

1800 Bering Drive, Suite 900
Houston, TX 77057

Main Phone Number: 713.532.7992

www.hvllc.com
March 31, 2024

This brochure provides information about the qualifications and business practices of Haddington Ventures, LLC. If you have any additional questions about the contents of this Brochure, please contact us at 713.532.7992. The information in this Brochure has not been approved or verified by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) or by any state securities authority.

Haddington Ventures, LLC is a registered investment adviser. Registration as an investment adviser does not imply a certain level of skill or training.

Additional information about Haddington Ventures, LLC is available on the SEC’s website at <http://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov>.

Item 2. Material Changes

This brochure has been prepared according to the requirements and rules promulgated by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”).

This Item will discuss only specific material changes that are made to the brochure and our business and provide clients with a summary of such changes. We will also reference the date of our last annual update of our brochure.

Pursuant to SEC Rules, we will prepare a summary of any material changes to this Brochure within 120 days of the close of our fiscal year.

Currently, our Brochure may be requested by contacting Scott Jones at 713.532.7992 or emailing your request to Haddington at sjones@hvllc.com.

Additional information about our firm is also available via the SEC’s website www.adviserinfo.sec.gov. The SEC’s website also provides information about any of our affiliated persons who are registered, or are required to be registered, as investment advisor representatives of Haddington Ventures, LLC.

Material Changes:

Since the last annual amendment on March 31, 2023 , there have been no material changes to this brochure. Non-material changes were made in conjunction with an other-than-annual amendment filing of our Form ADV.

Item 3. Table of Contents

Item 2.	Material Changes	2
Item 3.	Table of Contents	3
Item 4.	Advisory Business	4
Item 5.	Fees and Compensation	4
Item 6.	Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management	5
Item 7.	Types of Clients	6
Item 8.	Method of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss.....	6
Item 9.	Disciplinary Information.....	9
Item 10.	Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations.....	9
Item 11.	Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading ...	10
Item 12.	Brokerage Practices.....	11
Item 13.	Review of Accounts.....	11
Item 14.	Client Referrals and Other Compensation	12
Item 15.	Custody.....	12
Item 16.	Investment Discretion	12
Item 17.	Voting Client Securities.....	12
Item 18.	Financial Information.....	13

Item 4. Advisory Business

Haddington Ventures, LLC (“Haddington”) is a federally registered investment adviser that provides investment management services to clients (each, a “Client” and together, “Clients”), as further described below. Haddington is a Delaware limited liability company which has been in business since August 1998. Haddington is owned by J. Christopher Jones, M. Scott Jones and John A. Strom, each of whom is a managing member of the firm, as well as Sam Pyne and James Lam, each of whom are a managing director of the firm.

The investment management services Haddington provides (the “Services”) consist of portfolio management services for pooled investment vehicles and sponsors of pooled investment vehicles. Affiliated entities of Haddington serve as the General Partner for each of the pooled investment vehicles to which Haddington currently provides Services (each, a “Fund” and together the “Funds”). While Haddington specializes in the investment and management of securities within a particular industry, Haddington does not hold itself out as specializing in a particular type of advisory service. The Services are discretionary in nature and consist of the ongoing and continuous review of the companies in which Haddington invests Client assets.

Though Haddington employs the same investment strategy for each of the Funds managed by Haddington, Haddington tailors its Services to the specific needs of each particular Fund by complying with the terms of each Fund’s governing documents or other limitations which the Fund may request. The Funds may communicate to Haddington restrictions on securities, asset classes, custodians or any other restriction they would like to impose on their portfolios. Typical limitations include imposing a limit on the amount of committed capital in a Fund to any particular holding.

