Item 4 – Advisory Business

Armor Investment Advisors, LLC is a private fiduciary wealth management and asset preservation firm. Armor was established in 2005 and is owned by partners Jeffrey R. Miller, Walter L. Sheffield III, and John V. Purrington. Jeffrey Miller and Walter Sheffield are each principal owners, meaning that they each own 25% or more of Armor.

We hold ourselves to a fiduciary standard with respect to our clients and their wealth:

- We will always put the clients' best interests first, ahead of our own and those of our firm and its employees. We will always act as a fiduciary.
- We will act with prudence; that is, with the skill, care, diligence, and good judgment of a professional. When selecting investments, we will act as the client's agent, seeking the best investments at the best prices at all times.
- While neither we nor anyone can promise superior investment returns, we will provide impartial advice.
- We will always be truthful with our clients, providing full and fair disclosure of all important facts, including our compensation from all sources, as well as fees we pay to others on our clients behalf.
- We will always seek to avoid conflicts of interest. We will fully disclose any potential conflicts, and place the client's interest first at all times.

Our management philosophy is to always work as a Team, not only among ourselves but also with external resources and with our clients' attorneys, accountants, and other professional parties.

As of January 1, 2017, Armor managed $195,300,000 for clients on a discretionary basis. In addition, Armor advised 401(k) plan assets of $13,500,000 which are not included in this total.

The types of advisory services provided by Armor can generally be grouped into four categories:

Investment Discretion refers to the sole or shared authority (whether or not exercised) to determine what securities or other assets to purchase or sell on behalf of a client.

- Comprehensive financial planning for individuals and families
- Investment management for families, foundations and retirement plans
- Investment consulting services
- Investment consulting services to participant directed retirement plans

Before engaging Armor Investment Advisors, LLC to provide advisory services, clients are required to enter into one or more written agreements with Armor setting forth the terms and conditions under which Armor will perform its services.

Financial Planning

As a family's wealth increases, risk management and wealth preservation grow in importance. Financial planning, estate planning, investment management, and asset protection are all forms of risk management, but the risks addressed by each are different. A comprehensive planning process incorporates all areas.

We begin our comprehensive planning process by defining and understanding our clients' goals, identifying risks to their attainment, and designing strategies for managing those risks. Planning requires an ongoing analysis of changing conditions with corrections and adjustments in response to these. Planning is an ongoing process, not a static plan. For this reason, we look at all financial planning engagements as lasting at least twelve months. We execute planning for our clients, not with static documents, but with ongoing Risk Assessments and Action Plans. These are highly personalized because every client's goals and risks are unique.

We organize the Risk Assessments and Action Plans into the following broad categories which we review for corrections and adjustments each time we meet.

- Current and Future Income Protection
- Leverage and Debt Management
- Accumulation and Investment Planning
- Asset Protection
- Estate Planning and Distribution

Our investment management decisions are built on an understanding of the goals for the rest of our clients' lives (financial planning) and for the legacies to our clients' children, grandchildren, and charities (estate planning). We find that the essence of our value to our clients is this personal wealth management process and not just a stand-alone approach to investment management.

Investment Management

Our approach to investment management seeks to balance long-term goals and return expectations with current income needs and the risk of volatility. We constantly ask whether, in addition to managing market risks, we also are managing the unique risks that could affect the achievement of each client's personal goals.

Prior to entering into an investment advisory arrangement, we work with each client to understand their individual situation. For each group or pool of accounts we manage, we create a Client Investment Profile. The Client Investment Profile documents the accounts to be managed as part of the pool as well as any non-managed assets that should be considered as part of the asset allocation decision. The pool's time horizon and income needs, coupled with the client tax situation are documented as well as any unique restrictions which might be imposed.

Like a financial plan, the Client Investment Profile is a living document which must be reviewed and updated at least annually. Clients are advised to promptly notify Armor if there are any changes to their financial situation or investment objectives, or if they wish to impose restrictions on the management services.

Once we have documented a client's particular situation, we build a custom portfolio meeting the individual needs of that client. Our investment management process is described in Item 8, below.

Investment Consulting

Our approach to investment consulting is similar to our approach to financial planning, except that investment consulting clients generally are institutional entities (companies, charitable trusts, foundations, and other tax exempt entities). Our approach emphasizes risk management. We focus on identifying the investment objectives of our clients and designing risk-managed strategies that seek to achieve these. The steps in our investment consulting process include:

- Identification of client goals and cash needs
- Identification of risks to goal-attainment
- Adoption of a written Investment Policy Statement
- Design of asset allocation and other investment strategies, guidelines and policies
- Selection of risk and performance benchmarks for ongoing monitoring
- Recommendation of investment managers or funds
- Ongoing monitoring of risk management and performance

Our investment consulting clients often have multiple investment pools, each of which has its own goals and needs. Examples are capital reserves, endowment funds, and pension assets. Distinct policies, strategies, and monitoring processes are usually required for each situation.

