Advisory Business

Firm Description

QCI Asset Management, Inc., ("QCI Asset Management, Inc.") was founded in 1974.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. provides personalized confidential investment management to individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations and businesses. Advice is provided through consultation with the client and may include: determination of financial objectives, identification of financial problems, cash flow management, tax planning, insurance review, investment management, education funding, retirement planning, and estate planning.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. is strictly a fee-only investment management firm. The firm does not sell annuities, insurance, stocks, bonds, mutual funds, limited partnerships, or other commissioned products. The firm is not affiliated with entities that sell financial products or securities. No commissions in any form are accepted.

Principal Owners

Kevin Patrick Gavagan is a 35% stockholder. H. Edward Shill, II is a 27.5% stockholder. Paul Francis Roland is a 22.5% stockholder. David Faris Khalil is a 15% stockholder.

Types of Advisory Services

QCI Asset Management, Inc. provides investment supervisory services, also known as asset management services; and furnishes investment advice through consulting arrangements.

On more than an occasional basis, QCI Asset Management, Inc. furnishes advice to clients on matters not involving securities, such as financial planning matters, identification of financial problems, cash flow management, taxation issues, insurance review, education funding, retirement planning and estate planning.

As of 12/31/12, QCI Asset Management, Inc. managed approximately $2,100,000,000 in assets for approximately 1,000 clients. Approximately $1,200,000,000 is managed on a discretionary basis, and $900,000,000 is managed on a non-discretionary basis.

Tailored Relationships

Investment guidelines are documented for each client. Investment policy statements are created for institutional clients that reflect the stated goals and objectives. Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Agreements may not be assigned without client consent.

Types of Agreements

The following agreements define the typical client relationships.

Investment Management Agreement

Most clients of QCI Asset Management, Inc. execute an Investment Management Agreement where the assets of the client are invested and managed on a discretionary basis. QCI Asset Management, Inc. offers a large cap equity investment management service, a balanced (stock/bond blend) investment management service, a fixed income investment management service, a multi-cap global investment management service and a cash management service called Enhanced Cash Management.

QCI shall receive from the Client an annual Service Fee that is based on a percentage of the investable assets under management.

The amount of the annual Service Fee for account(s) under $300,000 is one and one half percent (1.5%) of the value of the account(s).

The amount of the annual Service Fee for account(s) over $300,000 shall be the sum of one percent (1%) of the first $1,000,000 of the value of the account(s) plus three quarters of one percent (3/4%) of the value of the account(s) above $1,000,000.

The billing value of the account(s) shall be the fair market value determined in good faith by QCI as of the account starting date and thereafter as of the last day of the second month of the quarter prior to that for which the billing is to be made. In the case of multiple Accounts, the billing value shall be the fair market value of the combined Accounts.

For its Enhanced Cash Management service, applicant's standard annual service fee is the greater of $2,000 or the sum of one-quarter of one percent of the value of the Account. The annual service fee is payable monthly in arrears. The value of the Account is based on the Account's average daily balance in the previous month.

Fees are NEGOTIABLE.

Consulting Service Agreement

QCI Asset Management, Inc. also offers investment consulting services. The services provided under an Investment Consulting Services agreement include the review of client objectives, the development of an Investment Policy Statement responsive to those objectives, the development of an Asset Class framework, the search for, or evaluation of potential investment vehicles, and monitoring of and reporting of investment performance relative to benchmarks and peer universe on both an absolute and risk-adjusted basis.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. shall receive from the client an annual service fee that is based on a percentage of the investable assets under consulting review. Fees are payable quarterly in advance.

The amount of the annual Consulting Service Fee for account(s) up to $2,000,000 shall be the sum of one half of one percent (0.5%), plus one quarter of one percent (0.25%) of the value of the account(s) above $2,000,000 up to $5,000,000, plus fifteen one hundredths of one percent (0.15%) of the value of the account(s) above $5,000,000.

Fees are NEGOTIABLE.

Venture Capital Distributions Services Agreement

QCI Asset Management, Inc. offers a Venture Distribution Services Agreement. Under this agreement, QCI Asset Management, Inc. manages in-kind distributions from venture capital limited partnerships for clients. Distributions are generally recently public common stocks that have successfully conducted their IPO's. The general partners of venture capital limited partnerships may elect to distribute these public security positions to their limited partners, as a means of returning capital back to the limited partners. Distributed common stock positions are often restricted relative to their trading by SEC rule 144 or 145. QCI's role is to determine the time and /or price that would be optimal for selling distributed stock positions, and to complete those sales (and any associated filings with the SEC) accordingly. QCI Asset Management, Inc. shall receive from the client an annual fixed fee under this service agreement. This fee is negotiable, and is determined based upon the size and scope of each engagement.

