Item 4: Advisory Business

Maximus Long Short Equity Management, LP (“Maximus”) is a newly formed investment advisory firm organized as a limited partnership under the laws of the State of Delaware. Greg Royce, the principal owner of Maximus, founded the company in December 2018, and intends to commence advisory services upon approval of Maximus’ application by the SEC. Maximus Long Short Equity Management GP, LLC is the general partner of Maximus and is controlled by Mr. Royce.

Maximus intends to provide investment advisory services on a discretionary basis to accredited investors, including high net worth individuals and institutional investors, through privately offered pooled investment vehicles (each a “Fund” or collectively the “Funds”), and separately managed accounts (each a “Managed Account”, and collectively, the “Managed Accounts”). Each Fund and Managed Account may be referred to herein as a “Client” or collectively, “the Clients.”

In providing such services to the Clients, Maximus has discretion to formulate investment objectives, direct and manage the investment and reinvestment of the Clients’ assets.

Terms of investments, including Client objectives, limitations and strategies are governed exclusively by the terms of the private placement memorandum, operating agreement, and/or an investment management agreement (collectively, the “Governing Documents”). Maximus offers the same and different suites of services to its Clients. Specific Client investment strategies and their implementation are dependent upon the Client’s investment objectives. Managed Account Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities. Investors in the Funds (“Investors”) cannot generally place investment restrictions on Maximus and may not tailor Maximus’ advisory services to their individual needs.

Please see Item 8 (Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss) for more information.

As of the date of this Brochure, Maximus has $[Amount] in discretionary and non-discretionary assets under management.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Maximus typically receives compensation from its Clients from the following sources: (a) fees based on a percentage of assets under management; (b) fees based on a percentage of the performance of the Client accounts. Fees for Managed Account clients are negotiable. Maximus may also enter into side letter agreements with some Investors in the Funds that may vary the terms of their investment and can include lower fee arrangements. Current and prospective clients should carefully review all fees charged by Maximus. Different fees are charged to different Clients and Investors, and fees may be waived, rebated or reduced for certain Clients and Investors.

Management Fee:

In consideration for its services to the Funds, Maximus is generally entitled to a management fee (the “Management Fee”) quarterly in advance on the first day of each calendar quarter equal to the applicable Management Fee Percentage of the net asset value of each Capital Account of each Limited Partner as of such date (including any capital contributions made to the Partnership as of such date but before the accrual of any Incentive Allocation). For more details regarding the Management Fee and different classes of interests in the Funds, please refer to the applicable Fund Governing Documents.

Maximus or the general partner, as applicable, may reduce or eliminate the Management Fee with respect to any Investor in its sole discretion. Maximus and its affiliates may not be charged any Management Fees with respect to their interests in the Funds.

Maximus may, in its discretion, waive their right to be reimbursed for any of the foregoing expenses for any period of time. Any such waiver shall not require Maximus to waive their right to be reimbursed for such expenses in the future.

Item 6: Performance Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

As discussed in Item 4, Maximus or its affiliate is entitled to receive an Incentive Allocation from the Funds. These payments are subject to Section 205(a)(1) of the Advisers Act, in accordance with the available exemptions thereunder, including the exemption set forth in Rule 205-3.

Performance-based fees or compensation, in general, may create an incentive for Maximus or its supervised persons to make investments that are riskier and more speculative than would be the case in the absence of a performance-based fee. Such fee arrangements may also create an incentive to favor higher fee-paying clients over other clients in the allocation of investment opportunities. To the extent that any such conflicts were to arise, in order to address such conflict(s), Maximus has implemented policies and procedures to ensure that all Clients receive equitable and fair treatment consistent with Maximus' fiduciary duty.

Item 7: Types of Clients

As mentioned in Item 4, Maximus provides investment advisory services to Managed Accounts and Funds. Interests in the Funds is offered only to sophisticated and qualified investors, including but not limited to: high-net-worth individuals, family offices and institutions.

The minimum initial investment in the Funds is $1,000,000, although Maximus may elect to accept a lesser amount in its sole discretion.

