Item 9E	Participation or Interest in Client Transactions  Occasionally, principals or employees of the Company may buy or sell securities in their own account that the Company recommends to clients. At all times, the investment decisions the Company makes for its clients will be in the clients' best interests, and such decisions will be made independently of the securities holdings of the Company's principals or employees. The Company has adopted a Code of Ethics which it believes will protect its clients' interests in such circumstances. The Code of Ethics spells out the Company's fiduciary duties and responsibilities to clients and requires principals and employees to abide by all applicable securities laws and rules and to protect client confidences.

Item 9	Code of Ethics As a fiduciary, the Company has a duty of utmost good faith to act solely in the best interests of each of our clients. Our clients entrust us with their funds, which in turn places a high standard on our conduct and integrity. Our fiduciary duty compels all employees to act with the utmost integrity in all of our dealings. This fiduciary duty is the core principle underlying this Code of Ethics Policy, and represents the expected basis of all of our dealings with our clients. A copy of this Code of Ethics Policy will be provided to any client or prospective client upon request. The Company is also committed to complying with the Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility issued by the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. A complete copy of the CFP Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility is available at www.cfp.net/learn/ethics.asp. Standards of Conduct The interests of clients is placed ahead of the Company's or any employee's own investment interests. Employees are expected to conduct their personal securities transactions in accordance with the Company's Personal Trading Policy and will strive to avoid any actual or perceived conflict of interest with the client. Employees will not take inappropriate advantage of their position with the company. Employees are expected to act in the best interest of each of our clients. Employees shall provide services with integrity and objectivity. Employees are expected to comply with federal securities laws. Employees will provide services to clients competently and maintain the necessary knowledge and skill to continue to do so in those areas which the employee is engaged. Protection of Material Non-Public Information Employees are expected to exercise diligence and care in maintaining and protecting our client's non-public, confidential information. Employees are also expected to not divulge information regarding the Company's securities recommendations or client securities holdings to any individual outside the Company, except: As necessary to complete transactions or account changes; As necessary to maintain or service a client or his/her account; With various service providers who provide administrative functions for the Company, only after we have entered into a contractual agreement that prohibits the service provider from disclosing or using confidential information except as necessary to carry out its assigned responsibilities and only for that purpose or such provider has supplied us with a privacy statement which meets our requirements; or As permitted by law. Personal Conduct Employees are prohibited from receiving any gift, gratuity, hospitality or other offering of more than de minimus value from any person or entity doing business with the Company or client of the Company. The Company defines de minimus as the typical cost of dinner for two at an elegant restaurant. This gift policy generally excludes items or events where the employee has reason to believe there is a legitimate business purpose.

Item of Form (identify)	Answer
Item 10	Conditions for Managing Accounts The Company does not impose a minimum investment net worth requirement for clients seeking services. The Company does, however, have minimum fees as described in Item 1D. Exceptions may be made at the Company's discretion.
Item 12B	Investment or Brokerage Discretion The Company does not actively direct clients to traditional, full service/commission brokers. The Company will suggest using a discount broker such as Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services for ease of administration. The client makes the final decision as to this matter. The Company generally recommends the use of a discount broker who does very little or no market making. Trades of OTC stocks or non-listed bonds through such discount broker will generally be more expensive than through a broker that makes a market in the specific securities in question because an agency broker adds a commission to such trades while a market maker generally does not. When the Company recommends or selects a discount broker, it is after considering the broker's ability to offer best execution (including the costs of trades of listed securities, the costs of trades of securities in which other brokers may make a market, and the ability to execute trades from time to time at prices between the bid and ask, considering the general volume of trades the Company has to work with as well as the average size and range of size of those trades) as well as the full range and quality of the broker's services. The Company generally recommends or selects a discount broker to serve as a centralized custodian for each investment account. Having a discount broker serve as custodian rather than a traditional bank has the advantage of avoiding bank custody fees for the client. However, we recognize in certain rare situations it has the disadvantage of limiting the Company's ability to seek best prices and execution especially for non-listed securities. For example some custodian brokers allow what they may call "Prime Broker" or "Trade Away" trades (i.e., trades through other approved brokers and market-makers) for accounts of a certain size, but such trades will have an additional fee charged by the custodian broker above and beyond any commission charged by the executing broker. When the Company recommends a discount broker to serve as a centralized custodian rather than a bank custodian, it is because it considers such custodial services to be the best alternative for the client after consideration of all the relevant benefits and disadvantages. The Company and its employees do not receive any financial compensation from brokerage referrals, nor does it receive any targeted or customized research, etc. The Company, as part of its relationship with a discount broker, may receive general research reports and newsletters that all such advisors receive. Any research services provided by a discount broker may be of benefit to all of the Company's clients and not only clients having accounts with that broker.