Asset Management

Client assets are invested in investment vehicles that may include: equities (stocks), warrants, corporate debt securities, commercial paper, certificates of deposit, municipal securities, U.S. Government securities, option contracts and interests in partnerships.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. will also invest in Exchange Traded Fund securities (ETFs) and no-load mutual funds for its clients. In cases where these types of securities are held, clients are paying two advisory fees. Clients pay the standard quarterly fee on the market value of total assets under QCI's management which includes the assets invested in mutual funds and/or ETFs. Clients also pay an advisory fee to the investment advisor of the mutual funds and/or ETFs based upon the amount of the client's investment in these securities.

Client monies that are un-invested cash balances that are swept into money market funds at their custodian/broker-dealer are paying two advisory fees. Clients pay the standard quarterly fee on the market value of total assets under QCI's management which includes the assets invested in the money market funds. Clients also pay an advisory fee to the investment advisor of the money market fund based upon the amount of the client's investment in the fund.

QCI Asset Management, Inc., on occasion, purchases initial public offerings (IPO's) for its clients. These tend to be risky and volatile equity investments of generally young, and unseasoned companies.

QCI only invests in IPO's for clients that fully understand and can afford to undertake the risk of such investments. This group of clients has given QCI pre-approval to invest in this type of security. QCI maintains an approved list of clients. Once placed on this list, QCI allocates IPO's received on a rotational basis.

Clients not on the approved list may participate in IPO's on an occasional basis at the client's individual discretion, provided they supply the company with the directive and authority to do so in each instance.

Termination of Agreement

Although these service agreements are ongoing agreements and adjustments are sometimes required, the client or the investment manager may terminate an agreement at any time upon 30 days written notice to the other party. At termination, fees will be rebated on a pro rata basis for the portion of the quarter not completed. The portfolio value at the completion of the prior full billing quarter is used as the basis for the fee computation, adjusted for the number of days during the billing quarter prior to termination.

Fees and Compensation

Description

QCI Asset Management, Inc. bases its fees on a percentage of assets under management.

Some Service Agreements may be priced on a fixed fee basis.

QCI Asset Management, Inc., in its sole discretion, may waive its minimum fee and/or charge a lesser investment advisory fee based upon certain criteria (e.g., historical relationship, type of assets, anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amounts of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with clients, etc.).

Fees are NEGOTIABLE.

Fee Billing

Investment management fees are billed quarterly, in ADVANCE, meaning that we invoice the client BEFORE the three-month billing period has BEGUN. Payment in full is expected upon invoice presentation. Fees are usually deducted from a designated client account to facilitate billing. The client must consent in advance to direct debiting of their investment account.

Expense Ratios

Mutual funds generally charge a management fee for their services as investment managers, and is included as part of the fund's expense ratio. For example, an expense ratio of 0.50 means that the mutual fund company charges 0.5% for their services. These fees are in addition to the fees paid by the client to QCI Asset Management, Inc.

Performance figures quoted by mutual fund companies in various publications are after their fees have been deducted.

Other Expenses

Custodian Fee: Custodians usually charge a custodian fee for custodial services provided. These fees are normally based on a percentage of assets held under custody. Custodial fees are normally billed quarterly, in arrears. Fees are usually deducted directly from the client account and go directly to the custodian in payment for their service.

Transaction Costs: When performing investment management services, QCI Asset Management, Inc. normally purchases and sells investment securities, primarily stocks and bonds through third party brokerage firms. These brokerage firms charge the clients commissions or other charges for these transactions.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not receive any compensation, in any form, from these custodians or brokerage firms.

Performance-Based Fees

Sharing of Capital Gains

Fees are not based on a share of the capital gains or capital appreciation of managed securities.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not use a performance-based fee structure.

Types of Clients

Description

QCI Asset Management, Inc. generally provides investment advice to individuals, banks, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, or charitable organizations, corporations or business entities, and higher education clients.

Client relationships vary in scope and length of service.

Account Minimums

The minimum account size is $300,000 of assets under management, which equates to an annual fee of approximately $3,000 to $4,500.

When an account falls below $300,000 in value, the minimum annual fee is charged.

