Advisory Business

General Information

Nicholas Hoffman & Company, LLC was formed in 2007 and provides financial planning and portfolio management services to its clients. At the outset of each client relationship, NHCO spends time with the client, asking questions, discussing the client's investment experience and financial circumstances, and broadly identifying major goals of the client.

Clients may elect to retain NHCO to prepare a full financial plan. This detailed analysis is presented to the client for consideration. In most cases, clients subsequently retain NHCO to manage the investment portfolio on an ongoing basis.

For those financial planning clients making this election, and for other clients who do not need financial planning but retain NHCO for portfolio management services, based on all the information initially gathered, NHCO generally develops with each client:

- a financial outline for the client based on the client's financial circumstances and goals, and the client's risk tolerance level (the "Financial Profile");
- the client's investment objectives and guidelines (the "Investment Plan").

The Financial Profile is a reflection of the client's current financial picture and a look to the future goals of the client. The Investment Plan outlines the types of investments NHCO will make on behalf of the client in order to meet those goals. The Profile and the Plan are discussed regularly with each client, but are not necessarily written documents.

Financial Planning

One of the services offered by NHCO is Financial Planning, described below. This service may be provided as a stand-alone service, or may be coupled with ongoing portfolio management.

Financial Planning may include advice that addresses one or more areas of a client's financial situation, such as estate planning, risk management, budgeting and cash flow controls, retirement planning, education funding, and investment portfolio design and ongoing management. Depending on a client's particular situation, financial planning may include some or all of the following:

- Gathering factual information concerning the client's personal and financial situation;
- Assisting the client in establishing financial goals and objectives;
- Analyzing the client's present situation and anticipated future activities in light of the client's financial goals and objectives;
- Identifying problems foreseen in the accomplishment of these financial goals and objectives and offering alternative solutions to the problems;
- Making recommendations to help achieve retirement plan goals and objectives.
- Designing an investment portfolio to help meet the goals and objectives of the client;
- Providing estate planning, and
- Reviewing goals and objectives and measuring progress toward these goals.

Once Financial Planning advice is given, the client may choose to have NHCO implement the client's financial plan and manage the investment portfolio on an ongoing basis. However, the client is under no obligation to act upon any of the recommendations made by NHCO under a Financial Planning engagement and/or engage the services of any recommended professional.

Portfolio Management

At the beginning of a client relationship, NHCO meets with the client, asks questions, gathers information and performs research and analysis as necessary to develop the client's Investment Plan. The Investment Plan will be updated from time to time when requested by the client, or when determined to be necessary or advisable by NHCO based on updates to the client's financial or other circumstances.

To implement the client's Investment Plan, NHCO will manage the client's investment portfolio on a discretionary basis or a non-discretionary basis. As a discretionary investment adviser, NHCO will have the authority to supervise and direct the portfolio without prior consultation with the client. Clients who choose a non-discretionary arrangement must be contacted prior to the execution of any trade in the account(s) under management. This may result in a delay in executing recommended trades, which could adversely affect the performance of the portfolio. In a non-discretionary arrangement, the client retains the responsibility for the final decision on all actions taken with respect to the portfolio.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, clients may impose certain written restrictions on NHCO in the management of their investment portfolios, such as prohibiting the inclusion of certain types of investments (e.g., "sin stocks") in an investment portfolio or prohibiting the sale of certain investments held in the account at the commencement of the relationship. Each client should note, however, that restrictions imposed by a client may adversely affect the composition and performance of the client's investment portfolios. Each client should also note that his or her investment portfolio is treated individually by giving consideration to each purchase or sale for the client's account. For these and other reasons, performance of client investment portfolios within the same investment objectives, goals and/or risk tolerance may differ and clients should not expect that the composition or performance of their investment portfolios would necessarily be consistent with similar clients of NHCO.

Separate Account Managers

When appropriate and in accordance with the Investment Plan for a client, NHCO may utilize one or more Separate Account Managers, each a "Manager". Having access to various Managers offers a wide variety of manager styles, and offers clients the opportunity to utilize more than one Manager if necessary to meet the needs and investment objectives of the client. NHCO will usually select the Manager(s) it deems most appropriate for the client. Factors that NHCO considers in recommending/selecting Managers generally includes the client's stated investment objective(s), management style, performance, risk level, reputation, financial strength, reporting, pricing, and research.