As of December 31, 2023, Haddington had approximately $716,090,144 million in discretionary assets under management.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

Haddington charges the Funds an investment management fee for its services. The fees are calculated and payable quarterly in advance. The management fee ranges from 1.5% to 2.0%. The Funds may enter into side agreements and negotiate fees that require investors to contribute management fees to the Fund according to any specific terms as outlined in the side agreement. These fees may be lower than the management fees as disclosed in the offering documents and payable pursuant to the Partnership Agreement. Additionally, distributions to investors in the Funds are typically subject to some form of carried interest or similar profit allocation for the benefit of one or more of Haddington’s affiliates. For more information, please see Item 6 (Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management).

Fees are generally paid by or on behalf of Funds by requiring the investors in the Funds to make a capital contribution in respect of such fees. Fees paid by Funds may, as described in the governing documents for the Funds, require a minimum capital commitment from all investors. Fees paid by the Funds are deducted from accounts by the General Partner and paid to Haddington.

In addition to the advisory fees paid by the Funds, the Funds will incur other expenses in connection with obtaining services such as travel expenses incurred by Haddington employees and others for attending board meetings of the portfolio investments, third-party expenses incurred in connection with the operation of the Funds or the investment portfolio. These third-party fees may include the costs and expenses related to the purchase, evaluation of, holding and sale of portfolio investments (to the extent not reimbursed); expenses of any agents, custodians, counsel and accountants (including audit, tax preparation and certification fees); any insurance, indemnity or litigation expenses, certain taxes, fees or other governmental charges levied against the Funds; out-of-pocket expenses and other extraordinary expenses associated with the management or offering of the Funds. All such fees are discussed in the governing documents for each of the Funds.

Haddington, acting as general partner or adviser, may earn transaction fees, investment banking fees, break-up fees, advisory fees, monitoring fees, or other similar fees resulting from services performed for the benefit of the Fund or a Fund's portfolio company. In some instances, where dictated in the respective Fund's governing documents, a percentage of the fees earned, net of out-of-pocket expenses incurred, may serve to reduce the investment management fee.

There may be other fees and expenses as well depending upon the particular investments of each Fund. Investors and prospective investors in the Funds should review offering documents for any particular investment carefully before investing.

Haddington does not typically invest in public companies or securities where brokerage costs apply to the purchases or sales of shares and as a result, brokerage expenses are not typically imposed on Clients' transactions. In the event Haddington decides to invest in securities with respect to which brokerage costs would apply, the Client will bear any such costs or expenses. Haddington does not have any affiliated brokers or dealers.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Performance-based fees or carried interest profit allocations are subject to regulation under Rule 205-3 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act"). Haddington seeks to ensure that any Client or investors in a Fund that are directly or indirectly assessed performance-based fees or are subject to carried interest profit allocations satisfy the qualifications of Rule 205-3 and have been advised of such fees or allocations and their risks.

Clients may be charged performance-based fees or carried interest. The performance-based fees or carried interest allocations will not exceed 20% of profits and are subject to certain preferred return hurdles. The performance-based fees or carried interest allocations are paid to the general partner of the relevant Fund. The manner of calculation and the application of performance-based fees or carried interest profit allocations are disclosed in the governing documents for each of the Funds which are charged such fees. The Funds may enter into side agreements and negotiate carried interest profit allocations that may be lower or higher than the carried interest profit allocations as disclosed in the offering documents.

Haddington manages accounts which are charged performance-based fees ("Primary Funds") as well as accounts which are not charged performance-based fees ("Co-Investment Funds"). As a result, Haddington potentially has an incentive to favor Primary Funds over Co-Investment Funds. Co-Investment Funds are Funds generally made up of investors who are already invested in a particular Primary Fund, and are set up to permit existing Primary Fund investors to make additional investments in a particular portfolio company investment held by the Primary Fund. Interests in Co-Investment Funds are offered to all investors in the relevant Primary Fund on a pro rata basis. Pursuant to the governing documents of each Co-Investment Fund, Haddington is obligated to invest the assets of each such Co-Investment Fund in parallel to the relevant Primary Fund. Thus, the potential conflict is addressed by the fact that contractually, investments are allocated between vehicles in a pro rata fashion based on capital commitments regardless of whether or not the parallel vehicles are charged performance-based fees.

