ITEM 4 – ADVISORY BUSINESS

Adviser’s Advisory Business

Nucleo Capital Ltda., a Brazilian limited liability company (sociedade limitada) (“Nucleo Capital” or “Adviser”), is an investment manager providing investment management services primarily for investment funds and other accredited and qualified clients on a discretionary basis. Nucleo Capital was established in 2011 and is held by a group of professionals with meaningful experience in the Brazilian equities market. The Adviser’s controlling member is Mr. Luis Guilherme Ronchel Soares, who has over 25 years of experience as a portfolio manager.

Types of Advisory Services Adviser Offers

Nucleo Capital provides its clients with discretionary investment management services mainly focused on Brazilian listed equities. Notwithstanding, such services may also be performed with respect to equity securities issued by non-Brazilian companies that are publicly traded on any exchange worldwide.

Advisory services offered to clients generally relate to the same overall investment strategy. Subject to specific asset restrictions that may be set out in certain advisory agreements, purchases or disposals of assets and securities are equitably allocated to all client accounts on a pro rata basis. From time to time, Nucleo Capital may also offer advisory services in connection with co-investment opportunities relating each to a single issuer in the investment portfolio.

Nucleo Capital serves its clients that are private funds (the “Funds”) through investment management agreements, under which securities portfolios may hold investments directly or indirectly. The Funds include the following entity:

- Aurora Brazil, LLC (U.S. Private Investment Company)

Interests in the above referenced Fund is not registered securities under the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”). In addition, this Fund is not registered as investment company under the U.S. Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “Investment Company Act”). Accordingly, interests in this Fund are offered and sold in the United States and to United States persons exclusively to those investors satisfying the applicable eligibility and suitability requirements in private transactions pursuant to available exemptions under the Securities Act, the Investment Company Act and any applicable U.S. state securities laws.

In addition, Nucleo Capital provides investment management services to various Brazilian domiciled funds, provides subadvisory services to other private funds, and may serve separately managed accounts from time to time.

Nucleo Capital provides investment management services to its clients in accordance with the objectives and guidelines applicable to each client, as set out in the offering document of each Fund (e.g., the “Prospectus”), provisions in the investment management agreements, the managed account forms of its managed account clients, or the by-laws of each Brazilian domiciled fund.

Investment Restrictions

Nucleo Capital develops customized investment strategies based on the stated investment objectives, risk tolerance and financial circumstances of each client. The investment objectives, risk tolerance and financial circumstances of the Funds are generally described in their Prospectuses. Clients may impose reasonable restrictions on the management of their accounts, including by restricting particular securities or types of investments. Clients should be aware that performance of restricted accounts may differ from performance of accounts without such impediments, possibly producing lower overall results.

Wrap Fee Programs

Nucleo Capital does not participate, sponsor, or act as a portfolio manager for any wrap fee programs.

Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2023, Nucleo Capital had assets under management of US$ 894,162,506.69, of which all was managed on a discretionary basis.

ITEM 5 – FEES AND COMPENSATION

Nucleo Capital’s Basic Management Fees

The specific manner in which fees are charged by Nucleo Capital is established in a client’s written agreement with Nucleo Capital and, with respect to the Funds, are disclosed in their Prospectuses. Generally and pursuant to contract, fees for the management of the Funds will be based upon a percentage of the total assets in the account (including margined assets).

Nucleo Capital's actual fees, minimum fees and minimum account sizes may also be negotiated and may vary from the fees described above. A client may pay more or less fees than similar clients depending on the particular circumstances of the client, size, liquidity terms, additional or differing levels of servicing or as otherwise agreed with specific clients.

The fee arrangements and terms for separately managed accounts are individually negotiated and are only disclosed in the respective advisory agreements.

Calculation and Deduction of Management Fees

Nucleo Capital deducts fees from investor's assets in the Funds generally on a monthly basis. Investors are not given the option to choose to be directly billed for fees incurred.

Nucleo Capital does not, and will not, have the authority to deduct advisory fees or other expenses directly from any separately managed accounts Nucleo Capital may establish. Nucleo Capital will charge fees in relation to separately managed accounts by sending an invoice directly to the client.