Our investment consulting services differ from investment management services in that our consulting services do not include the day-to-day selection of securities or trading.

Investment Consulting to Participant Directed Retirement Plans

A special type of investment consulting that we provide is our advice to participant directed retirement plans, such as 401(k) and 403(b) plans. Our approach, as well as the steps in the process, is very similar to those in our other consulting services; but differences result from the fact that there often are hundreds of participants in a plan, each of which has different goals and needs. Differences also result from the application of federal pension laws to these plans. The fiduciary responsibilities of plan sponsors, trustees, and investment advisers are great. It is crucial that all fiduciaries understand their responsibilities. We help educate fiduciaries and share ERISA 3(21) responsibility with the plan sponsors and trustees. Upon request, we also will assume a higher level of fiduciary responsibility by written acceptance of our status as a 3(38) plan fiduciary. In all cases, special requirements that apply to participant-directed retirement plans include:

ERISA The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 is a federal law that establishes minimum standards for pension plans.

- Investment choices that are made available to participants must be prudently selected and provide a broad range of risk and return characteristics.
- Participants must have access to information on the suitability and performance of each choice.
- Participants must receive full and adequate disclosure about possible investment costs, volatility, losses and market fluctuations.
- Each investment choice must be well-diversified.
- Participants must have the ability to change their choices at least quarterly.

As with other investment consulting services, the development of a written Investment Policy Statement is an essential part of the process. This written policy statement also specifies the ways in which the plan is meeting the special requirements for participant directed plans. Additionally, we recommend a number of characteristics that we consider essential to the success of participant directed retirement plans. These include:

- Low total costs, including the expense ratios of funds in the plan, recordkeeping, custody, administration and investment advisory fees.
- Manageable number of choices including a variety of asset classes. Attempting to meet fiduciary responsibilities by offering too many choices can be counter-productive. We recommend limiting the number of funds. For more sophisticated plan participants, inclusion of a “brokerage window” option can also be beneficial.

In summary, our goal is to give prudent, expert advice to participant directed retirement plans. In providing investment consulting advice we share ERISA 3(21) fiduciary status with plan sponsors and trustees. If, in addition to this, we are appointed by the plan trustees to take over discretionary control of plan assets, we become an ERISA 3(38) fiduciary, and as such are solely responsible for the selection, monitoring, and replacement of a plan’s investment options.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Armor Investment Advisors, LLC, is committed to full and complete disclosure of all fees and compensation related to client accounts. Depending upon the engagement, Armor offers its services on a fee basis, generally based upon assets under management, but may occasionally include hourly and/or fixed fees.

Financial Planning

Armor provides clients with a broad range of comprehensive financial planning services (which may include non-investment related matters). We will charge a fixed fee or hourly fee for these services. Our financial planning and consulting fees are negotiable, but generally range from $2,500 to $40,000 on a fixed fee basis and from $250 to $300 on an hourly rate basis, depending upon the scope of the services and the professional rendering the financial planning services. If a client engages us for additional services, such as investment management, we may offset all or a portion of the fees for those services based upon the amount paid for the financial planning services.

Generally, we require one-half of the financial planning fee (estimated hourly or fixed) payable upon entering the written agreement. The balance is generally due upon delivery of the financial plan. Either party may terminate the agreement by written notice to the other. In the event that a client terminates the financial planning services, the balance of the unearned fees (if any) will be refunded to them. If termination occurs within five business days of entering into an agreement for such services the client will be entitled to a full refund.

Investment Management

We are a fee-only investment advisor with regard to investment management. We charge an annual fee based upon a percentage of the market value of the assets being managed. The annual fee is exclusive of, and in addition to brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses. We do not receive any portion of those commissions, fees, and costs.

The annual fee will be prorated and charged quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets on the last day of the previous quarter. The annual fee will vary depending upon the market value of the assets under management, as follows:

| ASSETS | ANNUAL RATE |
|---|---------------------------|
| Assets up to $500,000 | 1.20% |
| Assets between $500,001 and $1,000,000 | 0.80% |
| Assets between $1,000,001 and $5,000,000 | 0.65% |
| Assets between $5,000,001 and $25,000,000 | 0.50% |
| Assets greater than $25,000,000 | 0.40% |

With regard to the fee schedule break points, some clients' assets are subject to aggregation with family and related accounts.

