Investment Management & Consulting

Custom Portfolio Management Services - discretionary investment management of portfolios comprised of common stocks, preferred stocks, exchange traded funds (ETF), mutual funds, corporate and tax-exempt bonds and short-term reserves.

The investment process begins with formulating an investment strategy. The client's investment strategy will reflect the client's investment objectives, needs, time horizon, risk tolerance level and any investment restrictions that may be desired. For example, if the client's primary objective is long-term growth, we will hold a higher percentage in equity based securities than we would if the client were more income-oriented, or more risk averse. For these more risk-averse clients, a greater percentage in bonds usually is appropriate.

For inherited securities, concentrated positions, or any personal or tax sensitive positions, accommodations can be made and we will develop strategies to address these challenges. Ultimately, this understanding is memorialized in an "Investment Policy Statement" (IPS) and updated as needed.

A la Carte Services

- Financial Planning Services - an analytical process designed to organize financial data, identify needs and opportunities and evaluate alternative courses of action. A financial plan may discuss current net worth, income tax issues, cash flow and budgeting strategies, specific investments and asset allocations, retirement planning, employee benefit plan analysis, estate and gift tax planning, education funding and risk management focusing on life, and health and disability coverage. The goal is to develop a strategy for the successful management of personal income, assets, and liabilities in meeting the client's financial goals and lifetime objectives.
- Tax Planning and Tax Preparation Services - Alexandria provides income, gift, and estate tax compliance and tax return preparation services.
- Other Financial Services – Alexandria provides services to clients on matters not involving securities, such as bill payment, accounting, and financial data aggregation.

Assets Under Management

As of September 30, 2015, the total amount of client assets managed by Alexandria was approximately $642,000,000. Of this total amount, approximately $626,000,000.00 was managed on a discretionary basis and $16,000,000 on a non-discretionary basis.

FEES AND COMPENSATION

Family Wealth Management Clients

Alexandria's wealth management fees are based on the size of the pool of assets under management. The base annual wealth management fee schedule ranges between .65% to 1.25% of Assets Under Management ("AUM"). This fee, which is payable in advance, is based on the value of a client's accounts under management on the last business day of the immediately preceding quarter.

The advance fee for new accounts (when substantial deposits may be received in several installments during the initial quarter), or for existing accounts when large (typically 20% of total household AUM) deposits or withdrawals occur during a quarter, are adjusted on a pro-rata basis. Pro-rata adjustment is made on the next quarterly invoice.

The annual minimum fee is $10,000 but is subject to negotiation. The minimum account size is $1,000,000, and this minimum is also subject to negotiation.

Investment Management and Consulting Clients

For "Investment management and consulting only" services, the fees range from 1% to 1.25% of Assets Under Management. This fee is payable in advance based on the value of client's accounts on the last business day of the preceding quarter. The minimum AUM is $500,000.00. Substantial (typically 20% of total household AUM) deposits and withdrawals will be adjusted on a pro-rata basis in on the next quarterly invoice.

Employer Qualified Plan Clients

Employer Pension Plan Clients' fees range between .35% to .90% of Assets Under Management. This fee is billed quarterly in arrears and is based on the account asset value on the last business day of the immediately preceding quarter. Fees are deducted directly from client accounts (clients may not select direct billing as payment method).

The minimum annual fee is $20,000 but is subject to negotiation. There is no start-up or termination fee, nor will the Plan be subject to any penalties.

Tax Preparation and Financial Planning Fees

Alexandria Capital charges an hourly rate of $150 to $500 per hour for a written financial plan and time spent on preparing and filing tax returns. The anticipated required hours and rate, based on the complexity and the particulars of the case, are quoted prior to the contract being executed. Alexandria will, upon a client's request, continue to be available at the above rates for the implementation of the client's plan, any subsequent tax advice, evaluation, analysis function, or specific securities or investment related advice. Annual updates may also be provided upon contracting with the client.

Other Services Fee

Other a la Carte service fees will be based on scope of the relationship and services provided. The fee will be determined prior to engagement.

Termination of Client Relationship

Our fees are stated in the Management Agreement that each client signs. This Agreement defines our relationship with the client. It describes the services we will provide and the client's obligations to us. A new client may terminate a Management Agreement within five days of the date of acceptance without any cost to the client. After the five-day period, either party may terminate for any reason upon receipt of thirty days written notice. The client will incur a pro-rata charge for bona fide services rendered during the term of the Management Agreement. If there are any prepaid unearned fees, we will promptly refund a pro rata share to the client.