Other Fees and Expenses

In addition to investment management fees described above and the performance-based fees described in Item 6 below, investors in the Funds will indirectly bear any other costs charged to the Funds. Such costs will vary and typically include, though are not limited to, accounting, legal, fund administration fees and other related costs. Furthermore, Nucleo Capital's fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions (please refer to item 12 of this brochure), transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the client. The impact of mark-ups and mark-downs shall also be incurred by the client. Clients may incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, and other third parties such as fees charged by sub-managers, custodial fees, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and charged before Nucleo Capital's fees, and Nucleo Capital shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs.

Item 12 further describes the factors that Nucleo Capital considers in selecting or recommending broker-dealers for client transactions and determining the reasonableness of their compensation (e.g., commissions).

Prepaid Fees

Nucleo Capital generally does not charge clients fees in advance.

Compensation for the Sale of Securities

Nucleo Capital nor Nucleo Capital's supervised persons accept compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of investment funds.

ITEM 6 – PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

In addition to management fees, Nucleo Capital will generally receive a performance fee from each private fund, including the Funds that it manages. The calculation of the performance fee is described in each Fund's Prospectus and generally is subject to a benchmark provision.

Certain Funds, and other client accounts, that Nucleo Capital manages are not charged a performance-based fee. Notwithstanding, because Nucleo Capital generally employs a single investment portfolio approach across all client accounts (please refer to item 8 below) it does not expect that significant conflicts of interest will arise from managing both accounts that are charged a performance fee and accounts that are not subject to a performance fee. Otherwise, Nucleo Capital's performance based fee arrangements might create an incentive for Nucleo Capital to recommend investments which may be riskier or more speculative than those which would be recommended under a different fee arrangement.

ITEM 7 – TYPES OF CLIENTS

Nucleo Capital provides investment advisory services primarily for investment funds and other accredited and qualified clients on a discretionary basis.

Generally, the minimum dollar value of assets required to establish an investment advisory account varies depending on the view of the account's strategy and investors' profile. Moreover, Nucleo Capital reserves the authority to waive the account minimum as it deems appropriate.

Details concerning applicable suitability criteria for investment in the Funds are set forth in the respective Fund's Prospectus and subscription application materials or investment management agreements.

ITEM 8 – METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

General Investment Strategies and Methods of Analysis

Nucleo Capital's general strategy seeks to achieve above average long-term returns by investing through a single investment portfolio in stocks traded at prices that it considers substantially below their intrinsic value ("value investing"). The investment strategy is mainly focused on Brazilian listed equities. Notwithstanding, investments may also be made in equity securities of non-Brazilian companies that are publicly traded on any exchange worldwide.

Subject to specific asset restrictions that may be set out in certain advisory agreements, purchases or disposals of assets and securities are equitably allocated to all client accounts on a pro rata basis. From time to time, Nucleo Capital may also offer advisory services in connection with co-investment opportunities relating each to a single issuer in the investment portfolio.

The primary basis for Nucleo Capital's investment decisions is fundamental analysis backed by extensive proprietary research. Nucleo Capital's investment portfolio is generally fairly concentrated into a limited number of issuers (usually 10 to 15) across various sectors.

Throughout the research process, the investment team actively searches for companies presenting the following factors:

- Robust business model;
- Alignment between management team and shareholders; and
- Stock price failing to reflect the elements above.

The specific investment strategy terms applicable to each Fund are described in its Prospectus.

Material Risks for Significant Investment Strategies

While it is the intention of Nucleo Capital to implement strategies which are designed to minimize potential losses suffered by its client, there can be no assurance that such strategies will be successful. It is possible that a client may lose a substantial portion or all of its assets in connection with investment decisions made by Nucleo Capital. The following is a discussion of material risks for Nucleo Capital's significant investment strategies, but it does not purport to be a complete explanation of the risks involved in Nucleo Capital's investment strategies. The particular risks associated with an investment in any of its Funds are discussed in their offering documents, such as the Funds' Prospectus.

Overall investment risk

All investments in securities risk the loss of capital. There may be increased risk due to the nature of the securities to be purchased and traded by the Funds and the investment techniques and strategies used to try to increase profits. While Nucleo Capital will devote its best efforts to the management of the Funds' portfolios, it cannot give an assurance that the Funds will not incur losses. Many unforeseeable events, including actions by various government agencies and domestic and international political events, may cause sharp market fluctuations.

Investment objective

There is no guarantee that in any time period, particularly in the short term, a client's portfolio will achieve appreciation in terms of capital growth or that a client's investment objective will be met by Nucleo Capital.