In our sole discretion, we may negotiate to charge a lesser management fee based upon certain criteria (i.e., anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, pro bono activities, new client discount, etc.).

For the initial quarter of investment management services, the fees will be calculated on a pro rata basis. If assets are deposited into or withdrawn from an account after the inception of a quarter, the fee payable with respect to such assets will be adjusted or prorated based on the number of days remaining in the quarter. Armor's annual fee will be prorated through the date of termination and any remaining balance will be refunded to the client, as appropriate, promptly. If termination occurs within five business days of entering into an agreement for such services the client will be entitled to a full refund.

Each quarter, we generate and deliver invoices to clients detailing the management fee calculations. Management fees will generally be deducted from client investment accounts about a week after invoices have been delivered. Clients may select to pay the invoice from outside of their investment account if they prefer.

Clients may incur certain charges imposed by financial institutions and other third parties such as custodial fees, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund or exchange traded fund in the account (which will be disclosed in the fund's prospectus, e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses), wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Additionally, clients may incur brokerage commissions and transaction fees. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to Armor's fee.

Item 12 further describes the factors we consider in selecting or recommending broker-dealers for client transactions and determining the reasonableness of their compensation (e.g., commissions).

Investment Consulting

Armor provides clients with a broad range of investment consulting services. We charge a fixed fee or hourly fee for these services. These investment consulting fees are negotiable, but generally range from $2,500 to $40,000 on a fixed fee basis and from $250 to $300 on an hourly rate basis, depending upon the level and scope of the services and the professional rendering the services.

We will normally require one-half of the investment consulting fee (estimated hourly or fixed) payable upon entering the written agreement. The balance is generally due upon delivery of the consulting. Either party may terminate the agreement by written notice to the other. In the event that the client terminates the investment consulting services, the balance of the unearned fees (if any) will be refunded to the client. If termination occurs within five business days of entering into an agreement for such services the client will be entitled to a full refund.

In some cases, where our consulting services are ongoing, we will agree to an annual fee based on a percentage of the market value of the assets on which we consult. In these cases, our annual fee will be determined as described immediately below for ongoing investment consulting to participant directed retirement plan.

Investment Consulting to Participant Directed Retirement Plans

When a retirement plan trustee hires us to consult on and provide investment advice for a participant directed retirement plan, we will do so on a fee basis. The fee may be a fixed or hourly fee as in Investment Consulting or it may be based on the value of the assets being advised. The annual fee is exclusive of, and in addition to, brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses. We do not receive any portion of those commissions, fees, and costs.

When based on assets advised, the annual fee will be prorated and the client will be billed quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets on the last day of the previous quarter. The annual fee will vary depending upon the market value of the assets, as follows:

| ASSETS | ANNUAL RATE |
|---|---------------------------|
| Assets up to $500,000 | 1.00% |
| Assets between $500,001 and $1,000,000 | 0.50% |
| Assets between $1,000,001 and $5,000,000 | 0.30% |
| Assets between $5,000,001 and $10,000,000 | 0.20% |
| Assets greater than $10,000,000 | Negotiable |

For the initial quarter, the fees will be calculated on a pro rata basis. If assets are deposited into or withdrawn from an account after the inception of a quarter, the fee payable with respect to such assets will be adjusted or prorated based on the number of days remaining in the quarter. Armor's annual fee will be prorated through the date of termination and any remaining balance will be refunded to the client, as appropriate, promptly.

In our sole discretion, we may negotiate to charge a lesser management fee. If we are appointed by the plan trustees to take over discretionary control of plan assets as ERISA 3(38) fiduciary, the Investment Management fee schedule will apply.

Insurance Services

We provide impartial advice regarding insurance as part of our financial planning and investment consulting services. We also provide investment management to clients who own no-load variable universal life and variable annuity policies. The fee for this advice is included in our financial planning and investment management fees. We do not sell insurance products or receive insurance commissions, with one exception. One of our partners, Walter L. Sheffield III, maintains a life and health insurance license in North Carolina and continues to receive insurance commissions on individual disability policies issued by one insurance company to executives of one tax-exempt organization that is an investment consulting client of Armor. These commissions are assigned to Armor and constitute less than 5% of the annual revenue of Armor. No representative of Armor sells insurance or receives commissions on any products in any other context.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We are required to disclose if any accounts are charged performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains or on capital appreciation of the assets of a client). This type of fee structure may, under certain circumstances, create a conflict with client interests.