Haddington also potentially has an incentive to take increased investment risk with respect to accounts which are charged performance-based fees. Haddington has policies and procedures in place designed to address this conflict and to ensure allocation of investments to client accounts on a fair and equitable basis, taking into account factors such as the Client's size, investment objectives, risk tolerance, return targets, diversification considerations, and the liquidity needs of each Client.

Item 7. Types of Clients

Haddington provides Services to pooled investment vehicles. Haddington has the discretionary authority to buy or sell, or determine the securities to buy or sell, without the Client's consent. Haddington has no minimum requirements for opening or maintaining an account; however, the Funds themselves may require that Limited Partners in the Funds meet a minimum capital commitment. Such minimums are set by the Funds and their General Partners. The minimum capital commitments required by each Fund may differ.

Item 8. Method of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Haddington specializes in identifying opportunistic trends and needs across the energy industry and Haddington primarily invests in small to medium sized companies which Haddington believes are positioned to capitalize on the changes in energy and economic cycles. Haddington identifies investment opportunities using a top-down approach, analyzing factors such as macro industry characteristics, opportunistic industry trends, market size and growth, valuations, competition and exit opportunities.

Haddington looks for companies or development opportunities which meet certain criteria prior to recommending such companies for investment. Such criteria may include a competitive edge in their markets, attractive market capitalization, a proven management team, reasonable valuations, low debt levels and strong operating performance. Haddington looks to invest across the broad energy industry, analyzing the cycles which occur in varying segments. Haddington seeks out opportunities which will permit Haddington to play a control role in the management of a company and Haddington aims to obtain controlling board representation in each target investment. Investments are typically held between four to seven years, permitting time to build value.

Haddington also reviews potential exit strategies for prospective investment opportunities. Generally, exits will be sales to strategic companies for cash or a highly liquid security rather than initial public offerings.

Investing in securities and other financial instruments involves risks, including the potential loss of the Fund's principal, which the Fund and its investors should be prepared to bear. While certain strategies may offer the potential for greater growth, these same strategies may have greater potential volatility. While it is Haddington's intent to reduce risk when possible, certain strategies may impose more risk than others.

Haddington may make foreign investments ("Non-U.S. Investments"). Investing in Non-U.S. investments will subject a client to certain risks not typically associated with investing in securities in the United States. Non-U.S. investments may be affected by changes in currency rates. A decline in an exchange rate of the foreign currency in which a portfolio security is quoted or denominated relative to the U.S. dollar would reduce the value of the portfolio security in U.S. dollars proportionately. The costs and expenses associated with investing in Non-U.S. markets are generally higher than in U.S. markets. There generally may be less publicly available information regarding Non-U.S. Investments than U.S. companies. In addition, certain Non-U.S. economies are less stable than the U.S. economy due to, among other things, volatile political environments and less stable monetary systems.

Haddington invests in a particular market sector and in a limited number of investments. As a result, there is greater risk that a Client's portfolio may be impacted by the unfavorable performance of a single investment.

Investments in the energy industry have specific risks, such as the risk that the technology employed in an energy project will not be effective or efficient or the risk of equipment failure, fuel interruptions, loss of sale and supply contracts or fuel contracts, acts of God or other catastrophes. Other risks associated with investments in this industry include regulatory, environmental, supply-and-demand, uncertainty of energy source availability, conservation efforts or governmental events.

Within the energy sector, the investment in oil and natural gas may be subject to higher risks as a result of problems in drilling and completing of wells, the presence of unanticipated pressures or irregularities in formations, accidents or other losses. Investments in oil and gas businesses are highly speculative and often rely on estimates of oil and gas reserves.