General Economic and Market Conditions

The success of Nucleo Capital's activities may be affected by general economic and market conditions, such as interest rates, availability of credit, inflation rates, economic uncertainty, changes in laws, and national and international political circumstances. These factors may affect the level and volatility of security prices and liquidity of its clients' investments. Unexpected volatility or liquidity could impair the clients' profitability or result in its suffering losses.

Highly Volatile Markets

The prices of securities and commodities contracts and all derivative instruments, including futures and options can be highly volatile. Price movements of forward, futures and other derivative contracts in which clients' assets may be invested by Nucleo Capital are influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies of governments, and national and international political and economic events and policies. In addition, governments from time to time intervene, directly and by regulation, in certain markets, particularly those in currencies, financial instruments, futures and options. Intervention often is intended directly to influence prices and may, together with other factors, cause all such markets to move rapidly in the same direction because of, among other things, interest rate fluctuations. Nucleo Capital's clients shall be aware that they also are subject to the risk of the failure of any exchanges on which its positions trade or of their clearinghouses.

Risks of Securities Activities

All securities investing and trading activities risk the loss of capital. Although Nucleo Capital will attempt to moderate these risks, no assurance can be given that Nucleo Capital's investment activities will be successful or that its clients will not suffer losses. To the extent that the managed portfolio is concentrated in securities of a single issuer or issuers in a single industry, the risk of any investment decision made by Nucleo Capital is increased.

Currency Hedging Techniques

Nucleo Capital may employ certain currency related transactions in the pursuit of its clients' investment objectives. Among the factors that may affect currency values are trade balances, the level of short-term interest rates, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation and political developments. In those cases, Nucleo Capital may try to hedge these risks by investing in, among other things, forward currency contracts, but there can be no assurance that such strategies will be implemented, or if implemented, will be effective.

Material Risks for Particular Types of Securities and Instruments

Non-U.S. Securities

Investing in securities of non-U.S. governments and companies that are generally denominated in non-U.S. currencies and utilization of options on non-U.S. securities involves certain considerations comprising both risks and opportunities not typically associated with investing in securities of the United States government or United States companies. These considerations include changes in exchange rates and exchange control regulations, political and social instability, expropriation, imposition of foreign taxes, less liquid markets and less available information than is generally the case in the United States, higher transaction costs, foreign government restrictions, less government supervision of exchanges, brokers and issuers, greater risks associated with counterparties and settlement, difficulty in enforcing contractual obligations, lack of uniform accounting and auditing standards and greater price volatility.

Emerging Markets Securities

Nucleo Capital may invest, on behalf of its clients, in a wide range of instruments and securities issued by companies, financial institutions and entities located in Brazil, Latin America or any other emerging markets. The economic and political conditions in emerging markets differ from those in developed markets, and offer less social, political and economic stability. The absence in many cases, until relatively recently, of any move towards capital markets structures or to a free market economy means investing in these countries is more risky than investing in developed markets. These risks are likely to exist to a greater or lesser degree in most of the emerging markets in which Nucleo Capital may invest in. These investments may be volatile and subject to political developments and/or changes in laws, taxes and exchange controls, all of which could adversely affect the net asset value of the portfolios managed by Nucleo Capital.

Derivatives

Nucleo Capital, on behalf of its clients, may invest in, or enter into, derivatives or derivatives transactions (“derivatives”). Derivatives entered into by Nucleo Capital, on behalf of its clients, can be volatile and involve various types and degrees of risk, depending upon the characteristics of a particular derivative and client. Derivatives may entail investment exposures that are greater than their cost would suggest, meaning that a small investment in derivatives could have a large potential effect on performance of the portfolios managed by Nucleo Capital. The use of derivatives may include swaps and total return swaps, forwards, options and futures. If the investment in derivatives is made at inopportune times or incorrectly judges market conditions, the investments may lower the return of the client or result in a loss. The client also could experience losses if derivatives are poorly correlated with its other investments, or if Nucleo Capital, on behalf of the client, is unable to liquidate the position because of an illiquid secondary market. The market for many derivatives is, or suddenly can become, illiquid. Changes in liquidity may result in significant, rapid and unpredictable changes in the prices for derivatives.