Clients with assets below the minimum account size may pay a higher percentage rate on their annual fees than the fees paid by clients with greater assets under management.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. has the discretion to waive the account minimum. QCI Asset Management, Inc., in its sole discretion, may waive its minimum fee and/or charge a lesser investment advisory fee based upon certain criteria (e.g., historical relationship, type of assets, anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amounts of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with clients, etc.).

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

Security analysis methods may include fundamental analysis, technical analysis, and cyclical analysis.

The main sources of information include financial newspapers and magazines, inspections of corporate activities, research materials prepared by others, corporate rating services, timing services, annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and company press releases.

Other sources of information that QCI Asset Management, Inc. may use include Morningstar Principia and Stylus mutual fund information, research services provided by Thompson Reuters such as Baseline and First Call research, and the World Wide Web.

Investment Strategies

QCI Asset Management, Inc.'s investment strategy regarding equities (stocks) involves building portfolios on a foundation of solid core holdings, complemented by stocks that offer timely opportunities.

We choose core holdings by reviewing long-term trends, cyclical forces, and relative valuations, to build a diversified portfolio with specific sector and industry emphases.

On top of the core, we add stocks of companies that present compelling risk/return propositions. We identify them using primarily two broad criteria:

- The existence of a “Catalyst for Change” in the company – internal, such as new management team, or external, like a change in government policy.
- “Growth on Sale” strong companies whose stocks are temporarily underpriced due to temporary operating difficulties or a negative earnings surprise.

QCI Asset Management, Inc.’s investment strategy as it relates to fixed income (bonds) involves building fixed income portfolios by first evaluating the interest rate cycle and choosing a duration target. We then look for attractive maturities along the yield curve, and opportunities within particular sectors and industries. Finally, we analyze individual securities and choose those we consider the most compelling.

The investment strategy for a specific client is based upon the objectives stated by the client during consultations. The client may change these objectives at any time. Each client executes an Investment Policy Guidelines Statement that documents the desired investment strategy.

Other strategies may include long-term purchases, short-term purchases, trading, and option writing (including covered options, uncovered options or spreading strategies).

Risk of Loss

All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. Our investment approach constantly keeps the risk of loss in mind. Investors face the following investment risks:

- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, coupon rates on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security’s particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment’s originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.
- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.

- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.
- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

Disciplinary Information

Legal and Disciplinary

QCI Asset Management, Inc. and its employees are not and have not been involved in legal or disciplinary events.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Financial Industry Activities

QCI Asset Management, Inc. is not registered as a securities broker-dealer, or a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator or commodity trading advisor. Our only business is fee based investment management.

Affiliations

QCI Asset Management, Inc. has no affiliation with any organizations that are material to its advisory or its clients.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics

QCI Asset Management, Inc. operates under a Code of Ethics that outlines the belief that all QCI Asset Management, Inc. personnel must conduct business with the highest level of ethical standards and to place the interest of its clients first, and to refrain from having outside interests that conflict with the interests of its clients. A written copy of QCI Asset Management, Inc.'s Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct is available and will be given to clients upon written request.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

QCI Asset Management, Inc. and its employees may buy or sell securities that are also held by clients. Employees may not trade their own securities ahead of client trades, as this would be a direct conflict of interest with our clients. Employees comply with the provisions of the QCI Asset Management, Inc. Compliance Manual.

Personal Trading

The Chief Compliance Officer of QCI Asset Management, Inc. is David F. Khalil, CFA. He reviews all employee trades each quarter. His trades are reviewed by Kevin P. Gavagan, President. The personal trading reviews ensure that the personal trading of employees does not affect the markets, and that clients of the firm receive preferential treatment.

Brokerage Practices

Selecting Brokerage Firms

When selecting a broker-trader for client transactions, QCI Asset Management, Inc. takes into account the commission rates available from broker-dealers in the market, the ability to provide competitive price and execution, research services such as written reports, access to research staff, market information, and overall services and responsiveness of the broker-dealer personnel. QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not receive fees or commissions from any of these arrangements.

Directed Brokerage

A Client is allowed to choose the broker or dealer to be used for his/her account. This choice may, at the option of the client, be made for all transactions or only when QCI Asset Management, Inc. reasonably believes the broker offers price and execution (including the value of research services) at least equal to other brokers. If a client names a broker for all transactions for their account, QCI Asset Management, Inc.'s ability to negotiate commissions may be materially adversely affected and QCI Asset Management, Inc. may be unable to obtain volume or other discounts or obtain best execution. Directed transactions may not be combined or aggregated for execution purposes with orders for the same securities for other accounts managed by QCI Asset Management, Inc. and may be placed at the end of aggregated trading activity for a particular security. This may result in the client paying higher commissions than would be available from other brokers.

