SUPERVISION

Lodestar Investment Counsel LLC has adopted a Code of Ethics that expresses the firm's commitment to ethical conduct. This Code describes the fiduciary duties of Lodestar and our responsibilities to our clients. The Code also describes the procedures for monitoring the personal securities transactions of all firm personnel. This Code of Ethics is available upon request to the Chief Compliance Officer.

Co-Presidents, Robert H. Dearborn and Peter W. Flanzer, and Chief Compliance Officer (CCO), Kimberly A. Geary, are responsible for all operations of the business, including supervision of firm personnel, which includes supervised persons. Investment activities conducted by supervised persons are reviewed by the CCO and a President. Investment related client issues are brought to the CCO and a President for review and resolution. Any issues that involve a President are reviewed for resolution by the CCO and the other Co-President, and any issue involving the CCO are reviewed by the Co-Presidents.

Supervised persons meet on a regular basis to review client related investment strategies and policies as well as firm related issues. Client related transactions, and transactions of firm personnel are reviewed the following business day by the CCO and a President, to ensure adherence to firm investment policies and to the firm's Code of Ethics. In addition, a President or the CCO will meet with supervised persons directly, as appropriate, with respect to issues that involve that supervised person.