The Manager(s) will be granted discretionary trading authority to provide investment supervisory services for the portfolio, but NHCO normally retains the authority to terminate the Manager's relationship or to add new Managers without specific client consent. With respect to assets managed by a Manager, NHCO's role will be to monitor the overall financial situation of the client, to monitor the investment approach and performance of the Manager(s), and to assist the client in understanding the investments of the portfolio.

In instances where the services of one or more Managers are utilized, the fee will be charged in addition to NHCO's fee, and will be detailed in a Management Agreement signed by the client.

Additionally, certain Managers may impose more restrictive account requirements than NHCO, billing practices may vary. In such instances, NHCO may be required to alter its corresponding account requirements and/or billing practices to accommodate those of the Manager(s).

Principal Owners

Nicholas J. Hoffman is the sole principal owner of NHCO. Please see “Brochure Supplement(s)”, Appendix A, for more information on Mr. Hoffman and other individuals who formulate investment advice and have direct contact with clients, or have discretionary authority over client accounts.

Type and Value of Assets Currently Managed

As of December 31, 2010, NHCO managed $211,153,566 on a discretionary basis, and $1,712,179 of assets on a non-discretionary basis.

Fees and Compensation

General Fee Information

Fees paid to NHCO are exclusive of all custodial and transaction costs paid to the client’s custodian, brokers or other third party consultants. Fees paid to NHCO are also separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, ETFs (exchange traded funds) or other investment pools to their shareholders (generally including a management fee and fund expenses, as described in each fund’s prospectus or offering materials). The client should review all fees charged by funds, brokers, NHCO and others to fully understand the total amount of fees paid by the client for investment and financial-related services.

Financial Planning Fees

When NHCO provides financial planning services to clients, these services are generally part of NHCO’s portfolio management services. If a separate fee is to be charged for financial planning, it will be negotiated at the time of the engagement for such services, and will normally be in the form of a fixed fee.

Portfolio Management Fees

The annual fee schedule, based on a percentage of assets under management, is as follows:

First $1,000,000	1.25%
Next $2,000,000	1.00%
Next $2,000,000	0.75%
Next $5,000,000	0.50%
Next $5,000,000	0.40%
Next $5,000,000	0.20%
Amounts over $20,000,000	0.15%

NHCO may impose a minimum portfolio value. NHCO may, at its discretion, make exceptions to the foregoing or negotiate special fee arrangements where NHCO deems it appropriate under the circumstances. NHCO may also negotiate a fixed fee for portfolio management services.

Portfolio management fees are generally payable quarterly, either in advance or in arrears. If management begins after the start of a quarter, fees will be prorated accordingly. Fees are normally debited directly from client account(s), unless other arrangements are made.

Either NHCO or the client may terminate their Investment Management Agreement at any time, subject to any written notice requirements in the agreement. In the event of termination, any paid but unearned fees will be promptly refunded to the client, and any fees due to NHCO from the client will be invoiced or deducted from the client's account prior to termination.

Separate Account Manager Fees

Each Manager will assess its own fee, which will be charged according to the Manager's established fee schedule. This will be disclosed to the client prior to the time of the engagement.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

NHCO does not have any performance-based fee arrangements.

Types of Clients

NHCO serves individuals, pension and profit-sharing plans, corporations, trusts, estates and charitable organizations. NHCO may impose a minimum portfolio value eligible for conventional investment advisory services.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

In accordance with the Investment Plan, NHCO will primarily invest in ETF's, mutual funds, managed accounts, some common stock, and bonds. Some clients have financial objectives and needs which support consideration of investments in non-traditional instruments such as real estate and private equity.

ETFs and Mutual funds are generally evaluated and selected based on a variety of factors, including, without limitation, past performance, fee structure, portfolio manager, fund sponsor, overall ratings for safety and returns, and other factors.

Fixed income investments may be used as a strategic investment, as an instrument to fulfill liquidity or income needs in a portfolio, or to add a component of capital preservation. NHCO may evaluate and select individual bonds or bond funds based on a number of factors including, without limitation, rating, yield and duration.

In selecting individual stocks for an account, NHCO generally applies traditional fundamental analysis including, without limitation, the following factors:

- Financial strength ratios;
- Price-to-earnings ratios;
- Dividend yields; and
- Growth rate-to-price earnings ratios

Investment Strategies:

NHCO's strategic approach is to invest each portfolio in accordance with the Plan that has been developed specifically for each client. This means that the following strategies may be used in varying combinations over time for a given client, depending upon the client's individual circumstances.

Long Term Purchases – securities purchased with the expectation that the value of those securities will grow over a relatively long period of time, generally greater than one year.