The prices of oil and natural gas are inherently uncertain. The worldwide supply of oil and natural gas may be impacted by political instability or armed conflicts in producing nations, the price of foreign imports, availability of alternative fuels and changes in existing governmental regulation, taxation and price controls. Prices for oil and natural gas have fluctuated greatly during the past, and markets for oil, natural gas and natural gas liquids continue to be volatile.

The impact of terrorist attacks or regional hostilities (particularly in the Middle East) may have a significant impact on the energy industry. The impact of such attacks or hostilities on investments recommended by Haddington is not known at this time. Uncertainty surrounding military strikes or a sustained military campaign may affect the operations of the companies in unpredictable ways, which may include significant costs or losses.

Disease outbreaks that affect local economies or the global economy may materially and adversely impact our investment portfolios and/or our business. These types of outbreaks have the potential to cause severe decreases in core business activities such as manufacturing, purchasing, tourism, business conferences and workplace participation, among others. These disruptions also have the potential to lead to instability in the marketplace, including market losses and overall volatility. In the face of such instability, governments may take extreme and unpredictable measures to combat the spread of disease and mitigate the resulting market disruptions and losses. In the event of a pandemic or an outbreak, there can be no assurance that we or our service providers will be able to maintain normal business operations for an extended period of time or will be able to retain the services of key personnel on a temporary or long-term basis due to illness or other reasons. The full impact of a pandemic or disease outbreaks is unknown, which could result in a high degree of uncertainty for potentially extended periods of time.

Regulation of the energy industry is significant. Political developments and a wide range of laws, rules and regulations (at many governmental levels) can impact the operations and economics of energy companies.

Haddington has no minimum credit standards as a prerequisite to investments in convertible debt and in the event that the investment in such convertible debt results in an investment in non-investment grade debt, there are additional risks in such an investment. In return for the higher yield these securities typically offer, the investor is accepting the risk that they may not receive payment of interest nor the repayment of the principal of their investment.

Many of the investments recommended will be highly illiquid and there can be no assurance that such investments can be liquidated or transferred in a timely manner.

Small and mid-capitalization stocks may be subject to higher degrees of risk, because stocks of this kind may have earnings which are less predictable, prices which are more volatile, and liquidity less than that of large capitalization securities.

Performance is largely dependent on the talents and efforts of certain individuals. There can be no assurance that Haddington's investment professionals will continue to be associated with Haddington and the failure to retain such investment professionals could have an adverse effect on the value of an investment.

As described in Items 5 and 6, performance-based fees and carried interest may create an incentive for Haddington to invest in investments which have increased investment risk in order to generate such fees.

Haddington and its service providers may be subject to operational and information security risks resulting from cyberattacks. Cyberattacks include, among other behaviors, stealing or corrupting data maintained online or digitally, denial of service attacks on websites, the unauthorized release of confidential information or various other forms of cybersecurity breaches. Cyberattacks affecting investment adviser, a client's custodian, or intermediaries or other third-party service providers may adversely impact a client's experience and/or investment. For instance, cyberattacks may interfere with the processing of a client's transactions, cause the release of private information or confidential company information, impede trading, subject the adviser to regulatory fines or financial losses, and cause reputational damage. Haddington may also incur additional costs for cybersecurity risk management purposes. While Haddington and its service providers have established business continuity plans and risk management systems designed to prevent or reduce the impact of cybersecurity attacks, such plans and systems have inherent limitations due in part to the ever-changing nature of technology and cybersecurity attack tactics, and there is the possibility that certain risks have not been adequately identified or prepared for. Furthermore, Haddington cannot control any cybersecurity plans or systems implemented by its service providers.

Instances of fraud and other deceptive practices committed by senior management of certain portfolio companies in which the Funds invest may undermine Haddington's due diligence efforts with respect to such portfolio companies, and if such fraud is discovered, negatively affect the valuation of the Funds' investments.

