant, Commodity Pool Operator, or Commodity Trading Advisor or an associated person of the foregoing entities.

C. Registration Relationships Material to this Advisory Business and Possible Conflicts of Interests

Due to Oak Creek Private Wealth Management's affiliation with Pinnacle Holdings, the following potential conflicts of interest exist. Pinnacle Holdings is the parent company of Pinnacle Investment Advisors and Native American Fund Advisors. Both are registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Pinnacle acts as managing member of Pinnacle Acquisition Fund II, a private investment partnership and has a proprietary interest in the fund. Pinnacle Acquisition Fund II is a limited liability company whose members consist solely of accredited investors. The company was formed to buy and sell publicly traded securities, using margin transactions for leverage, and using options on interest rate futures, options on common stocks, options on index futures, and short sale positions for hedging purposes. Pinnacle receives a share of the profits and losses of the company. Pinnacle receives performance fees for Pinnacle Acquisition Fund II in addition to management fees; we receive a 10% share of the net income from Pinnacle Acquisition Fund II.

Pinnacle also acts as a managing partner for Pinnacle Income Partners II, an Oklahoma limited liability company that was formed to invest in publicly traded master limited partnerships. The fund pays a management fee to Pinnacle for acting as a managing partner. Membership in the companies is restricted to accredited investors only. Pinnacle has a proprietary interest in Pinnacle Income Partners II and is eligible to receive a performance based fee (in addition to the management fee) of 1.0% of assets under management, if the annual return exceeds 12.0% in a given calendar year, after the normal management fee.

Pinnacle acts as a managing member of Coronado Capital, an Oklahoma limited liability company formed to invest in publicly traded small and regional banks. Pinnacle is eligible to receive a 15% share of annual return in excess of the 12% hurdle rate.

Due to the receipt of performance fees on the private funds, a potential conflict of interest exists between Pinnacle and its separately managed client accounts. The firm could benefit by allocating profitable trades to the private funds instead of to the separate client accounts. One way to avoid this conflict is through the timing of placement of orders as described in the paragraph below. More information about this potential conflict of interest is addressed in the firm's written compliance policies and procedures and is available upon request. As a managing member, Pinnacle Investment Advisors solicits current and prospective clients for investment in Pinnacle Acquisition Fund II, Pinnacle Income Partners II, and Coronado Capital LLC. Since the firm receives performance fees, there exists a potential conflict of interest for the firm to recommend the private funds to potential clients. Related persons, including the private funds, will by policy be the last order filled in when purchases and sales of recommended securities are executed for managed portfolios. The specific policies and procedures are defined in the firm's written compliance policies. Related persons will be required to obtain prior approval from one of the Managing Partners before entering an order. Duplicate copies of all related person transactions will be kept on file with the firm's books and records.

Due to the risk of the firm having constructive custody of the assets of the private funds, the firm has developed policies and procedures to comply with the SEC's Custody Rule. The assets of the private funds are held at qualified independent custodians. Mysock, Chevaillier, and Birdsong of Tulsa, Oklahoma, receives brokerage statements directly from the fund custodians and produces the quarterly financial statements and annual tax returns. The firm has engaged Briscoe, Burke & Grigsby LLP of Tulsa, Oklahoma, to provide surprise examinations of fund assets and verify account balances with the fund investors for Pinnacle Income Partners II. The firm has retained Briscoe, Burke, and Grigsby of Tulsa, Oklahoma to audit the financial statements of the other private funds.

Pinnacle Investment Advisors founded the Tulsa Fiduciary Fund in the fourth quarter of 2021. Tulsa Fiduciary Fund is a non-profit, 501(c)-3 corporation, formed to provide transparent investment management and administration for donor advised funds that benefit non-profit organizations in Tulsa and northeast Oklahoma. The firm receives a share of the fees charged to the Fund for administration and management of the investment accounts, therefore a potential conflict of interest is present. The firm may be incentivized to direct clients to contribute to the Tulsa Fiduciary Fund rather than other non-profit organization endowments. The firm will fully disclose the potential revenues received from contributions to the fund.

D. Selection of Other Advisers or Managers and How This Adviser is Compensated for Those Selections

OCPWM may direct clients to third-party investment advisers to manage all or a portion of the client's assets. Clients will pay OCPWM its standard fee in addition to the standard fee for the advisers to which it directs those clients. This relationship will be memorialized in each contract between OCPWM and each third-party advisor. The fees will not exceed any limit imposed by any regulatory agency. OCPWM will always act in the best interests of the client, including when determining which third-party investment adviser to recommend to clients. OCPWM will ensure that all recommended advisers are licensed or notice filed in the states in which OCPWM is recommending them to clients.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics

OCPWM has a written Code of Ethics that covers the following areas: Prohibited Purchases and Sales, Insider Trading, Personal Securities Transactions, Exempted Transactions, Prohibited Activities, Conflicts of Interest, Gifts and Entertainment, Confidentiality, Service on a Board of Directors, Compliance Procedures, Compliance with Laws and Regulations, Procedures and Reporting, Certification of Compliance, Reporting Violations, Compliance Officer Duties, Training and Education, Recordkeeping, Annual Review, and Sanctions. OCPWM's Code of Ethics is available free upon request to any client or prospective client.

B. Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

OCPWM does not recommend that clients buy or sell any security in which a related person to OCPWM or OCPWM has a material financial interest.

C. Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

Representatives of OCPWM may buy or sell securities for themselves that they also recommend to clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of OCPWM to buy or sell the same securities before or after recommending the same securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. Such transactions may create a conflict of interest. OCPWM will always document any transactions that could be construed as conflicts of interest and will never engage in trading that operates to the client's disadvantage when similar securities are being bought or sold.

D. Trading Securities At/Around the Same Time as Clients' Securities

Representatives of OCPWM may buy or sell securities for themselves at or around the same time as clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of OCPWM to buy or sell securities before or after recommending securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. Such transactions may create a conflict of interest; however, OCPWM will never engage in trading that operates to the client's disadvantage if representatives of OCPWM buy or sell securities at or around the same time as clients.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker/Dealers

Custodians/broker-dealers will be recommended based on OCPWM's duty to seek "best execution," which is the obligation to seek execution of securities transactions for a client on the most favorable terms for the client under the circumstances. Clients will not necessarily pay the lowest commission or commission equivalent, and OCPWM may also consider the market expertise and research access provided by the broker-dealer/custodian, including but not limited to access to written research, oral communication with analysts, admittance to research conferences and other resources provided by the brokers that may aid in OCPWM's research efforts. OCPWM will never charge a premium or commission on transactions, beyond the actual cost imposed by the broker-dealer/custodian.

OCPWM will require clients to use Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services.

1. Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

While OCPWM has no formal soft dollars program in which soft dollars are used to pay for third party services, OCPWM may receive research, products, or other services from custodians and broker-dealers in connection with client securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits"). OCPWM may enter into soft-dollar arrangements consistent with (and not outside of) the safe harbor contained in Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. There can be no assurance that any particular client will benefit from soft dollar research, whether or not the client's transactions paid for it, and OCPWM does not seek to allocate benefits to client accounts proportionate to any soft dollar credits generated by the accounts. OCPWM benefits by not having to produce or pay for the research, products or services, and OCPWM will have an incentive to recommend a broker-dealer based on receiving research or services. Clients should be aware that OCPWM's acceptance of soft dollar benefits may result in higher commissions charged to the client.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

OCPWM receives no referrals from a broker-dealer or third party in exchange for using that broker-dealer or third party.

3. Clients Directing Which Broker/Dealer/Custodian to Use

OCPWM will require clients to use a specific broker-dealer to execute transactions. Not all advisers require clients to use a particular broker-dealer.

B. Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

If OCPWM buys or sells the same securities on behalf of more than one client, then it may (but would be under no obligation to) aggregate or bunch such securities in a single transaction for multiple clients in order to seek more favorable prices, lower brokerage commissions, or more efficient execution. In such case, OCPWM would place an aggregate order with the broker on behalf of all such clients in order to ensure fairness for all clients; provided, however, that trades would be reviewed periodically to ensure that accounts are not systematically disadvantaged by this policy. OCPWM would determine the appropriate number of shares and select the appropriate brokers consistent with its duty to seek best execution, except for those accounts with specific brokerage direction (if any).

Item 13: Review of Accounts

A. Frequency and Nature of Periodic Reviews and Who Makes Those Reviews

All client accounts for OCPWM's advisory services provided on an ongoing basis are reviewed at least Quarterly by Jayme D Fowler, Managing Member, with regard to clients' respective investment policies and risk tolerance levels. All accounts at OCPWM are assigned to this reviewer.

B. Factors That Will Trigger a Non-Periodic Review of Client Accounts

Reviews may be triggered by material market, economic or political events, or by changes in client's financial situations (such as retirement, termination of employment, physical move, or inheritance).

C. Content and Frequency of Regular Reports Provided to Clients

Each client of OCPWM's advisory services provided on an ongoing basis will receive a quarterly report detailing the client's account, including assets held, asset value, and calculation of fees. This written report will come from the custodian.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Other potential benefits may include occasional business entertainment of personnel of OCPWM by Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services personnel, including meals, invitations to sporting events, including golf tournaments, and other forms of entertainment, some of which may accompany educational opportunities. Other of these products and services assist OCPWM in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology (and related technological training) that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts, if applicable), provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of OCPWM's fees from its clients' accounts (if applicable), and assist with back-office training and support functions, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or some substantial number of OCPWM's accounts. Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services also makes available to OCPWM other services intended to help OCPWM manage and further develop its business enterprise. B. Compensation to Non – Advisory Personnel for Client Referrals

OCPWM does not directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not advisory personnel for client referrals.

Item 15: Custody

When advisory fees are deducted directly from client accounts at client's custodian, OCPWM will be deemed to have limited custody of client's assets and must have written authorization from the client to do so. Clients will receive all account statements and billing invoices that are required in each jurisdiction, and they should carefully review those statements for accuracy.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

OCPWM provides discretionary and non-discretionary investment advisory services to clients. The advisory contract established with each client sets forth the discretionary authority for trading. Where investment discretion has been granted, OCPWM generally manages the client's account and makes investment decisions without consultation with the client as to when the securities are to be bought or sold for the account, the total amount of the securities to be bought/sold, what securities to buy or sell, or the price per share. Clients may impose restrictions in investing in certain securities or types of securities in accordance with their values or beliefs. However, if the restrictions prevent OCPWM from properly servicing the client account, or if the restrictions would require OCPWM to deviate from its standard suite of services, OCPWM reserves the right to end the relationship.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities (Proxy Voting)

OCPWM will not ask for, nor accept voting authority for client securities. Clients will receive proxies directly from the issuer of the security or the custodian. Clients should direct all proxy questions to the issuer of the security.