Short Term Purchases – securities purchased with the expectation that they will be sold within a relatively short period of time, generally less than one year, to take advantage of the securities' short term price fluctuations.

Short Sales – a securities transaction in which an investor sells securities he or she borrowed in anticipation of a price decline. The investor is then required to return an equal number of shares at some point in the future. A short seller will profit if the stock goes down in price.

Margin Transactions – a securities transaction in which an investor borrows money to purchase a security, in which case the security serves as collateral on the loan.

Options Trading/Writing: a securities transaction that involves buying or selling (writing) an option. If you write an option, and the buyer exercises the option, you are obligated to purchase or deliver a specified number of shares at a specified price at the expiration of the option regardless of the market value of the security at expiration of the option. Buying an option gives you the right to purchase or sell a specified number of shares at a specified price until the date of expiration of the option regardless of the market value of the security at expiration of the option.

Risk of Loss

While NHCO seeks to diversify clients' investment portfolios across various asset classes consistent with their Investment Plans in an effort to reduce risk of loss, all investment portfolios are subject to risks. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that client investment portfolios will be able to fully meet their investment objectives and goals, or that investments will not lose money.

Below is a description of several of the principal risks that client investment portfolios face.

Management Risks. While NHCO manages client investment portfolios based on NHCO's experience, research and proprietary methods, the value of client investment portfolios will change daily based on the performance of the underlying mutual funds and other securities in which they are invested. Accordingly, client investment portfolios are subject to the risk that NHCO allocates assets to asset classes that are adversely affected by unanticipated market movements, and the risk that NHCO's specific investment choices could underperform their relevant indexes.

Risks of Investments in Mutual Funds, ETFs and Other Investment Pools. As described above, NHCO will usually invest client portfolios in mutual funds, ETFs and other investment pools ("pooled investment funds"). Investments in pooled investment funds are generally less risky than investing in individual securities because of their diversified portfolios; however, these investments are still subject to risks associated with the markets in which they invest. In addition, pooled investment funds' success will be related to the skills of their particular managers and their performance in managing their funds. Pooled investment funds are also subject to risks due to regulatory restrictions applicable to registered investment companies under the Investment Company Act of 1940.

Equity Market Risks. NHCO may invest portions of client assets directly into equity investments, primarily stocks, or into pooled investment funds that invest in the stock market. As noted above, while pooled investments have diversified portfolios that may make them less risky than investments in individual securities, funds that invest in stocks and other equity securities are nevertheless subject to the risks of the stock market. These risks include, without limitation, the risks that stock values will decline due to daily fluctuations in the markets, and that stock values will decline over longer periods (e.g., bear markets) due to general market declines in the stock prices for all companies, regardless of any individual security's prospects.

Fixed Income Risks. NHCO may invest portions of client assets directly into fixed income instruments, such as bonds and notes, or may invest in pooled investment funds that invest in bonds and notes. While investing in fixed income instruments, either directly or through pooled investment funds, is generally less volatile than investing in stock (equity) markets, fixed income investments nevertheless are subject to risks. These risks include, without limitation, interest rate risks (risks that changes in interest rates will devalue the investments), credit risks (risks of default by borrowers), or maturity risk (risks that bonds or notes will change value from the time of issuance to maturity).

Foreign Securities Risks. NHCO may invest portions of client assets directly into foreign securities or into pooled investment funds that invest internationally. While foreign investments are important to the diversification of client investment portfolios, they carry risks that may be different from U.S. investments. For example, foreign investments may not be subject to uniform audit, financial reporting or disclosure standards, practices or requirements comparable to those found in the U.S. Foreign investments are also subject to foreign withholding taxes and the risk of adverse changes in investment or exchange control regulations. Finally, foreign investments may involve currency risk, which is the risk that the value of the foreign security will decrease due to changes in the relative value of the U.S. dollar and the security's underlying foreign currency.

Disciplinary Information

NHCO has no disciplinary events to report.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither NHCO nor its Management Persons has any other financial industry activities or affiliations to report.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics and Personal Trading

NHCO has adopted a Code of Ethics ("the Code"), the full text of which is available to you upon request. NHCO's Code has several goals. First, the Code is designed to assist NHCO in complying with applicable laws and regulations governing its investment advisory business. Under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, NHCO owes fiduciary duties to its clients. Pursuant to these fiduciary duties, the Code requires NHCO associated persons to act with honesty, good faith and fair dealing in working with clients. In addition, the Code prohibits associated persons from trading or otherwise acting on insider information.

