Item 4 - Advisory Business

JBR Co. - Financial Management, Inc. (FMI) has been in business since July 1997. The firm is owned by Jack B. Riley and Mike W. Whitson.

FMI manages investment assets for a wide range of clients with a wide range of amounts to invest. FMI does not specialize in any form of advisory service or type of investment.

FMI attempts to customize each clients' portfolio to their individual goals and time horizon. While some clients may strictly want investments, which provide cash flow, the portfolios must still be diversified to minimize the market risk; other clients may be more risk-tolerant and willing to quest of a higher long-term rate of return. Investment performance is monitored regularly and reported to the client each calendar quarter.

Clients are provided a monthly newsletter, prepared in-house, to highlight specific planning issues. Riley and Whitson meet with each client annually to discuss investment performance and current client concerns.

Riley's experience in estate planning, business succession planning, annual gifting regulations and tax-deferred retirement matters allow him to assist clients who may have concerns in these matters.

Whitson has significant experience in insurance planning - life, health, disability, and long-term-care -that can be value to clients during these annual meetings.

There is no charge to the client for these annual meetings. No pressure is exerted upon the client to engage either Riley or Whitson to perform any service outside of the scope of FMI - clients are free to chose any CPA or Insurance agent. Riley and Whitson consider the annual meeting as an opportunity to address client concerns in a range of topics the client may express interest but have no other source of information.

There are no wrap-fee agreements with any client.

There are approximately $119,000,000 under management on a discretionary basis as of December 31, 2017.

Item 5 - Fees and Compensation

Fees are charged based on the fair market value of assets under management. Clients are billed at the rate of 1% (100bps) annually or each calendar quarter, in arrears, at the rate of .25% (25bps) for all assets up to and including $1,000,000.00 under management. All assets under management in excess of $1,000,000.00 will be billed at the rate of .5% (50bps) annually or each calendar quarter at the rate of .125% (125bps).

Determination of whether a client is billed annually or quarterly is based on the materiality of the assets in the account or per client request.

It is preferred for clients to agree to have the fees deducted from their accounts; in which case the client receives a copy of the invoice as submitted to the broker-dealer for payment. The invoice identifies the assets in all accounts included in the billing and formula for computation of the fee. Clients must consent in advance to direct debiting of their investment account.

Client accounts which have less than $25,000 under management may be billed annually. The minimum fee for any client, regardless of number of accounts is $50 per year.

Simple IRA clients are billed at the rate of 1% (100bps) annually for all assets up to and including $50,000.00 under management. All assets under management in excess of $50,000.00 will be billed at the rate of .5 % (50bps) annually. Simple IRA accounts with assets under management of $5,000.00 or less will be billed at the minimum fee of $50.00 annually.

If clients insist they can be billed directly; In which case they also receive an invoice indicating the accounts for which they are being billed and the formula for computation of the amount they are billed.

Some mutual funds are not included in the no-transaction-fee inventory, and may incur a $49.95 transaction fee when purchased or sold. FMI does not participate in this fee. FMI does not purchase load or commission base mutual funds.

There are no other fees for mutual funds charged by FMI or the broker-dealer. Individual mutual funds may charge management and 12(b)(1) fees, but FMI does not participate in these fees. In addition to the annual advisory fee each mutual fund in which your assets are invested will incur separate investment advisory fees and other expenses for which you will bear a proportionate share.

FMI does not receive any other form of compensation for the management of the assets. There are no fees nor commissions received that might otherwise create a conflict of interest.

Clients have the option of purchasing an investment FMI recommends with them or with other brokers or agents not affiliated with FMI.

FMI receives no commissions from the purchase or sale of any investment.

Any termination of account prior to next billing shall be charged a prorated management fee.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

There are no performance based fees or side-by-side fees arrangements with any client of FMI.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

FMI clients are primarily individuals, corporations and partnerships.

