ITEM 4: SERVICES, FEES AND COMPENSATION

Our Services

We offer investment advisory services through a wrap fee program. A wrap fee program is an investment program where you pay us, as the sponsor of the program, a single fee which covers the costs of investment management, brokerage, custody and any other services provided under the program.

Clients may participate in our program in one of two ways, by working directly with one of our investment adviser representatives or by working through an independent financial advisor. Clients that are referred to us through the Schwab Advisor Network® receive our investment advisory services by working directly with one of our investment adviser representatives. If a client works through a broker or another independent financial advisor we will be a sub-advisor to the client. There is no difference in how we manage accounts that participate in our direct or sub-advisory wrap fee program.

Direct Advisory Services

Typically, we combine planning services with investment management services to offer a comprehensive review of your financial goals and objectives along with investing in our portfolios. In general, this level of service is required if you do not have a current investment plan or do not have another financial advisor.

If you select to use our planning and investment management services, we will assist you in gathering the information necessary for us to understand your individual investment objectives, financial circumstances, and risk tolerance and we will use this information to complete an investment objective questionnaire. We use your responses to this questionnaire for investment planning, and creating your funding analysis and investment strategy. If you are a charitable organization or corporation, we will document your investment objectives in an investment policy statement. At least annually, we will review your current circumstances with you. Based upon the information we obtain from you, we will then select our portfolio or portfolios which are appropriate for investment of your account(s).

As part of our services to qualified retirement plans which are subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (“ERISA”), we will act as a fiduciary of the plan under Section 3(21)(A)(ii) and as an Investment Manager under Section 3(38) of ERISA. As a 3(38) investment manager, the plan fiduciary gives us discretionary authority to manage the plan’s assets. This means that the plan fiduciary shifts its fiduciary responsibility to us for the selection of the plan’s investments. For all qualified plan clients we will work with the plan fiduciary to develop a formal written investment policy statement for the plan, or we will review and amend the existing investment policy statement, which establishes the plan’s specific standards and processes for investment operations. The investment policy statement may also place restrictions on the types of investments the plan invest its assets in. We will use the plan’s investment policy statement to recommend the portfolio and will continually monitor the performance of the plan’s investments.

At your request, we may invest your assets in one of our portfolios without providing investment planning services. If you select investment management services only, you will complete the portfolio selection questionnaire that assists you in selecting a portfolio. We use your responses to the portfolio selection questionnaire to approve the portfolio selected by you. We periodically review your investment strategy with you.

You will have the right to place reasonable restrictions on your account although if we deem your restrictions to be unreasonable, we will not enter into an investment advisory agreement with you or we will terminate the existing agreement with you.

Our Fees

Our fees vary depending upon the market value of your assets under management and the type of investment advisory services we provide to you. Our standard direct advisory service fee schedule is as follows:

Note: TM = Tactical Moderate, TG = Tactical Growth, TC = Tactical Conservative, and TI = Tactical Income

Unless we agree in writing to handle it differently, we bill our fee quarterly in advance. The fee is based on the total assets in your account. Once your assets reach the higher asset bracket, the entire account is charged the fee associated with that bracket. We may agree to aggregate your related accounts for purposes of calculating the asset level and fee. We may negotiate our fee under certain circumstances and negotiated fees may be higher or lower than those described above. The specific manner in which we charge fees is described in our investment advisory agreement with you.

We will deduct your initial fee at the inception of your account and we will prorate your initial fee based upon the days remaining in the initial quarter. Generally, your fee for all subsequent quarters will be deducted within the first five business days following the close of each calendar quarter. We will calculate your fee as of the end of each calendar quarter using the ending balance of assets in your account.

Our fee includes brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses. This arrangement may present a conflict of interest for us to trade securities in your account since as the sponsor of the program we incur all transaction costs.