Haddington is faced with a variety of potential conflicts of interest when it determines allocations of various fees and expenses to the Funds. Haddington, in its sole discretion, will allocate fees and expenses in accordance with the applicable limited partnership agreement of each Fund and in a manner that it believes in good faith is fair and equitable to the Funds under the circumstances and considering such factors as it deems relevant. The allocations of such expenses are not always proportional, and any such determinations involve inherent matters of discretion, e.g., in determining whether to allocate pro rata based on number of funds or co-investors receiving related benefits or proportionately in accordance with asset size.

Investments to finance follow-on acquisitions are a regular part of the business of the Funds. Follow-on investments present potential conflicts of interest, including determination of the equity component and other terms of the new financing. In addition, a Fund may participate in re-leveraging and recapitalization transactions involving portfolio companies in which other Funds have invested or may invest. Recapitalization transactions may present conflicts of interest, including determinations of whether existing investors are being cashed out at a price that is higher or lower than market value and whether new investors are paying too high or too low a price for the company or purchasing securities with terms that are more or less favorable than the prevailing market terms. Haddington will resolve conflicts using its best judgment but in its sole discretion. Except as required in its limited partnership agreements or side letters, Haddington is under no obligation to offer new investments or follow-on investments to its investors, and the terms of any such offering will be decided in Haddington's sole discretion.

Haddington generally exercises its discretion to recommend to a Fund or to a portfolio company thereof that it contract for services with (i) Haddington or a related person of Haddington (which may include a portfolio company of such Fund), (ii) an entity with which Haddington or its affiliates or current or former members of their personnel has a relationship or from which Haddington or its affiliates or their personnel otherwise derives financial or other benefit or (iii) certain limited partners or their affiliates. This discretion subjects Haddington to conflicts of interest, because although Haddington selects service providers that it believes are aligned with its operational strategies and will enhance portfolio company performance and, relatedly, returns of the relevant Fund, Haddington may have an incentive to recommend the related or other person (including a Limited Partner) because of its financial or other business interest. There is a possibility that Haddington, because of such belief or for other reasons (including whether the use of such persons could establish, recognize, strengthen and/or cultivate relationships that have the potential to provide longer-term benefits to the relevant Funds or Haddington), may favor such retention or continuation even if a better price and/or quality of service could be obtained from another person. Whether or not Haddington has a relationship or receives financial or other benefit from recommending a particular service provider, there can be no assurance that no other service provider is more qualified to provide the applicable services or could provide such services at lesser cost. The terms of any transaction involving the provision of goods or services to the Fund or any of its portfolio companies will be determined by Haddington in its sole discretion and may differ significantly from the terms that may be obtained in an arm's length transaction between unaffiliated parties.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of Haddington or the integrity of Haddington's management. There are no material legal or disciplinary events to disclose related to Haddington's business or its management.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Haddington is not affiliated with any particular broker-dealer, nor does Haddington have personnel who are registered representatives of a broker-dealer. Neither Haddington nor its representatives are registered as a Futures Commission Merchant, Commodity Pool Operator or Commodity Trading Advisor.

Haddington does not recommend or select other investment advisers. It does not receive compensation from any advisers.

Haddington is engaged to provide certain investment banking services to Aces Delta, LLC, a joint venture between Mitsubishi Power Americas, Inc., an unaffiliated third party, and Magnum Development, LLC, a portfolio company held by one of the Funds advised by Haddington. Through this engagement, Haddington has the opportunity, but not the obligation, to provide these services for a one-time Transaction Fee, based on customary market fees for similar services. These Transaction Fees are payable to Haddington and are not offset against any Management Fees for the Fund. Haddington has a potential conflict of interest in that it may maintain an investment in the portfolio company in its Fund in an effort to continue receiving Transaction Fees for these services. This conflict is mitigated by virtue of the requirement that the Directors of the joint venture must approve all services and related fees, as delineated by Haddington through a Transaction Fee Notice.