As of the date of this Brochure, Maximus does not have a set minimum to open a Managed Account; however, we typically have not been considering them below $10,000,000.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Set forth below are summaries of the investment strategies primarily employed by Maximus.

Maximus' investment strategy is to build an institutional industrial investing franchise, by deploying meaningful capital in core positions while also diversifying the portfolio with respect to position count, sub-sectors, betas and market caps, along with other considerations. Typically, Maximus will target 35-50 positions with 15-25 long positions and 15-25 short positions and will seek to protect capital in down market periods.

In looking at potential investments, Maximus seeks fundamental value with a catalyst approach through a rigorous research and investment process. Maximus implements disciplined portfolio and risk management processes, through targeting 6-12+ month investment horizons on long positions and a 3-6 month investment horizon on short positions (all single stock shorts).

The Fund will target companies undergoing major corporate restructurings or shareholder activism, that have meaningful balance sheet capacity for M&A and/or share buybacks (usually resulting from strong FCF), in industries that are undergoing structural change, with notable new product introductions, and are market share winners.

MAXIMUS' INVESTMENT STRATEGY INVOLVES A HIGH DEGREE OF BUSINESS AND FINANCIAL RISK THAT CAN RESULT IN SUBSTANTIAL LOSSES AND IS SUITABLE ONLY FOR INVESTORS PREPARED TO BEAR SUCH RISK. THE RISKS FACTORS BELOW ARE NOT INTENDED TO BE EXHAUSTIVE. PROSPECTIVE CLIENTS SHOULD ALSO CAREFULLY REVIEW THE RISKS DESCRIBED IN THE APPLICABLE CLIENT'S OFFERING DOCUMENTS:

Investment Related Risks

The investments selected by Maximus are subject to substantial risks, some of which are detailed below:

Stock Market Risk. The value of the stocks and other securities owned by the Clients will fluctuate depending on the performance of the companies that issued them, general market and economic conditions, and investor confidence. The market also may fail to recognize the intrinsic worth of an investment or Maximus may misgauge that worth. Equity securities may be subject to wide and sudden fluctuations in market value with corresponding fluctuations in the Clients' net asset value.

Industry and Sector Risk. Companies that have similar lines of business are grouped together in broad categories called industries. Certain industries are grouped together in broader categories called sectors. To the extent that Maximus invests in companies in the same industries or sectors, the Clients' portfolio performance will be susceptible to the economic, business or other developments that affect those industries or sectors.

Concentration Risk. The Clients are subject to risks associated with investing in a concentrated fund (i.e., investing in a limited number of total investments). As a result, the value of the Clients' investments will be greatly affected by fluctuations in the value of a single investment or a few investments.

Nature of Investments. Maximus has broad discretion in making investments. There can be no assurance that Maximus will correctly evaluate the nature and magnitude of the various factors that could affect the value of and return on investments. Prices of investments may be volatile, and a variety of factors that are inherently difficult to predict, such as domestic or international economic and political developments, may significantly affect the results of the Clients' activities and the value of its investments. No guarantee or representation is made that the Clients' investment objective will be achieved.

Small and Mid-Size Company Risk. The Clients may invest in small and/or mid-size companies. While small and mid-size companies may offer greater potential for capital appreciation than larger and more established companies, they may also involve greater risk of loss and price fluctuation. The trading markets for securities of smaller-cap issuers may be less liquid and more volatile than securities of larger companies. This means that the Clients could have greater difficulty buying or selling a security of a smaller-cap issuer at an acceptable price, especially in periods of market volatility.

Market Liquidity. During periods of limited liquidity and higher price volatility, the Clients' ability to acquire or dispose of its investments at a price and time that Maximus deems advantageous may be impaired. As a result, in periods of rising market prices, the Clients may be unable to participate fully in price increases because it may be unable to acquire desired positions quickly. The Clients' inability to fully and promptly dispose of positions in declining markets will conversely cause its net asset value to decline as the value of unsold positions are marked to lower prices.

