

AM Investment Strategies, LLC (“AMIS”)

Our firm is registered with the US Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) as an Investment Adviser.

You have a choice among different types of financial services professionals to assist you with your financial needs. These professionals offer a variety of services. It is important for you to understand the differences between the services offered, such as the difference between brokerage and investment advisory services, so that you can make an informed decision. This Summary is designed to help you understand the types of financial services our firm can provide you. The SEC also provides free and simple tools that allow you to research firms and financial professionals at www.investor.gov/CRS.

What Investment Services and Advice Can You Provide Me?

At AMIS, we provide investment advisory services to our retail investors. We offer limited financial planning services as well as investment management services, so that we can implement the investment plan that we develop together with you by investing your assets according to the plan. We do not generally require a minimum portfolio size. For investment management clients, we monitor the investments of all of our clients collectively on a continuous basis, and we review your particular investment plan in depth at least annually, with interim reviews and updates any time life changes or market conditions call for it. We like to talk to our clients regularly to check in and make sure we are still on track. For our financial planning and/or consulting clients, reviews are conducted on an “as needed” basis and we encourage you to keep us informed of any changes to your needs, goals or objectives. We also provide Retirement Plan consulting services to Plans and Plan Fiduciaries.

We focus our investments on individual stocks, mutual funds and bonds. We may also utilize exchange traded funds, as well as other types of investments, on a more limited basis.

Most of our clients engage us for discretionary portfolio management. This means that once we agree on an investment plan for your portfolio, we are able to actively manage your account(s) without contacting you to discuss each investment decision. However, from time to time we will discuss trades with you in advance. You may impose certain written restrictions on us in the management of your investment portfolio, such as prohibiting the inclusion of certain types of investments or prohibiting the sale of certain investments held in the account at the commencement of the relationship. You should note, however, that restrictions imposed by you may adversely affect the composition and performance of your investment portfolio.

If you choose a non-discretionary relationship, you will ultimately make the final decision regarding every investment decision; you will have to provide your approval for each transaction in your account(s). While we are happy to accommodate this arrangement, you should know that this can have an impact on our ability to manage your account(s) efficiently and may result in delays in implementing our advice.

More information is available in our Form ADV Part 2A (our “Brochure”), in Items 4 and 7; please click here for a link to our Brochure or call our office to have a copy sent to you. Here are some questions you might want to discuss with us in more detail:

Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What Fees Will I Pay?

Fees and costs will affect the value of your portfolio over time. Our only source of compensation is the fee we charge for advisory services. Investment management fees are usually calculated as a percentage of the assets we manage for you, and are billed monthly, in advance. This aligns our interests with yours since we earn more money as the value of your portfolio increases. Our financial success is based on your financial success. We do not charge separately for financial planning services. Fees for limited account administration/reporting are annual set fees that range from $50 per year to $30,000 per year. In limited cases, we will agree to a fixed annual fee for investment management services.

In addition to the fees that we charge, your portfolio will incur other expenses. The most common examples are brokerage transaction fees (such as the fee that the broker may charge to buy or sell a security in your account) and mutual fund internal expenses. You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. More information is available in our Form ADV Part 2A (our “Brochure”), in Item 5, and we are happy to discuss fee arrangements in more detail with you. For example, you might want to ask:

Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money, and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interests and not put our interests ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide to you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

The concept of conflicts of interest sounds complicated but we don’t think it is. A conflict exists whenever one party can potentially benefit at the expense of another party. We have gone to great lengths to diminish or eliminate the majority of conflicts of interest that naturally exist in the client: adviser relationship. For example, we are only paid based on the value of the assets we manage on your behalf, or fixed or hourly fees as agreed. We never invest your money in any proprietary products that would result in additional payments to our firm or our financial professionals. However, at least one Manager of alternative investments that we have recommended in the past has engaged us to manage a cash account, in which funds are awaiting either investment inside a private fund or distribution to investors. We earn a deeply discounted fee to manage such accounts. We do not accept soft dollar payments, a common industry practice in which the transaction fees that clients pay are used to purchase research or other products that are useful to an RIA. As described in detail in Item 12 of our Form ADV Part 2A, we recommend that you hold your account(s) at Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services (“Fidelity”), which offers an advisor-based program. We receive benefits from our participation in this program, which provides an incentive for us to encourage you to keep your account(s) at Fidelity. However, we pass those benefits on to you in the form of enhanced pricing and top tier customer service, to name just two. For decades, registered investment advisers have held to what is known as a fiduciary standard. The standard requires our constant commitment to our duty of loyalty and care to you, our client. While brokers have recently been legally forced to adopt certain tenets of the fiduciary standard, advisers have always held to this higher level of trust and fierce protection of your interests. To continue this conversation, you might want to ask:

How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our employees are paid a salary and performance-based bonuses, and our financial professionals, which are the firm’s owners, each receive their share of corporate distributions. Some of our financial professionals are also licensed to sell insurance. As such, they may receive compensation based on these sales activities. However, we do not allow such sales to occur inside of advisory accounts that we manage for you. You will never pay a fee to our firm and any type of commission or other transaction fee to one of our professionals on the same account.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

Yes. There is a free and simple tool available at www.Investor.gov/CRS, which you can access at any time to read more about this matter, our firm and our other financial professionals. You might want to ask:

As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?

Please refer to our Form ADV (also known as our “Brochure”), as it contains more details on these and other topics. Please call us at (423) 486-1888 to request our latest Brochure and any updated Summary that may be available. Finally, you might want to ask:

Who is my primary contact person? Is he or she a representative of an investment adviser or a broker dealer? Who can I talk to if I have concerns about how this person is treating me?