Direct Debiting of Client Accounts

The client may elect to be directly billed for our services or to have the custodian for the investment account deduct our fees from the investment account. The client must provide written authorization permitting Alexandria to debit directly from the custodian. In addition, the account must be held by a qualified independent custodian and the qualified custodian must agree to send to the client an account statement each month. Each monthly account statement must indicate all amounts disbursed from the account including fees paid directly to Alexandria. Clients are informed that it is their responsibility to verify the accuracy of the custodian statement and fee calculation. The investment account custodian will not be responsible for the correctness of Alexandria's fee calculations.

Mutual Fund Fees

In addition to our Management Fee, clients will also incur, relative to all mutual fund purchases, charges imposed at the mutual fund level (e.g. management fees, other fund expenses and short term redemption fees). In addition, clients will incur any transaction charges, including short-term redemption fees, imposed by the Custodian. Please note that Alexandria receives none of these fees.

Trading and Other Costs

Our wealth management fees are separate and distinct from transaction fees charged by broker-dealers associated with the trading of securities in investment accounts. Such fees may include commissions, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Please refer to Brokerage Practices of this brochure for additional information.

Custodians may charge an annual custodian fee plus transaction fees on purchases or sales of securities executed with an outside broker.

Commissions

When clients purchase insurance, annuity, or products through PKS, PKSI, or independent insurance agencies, appropriately licensed individuals of Alexandria may receive commission typical of such transaction.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

Alexandria does not charge any performance-based fees or engage in the practice known as side-by-side management.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES & RISK OF LOSS

Methods of Analysis

Our methods of economic, market, and security analysis include fundamental analysis and technical analysis. Our main sources of information include financial newspapers and magazines, public and private databases, inspections of corporate activities, research materials prepared by others, corporate rating services, timing services, annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, company press releases, as well as discussions and meetings with investment company representatives.

Managing Return, Risk & Cost

- Risk
Risk is managed through extensive diversification of securities classes, markets, capitalization groups, economic sectors, industries, and individual securities as well as being sensitive to both market and individual security price levels.
- Return
Although an investment portfolio's return reflects some factors that are beyond the investor's control, Alexandria seeks return by understanding the factors that drive market cycles and participating in the favorable multi-year portions of the cycles by tactically investing in undervalued companies, sectors, and classes.
- Cost
Costs have a direct correlation to how advisers serve clients. Alexandria is a fiduciary adviser and as such, we are transparent on all costs and only make recommendations that are absolutely in the best interest of our clients, minimizing cost whenever possible.

Investment Strategies

Our investment strategy is customized based on each client's objective and Investment Policy Statement. Our asset allocation strategies begin with an analysis of fundamental economic and monetary factors that influence the stock and bond markets. Portfolios are globally diversified among U.S. equities, foreign equities and high-quality fixed income investments in an effort to control risk.

Alexandria may utilize different investment strategies, based upon the needs of the client, including long-term purchases, short-term purchases, currency hedging, and option writing.

Types of Investments

Investment advice may be offered on any investments held by a client at the start of the advisory relationship. Recommendations for new investments will typically be limited to domestic or foreign debt and equity securities, United States municipal and government securities, US registered mutual funds and exchange traded funds, real estate investment trusts (REITS), direct participation programs such as limited partnerships, private placements and options.

Options Strategies

Alexandria makes available to its clients a variety of options strategies to assist in protecting portfolios, building asset exposure and enhancing cash flow.

Strategy Overview

- Protection – PUT options on individual holdings (e.g., stocks, ETFs or a broad index) may be purchased to help offset a material downside move. Similarly, a “collar” may be employed on specific portfolio holdings. A collar involves the purchase of an out-of-the-money PUT, partially or entirely financed by the sale of an out-of-the-money CALL.
- Building asset exposure – As a limit order alternative, cash secured PUT options may be sold to generate cash flow and build asset exposure. Another strategy that may be employed to build asset exposure is the purchase of CALL options on stocks, ETFs or broad indexes.
- Cash Flow and protection – Covered CALL selling against existing positions (e.g., stocks and ETFs) may be employed to generate cash flow and help mitigate adverse moves.
- Advanced: Tax-advantaged cash flow generation using an index option overlay - This strategy entails the sale of an out-of-the-money index CALL option and/or an out-of-the-money index PUT option in an effort to generate monthly cash flow. Index CALL and index PUT options are purchased to provide protection against an adverse move in the underlying index.