Style Risk. Maximus invests in securities of companies in industries that appear to be temporarily depressed. The prices of securities in these industries may tend to go down more than those of companies in other industries. Because of Maximus' investment style, there may be times when the Clients may have significant cash positions. A substantial cash position may impact the Clients' performance in certain market conditions.

Volatility. Because of the nature of the Clients' trading activities, the results of the Clients' operations may fluctuate on a daily basis. Accordingly, investors and clients should understand that the results of a particular period will not necessarily be indicative of results in future periods. Variance in the degree of volatility of the market from Maximus' expectations may produce significant losses to the Clients.

Deployment of Capital. At times, the availability of attractive investment opportunities may be limited, and Maximus may be unable to identify a sufficient number of investment opportunities, relative to the assets in which it has available to deploy. As a result, the Clients may hold cash for a significant period of time until Maximus identifies suitable investments.

Risk of Investing in Foreign Securities. Investing in the securities of foreign issuers involves special risks and considerations, including differences in accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, generally higher commission rates on foreign portfolio transactions, the possibility of expropriation or confiscatory taxation, adverse changes in investment or exchange control regulations, political instability which could affect U.S. investment in foreign countries and potential restrictions on the flow of international capital and currencies. Foreign issuers may also be subject to less government regulation than U.S. companies. Moreover, the dividends and interest payable on foreign securities may be subject to foreign withholding taxes, thus reducing the net amount of income available for distribution to the Clients. Further, foreign securities often trade with less frequency and volume than domestic securities and, therefore, may exhibit greater price volatility. Changes in foreign exchange rates will affect, favorably or unfavorably, the value of those securities which are denominated or quoted in currencies other than the U.S. dollar.

Short Sales Risk. If a security sold short increases in price, the Clients may have to cover its short position at a higher price than the short sale price, resulting in a loss. Brokers may require the Clients to “cover” a short position at an inopportune time restricting the use of the Clients’ capital. To borrow the security, the Clients may be required to pay a premium, which would increase the cost of the security sold short. The amount of any gain will be decreased, and the amount of any loss increased, by the amount of the premium, dividends, interest or expenses the Clients may be required to pay in connection with the short sale. In addition, because the Clients’ loss on a short sale arises from increases in the value of the security sold short, such loss is theoretically unlimited. By contrast, the Clients’ loss on a long position arises from decreases in the value of the security and is limited by the fact that a security’s value cannot drop below zero.

Risk of Investments in Options. There is no assurance that a liquid secondary market on an exchange will exist for any particular option, or at any particular time, and for some options, such as over-the-counter options, no secondary market on an exchange may exist. The effectiveness of hedging through the purchase of securities index options will depend upon the extent to which price movements in the portion of the securities portfolio being hedged correlate with price movements in the selected securities index. Perfect correlation is not possible because the securities held or to be acquired by the Clients will not exactly match the composition of the securities indexes on which options are written. In the purchase of securities index options the principal risk is that the premium and transaction costs paid by the Clients in purchasing an option will be lost if the changes (increase in the case of a call, decrease in the case of a put) in the level of the index do not exceed the cost of the option.

Leverage. Utilization of leverage is a speculative investment technique and involves certain unique risks. These risks include the possibility of higher volatility of the net asset value of the Clients' portfolios, greater fluctuations in the total return of the Clients and the possibility that the Clients could lose more than its contributed capital. So long as the Clients are able to realize a higher net return on the portion of its investment portfolio attributable to leverage than the cost of any leverage together with other related expenses, the effect of the leverage will be to cause the Clients to realize a higher current net return than if the Clients were not so levered. On the other hand, to the extent that the then-current cost of any leverage, together with other related expenses, approaches the net return on the Clients' investment portfolio attributable to leverage, the benefit of leverage will be reduced, and if the then-current cost of any leverage were to exceed the net return on the Clients' investment portfolio attributable to leverage, the Clients' leveraged capital structure would result in a lower rate of return than an unleveraged portfolio. If the Clients' current investment income on its entire portfolio were not sufficient to meet interest and other expenses connected with leveraging, it could be necessary for the Clients to liquidate certain of its investments during unfavorable market conditions. Certain of the Clients' investments may utilize leverage, such as leveraged ETFs. These investments will be more volatile than comparable non-leveraged investments for the reasons described in the preceding paragraph.