Armor Investment Advisors, LLC, does not charge any performance-based management fees.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

We typically provide investment management and financial planning services to individuals, high net worth individuals, and their families. We also provide investment management and investment consulting services to corporations, corporate pension and profit-sharing plans, charitable institutions, foundations, and endowments.

As a condition for starting and maintaining an investment management relationship, we will generally impose a minimum fee of $1,200 per quarter. This minimum fee may have the effect of making the service impractical for clients, particularly those with portfolios less than $400,000 under Armor's management. In its sole discretion, we may waive the minimum fee based upon certain criteria including anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, pre-existing client relationship, and pro bono activities.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

We begin the investment management process by understanding each client's goals, identifying risks to the attainment of them, and designing strategies for managing those risks. This integrates financial and estate planning with unbiased investment advice and management.

Top-Down Process

We build custom portfolios from the top down, beginning with a review of global macro-economic conditions, regionally, and by sector and industry. A fundamental principle that we apply is that asset allocation is the most important factor in meeting each client's goals and managing their risks. We review global sectors with the intent of investing in those areas demonstrating the best combinations of long term economic growth opportunity with reasonable geopolitical and legal risk.

This top-down process is matched against the custom Client Investment Profile to determine an appropriate level of risk for each client. Assets are then combined into portfolios for each client based on a thorough evaluation of the client's risk tolerance as documented in the Investment Profile, which is subject to annual review.

Security Selection

Most of our portfolios include a combination of individual stocks, both foreign and domestic, exchange-traded funds, and mutual funds. Equity selection is driven by fundamental analysis, specifically an analysis of a company's management, growth opportunities, market share, and investment cash flow. Minimizing costs is a crucial factor in our security selection process.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Individual stocks carry additional risks attributable to the region, industry, or legal environment in which they operate. We seek to identify these risks by an appropriate review of each investment's prospects, and mitigate by limiting the size of individual positions within a diversified portfolio. Each client portfolio includes a broad range of asset classes and sectors, with the level of risk managed by each client's specific investment profile.

We use outside managers in the form of minimum-cost funds and Separate Account Managers whenever they are more efficient than individual securities because of their diversification and bulk-purchasing power in thinly traded markets.

Account Aggregation

We often manage both taxable and tax-deferred accounts for individuals, accounts owned separately by a husband and a wife, and other accounts owned within a family: Revocable and irrevocable trusts, retirement plan accounts, accounts for children and grandchildren, and accounts for charitable foundations. Frequently, these accounts are held by multiple custodians. We often aggregate accounts as consolidated investment pools. This can simplify reporting and enhance the strategic value of performance reports and asset allocation reports.

Risks associated with our strategies

There can be no guarantee of success of our investment management process. Our portfolios may be adversely affected by general economic and market conditions such as interest rates, availability of credit, inflation rates, changes in laws and political circumstances. These factors may affect the level and volatility of security pricing and the liquidity of an investment. Trading in the portfolios may affect investment performance, particularly through increased brokerage and other transaction costs and taxes.

Management Risk. Judgments about the value and potential appreciation of a particular security may be wrong and there is no guarantee that individual securities will perform as anticipated. The value of an individual security can be more volatile than the market as a whole or our approach may fail to produce the intended results.

Accuracy of Public Information. We select investments, in part, on the basis of information and data filed by issuers with various government regulators or made directly available by the issuers or through sources other than the issuers. Although we evaluate all such information and data and ordinarily seek independent corroboration when we consider it is appropriate and reasonably available, we are not in a position to confirm the completeness, genuineness or accuracy of such information and data, and in some cases, complete and accurate information is not available.

Market Risk. There is the possibility that the value of equity securities may decline due to daily fluctuations in the securities markets. Stock prices change daily as a result of many factors, including developments affecting the condition of both individual companies and the market in general. The price of a stock may even be affected by factors unrelated to the value or condition of its issuer, such as changes in interest rates, national and international economic and/or political conditions and general equity market conditions. In a declining stock market, prices for all companies may decline regardless of their long-term prospects.

Risks associated with securities used in our strategies

Equity Risk. In addition to common stock, the equity securities in a portfolio may include preferred stock, convertible preferred stock, convertible bonds, debt securities and warrants. Like common stock, the value of these securities may fluctuate in response to many factors, including the activities of the issuer, general market and economic conditions, prevailing interest rates and specific industry changes. Convertible securities entitle the holder to receive interest payments or a dividend preference until the security matures, is redeemed, or the conversion feature is exercised. As a result of the conversion feature, the interest rate or dividend preference is usually less than if the securities were non-convertible. Warrants entitle the holder to purchase equity securities at specific prices for a certain period of time. The prices do not necessarily move parallel to the prices of the underlying securities and the warrants have no voting rights, receive no dividends, and have no rights with respect to the assets of the issuer.