Next, the Code sets forth guidelines for professional standards for NHCO's associated persons (managers, officers and employees). Under the Code's Professional Standards, NHCO expects its associated persons to put the interests of its clients first, ahead of personal interests. In this regard, NHCO associated persons are not to take inappropriate advantage of their positions in relation to NHCO clients.

Third, the Code sets forth policies and procedures to monitor and review the personal trading activities of associated persons. From time to time NHCO's associated persons may invest in the same securities recommended to clients. Under its Code, NHCO has adopted procedures designed to reduce or eliminate conflicts of interest that this could potentially cause. The Code's personal trading policies include procedures for limitations on personal securities transactions of associated persons, reporting and review of such trading and pre-clearance of certain types of personal trading activities. These policies are designed to discourage and prohibit personal trading that would disadvantage clients. The Code also provides for disciplinary action as appropriate for violations.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Because client accounts are primarily invested in open end mutual funds, pooled investment vehicles and independently managed accounts there is little opportunity for a conflict of interest between personal trades by NHCO associated persons and trades in client accounts, even when such accounts invest in the same securities. However, in the event of other identified potential trading conflicts of interest, NHCO's goal is to place client interests first.

Consistent with the foregoing, NHCO maintains policies regarding participation in initial public offerings (IPOs) and private placements in order to comply with applicable laws and avoid conflicts with client transactions. If a NHCO associated person wishes to participate in an IPO or invest in a private placement, he or she must submit a pre-clearance request and obtain the approval of the Chief Compliance Officer. If associated persons trade with client accounts (e.g., in a bundled or aggregated trade), and the trade is not filled in its entirety, the associated person's shares will be removed from the block, and the balance of shares will be allocated among client accounts in accordance with NHCO's written policy.

Brokerage Practices

Best Execution and Benefits of Brokerage Selection

When given discretion to select the brokerage firm that will execute orders in client accounts, NHCO seeks "best execution" for client trades, which is a combination of a number of factors, including, without limitation, quality of execution, services provided and commission rates. Therefore, NHCO may use or recommend the use of brokers who do not charge the lowest available commission in the recognition of research and securities transaction services, or quality of execution. Research services received with transactions may include proprietary or third party research (or any combination), and may be used in servicing any or all of NHCO's clients. Therefore, research services received may not be used for the account for which the particular transaction was effected.

NHCO participates in Schwab's Institutional ("SI") service program. Also, NHCO utilizes Diversified Trust Company ("DTC") for investment management services generally unavailable to all but larger investors. While there is no direct link between the investment advice NHCO provides and participation in the SI program or with DTC, NHCO receives certain economic benefits from the SI program and DTC. These benefits may include software and other technology that provides access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitates trade execution (and allocation of aggregated orders for multiple client accounts), provides research, pricing information and other market data, facilitates the payment of NHCO's fees from its clients' accounts, and assists with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services may be used to service all or a substantial number of NHCO's accounts, including accounts not held at Schwab or DTC. Schwab or DTC may also make available to NHCO other services intended to help NHCO manage and further develop its business. These services may include consulting, publications and conferences on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance and marketing. In addition, Schwab and DTC may make available, arrange and/or pay for these types of services to be rendered to NHCO by independent third parties. Schwab and DTC may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services, pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to NHCO, and/or Schwab or DTC may pay for travel expenses relating to participation in such training. Finally, participation in SI and DTC provides NHCO with access to mutual funds which normally require significantly higher minimum initial investments or are normally available only to institutional investors.

The benefits received through participation in the SI program and DTC do not necessarily depend upon the proportion of transactions directed to Schwab or DTC. The benefits are received by NHCO, in part because of commission revenue generated for Schwab and DTC by NHCO's clients. This means that the investment activity in client accounts is beneficial to NHCO, because Schwab and DTC do not assess a fee to NHCO for these services. This may be considered to create an incentive for NHCO to continue to recommend Schwab or DTC to its clients. While it may be possible to obtain similar custodial, execution and other services elsewhere at a lower cost, NHCO believes that Schwab and DTC provide an excellent combination of these services.

Directed Brokerage

Clients may direct NHCO to use a particular broker for custodial or transaction services on behalf of the client's portfolio. In directed brokerage arrangements, the client is responsible for negotiating the commission rates and other fees to be paid to the broker. Accordingly, a client who directs brokerage should consider whether such designation may result in certain costs or disadvantages to the client, either because the client may pay higher commissions or obtain less favorable execution, or the designation limits the investment options available to the client.

