Advisory Business

Geller Family Office Services LLC ("Advisor") is a wholly owned subsidiary of Geller & Company LLC and has been registered as an investment adviser since 2005. Martin Geller is the principal owner of Geller & Company LLC.

Advisor provides investment advisory services on asset allocation, portfolio diversification, portfolio risk management, and other general economic and financial topics. We recommend a structure for each client's portfolio by:

- 1) Agreeing on investment objectives after assessing the client's risk tolerance based on age, income, investment experience, cash flow needs, short- and long-term investment goals, tax situation and emotional tolerance for volatility. This assessment can be incorporated into a financial plan as needed. Client information can be gathered during client meetings and interviews, and/or through contact with other advisors and institutions as authorized by clients.
- 2) Developing specific strategies and, with client approval, implementing those strategies using an optimized combination of investments;
- 3) Monitoring investment performance, capital market conditions and client circumstances; and
- 4) Proactively adjusting portfolios as appropriate to reflect significant changes in any or all of the above variables.

Advisor deals with a limited number of clients whose circumstances differ significantly. As such, our methods of implementing investment strategies vary from client to client. When appropriate, we provide clients with the names of third party investment managers selected from our search lists. Our lists rely heavily on information and statistics made available through our consultants, and in some cases, the consulting entities of our clients' brokerage firms and/or other financial services companies. We do not as a rule independently verify that data. As a general matter, Advisor expects that the factors that will be used to determine inclusion on our investment manager search lists will include, but not necessarily be limited to: reputation, management strength, performance record, philosophy, the continuity of management, service to clients, minimum dollar investment requirements and fees. We consider managers that use either or both fundamental and technical analysis as well as managers employing a broad range of investment strategies. Third party money managers have full investment discretion and trading authority and have sole responsibility for the implementation of their portion of the investment program with respect to a client's account for which investment discretion has been delegated by the client and accepted by the third party manager. Advisor will not place orders for transactions in the client's account or otherwise exercise trading authority over the account while the account is being managed by a third party manager. We deliver and encourage clients to review those managers' disclosure document(s) for more information on their policy with regard to investment or brokerage discretion. The only limitations on the third party managers' investment authority will be those limitations imposed in writing by the client.

Advisor offers limited discretionary investment management dealing only with cash equivalents, direct obligations of the United States and its agencies, municipal bonds, exchange traded funds and/or index mutual funds and a select list of no-load mutual funds.

Accounts we manage on a discretionary basis may receive more favorable executions when purchasing or selling securities than accounts managed on a non-discretionary basis due to the fact that Advisor must receive client authorization before placing a trade order. In the course of providing our services, we will execute trades for our clients through the broker the client has selected and negotiate commissions. There may be conflicts of interest over the amount of time devoted to managing any one account and the allocation of investment opportunities among all accounts managed by us. We will attempt to resolve all such conflicts in a manner that is generally fair to all of our clients. We are not obligated to acquire for any account any security that we or our officers, partners, members or employees may acquire for their own accounts or for the account of any other client.

All other investment management is either handled on a non-discretionary basis through brokers selected by the client or on a discretionary basis by third party investment managers selected by the client with support from our advice.

In addition to advice on equity and fixed income securities, Advisor offers advice on options and alternative investments such as private equity, real estate and hedge funds which are typically organized as limited partnerships. In addition, we will advise on structured notes, the use of foreign exchange forward contracts and interest rate and equity derivatives where appropriate.

As of 12/31/10, Advisor managed $904,314,631 on a discretionary basis and $267,653,609 on a non-discretionary basis.

Fees and Compensation

Fees charged by Advisor are established in each client's written agreement with us based on our current standard hourly rate of $120 - $675 and the size and complexity of such client's accounts. All fees are reviewed with the client prior to engaging Advisor's services. We invoice fees either on a monthly or quarterly basis, in advance or in arrears as agreed to with the client. Clients may also authorize Advisor to directly debit fees from their accounts. Alternatively, at the client's request, Advisor will negotiate an annual fixed fee (based on its standard hourly rate and other factors including the amount of work involved, the assets placed under advisement and the attention needed to manage the account), or a fee based on a percentage of the assets under advisement, subject to a minimum annual fee of $25,000. Fees for related entities and individuals are negotiable.

Advisor's fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the client. Clients may incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, third party investment and other third parties such as fees charged by managers, custodial fees, deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Mutual funds and exchange traded funds also charge internal management fees, which are disclosed in a fund's prospectus. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to Advisor's fee, and Advisor shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs.

Advisor's service may be terminated by either party upon written notification in accordance with the terms of each client's written agreement. Upon termination, the fees charged for advisory services will be pro-rated and a refund for any unearned fees will be issued. The client is responsible to pay for services rendered until the termination of the Agreement. The client can cancel the Agreement without penalty within five business days after signing the Agreement.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Advisor does not charge any performance-based fees. Employees of Advisor may buy and sell the same securities that may be recommended to clients. If the possibility of a conflict of interest occurs, the client's interest will prevail. It is the policy of Advisor that priority will always be given to the client's orders over the orders of an employee of the Adviser.

Types of Clients

In order to engage Advisor for Investment Advisory services, we require that clients are "qualified purchasers" as defined in Section 2(a)(51)(A) of the Investment Company Act of 1940. In addition to serving individuals, we also advise our clients' business interests, retirement plans, trusts and/or charitable foundations.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Although our methods may differ depending on client circumstances, generally we ground our asset allocation recommendations on a custom tailored, comprehensive financial plan and stress-test potential strategic allocations through the imposition of historical scenarios, during which the risks of loss in securities and the potential for all asset classes to perform similarly can be observed. Such a plan also establishes the degree to which portions of the portfolio can have limited liquidity. Portfolio construction typically involves establishing a risk-appropriate allocation among cash, fixed income, global equities and alternatives, such as hedge funds where appropriate. Global equity allocations are usually indexed to varying degrees in a “core and satellite” structure. The satellite managers typically have concentrated holdings and may exhibit meaningful divergence from their benchmarks. Overall risk management focuses on the risks of failing to meet client goals and therefore our analysis is driven by tools that help manage downside deviation rather than overall portfolio volatility. This is reflected in our manager selection process which focuses on managers who exhibit above average performance in down markets. As part of our planning process we also seek to manage investment management fees and taxes, a significant source of investment “loss”.

