Client funds are deposited in one or more brokerage or bank custodian accounts. Registrant may provide non-discretionary or discretionary services. In the case of accounts in which Registrant provides discretionary services, Registrant holds a limited power of attorney to act on a discretionary basis. Investment advisory services may include, but are not limited to, development of asset allocation policies, recommendations on new or existing investments, management of identified portfolios, and/or periodic portfolio rebalancing to realign portfolios to asset allocation policies. Registrant's services in the first six to twelve months following engagement generally are more extensive than those provided in subsequent periods. In subsequent periods, Registrant typically focuses on periodic rebalancing of portfolios and monitoring. For separately managed accounts, Registrant negotiates an annual fee with each client to whom Registrant provides either discretionary or non-discretionary "investment supervisory services." Factors considered by Registrant in establishing its fee agreement with each client include: the value of the assets with respect to which Registrant provides consulting services and whether Registrant will provide discretionary or non-discretionary services and other factors. Fee payments typically are due monthly or quarterly in advance depending on the term of each client's advisory services contract. Registrant may also charge fees as a percentage of assets under management. Fees as a percentage of assets range from 0.10%-0.50% of assets under Registrant's management depending on the complexity and size of the asset base. Based on negotiation, the fee may be fixed for a period of time until the assets change substantially either in size or complexity, at which time the fees will be re-negotiated. Fixed fees for consulting services range from $10,000 to $500,000 annually. (3) Investment advice through consultations with no ongoing future oversight responsibility.

As a result, however, the price may be less favorable to the client than it would be if similar transactions were not being executed concurrently for other accounts. Registrant may also cause a client to buy or sell securities directly from or to another client, if such a cross-transaction is in the interests of both such clients. If a client directs Registrant to use a specific broker, Registrant has not negotiated the terms and conditions (including, but not limited to, commission rates) relating to the services provided by such broker. Registrant does not have any responsibility for obtaining for the client from any such broker the best prices or particular commission rates with or through any such broker. The client may not obtain rates as low as it might otherwise obtain if Registrant had discretion to select broker-dealers other than those chosen by the client. The client may not participate in aggregate securities transactions, as described above, and may trade after such aggregate transactions and receive less favorable execution.