Counterparty and Custodial Risk

To the extent that the Nucleo Capital on behalf of its clients invests in swaps, “synthetic” or derivative instruments, repurchase agreements, forward contracts, certain types of options or other customized financial instruments, or, in certain circumstances, non-U.S. securities, the clients take the risk of non-performance by the other party to the contract. This risk may include credit risk of the counterparty and the risk of settlement default. This risk may differ materially from those entailed in exchange-traded transactions that generally are supported by guarantees of clearing organizations, daily marking-to-market and settlement, and segregation and minimum capital requirements applicable to intermediaries. Transactions entered directly between two counterparties generally do not benefit from such protections and expose the parties to the risk of counterparty default. There are risks involved in dealing with the custodians or prime brokers who settle clients’ trades.

ITEM 9 – DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of an adviser or the integrity of the adviser’s management. Nucleo Capital has no information applicable to this Item 9.

ITEM 10 – OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

Broker-Dealer Registration

Nucleo Capital’s management persons are not registered and do not have applications pending to register with the SEC as a broker-dealer or registered representatives, respectively.

Commodity Pool Operator, Commodity Trading Adviser, Futures Commission Merchant Registration

Nucleo Capital is not registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (“CFTC”) as a futures commission merchant (“FCM”), a commodity pool operator (“CPO”) or a commodity trading advisor (“CTA”). Nucleo Capital has made exemption filings with the CFTC pursuant to CFTC Rules 4.13(a)(3).

Other Material Relationships

Nucleo Capital does not have any relationships or arrangements that are material to Nucleo

Capital's advisory business or to its clients that Nucleo Capital or any of its management persons have with any of the following related persons: (i) a broker-dealer, municipal securities dealer, or government securities dealer or broker; (ii) an investment company or other pooled investment vehicle (including a mutual fund, closed-end investment company, unit investment trust, private investment company or "hedge fund," and offshore fund) (other than the Funds); (iii) any other investment adviser or financial planner (with the exception of certain distribution and/or referral arrangements described in item 14 below); (iv) a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, or commodity trading advisor; (v) a banking or thrift institution; (vi) an accountant or accounting firm; (vii) a lawyer or law firm; (viii) an insurance company or agency; (ix) a pension consultant; (x) and a real estate broker or (xi) dealer sponsor or syndicator of limited partnerships (other than sponsoring the Funds).

Receipt of Compensation from Investment Advisers

Nucleo Capital does not receive compensation directly or indirectly from investment advisers and does not have other business relationships with other investment advisers.

ITEM 11 – CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Code of Ethics

Nucleo Capital has adopted a code of ethics (the "Code"). All Nucleo Capital's employees must adhere to the Code and any other procedures in place at the Advisor. In short, Nucleo Capital is committed to maintaining the highest legal and ethical standards in the conduct of its business. As fiduciaries, Nucleo Capital and its employees place clients' interests above their own. Meeting this commitment is the responsibility of the firm and each and every one of Nucleo Capital's employees.

Nucleo Capital will provide a copy of the Code to any client or prospective client upon request.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, Recommendations and Trading

Nucleo Capital has adopted a personal trading policy governing employees' ability to trade securities pursuant to the following principles:

- employees are prohibited from holding or trading stocks, derivatives of stocks and industry, sector or thematic indices of Brazilian companies traded in Brazil or abroad, including DRs from Brazilian companies. ("Restricted Assets");
- investments in (i) stocks, derivatives of stocks, DRs, industry, sector, or thematic indices of non-Brazilian companies, (ii) investments in private companies (iii) convertible debt instruments of listed companies from Brazil are subject to prior approval by the Chief Compliance Officer. Such positions must be disclosed on an ongoing basis;

- investments in other assets, including investment funds and derivatives of currency traded in markets constituted in Brazil or abroad are not subject to restrictions or reporting;
- any permitted personal trading activity must be conducted in a manner that does not adversely affect the performance of the employee's duties at Nucleo Capital.

The personal trading policy combined with the single investment portfolio approach and the allocation policy described in Item 8 are designed to avoid conflict of interest and misuse of non-public information.

All Nucleo Capital employees must adhere to the personal trading policies.