Exchange-Traded Products. We may invest the assets of a client's portfolio in exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), exchange-traded notes ("ETNs") and other exchange-traded products ("ETPs"). The shares of an ETF may be assembled in a block (typically 50,000 shares) known as a creation unit and redeemed in kind for a portfolio of the underlying securities (based on the ETF's net asset value) together with a cash payment generally equal to accumulated dividends as of the date of redemption. Conversely, a creation unit may be purchased from the ETF by depositing a specified portfolio of the ETF's underlying securities, as well as a cash payment generally equal to accumulated dividends of the securities (net of expenses) up to the time of deposit. Our ability to redeem creation units may be limited by the Investment Company Act, which provides that the ETFs will not be obligated to redeem shares held by our clients in an amount exceeding one percent of their total outstanding securities during any period of less than 30 days. ETPs other than ETFs are issued in shares or units, and trade on exchanges like ETFs.

There is a risk that the underlying ETPs in which we invest may terminate due to extraordinary events that may cause any of the service providers to the ETPs, such as the trustees or sponsors, to close or otherwise fail to perform their obligations to the ETPs. Also, because the ETPs in which we invest may be granted licenses by agreement to use various indices as a basis for determining their compositions and/or otherwise to use certain trade names, the ETPs may terminate if such license agreements are terminated. In addition, an ETP may terminate if its net assets fall below a certain amount. Although we believe that, in the event of the termination of an underlying ETP, it will be able to invest instead in shares of an alternate ETP with a similar strategy, there is no guarantee that shares of an alternate ETP would be available for investment at that time.

Investments in ETPs involve certain inherent risks generally associated with investments in conventional registered investment companies (e.g., mutual funds) that hold a portfolio of securities including, without limitation: (1) risks that the general level of security prices for the ETP's investment strategy may decline, thereby adversely affecting the value of each share or unit of the ETP; (2) an index-based ETP may not fully replicate the performance of its benchmark index because of the temporary unavailability of certain index securities in the secondary market or discrepancies between the ETP and the index with respect to the weighting of securities or number of stocks held; and (3) an index ETP may also be adversely affected by the performance of the specific index, market sector or group of industries on which it is based. In addition, ETPs are subject to the following risks that do not apply to conventional funds: (1) the market price of an ETP's shares may trade at a discount to its net asset value; (2) an active trading market for an ETP's shares may not develop or be maintained; (3) trading of an ETP's shares may be halted if the listing exchange deems such action appropriate; and (4) ETP shares may be delisted from the exchange on which they trade, or activation of "circuit breakers" (which are tied to large decreases in stock prices) may halt trading temporarily. ETPs are also subject to the risks of the underlying securities the ETP is designed to track or invest in.

The ETFs that we utilize may include funds invested in domestic and international equities, including real estate investment trusts (REITs), corporate and government fixed income securities and commodities. Equity securities may include large capitalization, medium capitalization and small capitalization stocks. ETF and mutual fund shares invested in fixed income securities are subject to the same interest rate, inflation and credit risks associated with the underlying bond holdings.

Among the higher-risk ETFs used in our investment strategies are small-capitalization stock funds, foreign developed and emerging markets funds, and funds that invest in commodities or other real assets. Such categories of ETFs may have greater volatility or risk related to political uncertainty, currency fluctuations, or the use of leverage.

Mutual Funds. An investment in a mutual fund involves risk, including the loss of principal. Mutual fund shareholders are subject to the risks stemming from the individual issues of the fund's underlying portfolio securities. Such shareholders are also liable for taxes on any fund-level capital gains, as mutual funds are required by law to distribute capital gains in the event they sell securities for a profit that cannot be offset by a corresponding loss. Shares of mutual funds are generally distributed and redeemed on an ongoing basis by the fund itself or a broker acting on its behalf. The trading price at which a share is transacted is equal to a fund's stated daily per share net asset value ("NAV"), plus any shareholders fees (e.g., sales loads, purchase fees, redemption fees). The per-share NAV of a mutual fund is calculated at the end of each business day, although the actual NAV fluctuates with intraday changes to the market value of the fund's holdings. The trading price of a mutual fund's shares may differ significantly from the NAV during periods of market volatility, which may, among other factors, lead to the mutual fund's shares trading at a premium or discount to actual NAV.