FMI prefers for the client to open an account with at least $100,000, but will open accounts for clients with lesser amounts.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Sources of Information:

FMI is an active participant in the securities markets; Riley and Whitson read a number of investment advisory newsletters, magazines and electronic transmissions to stay familiar with fluctuations in the security markets. Riley and Whitson design portfolios using in-depth asset class research and mutual fund due diligence from Morningstar, and other independent sources.

Investment Strategies:

Riley and Whitson invest in actively managed mutual funds, indexed mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, along with individual stocks and bonds to build the clients portfolio and they continue to monitor investment performance against established benchmarks.

Risk of Loss:

All investments involve some risk-systematic, market or timing risks. FMI seeks to minimize the risks by allocation of the portfolio among a number of investments with varying styles and market caps; as well and allocations to fixed income products. Ultimately, investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

We do not have any legal, financial or other “disciplinary” item(s) to report to you. We are obligated to disclose any disciplinary event that would be material to you when evaluating us to initiate a Client / Adviser relationship, or to continue a Client /Adviser relationship with us.

Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Riley has practiced since 1972 as an independent CPA in the firm of Jack R. Riley, CPA. Inc. He receives compensation for these services. This could cause a conflict of interests for clients. Conflicts of interests include; clients feeling pressured into using Riley for his CPA services in order to continue a relationship with FMI.

Whitson and Bynum are licensed to sell insurance (life, disability & annuities). To the extent insurance products are offered to advisory clients of FMI, Whitson will be paid a commission by the insurance company who issues the policy. This creates a conflict of interest as there is an incentive for Whitson and/or Bynum to recommend insurance products based on the compensation received, rather than on the client's needs. Notwithstanding such conflict of interest, FMI addresses its fiduciary duty by utilizing insurance products only where it is the best interest of clients, and after consultation with the client.

The services provided by Riley and Whitson are not promoted through FMI unless the need for these services benefit and/or are requested by the client.

There are no other relationships with any related parties that directly or indirectly are associated with FMI.

Item 11 - Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading FMI's Privacy Statement is provided to each new client when he/she opens an investment account. As well a copy of the Code of Ethics is available to any client who may request it, at anytime.

Neither Riley or Whitson nor any related person recommends to clients or buys for client accounts securities in which they have a material interest. No member of FMI recommends investment in warrants, options or futures.

Riley and Whitson do buy or sell securities in their personal accounts that may be included in client accounts as well.

In no instance does the investment in their accounts consist of a material investment in their portfolios nor a major holding in any clients accounts. Furthermore, Riley and Whitson will make decisions based on the best interests of client accounts before making decisions within their own portfolios.

To mitigate conflicts of interest, Riley and Whitson comply with FMI's Code of Ethics and procedures, which collectively impose restrictions on the purchase or sale of securities for their own accounts and the accounts of certain affiliated persons. Additionally:

- No security may be bought or sold by a principal or employee of FMI before the firm's clients' accounts have had the opportunity to make such transactions as appropriate.
- All FMI and employee trades will be reviewed by our Chief Compliance Officer, and
- Employees will not receive a more favorable execution price on a particular day than those received by our investment advisory clients.

FMI will also maintain quarterly reports on all personal securities transactions, except transactions in investment company securities and/or other exempt transactions.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

FMI has utilized Charles Schwab Institutional as the broker dealer for all the client accounts. The relationship with Schwab has been favorable for many years - the advisers are satisfied with the transaction support historical data maintenance. FMI believes the services provided by Schwab are among the best in the industry and why they are recommended to our clients.

Schwab provides to all its advisers an electronic research platform that presents trading data and historical performance, similar to the Morningstar format. Schwab does not urge purchase of Schwab products and does not reward advisers for purchasing its proprietary products. Rather the research platform is provided to allow advisers to have access to objective research about all investment products. Because this research is made available to FMI it does create a soft dollar arrangement between Schwab and FMI.

FMI does not consider, in selecting or recommending broker-dealers, whether FMI receives referrals from the broker-dealer or a third party. FMI does not receive compensation from Schwab for any referrals.