Disciplinary Information

Advisor has no knowledge of any material facts regarding legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of Advisor or the integrity of Advisor’s management.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Advisor is a wholly owned subsidiary of Geller & Company LLC, a privately owned financial and accounting advisory and outsourcing firm. Neither our parent nor any of its affiliates offer investment products and none receive direct or indirect compensation from third parties as a result of our investment advice. Our parent’s Chief Executive Officer, Martin J. Geller, is expected to spend over 90% of his time on his duties other than those related to the business of the Advisor. Advisor is located in the same principal office location as our parent and has arrangements that are material to its advisory business in that it shares certain infrastructure, technology, and research services with Geller & Company LLC.

Advisor also offers cash management, accounting, tax compliance and a wide range of administrative and concierge services. Investment advisory clients are under no obligation to avail themselves of these other services.

Code of Ethics

To manage any potential conflicts of interest involving personal trades, we abide by Geller & Company LLC’s Code of Business Conduct and Ethics and has established insider trading policies and procedures. The Code of Business Conduct and Ethics requires, among other things, that Employees:

- Act with integrity, competence, diligence, respect, and in an ethical manner;

- Place the interests of clients, and the interests of Advisor above one's own personal interests;
- Adhere to the fundamental standard that you should not take inappropriate advantage of your position;
- Avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest;
- Comply with applicable provisions of all securities laws and regulations;
- Conduct all personal securities transactions in a manner consistent with the Code.

Advisor also requires Access Persons and related parties to report personal securities transactions on at least a quarterly basis, and provide Advisor with a detailed summary of certain holdings (both initially upon commencement of employment and annually thereafter) over which such Access Persons have a direct or indirect beneficial interest. A copy of Geller & Company LLC's Code of Business Conduct and Ethics is available upon request.

Brokerage Practices

At a client's request, Advisor will assist the client with developing a relationship with one or more brokers. We will make recommendations based on the needs of the client and the services provided by the broker such as ability to execute trades, margin rates, on-line access to accounts, transaction charges, consolidated reporting and access to mutual funds including share classes not available to retail purchasers.

Most brokers our clients use provide us with market data and research that is generally available to their institutional clients, at no charge. Advisor has also initiated relationships with the institutional divisions of both Fidelity Investments and Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. There is no requirement that clients use these firms, neither of whom is affiliated with us. Both provide us with access to institutional trading, custody services, research, market data and access to mutual funds and other investments that are generally only available to institutional clients. Both Fidelity and Schwab provide us with technology that assists us in administering client accounts. At this time we are not charged for these services and our clients benefit from lower transaction costs than those available on Fidelity's or Schwab's retail platforms.

Review of Accounts

Advisor will provide reports on a quarterly or at least a semi-annual basis as agreed to with the client. The reports will contain information regarding asset allocation, balances and performance data based on information reported to us by third parties. Additionally, the client would continue to receive monthly or quarterly reports provided by their custodian or third party investment manager.

Matters that are reviewed include, but are not limited to, current market activity, economic outlooks, review and analysis of individual issues, portfolio composition, trading activity and performance comparisons. Unique circumstances such as market fluctuations, changes in the client's financial circumstances, or issues with a third party investment manager may trigger more frequent reviews. A member of Advisor's Investment Committee conducts all account reviews.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Advisor does not compensate any third party for soliciting business.

Custody

Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains client's investment assets. Advisor urges you to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that we may provide to you. Our statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Investment Discretion

Advisor may receive discretionary authority from the client to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, Advisor observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which it advises. Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to Advisor in writing.

Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, Advisor does not have the authority and does not vote proxies on behalf of advisory clients. Clients retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for any and all securities maintained in client portfolios. Advisor may provide advice to clients regarding the clients' voting of proxies.

Financial Information

Advisor has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.

Disciplinary Information

Advisor has no knowledge of any material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of each supervised person providing investment advice.

Other Business Activities

In addition to their investment advisory roles, all supervised persons provide additional client services in some or all of the following areas: cash management, accounting, tax advice, financial and estate planning, human relations consulting and supervision of other administrative and concierge services.

Additional Compensation

All supervised persons are paid a salary and an annual bonus. Such bonuses are based primarily on client satisfaction and other subjective measures, not on sales.

Supervision

Supervision of supervised persons includes monthly meetings of the Investment Committee during which the adherence of client portfolios to each of their respective investment policy statements is reviewed, the list of recommended managers is reviewed together with recent commentary from our manager selection consultants, and general economic and capital markets trends are discussed. Broad portfolio recommendations such as the decision to change a manager may result from such meetings. Generally, preparation for each client meeting includes at least two Investment Committee members' input on reasonable means of meeting the unique needs of that particular client. Annually the Chief Compliance Officer conducts compliance training with supplemental meetings as necessitated by changing regulatory regimes. In addition, since we have custody of some of our clients' assets, our policies and procedures are audited along with the affected accounts and any findings are incorporated into an annual review of regulatory risks, which is shared with the Investment Committee. Jon Persson, as Chief Compliance Officer, is responsible for this supervision. He can be reached at (212) 583-6001 or at jpersson@gellerco.com.