For qualified plans, we will disclose to the plan fiduciary all revenue arrangements and any other monetary benefits provided to us or our employees related to the qualified plan and the amounts generated by the plan assets at least once per year. In addition, we will provide the required information that the plan sponsor and/or plan fiduciary may need to prepare the annual report on Form 5500 or the appropriate schedules.

Termination of Services

Either of us may terminate our investment advisory agreement by providing the other party with written notice. You have the right to terminate the agreement without penalty within five business days after signing the agreement. If the agreement terminates prior to the end of a billing period, we will refund advisory fees to you prorated from the date of termination to the end of quarter. If the agreement is terminated, you will still be liable for any transactions initiated by us in your account under the agreement prior to the termination date, such as the purchase of investments. If you request, we will initiate redemption instructions upon receipt of your written termination notice. Proceeds will be available for payment to you upon settlement of all transactions in the account. It may not be necessary to liquidate all securities positions when terminating our agreement and you should ask us about that at the time of termination. You are responsible for any cost incurred in transferring assets from the account to a different account.

Other Fees and Charges

You may incur regulatory fees charged by the SEC to the sellers of equity securities that are exchange traded, and charges for other account services that are not directly related to the execution and clearing of transactions, including, but not limited to, IRA custodial fees, safekeeping fees, interest charges on margin loans, and fees for transfers of securities.

Our fee includes such services as investment management such as ETF analysis and market analysis, execution of securities, the custodian's monthly reports, account servicing, and continuous account management. Participation in our program may cost you more or less than purchasing these services separately. The portfolio size and amount, number of transactions made in your account, as well as the commissions charged for each transaction, will determine the relative cost of our program versus paying for executions on a per transaction basis and paying a separate fee for advisory services. You may be able to receive services similar to those offered through our program from other investment advisers either separately or as part of a similar wrap fee program. These services or programs may cost more or less than our program, depending on the fees charged by the other service providers.

ETFs and mutual funds typically charge their shareholders various advisory fees and expenses associated with the establishment and operation of the funds. These fees will generally include a management fee, shareholder servicing, other fund expenses, and sometimes a distribution fee. If the fund also imposes sales charges, you may pay an initial or deferred sales charge. These separate fees and expenses are disclosed in each fund's current prospectus, which is available from the fund or we can provide it to you upon your request.

Consequently, for any type of fund investment, it is important for you to understand that you are directly and indirectly paying two levels of advisory fees and expenses: you pay one layer of fees to the fund and you pay one layer of advisory fees and expenses to us. Generally speaking, most funds may be purchased directly, without using our services and without incurring our advisory fees.

Direct Billing to Client's Custodian

You may elect to be billed directly for our fees or you may authorize us to directly debit fees from your accounts. Generally, clients authorize us to grant the custodian permission to deduct the fees directly from their account. Under our agreement, you will authorize us to bill your custodian directly for our fees. As early as the first five business days following the close of each calendar quarter, your custodian will deduct and send to us the fee. The custodian's periodic statements will show each fee deduction from your account. You may withdraw this authorization for direct billing of these fees at any time by notifying us or your custodian in writing.

ITEM 5: ACCOUNT REQUIREMENTS AND TYPES OF CLIENTS

Account Requirements

We impose certain conditions for starting or maintaining an account in this program. For clients referred through Schwab Advisor Network®, our minimum cash and/or securities to open an account has been negotiated lower. The aggregate household minimum is $500,000. The minimum for charitable organizations, corporations and pension and profit sharing plans is $3,000,000. We may waive this requirement at our discretion.

Types of Clients

We provide investment advisory services to individuals, high net worth individuals, pension and profit-sharing plans, charitable organizations, foundations, corporations, and other investment advisers.

ITEM 6: PORTFOLIO MANAGER SELECTION AND EVALUATION

Advisory Business

Our ETF Portfolios

Your assets will be invested in exchange-traded products like exchange traded funds (ETFs), exchange traded notes (ETNs) allocated in accordance with one of our portfolios. Our portfolios are tactically allocated towards global equities, commodities and fixed income. We use a global blended benchmark to measure the risk we assume in allocating our portfolios globally in equities, commodities, and bonds.