Cash Management

Cash is invested in a money market fund or FDIC-insured deposit account at the discretion of Alexandria.

Risk of Loss

All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. Our investment approach constantly keeps the risk of loss in mind. Investors face the following general investment risks:

- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Market Risk: The price of any security, including bonds, ETFs or mutual funds may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions independent of the security itself. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power will erode at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.
- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.
- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, an oil company's profits depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process.
- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash without creating a significant reduction in the price. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business's operations generates risk because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

Options

There are numerous risks associated with transactions in options on securities or securities indexes. A decision as to whether, when and how to use options involves the exercise of skill and judgment, and even a well-conceived transaction may be unsuccessful to some degree because of market behavior or unexpected events. As the writer of covered call options, the client forgoes, during the option's life, the opportunity to profit from increases in the market value of the underlying security or the index above the sum of the option premium received and the exercise price of the call, but has retained the risk of loss, minus the option premium received, should the price of the underlying security decline. In the case of index options, the client incurs basis risk between the performance of the underlying portfolio and the performance of the underlying index. For example, the underlying portfolio may decline in value while the underlying index may increase in value, resulting in a loss on the call option while the underlying portfolio declines as well.

DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

Neither Alexandria nor any of its Investment Advisory Representatives have ever been disciplined by a regulatory agency.

OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

Registered Representatives of a Broker-Dealer

Certain advisors of Alexandria are registered representatives of Purshe Kaplan Sterling Investments (“PKS”), a member of FINRA and SIPC, and may provide clients with securities brokerage services under a separate commission-based arrangement. A potential conflict of interest exists to the extent that Alexandria recommends the purchase of a security and its Supervised Person receives a portion of the commissions paid to PKS. Alexandria has procedures in place to ensure that all recommendations are made in the best interests of clients, regardless of any additional compensation earned.

Insurance Related Agency

Certain advisors of Alexandria are affiliated with PKS Financial services, Inc. (“PKSI”) to be able to offer to sell insurance products under a separate commission-based arrangement. A potential conflict of interest exists to the extent that Alexandria recommends the purchase of insurance and its Supervised Person receives a portion of the commissions paid to PKSI. Alexandria has procedures in place to ensure that all recommendations are made in the best interests of clients, regardless of any additional compensation earned.

Both PKS and PKSI are unaffiliated with the registered investment advisory (“RIA”) business of Alexandria.

CODE OF ETHICS

Alexandria Capital has adopted a Code of Ethics that is designed to comply with Rule 204A-1 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (“Advisers Act”). The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All employees must annually acknowledge their understanding of the Code of Ethics.

This Code establishes rules of conduct for all employees of Alexandria. The Code is based upon the principle that Alexandria and its employees owe a fiduciary duty to Alexandria’s clients to conduct their affairs, including their personal securities transactions, in such a manner as to avoid:

- Serving their own personal interests ahead of clients.
- Taking inappropriate advantage of their position with the firm.
- Any actual or potential conflicts of interest or any abuse of their position of trust and responsibility.

Alexandria's Code of Ethics requires all employees to report personal securities transactions and provide detailed summary of all holdings and securities accounts upon commencement of employment and quarterly thereafter, in which such Employees have a direct or indirect beneficial interest.

Alexandria's Code of Ethics is available for review by clients and prospective clients upon request.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Broker Selection

Alexandria Capital generally has the authority to determine the broker dealer to be used and the commission rates paid. Unless otherwise instructed, Alexandria will recommend that clients utilize the brokerage and custodial services of TD Ameritrade, Charles Schwab, Pershing, or Bank of America.

Alexandria does not receive fees or commissions from any of these arrangements.

Alexandria may accept client instructions for directing the client's brokerage transactions to a particular broker-dealer. For some clients, Alexandria manages assets in clients' companies' Qualified Retirement Plans, where the clients' firm designates the custodial arrangement.

