Assets Under Management

As of 3/15/2017, WEGI has $187,513,495 of Assets under Management.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Portfolio Management Fees:

Fees are paid in advance and are based on a percentage of assets under management, and are calculated on the value of the managed assets at the end of the prior calendar quarter. The annual fee schedule for these services is as follows, but is negotiable depending on individual situations:

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-------|
| • First $500,000 | 2.75% |
| • Next $500,000 | 1.5% |
| • Balance above $1,000,000 | 1.25% |

Fees are payable quarterly in advance. Our fee will be calculated based on the value of the client's assets at the end of the previous quarter. If management begins after the start of a quarter, fees will be prorated accordingly. The fee will be based on the value of the assets that are placed under our management

Fees paid in advance will be considered earned and non-refundable to you up to the effective termination of the Agreement as the termination process is described in the Agreement. Upon receipt of a proper notice of termination ("Termination Notice") as described in the Agreement, we will calculate a pro rata refund of any fees not yet earned by us after the effective termination date of the Agreement. The pro rata refund will equal the total number of calendar days remaining in the billing period after the date of the termination of the Agreement to the end of that billing period divided by the total number of calendar days in that billing period. The result of that calculation will be multiplied by the total fee already paid for that billing period. The result of that calculation will represent the refund owed to you. Refunds of advance payments owed back to you shall be paid as soon as reasonably possible but not sooner than ten (10) business days after our receipt of a proper Termination Notice.

For our portfolio management service, we receive our management fees via automatic fee deduction by the custodian. Contemporaneously with the execution of the Agreement, you will be asked to sign an authorization that will allow the custodian of any of your accounts to debit the account(s) the amount of our service fees and remit the fee to us. The authorization will remain valid unless and until we receive a written revocation of such authorization from you. In connection with this fee deduction process, the amount of the fee will be deducted from your account(s) and the transaction will be itemized on your monthly statement. All fees paid to WEGI and other money managers for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses that mutual funds charge their shareholders. For a complete list of these fees, please refer to the prospectus for the fund. If the fund also imposes a sales charge, you could pay an initial or deferred sales charge in addition to the fees charged by WEGI. Fees paid to WEGI are exclusive of all custodial and transactional costs charged by account custodians, brokers, or other managers. You should review all fees charged by mutual funds, WEGI, third party managers, and others to fully understand the total amount of fees you may pay.

Financial Planning Fees

WEGI generally charges a fixed fee for the financial planning services. The initial fee for a full financial plan ranges from $2,500 - $7,500, depending on the complexity of the plan. This initial fee covers a period of one year from the date WEGI receives the executed agreement. Upon completion of the first year, ongoing planning fees will be re-negotiated. Portfolio Management fees are separate, as outlined below.

Other Consultations

Fees for other consultation will be negotiated with clients on an individual basis. These charges are invoiced as incurred. For large projects or at your request, WEGI may provide you with an estimate prior to beginning the work.

IRA Rollover Considerations

As an investment advisor we are and have acted as a fiduciary in our relationships with our clients. We follow the fiduciary standard required by the provisions of the Investment Advisor's Act of 1940. A recommendation to take a distribution from a plan or to transfer (or withdraw from) an IRA are fiduciary acts. As such, the recommendation must be prudent and in the best interest of the participant or IRA owner. Providing education regarding distribution options is an important consideration for selecting among those options. The following is a discussion of those options and considerations

As part of our investment advisory services to you, we may recommend that you withdraw the assets from your employer's retirement plan and roll the assets over to an individual retirement account ("IRA") that we will manage on your behalf. If you elect to roll the assets to an IRA that is subject to our management, we will charge you an asset based fee as set forth in the agreement you executed with our firm. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on our behalf have an incentive to recommend a rollover to you for the purpose of generating fee based compensation rather than solely based on your needs. You are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to complete the rollover. Moreover, if you do complete the rollover, you are under no obligation to have the assets in an IRA managed by our firm.