ITEM 12 – BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Broker-Dealer Selection

In the course of providing its services, Nucleo Capital will execute trades for its clients through broker-dealers. When a client has given Nucleo Capital broker discretion, there is no restriction on the brokers Nucleo Capital may select to execute client transactions. Nucleo Capital's general guiding principle is to trade through broker-dealers who offer the lowest net price and best execution available, consistent with its clients' investment objectives and good practices, under the particular circumstances. With respect to execution, Nucleo Capital may consider a number of factors, including if the broker has custody of client assets, the actual handling of the order, the ability of the broker-dealer to settle the trade promptly and accurately, the financial standing of the broker-dealer, the ability of the broker-dealer to position stock to facilitate execution and other factors which may be unique to a particular order. Based on these judgmental factors, Nucleo Capital may trade through broker-dealers that charge fees that are higher than the lowest available fees. In addition, Nucleo Capital may cause a client to pay a commission that is higher than the lowest available commission if it believes that the value of the products and services, execution and other services rendered by the broker are reasonable in relation to the amount of the commission.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

Consistent with obtaining best execution, brokerage commissions on client portfolio transactions may be directed to brokers in recognition of research services furnished by them, as well as for services rendered in the execution of orders by such brokers. Nucleo Capital currently has no formal soft dollar agreements and has not, since it started operations, directed client transactions to any particular broker-dealer in return for any soft dollar benefits, although Nucleo Capital received research services from broker-dealers. However, currently, there is no agreement or formula for the allocation of brokerage business on the basis of such research services. Furthermore, it is generally Nucleo

Capital's policy that the use of commission or "soft" dollars (including dealer markups or markdowns) to pay for proprietary and/or third party research or brokerage products or services will fall within the safe harbor for soft dollars created by Section 28(e) of the Exchange Act.

The research services provided to Nucleo Capital by broker-dealers generally may include information on the economy, industries, groups of securities, individual companies, statistical information, accounting and tax law interpretations, political developments, legal developments affecting portfolio securities, technical market action, pricing and appraisal services, credit analysis, risk measurement analysis, performance analysis, analysis of corporate responsibility issues, and post-trade services or communication services related to executing, clearing and settlement of transactions. Such research services are received primarily in the form of written reports, telephone contacts, and personal meetings with security analysts. In addition, such research services may be provided in the form of access to various computer-generated data, computer software, and meetings arranged with corporate and industry spokespersons, economists, academics, and government representatives.

As a general matter, research services are used to service all of Nucleo Capital's clients. The commission rates (or dealer markups and markdowns arising in connection with riskless principal transactions) charged to the Nucleo Capital's clients by brokers may be higher than those charged by other brokers who may not offer such proprietary or third-party services, capabilities or characteristics as described above. This may be done where Nucleo Capital has determined in good faith that such commission is reasonable in relation to the value of brokerage and research services received. In reaching such a determination, Nucleo Capital would not be required to place or attempt to place a specific dollar value on the brokerage or research services provided by such broker. However, as noted above, Nucleo Capital ensures that, when allocating trades to clients, each client is treated fairly and equitably over time in the execution of transactions.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

Nucleo Capital does not consider, in selecting or recommending broker-dealers, whether Nucleo Capital or a related person receives client referrals from a broker-dealer or third party.

Directed Brokerage

Nucleo Capital generally has the discretionary authority to determine and direct execution of portfolio transactions within the client's specified investment objectives without prior consultation with the client on a transaction-by-transaction basis.

Aggregation of Trades

Nucleo Capital has the fiduciary duty to execute orders for its clients fairly and equitably. Nucleo Capital follows written procedures pursuant to which it may, for clients who permit it, and to the extent consistent with best execution, combine purchase or sale orders for the same security for multiple clients (sometimes called “bunching”) so that they can be executed at the same time. The procedures followed by Nucleo Capital may differ depending on the particular strategy or type of investment. Nucleo Capital is not required to bunch or aggregate orders if: (1) portfolio management decisions for different accounts are made separately; (2) Nucleo Capital determines that bunching is not practicable; and (3) Nucleo Capital may be able to negotiate a better price and lower commission rate on aggregated trades than on trades for accounts that are not aggregated. Where transactions for a client’s account are not aggregated with other orders, it may not benefit from the better price and lower commission rate. Because of prevailing trading activity, it may not be possible to receive the same price or execution on the entire volume of securities purchased or sold. When this occurs, the various prices may, in Nucleo Capital’s discretion, be averaged and accounts will be charged or credited with the average price. The effect of such aggregation may operate on some occasions to an account’s disadvantage.

