Item 4 Advisory Business

Firm Description

A. Describe your advisory firm, including how long you have been in business. Identify your principal owner(s).

Polaris Capital Management, LLC ("PCM") is a global and international value equity manager, serving the investment needs of institutions and individuals since 1995.

Principal Owners

Bernard R. Horn, Jr. is President of Polaris Capital Management, LLC and the Principal Owner.

Advisory Services

B. Describe the types of advisory services you offer.

Polaris offers global and international equity asset management services for institutions and high-net-worth individuals. Investment strategies are offered through a variety of vehicles, including but not limited to separate accounts, U.S. registered mutual funds, limited partnerships, collective investment trusts and an Irish domiciled ICAV.

C. Explain whether (and, if so, how) the firm tailors advisory services to the individual needs of clients. Explain whether clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Clients may impose investment guidelines for their portfolios such as a limit on exposure in emerging markets or restrictions on types of investments like derivatives. In general portfolios are all managed based on the designated Equity strategy.

D. If the firm participates in wrap fee programs by providing portfolio management services, (1) describe the differences, if any, between how the firm manages wrap fee accounts and how it manages other accounts, and (2) explain that the firm receives a portion of the wrap fee for its services.

Not applicable.

Client Assets

E. In your managed client assets, disclose the amount of client assets you manage on a discretionary basis and the amount of client assets you manage on a non-discretionary basis. Disclose the date "as of" which you calculated the amounts.

As of December 31, 2023, the firm managed approximately $11.8 billion on a discretionary basis.

Item 5 Fees and Compensation

A. Describe how you are compensated for your advisory services. Provide your fee schedule. Disclose whether the fees are negotiable.

Fees are billed monthly or quarterly in arrears, based on the market value of the portfolio.

0.75% on all assets

Separate account minimum $100 million

Fees and minimum account sizes may be negotiated. The minimum may be waived based on factors such as the number of related accounts controlled by the same persons or entity, the expected growth of the accounts, the scope of services provided to the customer (client service, marketing or distribution) and the investment objectives.

Typically, the advisory agreement may be terminable upon 60 days written notice by either party or as specified in the client agreement. In the event that the client relationship is terminated, fees are typically prorated for the current quarter or similarly prorated as specified in the client agreement.

Note: Fee schedule listed above does not include custody fees.

B. Describe whether you deduct fees from clients' assets or bill clients for fees incurred. If clients may select either method, disclose this fact. Explain how often you bill clients or deduct your fees.

Fees are either billed monthly or quarterly in arrears, based on the market value of the portfolio. Clients may choose to compute the fee themselves and pay directly or instruct the custodian to pay the Advisor directly from their custody account. Clients may choose to pay monthly or quarterly. The Advisor will reconcile all invoices and payments made from the account with the custodian statements. Limited Partnerships fees are computed into the NAV which is applied automatically to clients' assets.

C. Describe any other types of fees or expenses clients may pay in connection with firm's advisory services, such as custodian fees or mutual fund expenses. Disclose that clients will incur brokerage and other transaction costs, and direct clients to the section(s) of your brochure that discuss brokerage.

Clients may incur brokerage and other transaction costs as part of trade execution costs. Please refer to Item 12 of this brochure for further detail on Brokerage Practices.

D. If the firm's clients either may or must pay your fees in advance, disclose this fact. Explain how a client may obtain a refund of a pre-paid fee if the advisory contract is terminated before the end of the billing period. Explain how you will determine the amount of the refund.

Not applicable

E. If the firm or any of its supervised persons accepts compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds, disclose this fact.

Not applicable

Item 6 Performance-Based Fees and Side by Side Management

If you or any of your supervised persons accepts performance-based fees – that is, fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client (such as a client that is a hedge fund or other pooled investment vehicle) – disclose this fact. If you or any of your supervised persons manage both accounts that are charged a performance-based fee and accounts that are charged another type of fee, such as an hourly or flat fee or an asset-based fee, disclose this fact. Explain the conflicts of interest that you or your supervised persons face by managing these accounts at the same time, including that you or your supervised persons have an incentive to favor accounts for which you or your supervised persons receive a performance-based fee, and describe generally how you address these conflicts.