Clients subject to ERISA will be required to represent to QCI Asset Management, Inc. that any designation of brokers is for the exclusive purpose of providing benefits to participants and beneficiaries of the plan and will not constitute or cause the plan to be engaged in a "prohibited transaction" as defined by ERISA.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. may recommend that clients establish brokerage accounts with Pershing Advisor Solutions LLC (PAS) of One Pershing Plaza, 99 Christopher Columbus Drive, Jersey City, New Jersey, 07399, a FINRA registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, to maintain custody of client's assets and to effect trades for their accounts. Although QCI Asset Management, Inc. may recommend that clients establish accounts at PAS, it is the client's decision to custody assets with PAS. QCI Asset Management, Inc. is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with PAS.

For QCI Asset Management, Inc. client accounts maintained in its custody, PAS charge's separately for custody services but may also be compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through PAS or that settle into PAS accounts.

Pershing Advisor Solutions LLC also makes available to QCI Asset Management, Inc. other products and services that benefit QCI Asset Management, Inc. but may not directly benefit its clients' accounts. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of QCI Asset Management, Inc. accounts, including accounts not maintained at PAS.

In addition, PAS pays the cost for QCI Asset Management, Inc. to have access to the Advent Custodial Data Service and for the use of Omega OASYS and ALERTS software which are required specifically to provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations) and to facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts.

Order Aggregation

QCI Asset Management, Inc. often aggregates the shares of securities it is buying or selling for clients. Each client portfolio that participates in an aggregated order will generally participate at the average share price for all the transactions in that security for that particular aggregated order on a given business day, with all transaction costs shared pro rata based on each client's participation in the transaction. A random allocation program is used to fill partial executions. The random allocation method is used to avoid allocating tiny blocks of securities, which can increase settlement and transaction costs.

Best Execution

QCI Asset Management, Inc. reviews the execution of trades each quarter.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not receive any portion of the trading fees.

Soft Dollars

QCI Asset Management, Inc. receives research or other products or services other than execution from some broker-dealers in connection with client securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits").

This practice creates conflicts of interest. When QCI Asset Management, Inc. uses client brokerage commissions (or markups or markdowns) to obtain research or other products or services, we receive a benefit because our firm does not have to purchase or pay for the product or service. Also QCI Asset Management, Inc. may have an incentive to select or recommend a broker-dealer based on our intent in receiving the research or other products or services, rather than on our clients' interest in receiving the most favorable execution. In addition, QCI Asset Management, Inc. may cause clients to pay commissions (or markups or markdowns) higher than those charged by other broker-dealers in return for soft dollar benefits (known as paying-up). This research or other products or services obtained may be used to service all of QCI Asset Management, Inc.'s accounts, or just a portion of accounts depending upon the applicability of the research or product or service. QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not seek to allocate soft dollar benefits to client accounts proportionally to the soft dollar credits the accounts generate.

The types of research, products and services QCI Asset Management, Inc. acquired with client brokerage commissions (markups or markdowns) within the last fiscal year include Wall Street investment research such as written reports, periodic access to staff research analysts, research data search and analysis tools such as "Baseline", "First Call", and "Morningstar Principia" mutual fund information, and market information services such as "Bloomberg". A list of all research or other products or services received through soft dollar transactions is available upon written request.

These research products and services are monitored and reviewed for their usage and value each year.

Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

Account reviews are performed at least quarterly by at least one of two assigned portfolio managers. These reviews cover asset allocation, cash position, security weightings, and client objectives. Account reviews are performed more frequently when market conditions dictate.

Review Triggers

Other conditions that may trigger a review are changes in the tax laws, new investment information, and changes in a client's own situation.

Regular Reports

Clients receive periodic communications on at least an annual basis. Our typical written reporting to clients occurs on a quarterly basis which includes a position statement, an account history, and a performance review. Annual reports, which contain the appropriate tax reports where applicable and a total return analysis, are sent to each client. Monthly reporting is available on an exception basis if requested by the client.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Incoming Referrals

QCI Asset Management, Inc. has been fortunate to receive many client referrals over the years. The referrals came from current clients, estate planning attorneys, accountants, employees, personal friends of employees and other similar sources.

