Investment Management Services:

PGAM furnishes "investment supervisory services," defined as giving continuous advice to Clients on the investment of their funds based on their individual needs. We provide US, International and Global investment strategies that are customized to our Clients' investment objectives and needs through equity, fixed income and balanced accounts. Our customization considers risk tolerance, time horizon, liquidity needs, tax considerations, and Client directed restrictions such as, but not limited to, social concerns, and all other pertinent issues of our Clients.

We provide investment advice based on information Clients provide us about personal, financial and tax statuses, and investment objectives and policies, as well as any updates or changes to their information. We impose no restrictions on the ability of Clients to contact and consult with us.

PGAM does not participate in wrap fee programs.

As of December 31, 2023, PGAM maintained approximately $605 million in clients' assets under management. PGAM primarily manages all client assets on a discretionary basis.

Financial Planning Services:

PGAM provides its clients with financial planning and consultation services (e.g., review of goals and objectives, analysis and recommendations for cash flow planning, asset allocation/investment planning, income tax planning, insurance planning, estate planning, retirement planning, education planning, real estate/mortgage planning, etc.).

Investment Management Services for “Held Away” Accounts

We offer an additional investment management service for “Held Away accounts,” such as 401(k), 403(b) plan accounts. We use a third-party platform, Pontera, to leverage an Order Management System to implement asset allocation and opportunistic rebalancing strategies on behalf of clients. We regularly review the available investment options in these accounts, monitor them, and rebalance and implement our strategies in the same way we do other accounts, though using different tools, as necessary.

A link will be provided to Clients allowing them to connect account(s) to the platform. Once a client’s account is connected to the platform, we will review the current account allocations. When deemed necessary, we will rebalance the account considering the Client’s investment goals and risk tolerance, and any change in allocations will consider current economic and market trends. The goal is to improve account performance over time, minimize loss during difficult markets, and manage internal fees that harm account performance. Client account(s) will be reviewed and allocation changes will be made as deemed necessary. The Pontera’s platform allows us to avoid having custody of Clients’ funds since we do not have direct access to Client log-in credentials. We are not affiliated with Pontera and receive no compensation from Pontera for using their platform.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

PGAM’s fees are generally charged in arrears on a quarterly basis as a percentage of assets under management. However, upon agreement between a Client and PGAM, fees may also be charged in advance, on a schedule other than quarterly, or at a fixed rate. When charged as a percentage of assets under management, fees are calculated based on the quarter end’s market value as determined by the Client’s custodian. This market value is multiplied by the agreed upon annual fee percentage. One quarter (1/4) of this annual fee will then be charged. Fees are usually deducted from the Client’s account by the custodian with the Client’s prior authorization upon receipt of an invoice from PGAM and transferred to PGAM. However, other methods of payment, such as payment from another account, are possible.

Clients may incur brokerage commissions, other trade-related fees, custodian fees, and fees associated with any investment company securities (e.g., closed- or open-end mutual funds and ETFs) their accounts may contain. Clients also have the option to purchase investment products that PGAM recommends through other brokers or agents that are not affiliated with PGAM. Further details about our brokerage practices can be found in Item 12: Brokerage Practices.

PGAM’s advisory fees are generally negotiated based on a number of factors including, but not limited to, the size and type of account, securities held, strategies implemented, and the number and types of Client restrictions applied. However, PGAM will not assess any advisory fee in excess of 1.50%.

Clients can terminate their Discretionary Management Agreement with PGAM at any time. In the event an Agreement includes a fee paid in advance and is terminated before a fee period's end, any unearned fee will be returned to the Client by a mutually agreed upon method.

Financial Planning Fees:

PGAM's financial planning and consulting fees are negotiable, but generally are $300 on an hourly rate basis, and from $1,000 to $25,000 on a fixed fee basis, depending upon the level and scope of the service(s) required and the professional(s) rendering the service(s). Prior to engaging PGAM to provide financial planning or consulting services, clients will be required to enter into a Financial Planning Agreement with PGAM setting forth the terms and conditions of the engagement, describing the scope of the services to be provided, and the portion of the fee that is due from the client prior to PGAM commencing services.

Item 6: Performance Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

PGAM does not charge performance-based fees.