Clients of the firm may engage Polaris Capital Management to provide investment management services on a performance-based fee arrangement. Polaris currently has one relationship which pays both a management fee and a performance fee.

Polaris manages both account types that are charged a performance-based fee and accounts that are charged a fee based on a percentage of assets under management.

Polaris recognizes that such arrangements might create inherent pressure to allocate investments favorably to those clients with such a performance-based fee arrangement. To preclude these conflicts from arising, PCM requires that:

1. Portfolio decisions are made at the strategy level, not the portfolio level.
2. Pre-allocation of all orders are based on fee-neutral criteria.
3. Each portfolio receives average share price for those shares bought or sold in aggregation.
4. Each portfolio shares transaction costs on a pro-rata basis.

Polaris' Code of Ethics and Compliance policies explicitly prohibit any Polaris employee from placing the interests of one customer in advance of any other customer or otherwise benefiting a single customer at the potential detriment to another.

Item 7 Types of Clients

Description

Describe the types of clients to whom you generally provide investment advice, such as individuals, trusts, investment companies or pension plans. If you have any requirements for opening or maintaining an account, such as a minimum account size, disclose the requirements.

PCM serves as an investment adviser to institutional client types including but not limited to corporations, pension funds, retirement plans, charitable organizations, high-net-worth individuals and trusts.

Account Minimums

The minimum size for new separately managed accounts is $100 million. Fees and minimum account sizes may be negotiated.

Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

A. Describe the methods of analysis and investment strategies you use in formulating investment advice or managing assets.

Polaris employs an active, unconstrained (all countries, industries and market caps), value-oriented investment strategy. Since country and industry factors have influences on security prices, we employ a proprietary five factor global valuation model that produces a ranking of countries from the most undervalued to the most overvalued. It is a useful cross check on the company valuation screens. The model informs but does not direct the investment process.

Additionally, we believe that normal security price fluctuations can undervalue the cash flow or assets of a company. Using a series of valuation criteria, the Polaris team regularly screens a database of more than 40,000 companies to produce a list of approximately 500 – 2,000 companies that appear to be the most undervalued in the world regardless of country or industry. Screen criteria include the valuation of a company's sustainable "maintenance" cash flow relative to our required rate of return (referred to as the Polaris Capital Management "PCM" Global Cost of Equity), financial strength, market capitalization and liquidity, and margins, among other criteria. Importantly, the screens normalize financial statements across industries and countries. The intellectual property of the screening technology and fundamental analysis differentiates Polaris from competitors.

The investment team conducts detailed fundamental research on the companies identified by the valuation screens. Fundamental research covers financial analyses of companies including: in-depth financial statement analyses; researching suppliers, customers, and competitors; and visiting or contacting company management, competitors, suppliers, and customers. Firm professionals assess industry conditions, competitive advantages, profitability, operating and financial leverage, and the quality of management and corporate governance.

The focus of the process is on the Firm's concept of sustainable "maintenance" cash and the use of the PCM Global Cost of Equity (our required rate of return) to discount those cash flows to determine if the investment offers an attractive rate of return. The PCM Global Cost of Equity is the sum of three components. Two of the components are the long-term average return on equity markets of (assumed to be 7% after inflation), plus a 2% active management premium. In addition, a country risk premium is added to determine the full PCM Global Cost of Equity. The Firm's professionals apply the discount rate to extremely conservative estimates of future cash flows to determine the fair value of the investment. If the current market price of the shares is at or below the fair value of the shares as determined by this process and the company has withstood the scrutiny of the fundamental analysis, the company is a buy candidate.

The Polaris research process is almost entirely driven by a world-wide search for undervalued common stocks of well-run companies with sustainable business models that are priced to provide our required rate of return. Consequently, individual stock selection is paramount in the process, and the primary contributor to performance. The firm's success is attributed to the consistent and disciplined adherence to the Polaris investment process.