Foreign Securities Risk - Securities of foreign issuers, including depository receipts, are subject to special risks associated with foreign investments not typically associated with investing in U.S. markets including:

- Political and Economic Risk - Investing in foreign securities is subject to the risk of political, social or economic instability in the country of the issuer of a security, variation in international trade patterns, the possibility of the imposition of exchange controls, expropriation, confiscatory taxation, limits on movement of currency or other assets and nationalization of assets.
- Currency Risk - We may invest a portion of its assets in equity securities and other investments denominated in currencies other than the U.S. dollar and in other financial instruments, the prices of which are determined with reference to currencies other than the U.S. dollar. We, however, will value securities and other assets in U.S. dollars. To the extent unhedged, the value of a portfolio's assets will fluctuate with U.S. dollar exchange rates as well as with price changes of the portfolio's investments in the various local markets and currencies. Thus, an increase in the value of the U.S. dollar in comparison to the other currencies in which the portfolio may make its investments will reduce the effect of increases and magnify the effect of decreases in the prices of the portfolios securities and other investments in their local markets. Conversely, a decrease in the value of the U.S. dollar will have the opposite effect of magnifying the effect of increases and reducing the effect of decreases in the prices of the portfolio's non-U.S. dollar securities or other investments. The portfolios may use futures, forward currency contracts and options to hedge against currency fluctuations in its non-U.S. dollar denominated portfolio, but there can be no assurance that any such hedging transactions will be effective.

- Information Risk - Non-U.S. companies in certain countries may not be subject to uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards or to other regulatory requirements that are similar to those applicable to U.S. companies.
- Foreign Tax Risk - Income from foreign issuers may be subject to non-U.S. withholding taxes. Portfolios also may be subject to taxes on trading profits and, on certain securities transactions, transfer or stamp duties tax.
- Investment Restriction Risk - Some countries restrict foreign investment in their securities markets. These restrictions may limit or preclude investment in certain countries or may increase the cost of investing in securities of particular companies.
- Foreign Securities Market Risk - Securities of many non-U.S. companies may be less liquid and their prices more volatile than securities of comparable U.S. companies and therefore may involve greater risks.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

We are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of Armor or the integrity of Armor's management.

Armor has no knowledge of any outstanding items or issues applicable to this disclosure.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

We are required to disclose any relationships with other financial institutions and discuss how those relationships may create a conflict of interest. Where a conflict of interest exists we will describe the nature of the conflict and discuss the steps we have taken to ensure that we always put the clients' interests first.

Armor Investment Advisors, LLC is NOT a broker-dealer and none of our employees are registered representatives of a broker-dealer. This means that we do not receive commissions for buying or selling securities. We have relationships with multiple broker-dealers who act as custodians and execute trades for our clients' accounts. Currently we maintain relationships with Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. and its affiliates (collectively referred to as "Schwab"), Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services and its affiliates (collectively referred to as "Fidelity"), and TD Ameritrade Institutional ("TD Ameritrade") for investment management accounts. We may also recommend that certain accounts be maintained at National Advisors Trust Company, FSB ("NATC").

Armor may receive from Schwab, Fidelity and/or TD Ameritrade, without cost, computer software and related systems support, which allow us to better monitor client accounts. These services are provided without cost because we render investment management services to clients that maintain assets and Schwab and/or Fidelity.

Specifically, we may receive the following benefits from our custodians:

- receipt of duplicate client confirmation and bundled duplicate statements;
- access to a trading desk that exclusively services Registered Investment Advisor Group participants;
- access to block trading which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts;
- access to an electronic communication network for client order entry and account information;
- technology that assists with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting; and
- access to advisor networking and educational events.

We regularly evaluate our relationships with broker-dealers and that evaluation process is further discussed in Item 12.

NATC is a federal savings bank controlled by National Advisors Holdings, Inc. ("NAH"). Armor partners Walter L. Sheffield III and Jeffrey R. Miller, currently own less than one percent (1%) NAH. Having an ownership interest in NAH allows Armor clients access to low cost directed trustee services offered by NATC. Clients should be aware that the recommendation of NATC by Armor presents a conflict of interest since Mr. Sheffield and Mr. Miller will benefit from such recommendation as less than one percent (1%) owners of NAH. Neither Armor nor Mr. Sheffield nor Mr. Miller will directly receive any portion of the fees charged by NATC.