Item 7: Types of Clients

PGAM serves individual, high net worth individuals, pension, retirement and profit-sharing plans partnerships, estates, trusts and corporations. PGAM generally maintains a minimum account value of $1 million, however it reserves the right to negotiate this and other conditions for starting or maintaining an account. We also reserve the right not to provide investment advisory services to a Client when it is not in the Client's or our best interests.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

PGAM's primary method of analysis is fundamental analysis. We also consider global market conditions, country and regional fiscal and monetary policies, macro-economic developments, currency trends, and geo-political environments. Our main sources of information include financial newspapers and magazines, inspections of corporate activities, research materials provided by others, corporate rating services, and companies' press releases, annual reports, prospectuses, and filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. We also utilize local and global general news sources, internet-based services, and academic, governmental, and international organizations' research and reports.

The types of investments and investment strategies utilized by PGAM vary depending on the particular investment objectives and restrictions selected by our Clients. We provide US, International and Global investment strategies that are customized to our Clients' investment objectives through diversified equity, fixed income and balanced separately managed accounts. We consider a US investment strategy to invest primarily in US domiciled entities. We consider an International investment strategy to invest primarily in non-US domiciled entities, and a Global investment strategy to invest in a mix of both US and non-US domiciled entities.

To execute these strategies, we may purchase exchange-listed securities, including American Depositary Receipts ("ADRs") and Exchange Traded Funds ("ETFs"), securities traded over-the-counter, securities issued by foreign issuers, warrants, corporate debt securities, certificates of deposits, municipal securities, mutual fund shares, United States government securities, and foreign bonds issued or guaranteed by foreign governments and international organizations.

International and Global investment strategies contain special risks and circumstances involved in investing in foreign securities, including but not limited to currency fluctuations, political and economic instability, and expropriation, confiscatory or withholding taxation practices of foreign governments. There may also be reduced availability of public information about issuers, including but not limited to less accounting and financial reporting. Foreign financial markets may be less liquid and more volatile and may be subject to less regulation than US markets. Investing in foreign markets may also involve settlement delays and higher commission and transaction costs.

An International Equity or Balanced Investment Strategy, and the non-US securities component of a Global Equity or Balanced Investment Strategy, are invested primarily in ADRs. The number of ADRs available with respect to a given country or region may not be representative of that country or region's proportionate share of the world securities market. Direct investments in some non-US securities may be prevented or made impractical by factors including federal, state or local country law or regulation. In addition, these strategies may not be diversified across industry sectors.

Trading in Client accounts may be long-term or short-term. Depending on the investment objective selected, and the level of customization involved, annual account turnover of an account may be minimal or substantial. PGAM does not guarantee the future performance of any investment strategy or any specific level of performance, the success of any investment recommendation or strategy, or the success of PGAM's overall management of a strategy. PGAM's investment recommendations are subject to various market, currency, economic, political and business risks. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results and our investment decisions and strategies will not always be profitable.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

There are no disclosable legal or disciplinary events associated with PGAM or its supervised personnel.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Receipt of Insurance Commission

Certain of PGAM's Supervised Persons, in their individual capacities, are also licensed insurance agents with various insurance companies, and in such capacity, may recommend, on a fully-disclosed commission basis, the purchase of certain insurance products. While PGAM does not sell such insurance products to its investment advisory clients, PGAM does permit its Supervised Persons, in their individual capacities as licensed insurance agents, to sell insurance products to its investment advisory clients. A conflict of interest exists when PGAM's Supervised Persons recommends insurance products and receives compensation. Any such contemplated transaction is fully disclosed to the client, including all compensation terms.

Pontera Platform

PGAM is not affiliated with Pontera in any way and receives no compensation from Pontera in connection with our use of the Pontera Platform. Clients are advised that our management of accounts via the Pontera Platform is subject to the limitations and restrictions imposed by the underlying sponsor, issuer, and/or custodian of the client's held-away assets. For example, our instructions to rebalance holdings within your held-away account through the Pontera Platform may not be implemented by the account sponsor, issuer, or custodian for up to one (1) business day or more following entry. We may also not be able to view real-time account value and holdings data over the Pontera Platform. Clients understand that our investment of the assets held within such accounts is limited to allocation of the client's assets among the various investment options made available by the account sponsor, issuer, or custodian.