Investment Strategies

B. For each significant investment strategy or method of analysis the firm uses, explain the material risks involved. If the method of analysis or strategy involves significant or unusual risks, discuss the risks in detail. If the firm's primary strategy involves frequent trading of securities, explain how frequent trading can affect investment performance, particularly through increased brokerage and other transaction costs and taxes.

Polaris seeks to achieve better than benchmark returns with lower than benchmark risk where risk is measured as the beta of inception-to-date returns relative to the benchmark of the strategy. To achieve this risk objective, diversification is generally broad with portfolios made up of at least 15 industry groups, 15 countries, across all market capitalizations. There is no internal restriction on country or industry weightings. Portfolios may have exposure to emerging markets with a maximum of 25% portfolio weighting. Typically, global or international portfolios will hold 75 or 50 securities respectively. Portfolio positions are equally weighted at purchase, and may grow to approximately 5% of portfolio assets before being considered to be trimmed. Most investments are held for three to five years resulting in low portfolio turnover.

In the portfolio construction process, Polaris seeks to invest in securities with a broad range of market capitalization. As a result, Polaris may at times have a heavier weighting to large or small market capitalization companies. The minimum capitalization guideline for a new purchase is $100 million. There is no maximum market capitalization constraint. The firm may invest in securities from any country or any sector that meets its investment criteria. Country/sector/industry weightings result from bottom-up fundamental research – identifying the most undervalued stocks in the world. It is inconsistent to place restrictions beyond diversification limits without violating a strong commitment to the value discipline.

The entire investment process seeks to minimize risk and includes a number of checks and balances against risk. Risk is measured using the beta of monthly returns versus the benchmark; the inception-to-date beta has ranged between 0.6 and 0.9. The firm believes this demonstrates the validity of using the PCM Global Cost of Equity as a way to manage risk and return. In addition, the firm addresses risk and attempts to minimize errors throughout the investment process.

Portfolio holdings are monitored continuously: Country, industry, and database valuation screenings are repeated on a continuous basis and fundamental research is ongoing, as are daily reviews of news, research, and company results. Individual security risks are identified as the team performs fundamental research. To further control risk, portfolio additions are evaluated as to the amount of diversification an issue provides when compared to existing holdings.

Other risk mitigation tools employed by Polaris include:

- Use of high discount rate (discount rate is absolute and uses country yields)
- Conservative assumptions to reduce forecasting error
- Research based on primary sources of information
- Direct contact with company management, site visits, and assimilation of multiple sources of data about the proposed investment.

C. If the firm recommends primarily a particular type of security, explain the material risks involved. If the type of security involves significant or unusual risks, discuss these risks in detail.

Risk of Loss

Any investment in securities involves the possibility of financial loss that Clients should be prepared to bear.

Foreign investments involve certain special risks, including different economic, financial, political and social factors. With respect to certain countries, there is the possibility of expropriation of assets, confiscatory taxation, and imposition of exchange controls, social instability and political developments that could affect investments in those countries. Since the PCM investment process incorporates country risk premia in its valuation hurdle rates, the investment process attempts to evaluate the risk of such markets using observable market determined risk premiums in addition to judgment.

Item 9 Disciplinary Information

If there are legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of the firm's advisory business or the integrity of the firm's management, disclose all material facts regarding those events.

None

Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics

A. If the firm is an SEC-registered advisor, briefly describe your code of ethics adopted pursuant to SEC rule 204A-1 or similar state rules. Explain that you will provide a copy of your code of ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

PCM has adopted a Code of Ethics and Insider Trading Procedures (the "Code"). The Code states that each employee shall place the interests of PCM's clients ahead of their own. Each employee is required to conduct all personal securities transactions in a manner that is consistent with the Code and to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest. No Access Person shall use the knowledge of securities purchased or sold by any client of PCM or securities being considered for the purchase or sale by any client of PCM to profit personally, directly or indirectly, by the market effect of such transactions. No Access Person shall, directly or indirectly, communicate to any person who is not an Access Person any material non-public information relating to any client of PCM or any issuer of any security owned by any client of PCM, including, without limitation, the purchase or sale or considered purchase or sale of a security on behalf of any client of PCM, except to the extent necessary to effectuate securities transactions on behalf of the client of PCM.