As described in more detail in "Direct Advisory Services" on page 1, you may impose reasonable restrictions on your account. There are no differences in how we manage accounts participating in our program from other accounts invested in our portfolios.

We are the sponsor and portfolio manager for all accounts in our program. We also offer investment advisory services outside of our wrap fee program including sub-advisory services to financial advisors, as well as investment management regarding variable life/annuity products, that you may own or various mutual funds in your individual employer-sponsored retirement plans. We offer those services on a fee basis. For additional information regarding these services and our fees, you may request a copy of the Part 2A of our Form ADV by contacting us at (248) 283-2520 or info@tagllc.net.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

A performance based fee is a fee based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client. We do not charge performance based fees in this wrap fee program.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

We start with a qualitative, top down analysis of global themes focused around social, political and economic trends with both historical and future perspectives. The trends are interpreted as to their “future” impact on various financial assets (asset classes). These financial forecasts are tested through various quantitative calculations and technical analysis.

We utilize our proprietary system to monitor various lagging, coincident, and leading macro and micro economic statistics and to calculate various valuation metrics. We utilize research data from numerous independent research firms and the public domain.

There are risks involved with this method, including the risk that the social, political and economic trends will change unpredictably, which is why we test our interpretations using various methods and obtain information from a variety of sources.

Investment Strategies

We use tactical asset allocation as a dynamic investment management style that adjusts asset allocations to our forward view of the relative risks and returns of various asset classes. This is distinguished from strategic asset allocation, a mechanical, passive process rebalancing portfolios back to their original allocations; the weakness of this approach is its failure to allow for new information. This strategy is further distinguished from market timing by the degree and frequency of portfolio adjustments. Our portfolios are fully invested at all times, whereas market-timing portfolios are often in or out of the markets. We invest in asset class positions with a one-year or longer outlook, whereas market timing often trades on a less than one-year frequency.

We construct each portfolio using five integrated levels of risk management and design around a different targeted time, risk and return objectives. The portfolios utilize a “fund of funds” strategy, investing exclusively with asset class specific ETFs and ETNs versus investing directly in individual stocks and bonds.

We use a proactive investment management process globally across multiple asset classes in our portfolios. While the number and weighting of asset classes in the three portfolios vary according to their objectives, all portfolios are consistent in our thematic diversification.

Types of Investments and Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear. Obtaining higher rates of return on investments typically entails accepting higher levels of risk. We will work with you to identify the balance of risks and rewards that is appropriate and comfortable for you. However, it is still your responsibility to ask questions if you do not understand fully the risks associated with any investment or investment strategy.

Also, while we strive to render our best judgment on your behalf, many economic and market variables beyond our control can affect the performance of your investments and we cannot assure you that your investments will be profitable or assure you that no losses will occur in your investment portfolio. Past performance is one consideration with respect to any investment or investment advisor, but it is not a predictor of future performance.

International investments may involve risk of capital loss from unfavorable fluctuations in currency exchange rates, differences in generally accepted accounting principles, or economic or political instability in other nations.

We will discuss with you the investment risks of ETFs to determine the investment objectives that will guide your portfolio selection. We will explain and answer any questions you have about these kinds of investments, which present special considerations such as the following:

Exchange-Traded Products and Index Funds

Equity-based exchange traded funds have a similar risk profile to those of equity mutual funds, while fixed income-based ETFs have a risk profile that approximates bond mutual funds. An ETF seeks investment results that correspond generally to the price and yield of an index. You should anticipate that the value of an ETF's shares would decline, more or less, in correlation with any decline in the value of its corresponding index. An ETF's return may not match the return of the index. The ETF may invest in small capitalization, mid-capitalization, emerging markets and international companies. Such companies may experience greater price volatility than larger, more established companies. Sometimes referred to as a "tracking error," expenses and other factors may affect the performance of an ETF so that the ETF's performance will not exactly match the performance of their respective underlying indexes.