Many employers permit former employees to keep their retirement assets in their company plan. Also, current employees can sometimes move assets out of their company plan before they retire or change jobs. In determining whether to complete the rollover to an IRA, and to the extent the following options are available, you should consider the costs and benefits of:

An employee will typically have four options:

1. Leaving the funds in your employer's (former employer's) plan.
2. Moving the funds to a new employer's retirement plan.

3. Cashing out and taking a taxable distribution from the plan.
4. Rolling the funds into an IRA rollover account.

Each of these options has advantages and disadvantages and before making a change we encourage you to speak with your CPA and/or tax attorney.

If you are considering rolling over your retirement funds to an IRA for us to manage here are a few points to consider before you do so:

1. Determine whether the investment options in your employer's retirement plan address your needs or whether you might want to consider other types of investments.
 - a. Employer retirement plans generally have a more limited investment menu than IRAs.
 - b. Employer retirement plans may have unique investment options not available to the public such as employer securities, or previously closed funds.
2. Your current plan may have lower fees than our fees.
 - a. If you are interested in investing only in mutual funds, you should understand the cost structure of the share classes available in your employer's retirement plan and how the costs of those share classes compare with those available in an IRA.
 - b. You should understand the various products and services you might take advantage of at an IRA provider and the potential costs of those products and services.
3. Our strategy may have higher risk than the option(s) provided to you in your plan.
4. Your current plan may also offer financial advice.
5. If you keep your assets titled in a 401k or retirement account, you could potentially delay your required minimum distribution beyond age 70.5.
6. Your 401k may offer more liability protection than a rollover IRA; each state may vary.

- a. Generally, federal law protects assets in qualified plans from creditors. Since 2005, IRA assets have been generally protected from creditors in bankruptcies. However, there can be some exceptions to the general rules so you should consult with an attorney if you are concerned about protecting your retirement plan assets from creditors.
7. You may be able to take out a loan on your 401k, but not from an IRA.
8. IRA assets can be accessed any time; however, distributions are subject to ordinary income tax and may also be subject to a 10% early distribution penalty unless they qualify for an exception such as disability, higher education expenses or the purchase of a home.
9. If you own company stock in your plan, you may be able to liquidate those shares at a lower capital gains tax rate.

It is important that you understand the differences between these types of accounts and to decide whether a rollover is best for you. Prior to proceeding, if you have questions contact your investment adviser representative, or call our main number as listed on the cover page of this Disclosure Brochure.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

WEGI does not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client).

Item 7 – Types of Clients

WEGI provides portfolio management services to individuals, high net worth individuals, business owners, trustees, pension and profit-sharing plans, and corporations.

The minimum portfolio size is $500,000. However, under certain circumstances, minimums may be negotiable.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

WEGI primarily uses fundamental analysis to manage your portfolio.

We attempt to abide by Modern Portfolio Theory (“MPT”). MPT is an investment that attempts to maximize the expected return of a portfolio within a given range of portfolio risk, or equivalently minimize risk for a given level of expected return, by carefully choosing the proportions of various Asset Classes. MPT was developed in the 1950s through the early 1970s and was considered an important advance in the mathematical modeling of finance. MPT is widely used in practice throughout the financial industry and its creator won a Nobel memorial prize for the theory.

MPT is a mathematical formulation of the concept of Diversification in investing, with the aim of selecting a collection of investment Asset Classes that, as a group, have collectively lower risk than any individual Asset Class. That this is possible can be seen intuitively because different types of assets often change in value in opposite ways. For example, as prices in the stock market tend to move independently from prices in the bond market, a collection of both types of Asset Classes can therefore have lower overall risk than either individually. When two asset classes move in opposite directions simultaneously, it can be said that they are “negatively correlated”; when two asset classes move in the same direction simultaneously, it can be said that they are “positively correlated”. Diversification can lower risk even if Asset Classes' returns are not negatively correlated—indeed, even if they are positively correlated.