Transaction Reporting - To comply with the rules of the SEC, all Access Persons of PCM must pre-clear transactions with the Review Officer, who is designated to receive and review reports of all proposed personal securities transactions. The Review Officer must complete quarterly reports on personal securities transactions in Covered Securities for their own accounts or any accounts in which they have a direct or indirect beneficial interest. In addition, each Access Person must submit an Annual Holdings Report of Covered Securities and must certify annually that he/she has complied with the Code.

Short-Term Trading - All employees shall avoid profiting by securities transactions of a short-term trading nature (including market timing) involving shares of an Investment Company. Transactions which involve a purchase and sale, or a sale and purchase, of shares of the same series of an investment Company (excluding Money Market Funds and Short Duration Funds or similar short-term fixed income fund) within sixty (60) calendar days shall be deemed to be of a trading nature and thus prohibited unless prior written approval of the transaction is obtained from the Review Officer.

Access Persons shall avoid profiting by securities transactions of a trading nature, which transactions are defined as a purchase and sale, or sale and purchase, of the same (or equivalent) securities within sixty (60) calendar days.

A copy of PCM's Code of Ethics is available to any prospective or existing client upon request to Elizabeth Murray, Chief Compliance Officer, Polaris Capital Management, LLC 121 High Street, Boston, MA 02110 elizabeth@bostoninvestorservices.com

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

B. If firm or its related persons recommends to clients, or buys or sells for client accounts, securities in which the firm or a related person has a material financial interest, describe the firm's practice and discuss the conflicts of interest it presents. Describe generally how you address conflicts that arise.

Employees of the Advisor may purchase or sell securities which are owned in client portfolios. Employees are prohibited from the purchase or sale of a security which is being considered for purchase or sale in a client's account.

The Advisor may recommend, purchase, or sell on behalf of clients, securities in which the Advisor has a position or interest. Employees of the Advisor will not execute a transaction on their own behalf which would: result in purchases or sales which compete with orders placed on behalf of clients; be for the purpose of or result in transactions which benefit from recent, imminent or contemplated trades of clients; or take place surrounding a client's open market transaction until the effects of the client open market transaction have dissipated. All employees of the Advisor comply with the trading policy stated in the Code of Ethics.

Personal Trading Policies

C. If the firm or a related person invests in the same securities (or related securities, e.g., warrants, options or futures) that the firm or a related person recommends to clients, describe the firm's practice and discuss the conflicts of interest this presents and generally how the firm addresses the conflicts that arise in connection with personal trading.

To comply with the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission, all Access Persons of the Advisor must pre-clear transactions with the Review Officer and must complete quarterly reports on personal security transactions in Covered Securities for their own accounts or any accounts in which they have a direct or indirect beneficial interest. In addition, each Access Person must submit an annual Holdings Report of Covered Securities and a copy of all brokerage and custodial statements to be reviewed and recorded, and must certify annually that they complied with the Advisor's Code of Ethics.

D. If the firm or related person recommends securities to clients, or buys or sells securities for client accounts, at or about the same time that the firm or related person buys or sells the same securities for your own account, describe the firm's practice and discuss the conflicts of interest it presents. Describe generally how you address conflicts that arise.

All employees shall avoid profiting by securities transactions of a short-term trading nature (including market timing) involving shares of an Investment Company. Transactions which involve a purchase and sale, or sale and purchase, of shares of the same series of an Investment Company (excluding Money Market Funds and Short Duration Funds or similar short-term fixed income fund) within sixty (60) calendar days shall be deemed to be of a trading nature and thus prohibited unless prior written approval of the transaction is obtained from the Compliance Officer.

