Advisory Business

Firm Description

Equinox Fund Management, LLC ("Equinox") was founded in 2003 as a Delaware Limited Liability company and became registered as an investment advisor registered with the US Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") under the Investment Advisors Act of 1940 in May 2007. In addition to being a federally-registered investment advisor, Equinox is a commodity pool operator, ("CPO"), and is regulated by CFTC and NFA.

Equinox is a leader in the alternative investments industry that believes in the value of non-traditional funds to potentially reduce volatility and enhance returns in portfolios. We are committed to providing innovative, institutional quality investment solutions that are unique in structure and availability, and outperform relevant benchmarks and competitors. As the investment advisor for the Equinox Family of Funds, Equinox strives to provide the utmost level of customer service and education to our selling partners. Our products are structured to allow access to the broadest group of both accredited and non-accredited investors in the United States.

Equinox MutualHedge Futures Strategy Fund, fka MutualHedge Frontier Legends Fund

Equinox serves as the investment advisor for Equinox MutualHedge Futures Strategy Fund, a 1940 Act fund, offered through Northern Lights Fund Trust, a mutual fund family that offers separate investment portfolios. Equinox MutualHedge Futures Strategy Fund seeks to achieve capital appreciation in both bull and bear equity markets with an annual volatility that is generally lower than the volatility experienced by the S&P 500® Index. The fund invests in a combination of derivatives and fixed income securities.

Equinox Alternative Strategy Platform

The Equinox Alternative Strategy Platform is a platform of single Commodity Trading Advisor ("CTA") program alternative investment mutual funds. Designed to provide exposure to CTA programs, the platform combines Equinox's product development expertise and knowledge of the trading managers featured. Seeking daily liquidity and 1099 tax reporting, the platform applies an institutional approach to a familiar, regulated structure. The Equinox Alternative Strategy Platform represents liquid and transparent alternative investment strategies, and a broader application of Equinox's capabilities to serve some investors.

Principal Owners

Plimpton Capital, LLC is the principal owner of Equinox. Plimpton Capital is owned by Equinox Financial Group, LLC and The Estate of John Plimpton. Equinox Financial Group, LLC is 100% owned by Scan Partners, Ltd. which is managed by Caroline Monaghan Pallat as trustee.

Types of Advisory Services

As Investment Advisor to the Equinox Family of Funds:

Equinox manages and supervises the investment of the Funds' assets on a discretionary basis and is committed to providing prudent investment strategies designed to meet the stated objectives of each fund. Equinox designs portfolios that are uniquely structured for each fund.

As of December 31, 2014, Equinox Fund Management, LLC manages approximately $1,196,709,081.00 in assets for seven mutual fund clients, all on a discretionary basis.

Tailored Relationships

Given the nature of Equinox's investment advisory activities and the fact that its clients are institutional (mutual funds), it does not provide investment advisory services to or have an advisory relationship with individuals.

Investment policy statements are created that reflect the stated goals and objective of each client fund. The Client Fund may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Agreements may not be assigned without client consent.

Types of Agreements

The following agreements define the typical client relationships.

Investment Management Agreement

Equinox will provide advisory services to clients only upon the execution of a Written Agreement between Equinox and the client (each, a "Investment Advisory Agreement").

Clients retain Equinox to implement strategies that allocate a portion of the client's investment portfolio to professional Commodity Trading Advisors who participate in the futures, options and foreign exchange markets. In performing these services, Equinox identifies leading Commodity Trading Advisors (each, a "Trading Advisor") and then constructs single and multi-advisor portfolios designed in accordance with the client's specified risk parameters and investment objectives. Each potential Trading Advisor undergoes strict quantitative and qualitative review by Equinox. Trading Advisor selection is based upon many factors which include the Trading Advisor's investment strategy, trading activity, volatility, portfolio composition, account leverage and Risk-Reward ratio.