Armor Investment Advisor, LLC partner, Walter L. Sheffield III, is also a licensed practicing attorney and the sole member of the Law Offices of Walter L. Sheffield III, PLLC (LOWs), a law firm with the same place of business as Armor Investment Advisors, LLC. Mr. Sheffield maintains a legal practice, separate and distinct from Armor's financial planning and investment advisory activities. No portion of the financial plan or any other services rendered by Armor Investment Advisors to clients should be interpreted as legal advice. Rather, clients should defer to the advice of their own attorney. We may, from time to time, recommend certain clients to LOWs for various legal services. LOWs will render these services independently of Armor. Armor is not compensated by LOWs.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

Armor Investment Advisors, LLC has adopted a Code of Ethics for all partners and staff of the firm describing its high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to its clients. Armor's size limits its ability to segregate oversight and control duties; however the Code of Ethics, to which all employees must comply, is created to minimize any conflicts of interest that may occur. The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All partners and staff at Armor must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually and when amended.

There are times when Armor buys or sells securities for client accounts at or about the same time that Armor employees buy or sell securities for their own accounts. A potential conflict of interest exists in such cases because employees could trade ahead of clients and possibly receive more favorable prices. The Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions of the employees of Armor will not interfere with making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Trading policies and procedures are in place and employee trading is monitored to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between Armor and its clients.

Clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting our Chief Compliance Officer John Purrington.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

We are required to describe the factors we consider in recommending broker-dealers for transactions and in determining if the brokerage commissions are reasonable.

The Custodians and Brokers We Use

We do not maintain custody of client assets (see Item 15 – Custody, below). Client assets must be maintained in an account at a “qualified custodian,” generally a broker-dealer or bank.

We recommend that our clients use Schwab, Fidelity, and/or TD Ameritrade as their qualified custodian. We may also recommend that certain trust accounts be maintained at NATC.

We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with Schwab, Fidelity, or TD Ameritrade. A qualified custodian will hold client assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities based on our instructions to them. While we may recommend that clients use a specific custodian/broker, the client will decide whether to do so and open an account with the qualified custodian by entering into an account agreement directly with them. We cannot open the account for the client, although we may assist the client in doing so.

In some situations, Armor provides investment management for assets which are not held by one of our recommended custodians. Examples include investment management for executives who have retirement plan accounts at custodians selected by their employers and situations where a client directs us to use a specified custodian. In these situations, we are unable to assure that the custodian is achieving favorable execution of the client's transactions. Directing brokerage may cost clients more money.

How We Select Brokers/Custodians

We recommend custodians/brokers who will hold client assets and execute transactions on terms that we believe are most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. We consider a wide range of factors, including:

- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- Capability to execute, clear, and settle trades (buy and sell securities)
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- Breadth of available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, ETF's, etc.)
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions
- Quality of services
- Competitiveness of the price of services (commission rates, margin interest rates, etc.)
- Reputation, financial strength, and stability
- Prior service to us and our other clients
- Availability of other products and services that benefit us, as discussed below (see "Products and Services Available to Us from our Recommended Custodians")

Brokerage and Custody Costs

For client accounts held at our recommended custodians, the custodians generally do not charge separately for custody services but are compensated by charging commissions or other fees on trades they execute or that settle into an account. In addition to commissions, Schwab, Fidelity, TD Ameritrade and NATC charge a flat dollar amount as a "prime broker" or "trade away" fee for each trade that is executed by a different broker-dealer but where the securities bought or the funds from the securities sold are deposited (settled) into a custodian account. These fees are in addition to the commissions paid to the executing broker-dealer. In order to minimize trading costs, we have directed our recommended custodians to execute most trades rather than "trading away". We believe that having our recommended custodians execute most trades is consistent with our duty to seek "best execution".

Products and Services Available to Us from Our Recommended Custodians

Schwab, Fidelity, TD Ameritrade, and NATC all have businesses serving independent investment advisory firms like ours. They provide us and our clients with access to their institutional brokerage-trading, custody, reporting, and related services-many of which are not typically available to retail customers. They also make available various support services. Some of those services help us manage or administer our clients' accounts; while others help us manage and grow our business. The support services generally are available on an unsolicited basis (we don't have to request them) and at no charge to us as long as our clients collectively maintain a minimum dollar amount of their assets in accounts at the custodian. If our clients collectively have less than the minimum in assets, we may be charged service fees. Armor clients collectively maintain assets at each of our recommended custodians significantly above the required minimums.