Certain of Haddington's affiliates serve as sponsors or syndicators to pooled investment vehicles organized as limited partnerships (collectively, the pools and their general partners are referred to as the "Haddington Affiliates"). Haddington serves as the investment manager to each of these pooled investment vehicles. Please see Item 11 for a discussion of the potential conflicts which may arise with these Haddington Affiliates and the policies and procedures Haddington has adopted to address these conflicts.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Haddington has adopted a Code of Ethics that complies with Rule 204A-1 under the Advisers Act. The Code of Ethics applies to all of Haddington's supervised persons. The term "supervised person" means any partner, officer, director (or other person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions) or employee of Haddington, or other person who provides investment advice on behalf of Haddington and is subject to Haddington's supervision and control.

Haddington's Code of Ethics addresses the following areas of Haddington's business: procedures for personal securities transactions of Haddington's partners, directors, officers and employees; and initial public offerings and private offerings. Each officer, director and employee is required to certify annually that he or she has read and understands the Code of Ethics. Haddington will provide a copy of its Code of Ethics to any Client or prospective Client upon request. Please contact Scott Jones at sjones@hvllc.com for a copy.

Purchases or sales of securities by Haddington, its directors, officers and employees must be effected in accordance with Haddington's Code of Ethics, which includes a personal trading policy. Haddington supervised persons are required to obtain pre-approval for certain securities transactions.

Haddington's Chief Compliance Officer is responsible for ensuring that Haddington receives duplicate brokerage confirmations and/or brokerage account statements for anyone associated with Haddington who has a securities account with a broker-dealer. A review of the trading activity of Haddington personnel conducted via such securities accounts will be conducted quarterly to ensure that the personnel comply with Haddington's personal trading policy.

Haddington advises Funds which have investment focuses which are similar to one another. In particular, the Funds may co-invest in certain investments alongside each other to the extent that Haddington has determined that such co-investment opportunities are available. Such co-investments will be done in accordance with each Fund's governing documents and Haddington will seek to ensure that each Fund participates on comparable terms. This may not be practical or appropriate in all circumstances however, and as a result, a Fund may participate on different (and potentially less favorable) terms if Haddington deems such participation as being otherwise in the applicable Fund's best interests. Haddington will otherwise allocate investment opportunities among the Funds in a fair and equitable manner or otherwise in accordance with related disclosure provided to the relevant Funds and their underlying investors or as may have been otherwise agreed to in the limited partnership agreements or other Fund governing documents.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

Typically, brokers are not involved in the purchases or sales of investments for the portfolio holdings of Haddington's Clients because such investments generally involve private transactions in private companies. To the extent Haddington is required by applicable law, and in the event Haddington invests in a marketable security where the involvement of a broker is required, Haddington has a fiduciary duty to seek to obtain best execution on behalf of each Client. Brokers will be selected with a view to obtaining best execution of transactions. Haddington believes that best execution is typically achieved not necessarily by negotiating the lowest commission rate but by seeking to obtain the best overall result. Haddington will consider all factors it deems relevant including execution capabilities, financial stability of the broker, responsiveness, confidentiality, promptness, clearance, settlement, and price. Given the nature of Haddington's business, where investments are made primarily in private companies, without the aid of a broker, Haddington does not effect block trades nor does Haddington recommend, request or require that a Client direct Haddington to execute transactions through a specified broker-dealer. Instead, all Clients receive interests of ownership or shares at the prices set by and in transactions agreed to by the acquired company and Haddington.

Haddington does not receive research, products or services other than execution from broker-dealers or third parties in connection with client securities transactions.