QCI Asset Management, Inc. has a program under which it agrees to pay a referral fee to third parties who refer business to the firm. The referral fee is negotiated with each third party and fully disclosed to the client in writing. The client's service fee is not increased by the amount of the referral fee. The referral fee is payable as QCI Asset Management, Inc. receives the client's service fee.

Referrals Out

QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not accept referral fees or any form of remuneration from other professionals when a prospect or client is referred to them.

Custody

Account Statements

All assets are held at qualified custodians, which means the custodians provide account statements directly to clients at their address of record at least quarterly.

Performance Reports

Clients are urged to compare the account statements received directly from their custodians to the performance report statements provided by QCI Asset Management, Inc.

Net Worth Statements

Clients are sometimes provided net worth statements. Net worth statements contain approximations of bank account balances provided by the client, as well as the value of land and hard-to-price real estate. The net worth statements are used for long-term financial planning where the exact values of assets are not material to the financial planning tasks.

Investment Discretion

Discretionary Authority for Trading

QCI Asset Management, Inc. accepts discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients. QCI Asset Management, Inc. has the authority to determine, without obtaining specific client consent, the securities to be bought or sold, and the amount of the securities to be bought or sold. However, QCI Asset Management, Inc. consults with the client prior to each trade to obtain concurrence if a blanket trading authorization has not been given.

The client approves the custodian to be used and the fees paid to the custodian. QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not receive any portion of the fees or commissions paid by the client to the custodian, or to the broker-dealer for trades.

Discretionary trading authority facilitates placing trades in client accounts on their behalf so that we may promptly implement the investment guidelines that have been approved.

Limited Power of Attorney

A limited power of attorney is a trading authorization for this purpose. Clients sign a limited power of attorney so that we may execute the trades on a discretionary basis.

Voting Client Securities

Proxy Votes

Unless the client designates otherwise, QCI Asset Management, Inc. votes proxies for securities over which it maintains discretionary authority consistent with its proxy voting policy. A copy of QCI Asset Management, Inc.'s proxy voting policy is available upon request. Clients may obtain information from QCI Asset Management, Inc. about how their proxies were voted upon written request.

Financial Information

Financial Condition

QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not have any financial impairment that will preclude the firm from meeting contractual commitments to clients.

A balance sheet is not required to be provided because QCI Asset Management, Inc. does not serve as a custodian for client funds or securities, and does not require prepayment of fees of more than $1,200 per client, and six months or more in advance.

Business Continuity Plan

General

QCI Asset Management, Inc. has a Business Continuity Plan in place that provides steps to mitigate and recover from the loss of office space, communications, services or key people.

Disasters

The Business Continuity Plan covers natural disasters such as snow storms, tornados, and flooding. The Plan covers man-made disasters such as loss of electrical power, loss of water pressure, and fire. Electronic files are backed up daily and archived offsite.

Alternate Offices

Alternate offices are identified to support ongoing operations in the event the main office is unavailable. It is our intention to contact all clients as soon as possible after a disaster that dictates moving our office to an alternate location.

Information Security Program

Information Security

QCI Asset Management, Inc. maintains an information security program to reduce the risk that client personal and confidential information may be breached.

Privacy Notice

QCI Asset Management, Inc. is committed to maintaining the confidentiality, integrity and security of the personal information that is entrusted to us.

The categories of nonpublic information that we collect from clients may include information about personal finances, information about health to the extent that it is needed for the financial planning process, information about transactions between clients and third parties, and information from consumer reporting agencies, e.g., credit reports. We use this information to help clients meet their personal financial goals.

With clients permission, we disclose limited information to attorneys, accountants, and mortgage lenders with whom they have established a relationship. Clients may opt out from our sharing information with these nonaffiliated third parties by notifying us at any time by telephone, mail, fax, email, or in person. With client permission, we share a limited amount of information about them with broker-dealer firms in order to execute securities transactions on their behalf.

We maintain a secure office to ensure that client information is not placed at unreasonable risk. We employ a firewall barrier, secure data encryption techniques and authentication procedures in our computer environment.

We do not provide client information to mailing list vendors or solicitors. We require strict confidentiality in our agreements with unaffiliated third parties that require access to client personal information. Federal and state securities regulators may review our Company records and client personal records as permitted by law.

Personally identifiable information about clients will be maintained while they are clients, and for the required period thereafter that records are required to be maintained by federal and state securities laws. After that time, information may be destroyed.

We will notify clients in advance if our privacy policy is expected to change. We are required by law to deliver this Privacy Notice to clients annually, in writing.