More technically, MPT models the return of an Asset Class as a normally distributed function (or more generally as an elliptically distributed random variable), defines risk as the standard deviation of return, and models a portfolio as a weighted combination of different Asset Classes so that the return of a portfolio is the weighted average of the total Asset Classes' returns. By combining different Asset Classes whose returns are not perfectly positively correlated, MPT seeks to reduce the total variance of the portfolio return. MPT also assumes that investors are rational and markets are efficient.

The fundamental concept behind MPT is that the Asset Classes in an investment portfolio should not be selected individually, each on their own merits. Rather, it is important to consider how each Asset Class changes in price relative to how every other Asset Class in the portfolio changes in price.

Investing is a tradeoff between risk and expected return. In general, Asset Classes with higher expected returns are riskier. For a given amount of risk, MPT describes how to select a portfolio with the highest possible expected return. Or, for a given expected return,

MPT explains how to select a portfolio with the lowest possible risk (the targeted expected return cannot be more than the highest-returning available security, of course, unless negative holdings of assets are possible.)

MPT is therefore a form of Diversification (having your eggs in many different baskets)! Under certain assumptions and for specific quantitative definitions of risk and return, MPT explains how to find the best possible Diversification strategy (allotment of baskets).

WEGI uses MPT to help place you in the best possible Diversification strategy that fits in line with your goals, objectives, risk tolerance, and time frame. We Diversify your account in multiple different asset classes to accomplish this goal.

Once an allocation has been agreed upon, we use Morningstar, a highly respected independent investment research firm, and a wide variety of other research materials to screen for the top performing funds within each Asset Class. While we look at multiple criteria during this screening, we give the most weighting to how well they are doing within their respective category (Asset Class) as opposed to looking only at absolute return.

We monitor your account by making sure that the actual Asset allocation does not vary significantly from the model Asset allocation. Additionally, we keep close watch on the underlying funds (again with the assistance of Morningstar) to be sure that the mutual funds that we have chosen for each Asset Class stay in the upper quartiles, as compared to their peers.

If your Asset Class allocation significantly varies from its model on a percentage basis, we will contact you and develop a strategy to rebalance your portfolio. Also, if our research determines that one of the funds within an Asset Class needs to be replaced or removed, we will contact you with our intentions of potentially replacing this fund with an alternative fund. You are made aware of any potential changes and provided with the Morningstar performance sheets for the funds that we are recommending to purchase or liquidate.

We continuously remind our clients that even with thorough Diversification and using the top-performing funds and regardless of how aggressive or conservative they may perceive their portfolios, "Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear."

Key risk(s): Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, and Interest Rate Risk.

Economic Risk

The prevailing economic environment is important to the health of all businesses. Some companies, however, are more sensitive to changes in the domestic or global economy than others. These types of companies are often referred to as cyclical businesses. Countries in which a large portion of businesses are in cyclical industries are thus also very economically sensitive and carry a higher amount of economic risk. If an investment is issued by a party located in a country that experiences wide swings from an economic standpoint or in situations where certain elements of an investment instrument are hinged on dealings in such countries, the investment instrument will generally be subject to higher level of economic risk.

Financial Risk

Financial risk is represented by internal disruptions within an investment or the issuer of an investment that can lead to unfavorable performance of the investment. Examples of financial risk can be found in cases like Enron or many of the dot com companies that were caught up in a period of extraordinary market valuations that were not based on solid financial footings of the companies.

Inflation Risk

Inflation risk involves the concern that in the future, your investment or proceeds from your investment will not be worth what they are today. Throughout time, the prices of resources and end-user products generally increase and thus, the same general goods and products today will likely be more expensive in the future. The longer an investment is held, the greater the chance that the proceeds from that investment will be worth less in the future than what they are today. Said another way, a dollar tomorrow will likely get you less than what it can today.