Competition. The securities and investment management industries are extremely competitive and involve a high degree of risk. Maximus competes with many firms including large investment and commercial banking firms that have substantially greater financial resources and research staffs. Maximus' success is dependent on its proprietary modeling and analytical resources. In the event that such resources are imitated or improved upon by Maximus' competitors, the Clients' success may be reduced.

Emerging Markets. Investments in emerging markets may be considered speculative, and therefore may offer higher potential for gains and losses than investments in developed markets of the world. With respect to any emerging country, there may be greater potential for nationalization, expropriation or confiscatory taxation, political changes, government regulation, social instability or diplomatic developments (including war) which could affect adversely the economies of such countries or the value of the Clients' investments in those countries. In addition, it may be difficult to obtain and enforce a judgment in the courts of such countries. Further, the economies of developing countries generally are heavily dependent upon international trade and, accordingly, have been and may continue to be adversely affected by trade barriers, exchange controls, managed adjustments in relative currency values and other protectionist measures imposed or negotiated by the countries with which they trade.

THE FOREGOING LIST OF RISK FACTORS DOES NOT PURPORT TO BE A COMPLETE ENUMERATION OR EXPLANATION OF THE RISKS INVOLVED IN ADVISER'S METHODS OF ANALYSIS AND INVESTMENT STRATEGIES USED IN FORMULATING INVESTMENT ADVICE OR MANAGING ASSETS. PROSPECTIVE CLIENTS SHOULD CAREFULLY REVIEW THE RISKS DESCRIBED IN THE APPLICABLE GOVERNING DOCUMENTS.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to investor's evaluation of Maximus or the integrity of Maximus' management.

There are no legal or disciplinary events that are material to an evaluation of Maximus' advisory services or the integrity of its management.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Maximus is not registered, and does not have an application pending to register, as a broker-dealer or registered representative of a broker-dealer. Currently, no employees of Maximus are registered representatives of a broker-dealer.

Maximus is not registered and does not have an application pending to register, as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, a commodity trading advisor, or an associated person of a commodity pool operator with the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

Maximus and its affiliates will devote so much of their time and effort to the affairs of Clients as may, in their judgment, be necessary to accomplish the Clients' purposes. Maximus and its affiliates may conduct any other business, including any business within the securities industry, whether or not such business is in competition with Clients. Currently, Maximus does not have other financial industry activities and affiliations that are material to its business.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal TradingCode of Ethics and Personal Trading

In connection with its registration, Maximus has adopted a written Code of Ethics (the "Code") predicated on the principle that Maximus owes a fiduciary duty to its Clients. The Code is designed to address and avoid potential conflicts of interest, and is applicable to all officers, directors, investors, partners or employees of Maximus (the "Employees"), each Employee's spouse, minor children and other family investors living in his or her household (the "Related Persons"), as well as each other individual designated in writing by a compliance officer as being subject to all or a portion of the compliance procedures or policies adopted by Maximus (collectively the "Access Persons"). Maximus requires its Employees to act in Clients' best interests, abide by all applicable regulations, and avoid any action that is, or could even appear to be, legally or ethically improper.

Maximus requires pre-clearance before purchasing an IPO or limited offering (i.e., private placement); requires periodic reporting of Access Persons' personal securities transactions and all holdings; places other restrictions on Employee personal trading; and requires prompt internal reporting of Code violations. Maximus endeavors to maintain current and accurate records of all personal securities accounts of its Access Persons in an effort to monitor all such activity. A copy of Maximus' Code is available upon written request by any Client or perspective Client.

Certain transactions in which Maximus engages may require, for either business or legal reasons that no Access Person trade in the subject securities for specified time periods. Such securities will appear on a list (the "Restricted List") that will be circulated to all Access Persons. No Access Person may engage in any sort of trading activity with respect to a security or a derivative thereof on the Restricted List without obtaining prior written approval from Greg Royce.