Access Persons shall avoid profiting by securities transactions of a trading nature, which transactions are defined as a purchase and sale, or sale and purchase, of the same (or equivalent) securities within sixty (60) calendar days.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

Selecting Brokerage Firms

1.a.-f. Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits. If the firm receives research or other products or services other than execution from a broker-dealer or a third party in connection with client securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits"), disclose the firm's practices and discuss the conflicts of interest they create.

The primary goal of the Advisor in choosing broker-dealers is to obtain executions at the most favorable commission rates in relation to the benefit received by its accounts. To achieve this goal, PCM evaluates broker-dealers on the basis of their professional capabilities, the value and quality of their services, and their comparative commission rates. For this reason, the commission paid may not necessarily be the lowest available.

A broker-dealer may be selected because it provides research as well as brokerage services, and such research may benefit numerous client accounts. Such research may include, for example, historical price information for securities, reports on individual companies, and business news retrieval.

The Advisor generally has the authority to select brokers and exercises this authority based upon the size of the order, and the quality of execution, clearance and custody services.

Research and Soft Dollars – No Soft Dollar Agreements

PCM does not participate in any soft dollar programs or client commission arrangements whereby commission dollars are paid to third parties for any goods or services. All of the soft dollar benefits received fall within the safe harbor of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "1934 Act"), as such Section has been interpreted by the Securities and Exchange Commission in the Interpretive Release dated July 18, 2006.

- a. The product or services received met the eligibility criteria of Section 28(e) (3) of the 1934 Act;
- b. The eligible product or service provided lawful and appropriate assistance in the performance of relevant responsibilities; and

c. The commissions paid were reasonable in relation to the value of the research and brokerage products and services provided by the broker.

Services furnished by brokers may be used in servicing all client accounts even though all client accounts have not paid commissions to the broker providing such services.

In determining whether to accept non-brokerage services from broker-dealers, PCM evaluates the extent to which such services will provide assistance in the investment decision-making process. PCM does not have any procedures whereby a specific amount of brokerage is allocated to particular broker-dealers.

Brokers selected are expected to provide best execution for each trade processed. The portfolio management team monitors executions and trade executions are spot checked to the VWAP (Volume Weighted Average Price) by the compliance and operations teams.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals. If the firm considers, in selecting or recommending broker-dealers, whether the firm or a related person receives client referrals from a broker-dealer or third party, disclose this practice and discuss the conflicts of interest it creates.

Client referral is not one of the criteria used to select broker-dealers with which the Advisor trades.

3. Directed Brokerage. If the firm routinely recommends, requests or requires that a client direct you to execute transactions through a specified broker-dealer, describe the firm's practice or policy.

The Advisor generally has the authority to select brokers and PCM exercises this authority based upon the size of the order, and the quality of execution, clearance, and custody services.

Clients may direct brokerage account activity in the management contract.

B. Discuss whether and under what conditions the firm aggregates the purchase or sale of securities for various client accounts. If the firm does not aggregate orders when it has the opportunity to do so, explain your practice and describe the costs to clients of not aggregating.

The Advisor may purchase or sell the same securities at the same time for different clients. No client account will be favored over any other, and all clients participating in the aggregate order shall receive an average share price with all other transaction costs shared on a pro-rata basis. PCM will review its aggregation procedures annually to ensure that such procedures are adequate to prevent any account from being systematically disadvantaged as a result of the aggregation of orders.

Item 13 Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

A. Indicate whether your firm periodically reviews client accounts or financial plans. If you do, describe the frequency and nature of the review and the titles of the supervised persons who conduct the review.

For accounts with daily cash flows: Each account is reviewed by Portfolio Manager, Bernard R. Horn Jr., and/or Portfolio Managers, Sumanta Biswas, Bin Xiao, Jason Crawshaw and the investment team, on a daily basis. Matters that are reviewed include, but are not limited to, current market activity, macro and micro economic outlooks, review and analysis of individual issues, portfolio composition, and portfolio comparisons.

All accounts are reviewed by the Portfolio Manager Bernard R. Horn Jr. and/or Portfolio Managers, Sumanta Biswas, Bin Xiao, Jason Crawshaw and the investment team, on a monthly basis at a minimum. The reviews focus on each account's portfolio composition and performance relative to a model portfolio and on its composition and performance relative to the client's objectives.

