Professional Designations:

CPA – A Certified Public Accountant is an individual who has passed the uniform CPA examination administered by the American Institute Of Certified Public Accountants, and who has received state certification to practice accounting. CPAs are licensed and regulated by their state boards of accountancy.

Currently to attain the right to use the CPA title, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Attain a baccalaureate degree or higher (completing at least 150 semester hours) with a concentration in accounting that shall include not fewer than 12 semester hours of graduate level accounting courses;
- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CPA Certification Examination. The examination, administered over a two-day period, includes auditing and attestation, financial accounting and reporting, regulation and business environment concepts;
- Experience - One calendar year and 2,000 hours of qualifying experience (providing services that involve the use of accounting, attest, compilation, management advisory, financial advisory, tax or consulting skills, all of which must be achieved under the supervision of or verification by a CPA) gained through employment;
- Ethics – Agree to be bound to the State of Michigan accountancy laws as well the guidelines established by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants

Association in conjunction with the American Institute of CPA's Code of Professional Conduct.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain their CPA title:

- Continuing Education – Complete 80 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including sixteen hours for Auditing & Accounting and four hours of Ethics, which include parts of the Code of Professional Conduct, to maintain the CPA license and stay current with developments in the accounting field; and
- Ethics – Membership with the American Institute of CPAs requires member to adhere to the guidelines established by the American Institute of CPA's Code of Professional Conduct. The Principles call for an unswerving commitment to honorable behavior even at the sacrifice of personal advantage.

CPA Professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CPA certification.

PFS – Personal Financial Specialist credential is awarded by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants to CPAs demonstrating the individual has met the education, experience and testing required of a CPA in addition to a minimum level of expertise in personal financial planning.

Currently to attain the right to use the PFS credential, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Hold a valid and unrevoked CPA license issued by a state authority. Earn a minimum of 80 hours of personal financial planning education within the five year period preceding the date of the PFS application. The areas of study would include personal financial planning, income tax, insurance, investment, financial independence, employee benefits, performance management, charitable planning and special needs. To maintain their PFS credential, the recipient must complete 60 hours of financial planning continuing education credits every three years;
- Examination – Pass the comprehensive financial planning exam that covers all of the disciplines that make up personal financial planning or its equivalent. The examination is administered during a one day, seven hour period covering various case studies;
- Experience – Attain two years of full-time business or teaching experience (or 3,000 hours equivalent, including 1,000 hours of tax compliance) in personal financial planning within the five year period preceding the date of the PFS application;
- Ethics – Membership with the American Institute of CPAs requires the member to adhere to the guidelines established by the American Institute of CPA's Code of Professional Conduct. The Principles call for an unswerving commitment to honorable behavior even at the sacrifice of personal advantage.

PFS professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may as a result have their PFS credential revoked.

Professional Designations:

CFP®: The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, CFP® and federally registered CFP (with flame design) marks (collectively, the “CFP® marks”) are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. (“CFP Board”).

The CFP® certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CFP® certification. It is recognized in the United States and a number of other countries for its (1) high standard of professional education; (2) stringent code of conduct and standards of practice; and (3) ethical requirements that govern professional engagements with clients. Currently, more than 62,000 individuals have obtained CFP® certification in the United States.

To attain the right to use the CFP® marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board’s studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor’s Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board’s financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;

- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CFP® Certification Examination. The examination, administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances;
- Experience – Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year); and
- Ethics – Agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP® professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP® marks:

- Continuing Education – Complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning field; and
- Ethics – Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

CFP® professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP® certification.

CFS®: With mutual funds training, a Certified Fund Specialist® (CFS®), offered through the Institute of Business & Finance, is able to evaluate and compare financial measurements and benchmarks when constructing a portfolio. Modern portfolio theory (MPT) is a key part of the program; its components are broken down and detailed in terms the advisor can easily understand and convey to a client. Armed with MPT and other selection criteria learned as part of the mutual fund education, a suitable and efficient portfolio using closed-end, exchange-traded, and open-end funds can be derived. CFS® is the oldest designation in the mutual fund industry.

To attain the right to use the CFS® mark, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- The CFS® consists of six modules, designed to be completed within 15 weeks.
- There are three non-cumulative exams and one case study.
- Each exam is based on two modules.
- Each exam consists of 50 multiple-choice questions.
- A written case study is required.

Following initial certification and authorization to use IBF designation marks, certification must be renewed annually. By meeting IBF's ongoing competency requirements of continuing education (30 hours of CE every two years), adhering to IBF's Code of Ethics and Standards of Practice, designees' demonstrate their commitment to ongoing education and professionalism.