Upon entering into an agreement for advisory services with us, clients authorize us to use unrelated third-party service providers (including Pontera) to service their account(s). We require unrelated third-party service providers to execute a confidentiality agreement and not share client information with any unauthorized person or entity. The use of unrelated third-party service providers will not cause the client to incur any additional fees. We pay unrelated third-party service providers (including Pontera) for services out of the total advisory fee charged to the client.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

PGAM enforces Compliance Policies and Procedures which include Insider Trading and Personal Trading Policies. These policies require pre-clearance procedures, and transaction, holdings and account monitoring that are designed to prevent potential conflicts of interest and the infringement of statutory and other rules relating to trading and similar activities. Each employee who makes investment recommendations or decisions for Clients, who participates in the determination of such recommendations or decisions, or who, in connection with their duties, obtains information concerning which securities are being purchased or sold or recommended for such action, must comply with the applicable requirements and restrictions of our Compliance Manual of Policies and Procedures.

Among other restrictions, our employees' personal trading may not be executed on the basis of information that is not generally available to the investing public. In addition, our employees are prohibited from trading securities which are under consideration for purchase or sale by PGAM's Investment Committee before the Committee's decision to purchase or sell the securities is made. These and other restrictions are designed and enforced in order to establish and maintain the primacy of our Clients' interests above all else.

PGAM's Code of Ethics is intended to reflect fiduciary principles that govern the conduct of PGAM Employees in general and in those situations where PGAM provides investment advice to Clients in particular. Our Compliance Manual consists of policies and procedures regarding several key areas: standards of conduct and compliance with laws, rules and regulations, safeguarding Client and PGAM information and privacy, insider trading, personal securities trading, and our Code of Ethics.

PGAM maintains and enforces a Privacy Policy. PGAM respects our Clients' right to keep their personal information confidential and understands their desire to avoid unwanted solicitations. Unless compelled by a validly issued and enforceable subpoena or summons, PGAM will not disclose personal information about our Clients or former Clients to anyone without their authorization. We also restrict access to non-public personal information about our Clients to employees of our firm and other parties who must use that information to provide services to our Clients.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

PGAM may select brokers which provide us with research or other transaction-related services. However, PGAM does not participate in "soft-dollar" arrangements with any broker. That is, PGAM does not accumulate soft dollar credits with any broker, and any benefits PGAM may receive from any broker, such as obtaining research or any other goods or services, is not contingent upon any level of commission generation or trading activity.

PGAM recommends custodians and/or brokers that we reasonably believe will provide the best execution of services, including trading. PGAM generally will seek competitive commission rates but will not necessarily attempt to obtain the lowest possible commission for transactions. In selecting brokers for a particular transaction, PGAM may consider all relevant factors, including the execution capabilities required by the transaction, the importance of speed, efficiency or confidentiality, familiarity with sources from whom or to whom particular securities might be purchased or sold, as well as any other relevant matter.

Consistent with obtaining best execution, transactions for a Client's account are directed to brokers that furnish PGAM with research or other services regardless of the amount of commissions and trade activity generated by the relationship between PGAM and the broker. Such research or other services benefit all of PGAM's Clients and brokerage commissions paid by a particular Client for a particular transaction do not benefit that particular Client but all of PGAM's Clients. PGAM may, in its discretion, cause a Client to pay brokers a commission greater than another qualified broker might charge to effect the same transaction where PGAM determines in good faith that the commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage services received.

It is also usual for custodians to provide certain products and services to investment advisers in order to facilitate business between them. For example, custodians may provide PGAM with software for downloading information into our account management and accounting systems and submitting client trades. They may also provide us with services such as practice management and compliance assistance depending on the total value of Client assets held with the custodian. PGAM may also utilize any custodian's research products and services.

PGAM does not accept Client referrals from brokers or custodians in consideration for selecting brokers or custodians for services. PGAM may recommend custodians and/or brokers to Clients and Clients may designate their own if PGAM agrees.

It is usually anticipated that all or a significant amount of brokerage transactions for a Client's account will be placed through the custodian of the Client's account if the custodian is also the broker and the account is a retail brokerage account. In the event a Client directs PGAM to use a particular custodian and/or broker, it is made clear to the Client in writing that PGAM may not have the authority to negotiate commissions, obtain volume discounts, aggregate that Client's orders or ensure best execution, and that there may be a disparity in commission charges with other Clients.