On a daily basis the operations team reconciles each portfolio with the custodian for holdings and prices.

B. If the firm reviews client accounts on other than a periodic basis, describe the factors that trigger a review.

All accounts are considered and reviewed daily and discussed at least weekly by the investment team.

Regular Reports

C. Describe the content and indicate the frequency of regular reports the firm provides to clients regarding their accounts.

Reports are prepared and delivered monthly as requested and at least on a quarterly basis to all clients. Standard quarterly reports contain a Cover Letter, Performance, Portfolio Appraisal, Statement of Dividends, Interest and Expenses and Statement of Realized Capital Gains and Losses.

Item 14 Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. If someone who is not a client provides an economic benefit to the firm for providing investment advice or other advisory services to your clients, generally describe the arrangement, explain the conflicts of interest, and describe how the firm addresses the conflicts of interest. For purposes of this Item, economic benefits include any sales awards or other prizes.

PCM has a client service arrangement with RBC Global Asset Management (U.S.) Inc. (RBC GAM). For clients of both PCM and RBC GAM, PCM pays RBC GAM, a percentage of its fee to compensate RBC GAM for performance monitoring, client services and other relationship services.

B. If the firm or a related person directly or indirectly compensates any person who is not a supervised person for client referrals, describe the arrangement and the compensation.

None

Item 15 Custody

As a general rule, all clients with separate accounts establish their own relationship with a qualified custodian. "Qualified custodians" under the amended rule include the types of financial institutions that clients and Advisors customarily turn to for custodial services. These include banks and savings associations and registered broker-dealers.

Clients receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains the client's investment assets. The Advisor urges clients to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements provided by PCM.

Rule 206(4)-2 regulates the custody practices of Advisors under the Advisors Act. An Advisor is defined to have custody of client assets, and therefore must comply with the rule, when it holds "directly or indirectly, client funds or securities or has any authority to obtain possession of them". In the case where the Advisor acts as both General Partner and Investment Advisor to a Limited Partnership, by virtue of its position as general partner, the Advisor may be deemed to have custody of client assets. This is the case with the Thrift Investor Limited partnership, the Cheyenne Fund, and the Polaris Capital International Value Limited Partnership. In each of these cases, the Advisor has established custodial relationships with banks, which have been determined to be qualified custodians in accordance with Rule 206 (4)-2 under the Advisors Act.

In compliance with the annual audit provision provided in amended rule 206(4)-2, The Advisor to pooled investment vehicles obtains an audit, conducted by an PCAOB registered accounting firm, of the Limited Partnerships and delivers the audited financial statements to LP investors within 120 days of the pool's fiscal year-end.

Item 16 Investment Discretion

Discretionary Authority for Trading

If the firm accepts discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients, disclose this fact and describe any limitations clients may (or customarily do) place on this authority. Describe the procedures you follow before you assume this authority (e.g., execution of a power of attorney).

Each client contract specifies the Investment Manager's ability to have discretion over the portfolio and PCM agrees to serve as such Investment Manager in accordance with the provisions of a limited power of attorney.

Generally, PCM maintains complete discretion with respect to client security transactions. Except where a client requests contact prior to such transactions, PCM determines which securities and the amount of securities are bought and sold.

PCM generally has the authority to select brokers and PCM exercises this authority based upon the size of the order, and the quality of execution, clearance and custody services. Clients may direct brokerage account activity in the management contract.

Services furnished by brokers may be used in servicing all client accounts even though all client accounts have not paid commissions to the broker providing such services.

Item 17 Voting Client Securities

Proxy Voting

A. If the firm has, or will accept authority to vote client securities, briefly describe the voting policies and procedures, including those adopted pursuant to SEC rule 206(4)-6 and the applicable state securities rules

PCM will vote all proxies delivered to it by the client's custodian. The vote will be cast in such a manner, which, in PCM's judgment, will be in the best interests of shareholders. PCM contracts with Boston Investor Services, Inc. for the processing of proxies.