FMI does not recommend, request nor require that a client direct it to execute transactions through a specific broker-dealer.

FMI conducts account orders through single orders, linked orders, orders by master account, orders by master account-linked, and orders by client accounts.

Item 13 - Review of Accounts

Jack Riley, CIO and Mike Whitson, CCO, review the client accounts monthly for allocation and performance.

Clients receive, from FMI, a written quarterly report (or annual report) indicating each of the assets held and the portfolio performance for the year-to-date. Charles Schwab also sends a monthly statement to every client indicating the monthly transactions, the assets in the account and the year-to-date dollar value of the unrealized gain or loss.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

There are no individuals who are not clients who provide and/or receive any economic benefit for providing any investment advice to FMI or its clients.

Likewise, FMI does not compensate any person directly or indirectly for client referrals.

Item 15 - Custody

FMI does have total discretion in managing the client accounts. The custodian, Charles Schwab, will provide account statements directly to clients at their address of record at least quarterly. Clients are urged to compare the account statements received directly from their custodians to the performance reports and billing statements prepared by FMI.

FMI has been deemed to have inadvertent custody as a result of clients providing us with Standing Letters of Authorization ("SLOA(s)") to withdraw funds from client's portfolio account(s) to pay third parties. Notwithstanding that, a surprise examination is not required as we are relying on the conditions set forth in the No-Action letter issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission on February 21, 2017. Pursuant to the conditions set forth in the No-Action Letter, FMI confirms that (1) the client provides an instruction to the qualified custodian, in writing, that includes the clients signature, the third party's name, and either the third party's address or the third party's account number at a custodian to which the transfer should be directed; (2) the client authorizes us, in writing, either on the qualified custodian's form or separately, to direct transfers to the third party either on a specified schedule or from time to time; (3) the Custodian performs appropriate verification of the instruction, such as a signature review or other method to verify the clients authorization, and the Custodian provides a transfer of funds notice to the client promptly after each transfer; (4) the client has the ability to terminate or change the instruction to the Custodian; (5) we have no authority or ability to designate or change the identity of the third party, the address, or any other information about the third party contained in the clients instruction; (6) we maintain records showing that the third party is not a related party of FMI or located at the same address as FMI; and (7) the Custodian sends the client, in writing, an initial notice confirming the instruction and an annual notice reconfirming the instruction.

FMI recommends that each client closely review the activity disclosed on their account statement for accuracy and completeness. If there are any questions the client should call FMI immediately so that any issue can be timely resolved.

FMI also recommends that clients compare the account statements at the end of each calendar quarter, received from the broker-dealer with the quarterly statements provided by FMI. The client can then be aware of any difference that may occur and notify FMI immediately.

The client will receive a notice of fee deduction each time a fee is directly deducted at the same time the custodian is notified the amount of the fee to be deducted from the client's account. The notice will provide the formula used to calculate the fee, the amount of assets under management the fee is based on and the notification each quarter for accuracy. If there are any differences the client is urged to contact FMI immediately.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

The signing of the Investment Management Agreement provides FMI with discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients. FMI has the authority to determine without obtaining specific consent, the securities to be bought or sold, and the amount of the securities to be bought or sold.

FMI does not receive from the broker dealer any transaction or commission fees for any transaction in the clients account.

The client may choose to withhold the authority to request disbursements (check or wire request, early distributions) from the account.

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

FMI does not vote proxy election on clients' accounts. All voting issues, proxies, and solicitations will be communicated to Advisory Clients through the Client's broker-dealer/custodian. Clients may contact FMI to request assistance on the proxy elections.

Item 18 - Financial Information

FMI neither solicits nor requires prepayment of any fee.

Neither FMI nor Riley or Whitson have been the subject of bankruptcy in the last ten years; or for any time period.

FMI has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding. FMI does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance, therefore has no material additional financial disclosures to make.