Interest Rate Risk

Certain investments involve the payment of a fixed or variable rate of interest to the investment holder. Once an investor has acquired or has acquired the rights to an investment that pays a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest, changes in overall interest rates in the market will affect the value of the interest-paying investment(s) they hold. In general, changes in prevailing interest rates in the market will have an inverse relationship to the value of existing, interest paying investments. In other words, as interest rates move up, the value of an instrument paying a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest will go down. The reverse is generally true as well.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of WEGI or the integrity of WEGI's management. WEGI has NO information applicable to this Item.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

WEGI and its representatives are also actively engaged in business other than giving investment advice. Additionally, WEGI and its representatives sell products or services other than investment advice to clients.

Michael S. Ross (the principal of WEGI) and Steven F. Petcovic (an Investment Advisor of WEGI), are also registered representatives of The Leaders Group, Inc., a registered broker/dealer and FINRA member. In addition, they are licensed to sell insurance products. In each of these roles, they are entitled to receive commissions or other compensation.

Additionally, due to their insurance and retail investment sales production and affiliations with insurance and investment organizations (disclosed above), WEGI representatives may occasionally be awarded sales incentives (trips, etc) by these various organizations.

Because these dual roles may present a conflict of interest, WEGI has instituted these policies to address the conflict,

- WEGI will not charge a portfolio management fee on any assets on which it or its advisors have previously received a commission.
- You are under no obligation to purchase other investment or insurance products from WEGI.
- Additionally, we address this conflict by disclosing it to you in this Brochure. As a matter of general policy, we aggressively discourage activities that put your interests anywhere but first. Additionally, we have instituted a comprehensive supervisory program, detailed in our Written Supervisory Procedures (“WSPs”) that was designed to address, among other things, conflicts of interest such as the relationship between us and the entities named above. In addition, we have designated a Chief Compliance Officer, as set forth on Schedule A of our Form ADV, to be the party responsible for the overall application and oversight of our supervisory process and our WSPs.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

WEGI has adopted a Code of Ethics for its supervised persons describing its high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes provisions related to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, a prohibition of rumor mongering, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All supervised persons at WEGI must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended.

WEGI anticipates instances where we may recommend to investment advisory clients or prospective clients, the purchase or sale of securities in which WEGI its affiliates and/or clients, directly or indirectly, have an ownership interest. Our Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of the employees of WEGI will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Under the Code, certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not interfere with the best interest of WEGI's clients. In addition, the Code requires pre-clearance of many transactions, and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because the Code of Ethics in some circumstances would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code of Ethics, and to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between WEGI and its clients.

Certain affiliated accounts may trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with our obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the affiliated and client accounts will share trading costs equally and trades will be priced at the average price of all trades in that security on that day. WEGI will retain records of the trade order (specifying each participating account) and its allocation, which will be completed prior to the entry of the aggregated order. Completed orders will be allocated as specified in the initial trade order. Partially filled orders will be allocated on a pro rata basis. Any exceptions will be explained on the Order.

WEGI's clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting Steven F. Petcovic at (770)777-1845 or spetcovic@tweginc.com.

It is WEGI's policy that the firm will not affect any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

Investment or Brokerage Discretion

WEGI participates in the Institutional Brokerage Group ("IBG") program of Fidelity Brokerage Services, Inc. ("Fidelity"), a FINRA member and registered broker/dealer. IBG is a services program offered to independent investment advisors by Fidelity. We generally recommend Fidelity as your custodian. As part of the IBG program, WEGI may receive some benefits, as described below.

IBG Benefits

Through its participation in IBG, WEGI does receive some economic benefits, although there is no direct link between the investment advice given and the participation in the IBG program.

These benefits include, but may not be limited to: receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements; access to a trading desk servicing IBG participants exclusively, access to block trading which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to clients accounts; ability to have investment advisory fees deducted directly from clients accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; receipts of compliance publications; access to client approved market timely articles; and access to mutual funds which generally require significantly higher minimum initial investments or are generally only available to institutional investors.