In those cases, where a client designates a specific broker-dealer, Alexandria may not have authority to negotiate commissions, best execution may not be achieved, and there may be a disparity in commission charges between clients.

Best Execution

Best execution has been defined by the SEC as the "execution of securities transactions for clients in such a manner that the client's total cost or proceeds in each transaction is the most favorable under the circumstances." In seeking best execution, the determinative factor may not be the lowest possible commission cost but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although we will seek competitive commission rates, we may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for account transactions.

Soft Dollars

We maintain "soft-dollar" relationships with brokerage firms in order to obtain a broad range of information and ideas that are helpful in managing your portfolio in a rapidly changing world. These services involve domestic and international economic analysis, investment strategies and individual company research. Moreover, these soft-dollar relationships are maintained to enable us to participate in computerized communication systems that bring this investment research and pricing data to us in a timely manner. Soft-dollar expenditures are made in accordance with a budget determined by our investment professionals based on their perceptions of the value of the individual services to our clients' portfolios. To the extent that this information is incorporated into our decision-making process and then applied to all of our portfolios, each of our client portfolios benefits from these soft-dollar relationships. While the brokerage charges on these soft-dollar trades are executed at a small premium to the pure execution cost of the trades, we view receipt of this research as essential to your interest.

The use of soft-dollars to cover the cost of each soft-dollar service we use is reviewed and approved by our Investment Committee.

We have a relationship with Jeffries & Company where that firm pays for our subscription to Thomson One Analytics, an electronic investment data and research delivery system in return for our using them as one of our brokers. Pershing pays for one-third of our securities pricing data costs from IDC.

Aggregation of Orders

Alexandria Capital will aggregate orders with respect to a security if such aggregation is consistent with achieving best execution for the various client accounts. When orders are aggregated, each participating account receives the average share price for the transaction and bears a proportionate share of all transaction costs, based upon each account's participation in the transaction, subject to Alexandria's discretion, depending on factual or market conditions and the duty to achieve best execution for client accounts. Clients participating in block trading may include proprietary or related accounts. Such accounts are treated as client accounts and are neither given preferential nor inferior treatment versus other client accounts. Alexandria does not receive additional compensation or remuneration of any kind arising out of the aggregation of client trades.

Allocations of orders among client accounts must be made in a fair and equitable manner. Generally, allocations among accounts with the same or similar investment objective are made pro rata based upon the size of the accounts. There is no allocation to an account or set of accounts based on account performance or the amount or structure of management fees. However, the following factors may justify an allocation that deviates from the general rule:

- Specific allocations may be chosen based upon an account's existing positions in securities.
- Specific allocations may be chosen because of the cash availability of one or more particular accounts or because of re-balancing or other account-specific considerations.
- Specific allocations may be chosen based on a partial fill of the block trade.
- Specific allocations may be chosen for tax reasons.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Family Wealth and Investment Management Clients

We monitor client accounts on a continuous and best efforts basis and conduct formal reviews with our clients. Factors that may trigger a review are changes in investment strategy, large deposits or withdrawals, changes in tax laws, and changes in the client's financial situation.

Account reviews are performed by the assigned portfolio manager.

Reports to Family Wealth and Investment Management Clients

Alexandria will render a report to each Client on a quarterly basis, which details the Client's portfolio valuation at the end of a calendar quarter, investment gains and losses, and time weighted return performance. Clients will also receive monthly investment account statements directly from their Custodian. Clients are able to review their investment accounts at any time on their Custodian's secure website. In addition, clients receive a weekly update on the financial markets.

Employer Pension Plan Clients

Alexandria Capital does not review individual retirement plan accounts for Employer Qualified Plan Clients' employees. Alexandria does rebalance Employer Pension Plan's managed investment models when necessary and as determined by Alexandria.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Client Referrals

Alexandria has agreements with firms and individuals, referred to as Solicitors, through which such persons are compensated for (1) referring prospects who subsequently become clients of Alexandria and (2) providing, or for being prepared to provide, certain non-investment related services as required by such clients or requested by Alexandria. Solicitor's fees are negotiable but generally range between 10% and 20% of the quarterly fees paid to Alexandria for investment management services. Alexandria's standard investment advisory fees are not increased because of these agreements, nor is any additional charge passed along to a client in any way for the Solicitor's services.