Depending upon the redemption provisions, the client may be able to withdraw a portion or all of their allocation within one day. Although each Investment Advisory Agreement is an ongoing agreement and subsequent adjustments may occur, under normal conditions, the client would need to give a ninety (90) day prior written notice in order to terminate the Investment Advisory Agreement with Equinox. If the Investment Advisory Agreement is terminated other than at the end of the calendar quarter, the management fee will be prorated.

Hourly Planning Engagements

Equinox Fund Management, LLC does not provide hourly planning services for clients who need advice on a limited scope of work.

Termination of Agreement

A client may terminate any of the aforementioned agreements at any time by notifying Equinox Fund Management, LLC in writing.

Mutual fund clients authorize the deduction of fees directly from the appointed custodian, i.e. the broker-dealer, clearing firm, trust company or authorized institution maintaining the account. The custodian will then remit the applicable fees to the Company. Fees are negotiable only under special circumstances. Lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources. Equinox is not a sponsor of a wrap program.

For additional information on fees, please see the each fund's prospectus which is available at www.equinoxfunds.com

Other Fees

Custodians may charge transaction fees on purchases or sales of certain mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. These transaction charges are usually small and incidental to the purchase or sale of a security. The selection of the security is more important than the nominal fee that the custodian charges to buy or sell the security.

Equinox Fund Management, LLC, in its sole discretion, may waive its minimum fee and/or charge a lesser investment advisory fee based upon certain criteria (e.g., historical relationship, type of assets, anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amounts of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with clients, etc.).

New Investment Advisory Agreement fees are calculated on a formula basis and adjusted for complexity of individual situations. The formula is based on gross income, gross assets and other financial considerations.

Expense Ratios

The Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses and Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses (after Fee Waiver and/or Expense Reimbursement) line items of the fee table in the Prospectus represents the relevant Equinox mutual fund's annual fund operating expenses expressed as a percentage of such fund's average net assets.

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation. The Fund pursues its investment objective primarily by investing directly or indirectly in a diversified portfolio of futures contracts and futures-related instruments such as forwards and swaps in broadly diversified global (i.e. US and nonUS) markets across four major asset classes: commodities, currencies, fixed income and stock indices (the "Futures Portfolio"). The Fund either invests directly in those instruments, or indirectly by investing via a swap or via its wholly-owned subsidiary which may then invest in such assets directly or indirectly.

The Sub-Adviser will manage the Futures Portfolio and the Subsidiary's Futures Portfolio by applying the Aspect Core Diversified Program (the "Aspect Program"). The Aspect Program employs medium-term trend following strategies that seek to identify and profit from price moves in a broad range of highly liquid futures markets across the commodity, currency, fixed income and equity asset classes by taking either a long or short position in each given market. The value of a "long" position in a futures market will increase (decrease) in correspondence with an increase (decrease) in the price of underlying asset on which the futures contract is derived. The value of a "short" position in a futures market will decrease (increase) in correspondence with an increase (decrease) in the price of the underlying asset on which such futures contract is derived.

All of the strategies are predicated on the belief that the application of statistical methods and quantitative risk management can detect and subsequently exploit predictable behavior in financial prices. The principal strategy is based on capturing and exploiting trends within financial markets. This strategy is currently focused on a large number of liquid futures and foreign exchange markets with the objective of exploiting diversification while maintaining liquidity of the portfolio. The allocation of capital between models and among markets is systematically determined based on quantitative methods considering factors such as market opportunities, liquidity and portfolio risk management.

Equinox Chesapeake Strategy Fund –

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation through exposure to one or more managed futures trading programs offered by Chesapeake Capital Corporation ("Chesapeake").