The benefits received through participation in the IBG program do not necessarily depend upon the proportion of transactions directed to Fidelity.

When given discretion to do so, WEGI will endeavor to select those brokers or dealers which will provide the best services at the lowest commission rates possible. The determination of reasonableness of commissions is based on the broker's ability to provide professional services, competitive commission rates, research and other services which help WEGI in providing investment advisory services to the client. WEGI may therefore recommend (or use) a broker/dealer who provides useful research and securities transaction services even though a lower commission may be charged by a different broker/dealer who offers no research services or minimal securities transaction assistance. Research services may be useful in servicing all of WEGI's clients, and not all of such research may be useful for the account for which the particular transaction was effected.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Michael S. Ross, President of WEGI and Steven F. Petcovic, Chief Compliance Officer of WEGI, review all client accounts.

Accounts are reviewed in full detail at least annually, and each portfolio's asset allocation is reviewed quarterly. In addition, the portfolio of recommended funds is reviewed, in aggregate, on a daily basis. Any perceived need for change is then considered for each client portfolio on an individual basis.

Also, interim reviews are triggered by a number of factors. These factors may include but are not limited to the following: change in general circumstances, change in expense levels due to marriage, etc., retirement, or economic, political, or market conditions.

Account custodians are responsible for providing monthly or quarterly account statements which reflect the position (and current pricing) in each account, as well as transactions in each account, including fees paid for an account. Account custodians also provide prompt confirmation of all trading activity, and year-end tax statements, such as 1099 forms.

Additionally, WEGI prepares detailed quarterly reports for distribution to clients.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

WEGI may utilize the services of various persons who act in the capacity of a solicitor and may receive compensation from WEGI for referring a client to WEGI.

These persons act as consultants and independent contractors, and not as employees of WEGI. They will use their best efforts to solicit and refer as clients to WEGI those individuals or entities which they believes are suitable and appropriate for the investment advisory services provided by WEGI. The Solicitors represent that they are familiar with the investment advisory services and programs offered by WEGI.

When a Solicitor is involved, you will be made aware of this relationship and will sign a disclosure form acknowledging the same.

The Solicitors will perform their responsibilities in accordance with the WEGI's policies and applicable federal and state law.

WEGI also occasionally splits insurance commissions in the conduct of its insurance business.

Item 15 – Custody

As mentioned previously, you will receive quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains you investment assets.

WEGI urges you to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that WEGI may provide. WEGI's statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

WEGI usually receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, WEGI will adhere to the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of its clients.

Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to WEGI in writing.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, WEGI does not have any authority to and does not vote proxies on your behalf. You retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for any and all securities maintained in your portfolios. You may contact WEGI for advice regarding your voting of proxies.

Item 18 – Financial Information

WEGI has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has NOT been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.

Accordingly, clients should consider that there is a potential conflict of interest between their interest and the receipt of sales commissions by Steven F. Petcovic. However, Steven has never and will never let commissions influence him to steer his clients into a product or products that he does not feel are in the best interests of his clients.

Item 5- Additional Compensation

Due to Steven's insurance and retail investment sales production and affiliations with insurance and investment organizations (disclosed above), he may occasionally be awarded sales incentives (trips, etc) by these various organizations.

Accordingly, clients should consider that there is a potential conflict of interest between their interest and the receipt of award incentives by Steven F. Petcovic. However, Steven has never and will never let outside incentives influence him to steer his clients into a product or products that he does not feel are in the best interests of his clients.

We address the conflicts described in the preceding section by disclosing them to you in this Brochure Supplement as well as in the Firm's brochure. As a matter of general policy, we aggressively discourage activities that put your interests anywhere but first. Additionally, we have instituted a comprehensive supervisory process, detailed in our Written Supervisory Procedures ("WSPs") that was designed to address, among other things, conflicts of interest such as this one.