Clients may obtain information about how their securities were voted by contacting Elizabeth Murray, Chief Compliance Officer, Polaris Capital Management, LLC 121 High Street, Boston, MA 02110. elizabeth@bostoninvestorservices.com A copy of the PCM's proxy voting policies and procedures are available to any client upon request.

PCM will generally comply with the following guidelines:

Routine Corporate Governance Issues:

PCM will vote in favor of management. Routine issues may include, but not be limited to, election of directors, appointment of auditors, changes in state of incorporation or capital structure. In certain cases, PCM will vote in accordance with the guidelines of specific clients.

Non-Routine Corporate Governance Issues:

PCM will vote in favor of management unless voting with management would limit shareholder rights or have a negative impact on shareholder value. Non-routine issues may include, but not be limited to, corporate restructuring/mergers and acquisitions, proposals affecting shareholder rights, anti-takeover issues, executive compensation, and social and political issues. In cases where the number of shares in all stock option plans exceeds 10% of basic shares outstanding, PCM generally votes against proposals that will increase shareholder dilution. In general, PCM will vote against management regarding any proposal that allows management to issue shares during a hostile takeover.

Non-Voting of Proxies:

PCM may not vote proxies if voting may be burdensome or expensive, if voting may reduce the shareholder's liquidity, or otherwise not in the best interest of clients.

Conflicts of Interest:

Should PCM have a conflict of interest with regard to voting a proxy, PCM will disclose such conflict to the client and obtain client direction as to how to vote the proxy.

B. If the firm does not have authority to vote client securities, disclose this fact. Explain whether clients will receive their proxies or other solicitations directly from their custodian or a transfer agent or from you and discuss whether (and, if so, how) clients can contact you with questions about a particular solicitation.

It is up to the client to decide if the Advisor has the authority to vote client securities. Clients have the discretion to vote their own proxies and will state in their Investment Management Agreement whether they would like the Investment Manager, PCM to vote proxies on their behalf.

CFA Institute Financial Advisor Statement for SEC Form ADV

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charter is a globally respected, graduate-level investment credential established in 1962 and awarded by CFA Institute — the largest global association of investment professionals.

There are currently more than 138,000 CFA charterholders working in 134 countries. To earn the CFA charter, candidates must: 1) pass three sequential, six-hour examinations; 2) have at least four years of qualified professional investment experience; 3) join CFA Institute as members; and 4) commit to abide by, and annually reaffirm, their adherence to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct.

High Ethical Standards

The CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct, enforced through an active professional conduct program, require CFA charterholders to:

- Place their clients' interests ahead of their own
- Maintain independence and objectivity
- Act with integrity
- Maintain and improve their professional competence
- Disclose conflicts of interest and legal matters

Global Recognition

Passing the three CFA exams is a difficult feat that requires extensive study (successful candidates report spending an average of 300 hours of study per level). Earning the CFA charter demonstrates mastery of many of the advanced skills needed for investment analysis and decision making in today's quickly evolving global financial industry. As a result, employers and clients are increasingly seeking CFA charterholders—often making the charter a prerequisite for employment.

Additionally, regulatory bodies in 30 countries and territories recognize the CFA charter as a proxy for meeting certain licensing requirements, and more than 125 colleges and universities around the world have incorporated a majority of the CFA Program curriculum into their own finance courses.

Comprehensive and Current Knowledge

The CFA Program curriculum provides a comprehensive framework of knowledge for investment decision making and is firmly grounded in the knowledge and skills used every day in the investment profession. The three levels of the CFA Program test a proficiency with a wide range of fundamental and advanced investment topics, including ethical and professional standards, fixed-income and equity analysis, alternative and derivative investments, economics, financial reporting standards, portfolio management, and wealth planning.

The CFA Program curriculum is updated every year by experts from around the world to ensure that candidates learn the most relevant and practical new tools, ideas, and investment and wealth management skills to reflect the dynamic and complex nature of the profession.