The arrangement that NHCO has with Schwab and DTC is designed to maximize efficiency and to be cost effective. By directing brokerage arrangements, the client acknowledges that these economies of scale and levels of efficiency are generally compromised when alternative brokers are used. While every effort is made to treat clients fairly over time, the fact that a client chooses to use the brokerage and/or custodial services of these alternative service providers may in fact result in a certain degree of delay in executing trades for their account(s) and otherwise adversely affect management of their account(s).

By directing NHCO to use a specific broker or dealer, clients who are subject to ERISA confirm and agree with NHCO that they have the authority to make the direction, that there are no provisions in any client or plan document which are inconsistent with the direction, that the brokerage and other goods and services provided by the broker or dealer through the brokerage transactions are provided solely to and for the benefit of the client's plan, plan participants and their beneficiaries, that the amount paid for the brokerage and other services have been determined by the client and the plan to be reasonable, that any expenses paid by the broker on behalf of the plan are expenses that the plan would otherwise be obligated to pay, and that the specific broker or dealer is not a party in interest of the client or the plan as defined under applicable ERISA regulations.

Aggregated Trade Policy

NHCO does not typically aggregate trades for its clients. Instead, each client account is reviewed individually, and any necessary trades are placed for the account at the time of the review. While some economies of scale could possibly be gained by aggregating shares for various client accounts into a block trade, NHCO believes the benefits of focused attention on each account outweigh any potential benefits of aggregated trading.

Review of Accounts

Managed portfolios are generally reviewed quarterly, but may be reviewed more often if requested by the client, upon receipt of information material to the management of the portfolio, or at any time such review is deemed necessary or advisable by NHCO. Nicholas J. Hoffman, NHCO's Managing Member and Chief Compliance Officer or a designated Principal of the firm, review all accounts.

Account custodians are responsible for providing monthly or quarterly account statements which reflect the positions (and current pricing) in each account as well as transactions in each account, including fees paid from an account. Account custodians also provide prompt confirmation of all trading activity, and year-end tax statements, such as 1099 forms. In addition, NHCO provides at least an annual report for each managed portfolio. This written report normally includes a summary of portfolio holdings and performance results. Additional reports are available at the request of the client.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

As noted above, NHCO may receive some benefits from Schwab and DTC based on the amount of client assets held at Schwab or DTC. Please see "Brokerage Practices" for more information. However, neither Schwab, DTC, nor any other party is paid to refer clients to NHCO.

Custody

Schwab and DTC are the custodians of nearly all client accounts at NHCO. From time to time however, clients may select an alternate broker to hold accounts in custody. In any case, it is the custodian's responsibility to provide clients with confirmations of trading activity, tax forms and at least quarterly account statements. Clients are advised to review this information carefully, and to notify NHCO of any questions or concerns. Clients are also asked to promptly notify NHCO if the custodian fails to provide statements on each account held.

From time to time and in accordance with NHCO's agreement with clients, NHCO will provide additional reports. The account balances reflected on these reports should be compared to the balances shown on the brokerage statements to ensure accuracy. At times, there may be small differences due to the timing of dividend reporting and pending trades.

Investment Discretion

As described in the "Advisory Business" section, NHCO will accept clients on either a discretionary or non-discretionary basis. For discretionary accounts, a Limited Power of Attorney ("LPOA") is executed by the client, giving NHCO the authority to carry out various activities in the account, generally including the following: trade execution; the ability to request checks on behalf of the client; and, the withdrawal of advisory fees directly from the account. NHCO then directs investment of the client's portfolio using its discretionary authority. The client may limit the terms of the LPOA to the extent consistent with the client's investment advisory agreement with NHCO and the requirements of the client's custodian.

For non-discretionary accounts, the client also generally executes an LPOA, which allows NHCO to carry out trade recommendations and approved actions in the portfolio. However, in accordance with the investment advisory agreement between NHCO and the client, NHCO does not implement trading recommendations or other actions in the account unless and until the client has approved the recommendation or action. As with discretionary accounts, clients may limit the terms of the LPOA, subject to NHCO's agreement with the client and the requirements of the client's custodian.

Voting Client Securities

As a policy and in accordance with NHCO's agreement, NHCO does not vote proxies related to securities held in client accounts. The custodian of the account will normally provide proxy materials directly to the client. Clients may contact NHCO with questions relating to proxy matters; however, NHCO does not generally perform detailed research regarding proxy voting options.

Financial Information

NHCO does not require nor solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance.