Voting Client Securities

In general, we do not vote proxies. Your custodian will forward the proxy solicitation materials directly to you.

ITEM 7: CLIENT INFORMATION PROVIDED TO PORTFOLIO MANAGERS

We are the sponsor and the portfolio manager of the wrap fee program. You should notify us promptly if your financial situation, investment objectives or investment restrictions change. You may contact us at (248) 283-2520 or by email at info@tagllc.net.

ITEM 8: CLIENT CONTACT WITH PORTFOLIO MANAGERS

As a portfolio manager of a wrap fee program, we must inform you if there are any restrictions placed on your ability to contact us. We do not place restrictions on you if we provide you with direct investment advisory services through our investment adviser representatives.

You may contact us at (248) 283-2520 or by email at info@tagllc.net. Our normal business hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Friday. In addition, our investment adviser representatives are available by appointment.

ITEM 9: ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Disciplinary Information

As a registered investment adviser, we must inform you of all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's evaluation of our firm or the integrity of our management. We have no legal or disciplinary events to disclose.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose information regarding its business activities, other than giving investment advice, its other activities in the financial industry, and any arrangements with related persons that are material to its advisory business or clients. We must inform you if we receive cash or other economic benefits from a third-party in connection with advising our clients. We have no information to disclose.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

We have adopted a Code of Ethics (the "Code") describing the standards of business conduct we expect all officers, directors, employees, and advisory representatives to follow. The Code also describes certain reporting requirements with which particular individuals associated with or employed by us must comply. We will provide a copy of the Code to you upon request at no charge. You may request a copy of our Code by contacting us at (248) 283-2520 or info@tagllc.net.

Our principals, representatives and employees will often own the same securities recommended to you and may invest in one or more of our portfolios. When invested in the same portfolios, these accounts are traded concurrently with our other clients in our portfolios. Records are maintained of all such transactions. Orders for clients and orders for our own accounts may sometimes be aggregated or “batched” into one large order. If we aggregate an order for securities transactions, it will be on a portfolio basis such that all accounts invested in accordance with the same portfolio will be traded in a block trade. Aggregated orders may achieve better execution for all participating accounts and those benefits will be fairly allocated among all participating accounts. Each account that participates in an aggregated order will participate at the average share price for all transactions ordered by us in that security on a given business day.

Brokerage Practices

Clients referred by Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. through the Schwab Advisor Network®, will generally receive brokerage and custodial services through Schwab. As described in more detail in “Client Referrals and Compensation” on page 10, we pay Schwab a referral fee if the client maintains their account at Schwab or if the client maintains, or transfers to a custodian other than Schwab.

We have instituted a trade rotation policy to ensure each client is treated fairly in the execution of tactical reallocation. We segregate the accounts into three sections: 1) trade signal accounts; 2) discretionary ETF portfolios; 3) custom accounts. This numbering determines the order in which your account is traded. Trades are then executed in the order of rotation number. With each tactical change, the three sections rotate one turn so that no one group of clients benefit to the detriment of another group of clients. If there is a new client, it enters the last position for rotation purposes. Clients referred through the Schwab Advisor Network®, are traded with the discretionary ETF portfolios.

We may aggregate orders for securities transactions on a portfolio basis such that all client accounts invested in accordance with the same portfolio will be traded in a block trade. In doing so, we strive to treat each client fairly and will not favor one client over another client. Each account that participates in an aggregated order will participate at the average share price for all transactions ordered by us in that security on a given business day. If an aggregated order is not filled in its entirety, it may be allocated among participating accounts on a pro rata basis. However, if the partial fill is determined to be inappropriate for an account such that the number of shares for a particular account would be too few to warrant the investment or result in partial shares, then the shares will not be allocated to that account. If the security is so thinly traded that we are unable to obtain sufficient shares for all clients, it is possible that the entire trade would be busted.