Transactions for each Client generally will be effected independently on a rotational allocation basis. To the extent permitted by law, PGAM shall also be permitted to, but is not obligated to, combine trade orders to obtain best execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates, or to allocate equitably among PGAM's Clients. Clients may experience differences in prices and commissions or other transaction costs that might have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. Under this procedure, transaction prices and costs are shared equally on a pro-rata basis between all accounts in any such combined trade order.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

Under the direction of the Chief Investment Officer, members of the PGAM Investment Committee review select accounts on a daily basis for cash flows, security additions or withdrawals, trade settlement, corporate action processes, trading to model, and other account-appropriate operational processes. Selection of accounts is based on several factors such as its status of bringing the account to model or restrictions, account specific circumstances such as expected inflows or outflows of securities and/or cash, or any other circumstances unique to the account. All accounts are reviewed on a monthly basis for cash flows, security additions or withdrawals, trade settlement, corporate action processes, and trading to model.

They are reviewed on a quarterly basis for adherence to investment objective, asset allocation, stage of implementation of investment strategy, and other account-appropriate management requirements. The Chief Operating Officer is also responsible for monitoring accounts for cash flows, security additions or withdrawals, trade settlement, corporate action processes, and other account-appropriate operational processes. Unscheduled reviews are triggered by changes to a holding's fundamentals, or a Client's circumstances such health, employment, family, etc.

At a minimum, each PGAM Client receives on a quarterly basis a written report of account holdings, market value and advisory fees. Clients may also receive interpretive comments on investment positions and the general investment environment. Such reports and commentaries are always provided to Clients upon request. Clients may also receive transaction confirmations and monthly, or on another frequency, statements from brokers and their custodians.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

PGAM is required to disclose any relationship or arrangement where it receives an economic benefit from a third party (non-client) for providing advisory services. PGAM may receive economic benefits from non-clients for providing advice or other advisory services to clients. This type of relationship poses a conflict of interest and any such relationship is disclosed in response to Item 12, Brokerage Practice, see above.

PGAM currently has one contractual engagement with a solicitor. In the event PGAM receives any such referrals, these clients will receive a solicitor disclosure statement disclosing this referral arrangement and related conflicts.

Item 15: Custody

PGAM primarily does not maintain physical custody of client assets. All client assets are custodied with nationally recognized, SEC registered and FINRA member broker-dealer/custodians. Clients are provided with transaction confirmation notices and regular summary account statements directly from the broker-dealer/custodian of the client accounts. PGAM provides a report summarizing account activity, positions and performance. Clients are advised that the custodian statement is the official record of their account(s) and PGAM's reporting is for informational purposes only.

PGAM is deemed to have custody of client funds solely because it has the ability to authorize the custodians to debit its Advisory Fee but otherwise PGAM has no ability to access client funds.

Currently, PGAM maintains one advisory relationship in which an advisor is an executor. This account complies fully with Custody Rule 206(4)-2 including undergoing a surprise examination by a PCAOB firm.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

Clients usually grant PGAM discretionary trading authorization and appoint PGAM as agent and limited attorney-in-fact with respect to their accounts. However, Clients may impose investment restrictions or other special instructions as described in Item 4: Advisory Business. When necessary and appropriate, Clients agree to sign a "Limited Powers of Attorney" or "Trading Authorization" as may be required by their custodian and/or broker. Pursuant to such agreement(s), PGAM is authorized to purchase, sell, exchange and otherwise trade in the securities and other investments in the Client's account(s) and act on behalf of the Client in all other matters necessary or incidental to the handling of the Client's account.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

Generally, PGAM will not vote proxies of securities in Client accounts. If PGAM agrees to a Client's request for PGAM to vote proxies, PGAM will vote proxies in accordance with our Proxy Policy and Procedures. In general, PGAM will act prudently, taking into consideration those factors that may affect the value of the security, and will vote such proxies in a manner that, in our opinion, is in the best interest of the Client. Information about how PGAM voted proxies will be available to the Client upon request. PGAM will provide a copy of our Proxy Policy and Procedures upon request.

Item 18: Financial Information

PGAM is not required to provide a balance sheet for our most recent fiscal year as we do not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per Client six months or more in advance.