Alexandria has a referral Agreement with Seaport Securities, a New York broker/dealer, under which Seaport refers clients. On the approval of the referred client, the management fee is shared between Seaport and Alexandria.

Additional referrals come from current clients, estate planning attorneys, accountants, personal friends of employees and other similar sources. The firm does not compensate referring parties for these referrals.

Alexandria does not accept referral fees or any form of remuneration from other professionals when a prospect or client is referred to them.

OTHER COMPENSATION

Alexandria participates in institutional service programs with several institutional brokers and custodians. While there is no direct link between the investment advice given and participation in the institutional program, economic benefits are received which would not be received if Alexandria did not give investment advice to clients. These benefits include: receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements, access to a trading desk servicing institutional advisors exclusively, ability to have investment advisory fees deducted directly from a client's account, availability of electronic communications software and networks for order entry, account information, quotes, general business and securities information; receipt of compliance and investment publications; and access to mutual funds which may waive stated minimum initial investments or which may only be available to customer of institutional clients. Alexandria may also have access to certain share classes, typically called Class I shares, that are unavailable to others, based on Alexandria's willingness to commit to invest a specific dollar amount in the mutual fund(s) offering the Class I Shares.

In addition, broker-dealers, and mutual fund sponsors with whom client accounts are maintained or clients' funds are invested, often offer advisors other benefits which may not be available if the advisor does not maintain client's accounts or place client's investments with such persons:

- Referral of prospective clients.
- Educational conferences and seminars at no charge or reduced rates. Frequently such conferences and seminars may include cocktail receptions, meals, and entertainment. Air and/or ground transportation to and from the conference and lodging may be included at no cost or at reduced rates.
- Arranging for continuing education credits for attendance at conferences and seminars or participation in online or telephonic conferences sponsored and/or organized by the broker/dealer, mutual fund sponsor or SAM. Typically, conferences or seminars are devoted to topics such as investment analysis, income or estate taxes, retirement planning, educational planning, insurance, economics, international investing, etc., that helps Alexandria associates meet educational requirements to maintain designations such as CPA, PFS, CFP[®], or CFA.
- Invitations to affairs such as dinners, charity balls, sporting events, and golf tournaments.
- The opportunity to participate in group discounts for investment software, portfolio management and reporting systems, computers, travel, etc. which smaller firms may not be in a position to arrange or negotiate independently.
- Travel, lodging, and meals for due diligence meetings that offer the opportunity to meet portfolio managers of mutual fund and exchange traded funds and discuss specific investments in which Alexandria may invest funds on behalf of clients or may be evaluating for future investments.

CUSTODY

Custody of client assets will always be maintained with the independent custodian selected by the client. Alexandria will not have physical custody of any client assets. Alexandria is permitted to direct the Custodian to deduct fees directly from client investment accounts maintained by the Custodian. Clients are responsible for paying all fees or charges of the custodian.

Clients will receive on a monthly basis, directly from the custodian an account statement showing all holdings and transactions occurring in the client's account during the period covered by the account statement. Clients are urged to carefully review the account statement sent by the Custodian and compare it with Alexandria's quarterly report.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

Alexandria Capital is usually given the discretion and authority to manage client investment accounts. This means Alexandria is authorized to perform various functions, at the client's expense, without further approval from the client. Such functions include the determination of securities to be purchased or sold, the amount of securities to be purchased or sold, the broker/dealer to be used and the commission rates to be paid. Of course, our discretion must be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives, limitations, and restrictions for each investment account.

Clients authorize Alexandria to give the custodian instructions by completing a document called a Limited Power of Attorney for the investment account.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Unless designated by the Client, Alexandria does not vote proxies on behalf of its clients. Alexandria directs the investment account Custodian to forward directly to the client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the client's investment assets. Each client tells the Custodian how to vote proxies. The client also makes all elections relative to any corporate action notification such as mergers, tender offers, or bankruptcy proceedings. Alexandria realizes that voting requests range from routine matters to unique situations. If a client has a specific question about a voting matter the client should contact our Chief Compliance Officer for assistance.

If we are designated, we vote proxies for securities over which we maintain discretionary authority consistent with our Proxy Voting Policy detailed in our Compliance Manual. A copy of our Proxy Voting Policy is available upon request.