Haddington does not typically arrange for a cross trades between Funds, where one Fund buys a security and another Fund sells the same security to the buying Fund (i.e., where such securities cross from one Client account to another Client account). To the extent that Haddington does effect cross trades between Funds, it will do so only if the conditions are in the best interest of the impacted Funds. The governing documents of each Fund provide a mechanism for approval of cross trades, and in some circumstances, any such cross trade may be effected only upon approval of the Investor Committee of the relevant Funds' or by super-majority approval of the investors themselves. Haddington will not receive any compensation for facilitating cross trades.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Haddington reviews the Funds' holdings on an ongoing basis through meetings of the Haddington Investment Committee, which is composed of the firm's principals and its team of investment professionals. Investment models and capital markets are monitored on a continuous basis. The Investment Committee also conducts periodic reviews to ensure the Funds are being managed consistent with the guidelines and limitations outlined in the respective Fund's governing documents. Haddington personnel prepare written quarterly reports regarding the Funds and their holdings and the Investment Committee reviews such reports. The quarterly reports contain a detailed list of holdings, along with commentary on how valuations of holdings are determined and other pertinent information.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

This Item requires an investment adviser to provide information relating to its arrangements with third parties through which it receives compensation from a third-party for providing investment management services to its clients or through which it provides compensation to third parties for client referrals. Haddington does not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly, from any third party for advice rendered to Clients of Haddington.

For certain Funds, Haddington has entered into an agreement with a third-party referral agent to solicit interests in exchange for remuneration under the terms and provisions set forth in the applicable solicitation agreement. Haddington typically compensates such third parties through payment of a portion of the management fee and/or performance compensation earned by Haddington in connection with the investor's investment in the applicable Haddington Fund. Haddington will ensure that any investor in a Haddington Fund is advised of the relevant compensation arrangement.

Item 15. Custody

Certain Haddington affiliates, such as the General Partners of the Funds, have custody of certain Fund assets. The Funds are subject to an annual audit by an independent public accountant that is registered with, and subject to regular inspection by, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board. The audited financial statements are prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and are distributed to each investor of the Funds in accordance with the applicable Private Fund's governing documents, within 120 days of the end of the Fund's fiscal year. Cash and certain other assets are custodied with a Qualified Custodian, in accordance with the requirements of Rule 206(4)-2 of the Advisers Act. For those Fund assets held by a Qualified Custodian, the Qualified Custodian sends statements to the relevant Fund at least quarterly in accordance with Rule 206(4)-2. An independent public accountant audits annually the Funds and the audited financial statements are distributed to the investors in the pools.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

At the outset of an investment advisory relationship, Haddington receives discretionary authority from each Fund to select the securities to be bought or sold and the amount of securities to be bought or sold. Details of this relationship are fully disclosed to investors in the Funds prior to investment in the relevant Fund. The Funds provide Haddington with such discretionary authority through a limited power of attorney and such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular Fund's account.

Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to Haddington in writing. In most cases, a Client's investment guidelines and restrictions will be set forth in the investment management agreement or in the Funds' governing documents.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

Given Haddington's role as an adviser to private equity funds that seek opportunities to acquire control positions in portfolio companies, Haddington actively engages in the management of such portfolio companies. Thus, Haddington or its related persons may on occasion handle proxies.

Haddington votes proxies in a manner consistent with the best interest of each relevant Fund. Haddington has established guidelines for voting such proxies. Generally, Haddington will cast proxy votes in favor of proposals that maintain or strengthen the interests of shareholders and management or that increase shareholder value. Haddington considers other factors as set forth in Haddington's policies and procedures. Haddington may depart from its guidelines in order to avoid voting decisions believed to be contrary to the best interests of Haddington's Clients.

Clients may discuss proxies and/or receive a copy of Haddington's voting policies and guidelines by calling Haddington at 713.532.7992.

Haddington may elect to participate in class action lawsuits involving securities owned on your behalf.

Item 18. Financial Information

This Item requires investment advisers to provide certain financial information or disclosures about their financial condition. Haddington does not require prepayment of fees six months or more in advance. Therefore, it is not required to include a balance sheet with this Brochure. Haddington has no financial hardships or other conditions that might impair its ability to meet its contractual obligations to Clients. Haddington has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.