I may receive commissions or other compensation based on the sale of insurance products. This may give an incentive to recommend insurance products based on compensation received, rather than on the client's needs. You are under no obligation to purchase products or services recommended by me in connection with providing you with any advisory service that I offer.

Item 5: Additional Compensation

As outlined above, the insurance proceeds that I receive may provide me with an incentive to put my interests before your best interests. While I carefully review each client for suitability, you should be aware of the incentives I have to sell certain insurance products and provide certain advisory services and are encouraged to ask me about any conflict presented.