The Fund pursues its investment objective by making a combination of investments (i) directly in an actively managed fixed-income portfolio comprised of cash, cash equivalents, securities issued by the US government with one year or less term to maturity and money market funds and (ii) indirectly through its wholly-owned subsidiary in trading companies that employ the managed futures program of Chesapeake, a CTA registered with the US Commodity Futures Trading Commission and/or derivative instruments such as swap agreements that provide exposure to the managed futures program of Chesapeake (the "Chesapeake Program"). The Chesapeake Program is a long-term trend following program that utilizes trading systems across a broadly diversified set of markets with a systematic investment approach, focusing on capital preservation while attempting to provide positive annual returns. The Crabel Multi-Product Program uses a highly diversified portfolio of uncorrelated and predominantly short-term, systematic trading strategies employed across a large number of markets. The majority of the strategies in the portfolio can be classified as short-term momentum or mean-reversion trades. A small portion of the portfolio is allocated to longer holding period strategies. The majority of the strategies are applied in identical ways to all of the markets the program trades. Some strategies are specifically designed to exploit tendencies of particular markets, groups of related markets, or market sectors.

Risk of Loss

All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. Our investment approach constantly keeps the risk of loss in mind. Investors face the following investment risks:

- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors dependent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.
- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.
- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.

- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

How We Manage Risk

To ensure that investment objectives are being achieved within stated risk parameters, Equinox monitors leverage, volatility, market sector exposure, losses from peak profit levels, and frequency of trading activity.

Equinox is subject to the requirements of Section 404 of the Sarbanes Oxley Act relating to management's certification of, and its auditors attesting to, the effectiveness of the fund's internal control over financial reporting.

The client may at any time change such instructions by giving written notice to Equinox. It is the responsibility of the account manager to advise the client in writing that as a result of such brokerage, client may pay a higher brokerage commission than might otherwise be paid if Equinox had been granted discretion to select a broker to handle the client's account. If a client directs Equinox to use a particular registered representative or brokerage firm, the client will be advised that Equinox may be unable to bunch, block or aggregate his/her trades with those of other clients. The inability to bunch trades may result in the client's trades being executed at a price different from trades that are bunched and which may be less favorable.

Best Execution

Equinox Fund Management, LLC conducts reviews of trade executions reports periodically. The specific parameters of these reviews are documented in Equinox Fund Management, LLC IA Manual. Trading fees charged by custodians and brokers are also reviewed by the portfolio management team. Equinox Fund Management, LLC does not receive any portion of the trading fees.

Soft Dollars

Equinox Fund Management, LLC does not receive research or other products or services other than execution services from a broker/dealer or a third party in connection with our clients' securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits").

Order Aggregation

The portfolio managers of Equinox may for a number of reasons, bunch, block or aggregate brokerage orders for their clients rather than execute individual transactions for each account. These reasons include: (1) obtaining lower commission rates; (2) avoiding the time and expense of simultaneously entering similar orders for many individual client accounts that are managed similarly; (3) ensuring that all accounts managed in a particular style obtain the same execution to minimize differences in performance and (4) obtaining a better execution price even though the commission rate may be higher than the lowest rate otherwise available.

Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

On a daily to weekly basis client accounts are reviewed by members of the portfolio management team, which includes:

- Richard Bornhoft (CIO, and portfolio manager in respect of Equinox MutualHedge Futures Strategy Fund and Equinox Frontier Funds),
- Ajay Dravid (portfolio manager in respect of all Equinox Funds and
- Rufus Rankin (portfolio manager in respect of all Equinox Funds

Triggering factors for the reviews include performance for each of the individual Trading Advisors assigned to any given client as well as the performance of the overall client account. Included in the performance factors are current, month to date, and life to date returns, margin to equity usage, market participation, and Trading Advisors' performance within client accounts compared to other accounts traded by the Trading Advisor.

Parameters regarding the reviews are detailed in the client agreement. Each reviewer is assigned to review only up to the maximum number of reports as is practicable.

Review Triggers

Other conditions that may trigger a review are changes in the tax laws, new investment information, and changes in a client's own situation.

Regular Reports

The applicant will distribute written reports to clients on their accounts on a quarterly or more frequent basis. Each report will review the account's performance for the preceding quarter and year-to-date. Each report will discuss any adjustments that have been made to the client's account.