ITEM 13 – REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Review of Accounts

Client’s portfolios are reviewed on a continuous basis by the investment team. These reviews are designed to monitor and analyze the transactions, positions, investment levels, risk limit adequacy and mandates of each account. Particular attention is given to changes in macro-economic policies and fundamentals (from developed and emerging economies perspectives), industry outlooks, market outlooks, and price levels. These reviews are performed on a daily basis by Nucleo Capital’s investment committee.

Nucleo Capital also performs reviews of its client’s accounts as appropriate based on, among other things, changes in market conditions, security positions or changes in a client’s investment objective or policies.

Upon client request, Nucleo Capital provides written reports reflecting Funds’ data and performance.

ITEM 14 – CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Other Compensation

Nucleo Capital does not receive any benefits, economic or otherwise, from non-clients for providing investment advice or other advisory services.

Compensation for Client Referrals

Nucleo Capital may enter into third party distribution arrangements in connection with the offering of interests/shares in certain investment funds. As such, distributors will receive a fee with respect to subscriptions from investors they introduce. Such fee reduces the amount of Nucleo Capital's compensation from these funds and does not impact the investors' capital.

ITEM 15 – CUSTODY

Investors in the Funds receive audited annual financial statements of the particular Fund, and they may receive additional performance information as specified in their agreements with the particular Fund.

U.S. Clients (as defined below) should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker-dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains the clients' investment assets. Nucleo Capital urges U.S. Clients to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that Nucleo Capital may provide to them. Nucleo Capital's statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

The term "U.S. Clients" includes U.S. holders of Nucleo Capital's separately managed accounts (if any) and U.S. Funds managed by Nucleo Capital and excludes U.S. investors in non-U.S. Funds managed by Nucleo Capital.

Under the "regulation lite" regime, a non-U.S. adviser is permitted to treat the non-U.S. funds that it manages as its clients for all purposes of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act") other than for certain registration and reporting sections. The investors in the non-U.S. funds are not treated as the non-U.S. adviser's clients for these purposes. Thus, U.S. investors in non-U.S. funds that are managed by a non-U.S. adviser are not considered U.S. clients of the non-U.S. adviser. Accordingly, most of the substantive provisions of the Advisers Act, including the rules relating to custody, would not apply to Nucleo Capital with respect to the non-U.S. Funds that it manages. Nucleo Capital and the custodians will, however, be subject to the laws and regulations in their countries of residence.

Due to the fact that Nucleo Capital acts as an investment manager and has related parties that act as directors of certain Funds, Nucleo Capital may be deemed to have custody of certain client assets under current applicable regulatory interpretations. As such, and as is required by the safekeeping requirement in Rule 206(4)-2 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended, assets in the accounts of Nucleo Capital's clients are held by a qualified custodian. On an annual basis, the registrar and transfer agent of the Funds delivers the audited financial statements to the investors in such Funds within 120 days of fiscal year-end.

ITEM 16 – INVESTMENT DISCRETION

Nucleo Capital generally receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, Nucleo Capital observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which it advises. Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to Nucleo Capital in writing and, with respect to the Funds, may be disclosed in the Prospectus of each Fund.

ITEM 17 – VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Proxy Voting Policies

Nucleo Capital will be subject to the laws and regulations regarding proxy voting in its country of residence.

In general, Nucleo Capital has adopted policies and procedures designed to ensure that it votes proxies and votes at meetings in the best interests of its clients and in accordance with such policies and procedures. Nucleo Capital's voting policies outline certain matters and circumstances where voting on behalf of its clients is either mandatory or optional (at Nucleo Capital's discretion).

Nucleo Capital will exercise its voting authority by taking into account the best interests of its clients, as well as any potential conflicts of interest between its interests and those of its clients relating to proxy voting. Where Nucleo Capital identifies potential conflicts of interest, Nucleo Capital will abstain from voting on that particular matter.

Nucleo Capital's proxy voting policies and procedures and information on how specific proxies were voted is available to clients and prospective clients upon request.

ITEM 18 – FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Registered investment advisers are required in this Item 18 to provide clients with certain financial information or disclosures about Nucleo Capital's financial condition. Nucleo Capital does not require or solicit prepayment of any fees per separate account client or Fund six months or more in advance and thus has not included a balance sheet of its most recent fiscal year. Nucleo Capital is not aware of any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet its contractual commitments to its clients, nor has Nucleo Capital been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time during the past ten years.