Maximus may also give advice or take action with respect to some Clients that differs from the advice given with respect to other clients. To the extent a particular investment is suitable for multiple Client accounts, such investments will be allocated between Clients in a manner that Maximus determines to be fair and equitable under the circumstances to all of its Clients.

Each Client account will not necessarily participate in the same transaction. As a result of the foregoing, Maximus may have conflicts of interest in allocating time and activities between Client accounts, in allocating investments among such accounts and in effecting transactions between multiple Client accounts, including ones in which Maximus may have a greater financial interest.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

Maximus is authorized to determine the broker or dealer to be used for the Fund's securities transactions. In selecting the brokers for the Funds, Maximus considers such factors as: price; execution capabilities, including efficiency of execution and willingness to execute difficult transactions; financial strength and stability; block trading and block positioning capabilities; reputation; infrastructure; reliability; quality of research products or services and other value-added services.

Maximus need not solicit competitive bids and does not have an obligation to seek the lowest available commission cost. Commission rates are generally negotiable and selecting brokers on the basis of considerations that are not limited to commission rates may result in higher transaction costs than would otherwise be obtainable. Brokers may provide research and brokerage services directly or by paying service providers engaged by Maximus. In addition, Maximus may, subject to its best execution policy, trade with certain brokers primarily in consideration for providing research services. In any such case, Maximus will determine in good faith that the amount of commissions charged is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research products or services provided by the broker.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

Maximus performs various daily, monthly and quarterly reviews of the Clients' portfolios. These reviews will be conducted by Greg Royce and certain back office personnel, working for a third-party service provider, who are responsible for confirmations, settlements, and position reconciliation.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Maximus does not receive any economic benefit from any third party for providing advisory services to the Funds.

Maximus does not directly or indirectly compensate any person for client or investor referrals.

Item 15: Custody

Rule 206(4)-2 of the Advisers Act (the “Custody Rule”) defines custody as holding client securities or assets or having any authority to obtain possession of them, including the authority to withdraw funds or securities from a client’s accounts or ownership of or access to client funds or securities. Maximus does not have custody of client funds or securities, however, affiliates of Maximus, specifically the general partner of the Funds is deemed to have custody of Fund assets. All assets and securities of the Funds are held by qualified custodians with the exception of assets that are considered to be “privately offered securities” under the Custody Rule. Fund limited partners receive annual financial statements audited by an independent public accounting firm within 120 days. Fund limited partners are urged to carefully review such statements and compare these statements to the quarterly statements provided by the Adviser.

Maximus does not have custody of Managed Account Clients’ assets. Such Clients receive statements directly from the qualified custodians on a quarterly basis. Clients are urged to carefully review custodian statements and compare the information with reports provided by Maximus.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

Maximus exercises discretion in managing the Clients’ investments based on the investment objectives, policies, and strategies disclosed in the applicable Governing Documents. Maximus contractually assumes discretionary authority over the assets of the Funds under an investment management agreement entered into between Maximus and the Funds.

Maximus generally will manage Client accounts and make investment decisions without consultation with Clients as to when the securities are to be bought or sold for the account, the total amount of the securities to be bought/sold, what securities to buy or sell, or the price per share.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

Maximus will vote proxies for any securities in the Funds and Managed Accounts. When Maximus accepts such responsibility, it will cast proxy votes in a manner consistent with the best interests of its Clients. Absent special circumstances, which are fully described in Maximus’ proxy voting policies and procedures, all proxies will be voted consistent with guidelines established and described in Maximus’ proxy voting policies and procedures, as they may be amended from time-to-time. Clients may contact Maximus to request information about how Maximus voted proxies for that Client’s securities or to obtain a copy of Maximus’ proxy voting policies and procedures.

Item 18: Financial Information

Maxmius does not require prepayment of Management Fees more than six months in advance. Maximus does not believe it has any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet its contractual commitments to its Clients. Maximus has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time during the past ten years.
