YEAR OF BIRTH 1953

Executive Summary:

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. began his financial services career in 1976 as a field agent for a regional insurance company. He earned recognition as outstanding agent of the year for several years, primarily as a result of his unique insurance analysis and review process he developed for use with his clients. He was eventually promoted to Unit Supervisor and managed a team of agents. He also collaborated with the Home Office as the chief designer in the construction of a specialized insurance product that was a competitive alternative to universal life insurance.

Not having a formalized college education after graduating high school in 1972 he enrolled in an advanced insurance educational program in 1977 and continued his education at the American College in Bryn Mawr, PA and the College for Financial Planning in Denver, CO, with a concentration in financial planning. He has earned several professional designations. In 2006 he challenged and passed the two day 10 hour Certified Financial Planner™ exam.

In 1984 he founded Cox Financial Centers, Inc. an independent insurance agency to enable him to offer insurance products to his clients. He became licensed as a securities representative in 1985 to offer mutual funds and variable products to his clients. In 1986 he became General Securities licensed to be able to offer individual stocks, bonds, and other securities to his planning clients.

In 1993 he founded Legacy Trust Administration Services, Inc. and serves as its CEO. Legacy provides trust, estate, and business accounting services to its clients.

In 1992 he became the Legal Agent and Managing Principal for FSC Advisory Corporation a wholly owned SEC Registered Investment Advisory firm of Financial Service Corporation, offering fee based investment advice to his clients. The experience gained in operating the fee based firm proved valuable in the design and build out of his own Registered Investment Advisory firm Cox Wealth Management, LLC which he founded in 1998 when FSC Advisory Corporation was merged into FSC Securities Corporation.

He founded Advisor Planning Corporation in 2001 as a consulting firm to other financial planners and financial services companies. He is frequently contacted by financial services firms for consulting engagements on the design and implementation of back office systems, processes and the technology necessary to create efficiencies in their operations. He has served as outside consultant to many of the firms which he has been associated as well as on various advisory boards in the industry.

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. chose the commission and fee combination form of compensation (also known as a Hybrid Model in the industry) because many times when instructing clients to purchase a specific commission product clients did not know where or how to acquire the recommended products. This resulted in skewed investment allocations, higher costs, and lessened opportunity to achieve the financial goals established for the client. By offering commission products he is able to match the specific product needed to the financial plan recommendations and aid his clients through the process.

Item 3: Disciplinary Information

Cox Wealth Management, LLC is required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary event that would be material to your evaluation of each investment person providing advice to you. Richard Lee Cox, Sr. has no information required to be disclosed under this Item.

Item 4: Other Business Activities

In addition to his activities at Cox Wealth Management, LLC, Richard Lee Cox, Sr. is a Registered* Principal of American Portfolios Financial Services, Inc. ("APFS") through which he manages and supervises a Branch Office. APFS is a registered broker-dealer with the Financial Industry National Regulatory Authority (FINRA), the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and various states and a member of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). In this capacity, Mr. Cox may place clients in investment products sold through APFS and receives a usual and customary commission for doing so. Many such products have fixed commissions as they are sold through a prospectus. In this capacity, Mr. Cox spends approximately 20% of an average work week. Cox Wealth Management, LLC and APFS are unaffiliated companies.

Mr. Richard Lee Cox, Sr. is also the President/CEO of Cox Financial Centers, Inc. an Independent Insurance Brokerage agency which brokers Insurance products. Approximately 5% of an average work week is allotted by Mr. Richard L. Cox, Sr. to this activity.

Form ADV Part 2B

Mr. Richard Lee Cox, Sr. is also the CEO of Legacy Trust Administration Services, Inc. a trust administration company that renders accounting and tax preparation services for trusts, estates, partnerships and businesses. Approximately 5% of an average work week is allotted by Mr. Richard L. Cox, Sr. to this activity.

Mr. Richard Lee Cox, Sr. is also the President/CEO of Advisor Planning Corporation, a marketing and service company, which provides consulting and support services to other outside Financial Advisors. Approximately 15% of an average work week is allotted by Mr. Richard L. Cox, Sr. to this activity.

To the extent that Mr. Cox recommends the purchase of securities, insurance or other investment products, where he may receive commissions. A conflict of interest exists because Mr. Cox receives sales compensation even if such a recommendation is based on the best interest of the clients and their needs. Cox Wealth Management, LLC has adopted certain procedures designed to mitigate the effects of these conflicts.

For example, as part of Cox Wealth Management's fiduciary duty to clients, Mr. Cox will endeavor at all times to put the interests of the clients first, and recommendations will only be made to the extent that they are reasonably believed to be suitable and in the best interests of the client. Additionally, material conflicts presented by these practices are disclosed to clients at the time of entering into any new advisory, brokerage or consultative arrangement.

In order to further mitigate these potential conflicts of interest, Richard Lee Cox, Sr. and Cox Wealth Management, LLC allow offsetting credits equal to any securities commissions earned in an advisory account, when both type of assets are held within the same account.

Accordingly, some accounts are designated as "commission accounts" where Mr. Cox receives commissions as compensation or as an "advisory account" where fees are based on a percentage of assets under management, with no commissions charged, but not both in the same account, unless a credit is given for the commissions earned against the fee charged. Insurance commissions are not credited due to the laws against rebating, however there is no requirement that any products be purchased from Richard Lee Cox, Sr. or his affiliated companies.

Note that some clients may have 2 or more separate accounts that charge using these different methods; therefore, in order to mitigate the conflicts of interest, Mr. Cox only gets compensated from one method or the other, in any particular account, but not both.

Service fees (sometimes called 12b-1 fees or marketing fees) paid by mutual fund or other companies are paid to Richard Lee Cox, Sr in his capacity as a Registered Representative and are not credited to any particular account and are not subject to offsetting in fee accounts. The amounts are so small and the transactions so numerous that the expense of tracking and crediting these charges would negate any economic benefit to either the client or Mr. Cox. Instead the funds received are used to lower the total cost of running his business and therefore do not benefit any particular client.

 Registered does not imply a certain level of skill or training*

Item 5: Additional Compensation

As a member and investment adviser representative of Cox Wealth Management, LLC Mr. Cox may be entitled to an end of year discretionary bonus based on overall firm profitability. As mentioned in Item 4, above, Mr. Cox may also receive commissions for the sale of certain investment and insurance products to clients.

Item 6: Supervision

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. is the Chief Investment Manager, Chief Compliance Officer and the Managing Member of Cox Wealth Management, LLC and is responsible for all advice provided to clients and for providing supervisory oversight to the Cox Wealth Management, LLC employees.