We will not aggregate trades for your accounts if you have placed restrictions on your accounts or when your account is subject to customized management. We have some accounts where the clients have required that we implement exceptions to trading the account in accordance with our model portfolios and those accounts are not subject to block trading. We are unable to include these accounts in our block trade because the restrictions placed on the account by the client require individual review before we make any trades. Thus, if you place restrictions on your account, we will not aggregate your trades with that of our other clients. We do not aggregate trades for delivery versus payment accounts processed through The Depository Trust & Clearing Corporation rather than the custodian, or assets held outside of the custodian.

Review of Accounts

Review and Reports of Accounts

Our investment committee reviews the securities that we recommend for investment in the portfolios on an ongoing basis and determines any tactical changes.

Client Reports

You will receive a confirmation of each transaction that occurs in your account; and a statement, at least quarterly, describing activity, including the withdrawal of our fee and values from your custodian. We urge you to review such statements carefully.

If you use our planning and investment management program, semi-annually we will offer you an account specific performance summary. If you are a qualified plan, charitable organization or corporation, you will receive a quarterly investment performance report in the format set forth in your investment policy statement.

If you only use our investment management program, we will provide you a quarterly Tactical Portfolio performance report and annually offer an account specific performance summary report.

Client Referrals and Compensation

Schwab Advisor Network[®]

We receive client referrals from Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. through our participation in Schwab Advisor Network[®]. The Schwab Network is designed to help investors find an independent investment adviser. Schwab is a broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with us. Schwab does not supervise us and has no responsibility for the management of our clients' portfolios or our other advice or services. We pay Schwab fees to receive client referrals through the Schwab Network. Our participation in the Schwab Network may raise potential conflicts of interest described below.

We pay Schwab a participation fee on all referred clients' accounts that are maintained in custody at Schwab and a custody fee on all accounts that are maintained at, or transferred to a custodian other than Schwab. The participation fee paid by us is a percentage of the fees the client owes to us or a percentage of the value of the assets in the client's account, subject to a minimum participation fee. We pay Schwab the participation fee for so long as the referred client's account remains in custody at Schwab. The participation fee is billed to us quarterly and may be increased, decreased or waived by Schwab from time to time. The participation fee is paid by us and not by the client. We have agreed not to charge clients referred through the Schwab Network fees or costs greater than the fees or costs we charge clients with similar portfolios who were not referred through the Schwab Network.

We generally pay Schwab a custody fee if custody of a referred client's account is not maintained by, or assets in the account are transferred from Schwab. This fee does not apply if the client was solely responsible for the decision to move the assets away from Schwab. The custody fee is a one-time payment equal to a percentage of the assets placed with a custodian other than Schwab. The custody fee is higher than the participation fees we generally would pay in a single year. Thus, we will have an incentive to recommend that clients referred to us by Schwab use Schwab for custodial services.

Both the participation and custody fees will be based on assets in accounts of our clients who were referred by Schwab as well as the accounts of family members living in the same household. Thus, we will have an incentive to encourage household members of clients referred through the Schwab Network to maintain custody of their accounts and execute transactions at Schwab.

For accounts of our clients maintained in custody at Schwab, Schwab will not charge the client separately for custody but will receive compensation from us in the form of commissions or other transaction-related compensation on securities trades executed through Schwab. Schwab also will receive a fee (generally lower than the applicable commission on trades it executes) for clearance and settlement of trades executed through broker-dealers other than Schwab. Schwab's fees for trades executed at other broker-dealers are in addition to the other broker-dealer's fees. Thus, we may have an incentive to cause trades to be executed through Schwab rather than another broker-dealer. We nevertheless, acknowledge our duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts. Trades for client accounts held in custody at Schwab may be executed through a different broker-dealer than trades for our other clients. Thus, trades for accounts custodied at Schwab may be executed at different times and different prices than trades for other accounts that are executed at other broker-dealers.