Our Interest in Services Available to Us from Our Recommended Custodians

The availability of these services benefits us because we do not have to purchase them. These services are not tied to the amount of trading or commissions paid. The minimum dollar thresholds present a potential conflict of interest. We believe, however, that the selection of one of our recommended custodians is in the best interests of our clients and do not believe that this presents a material conflict of interest.

Aggregated Orders

Transactions for each client will generally be effected independently unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time (often termed a “block” order). We may aggregate orders in an attempt to allocate fairly among client accounts. Not aggregating may result in higher costs or less favorable execution.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

We monitor investment portfolios on an ongoing basis, and regular account reviews are conducted on at least a quarterly basis. Account reviews are conducted by one of our partners, Jeffrey R. Miller, Walter L. Sheffield III, or John V. Purrington. All investment advisory clients are encouraged to keep us informed of any changes that might affect their financial situation. We contact ongoing investment advisory clients at least annually to review previous services and to discuss any changes to their investment profile. We provide written quarterly reports to clients supplementing the transaction confirmation notices and regular summary account statements received directly from the broker-dealer or custodian. Our reports show the client’s quarter end positions and asset allocation as well as the Time Weighted Rate of Return for each of their investment pools calculated net of fees. For client meetings, we generally will provide similar reports.

Time Weighted Rate of Return measures how a manager performs. It removes the effect of the client’s decisions to deposit or withdraw money in the account. It measures investment performance (income and price changes) as a percentage of capital “at work,” effectively eliminating the effects of additions and withdrawals of capital and their timing.

For those clients to whom we provide financial planning and/or consulting services, we will produce written reports summarizing our analysis and conclusions as requested by the client or otherwise agreed to in writing. Ongoing reviews are conducted on an “as needed” basis depending on factors such as cash flows, changes in client objectives or restrictions or changing market conditions. Such reviews are conducted by one of our partners.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We are required to provide you with information regarding any relationships where we compensate individuals for client referrals. We do not directly or indirectly compensate anyone for client referrals.

Item 15 – Custody

Client funds and securities will be maintained by unaffiliated qualified custodians; banks, broker/dealers, mutual fund company, or transfer agent; not with or by Armor Investment Advisors, LLC or any of its associates. Under government regulations, we are deemed to have custody of assets if we have been authorized to instruct the custodian to deduct our advisory fees directly from an account

Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the qualified custodian that holds and maintains the client's investment assets. We urge clients to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that we provide. Our statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities. Clients should not hesitate to contact us if there are any questions about their statements.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

Generally, Armor Investment Advisors, LLC receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of every investment management relationship and is authorized to make the following determinations without client consultation or consent before a transaction is effected:

- Which securities to buy or sell.
- The total amount of securities to buy or sell.
- The broker or dealer through whom securities are bought or sold.
- The commission rates at which securities transactions for client accounts are affected.
- The prices at which securities are to be bought or sold, which may include dealer spreads or mark-ups and transaction costs.

Armor assumes discretion upon execution of the advisory agreement with the client. In all cases such discretion will be exercised in a manner consistent with the Client Investment Profile for the particular client account.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, Armor observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the client.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

Armor Investment Advisors, LLC may vote proxies on behalf of our clients. When we accept such responsibility, we will only cast proxy votes consistent with what we believe is the best interest of our clients. In the event Armor has discretion to vote proxies for a client, and a client requests a vote in a particular way, we would attempt to honor the request with respect to the shares held by that client.

Absent special circumstances, which are fully-described in our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures, all proxies will be voted consistent with guidelines established and described in the Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures. Clients may contact us to request information about how we voted proxies for a security or to get a copy of the Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures. A brief summary of the Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures is as follows:

- Armor has formed a Proxy Voting Committee that will be responsible for monitoring corporate actions, making voting decisions in the best interest of clients, and ensuring that proxies are submitted in a timely manner.
- The Proxy Voting Committee will generally vote proxies according to the Proxy Voting Guidelines. The Proxy Voting Guidelines include many specific examples of voting decisions for the types of proposals that are most frequently presented, including: composition of the board of directors; approval of independent auditors; management and director compensation; and issues involving mutual funds.
- Although the Proxy Voting Guidelines are to be followed as a general policy, certain issues will be considered on a case-by-case basis. Armor will devote an appropriate amount of time and resources to monitor corporate governance issues.

In situations where there may be a conflict of interest in the voting of proxies due to business or personal relationships, we will take appropriate steps to ensure that the proxy voting decisions are made in the best interest of our clients and are not the product of such conflict.

Item 18 – Financial Information

We are required to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about Armor Investment Advisor's financial condition.

Armor has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet our contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
