Item 1	ADVISORY SERVICES AND FEES
Item 1. D	Investment Advisory Services Ascension Wealth Partners, LLC (“Ascension”) provides clients with discretionary investment advisory services. Prior to engaging Ascension to provide investment advisory services, the client is required to enter into an Investment Management Contract with Ascension setting forth the terms and conditions of the engagement and the scope of the services to be provided. At the beginning of the client relationship, a representative of Ascension will conduct a personal interview with the client to discuss and evaluate the client’s investment objectives, individual risk tolerance, investment timeline and any other information relevant to the management of the client’s account. This information will then be summarized in an Investment Policy Statement. For each account that Ascension manages for a client pursuant to the Investment Management Contract, Ascension will require the client to complete an Account Questionnaire. The responses the client gives to the Account Questionnaire will specify the Client’s investment guidelines, restrictions and portfolio objectives and will include an asset allocation model for the account the Account Questionnaire relates to. Ascension then constructs and manages each client’s portfolio in accordance with: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The client’s investment objectives and other guidelines contained in their Investment Policy Statement and Account Questionnaires; and • Ascension’s investment policies, strategies and investment management techniques. A client may terminate their Investment Management Agreement by providing Ascension with a written notice of termination. Advisory Fees Ascension charges a quarterly advisory fee, paid in arrears, based upon a percentage of the assets under management with Ascension. Fees are calculated as follows: <table> <tr> <td>Asset Values:</td><td>Quarterly Fee</td></tr> <tr> <td>Up to the first $2,000,000</td><td>0.25% of such assets or $1,000, whichever is greater*</td></tr> <tr> <td>Assets exceeding $2,000,000 up to $5,000,000</td><td>0.1875% of such assets</td></tr> <tr> <td>Assets exceeding $5,000,000</td><td>0.125%</td></tr> </table> * All client relationships are subject to a minimum annual fee of $4,000. For purposes of calculating assets under management and advisory fees, Ascension will consider all accounts which constitute the “household” of the client’s portfolio. Typically, a client’s household consists of any spouse, parent, child, partner or sibling who resides at the same mailing address as the client. In certain circumstances, Ascension may from time to time discount advisory fees for non-household relatives of the client as determined in its sole discretion. For family members and long-term friends of Ascension, this fee may be zero. All Fees are negotiable in the sole discretion of Ascension. Possibly, lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources. As stated under Types Of Investments below, client portfolios generally contain mutual funds. fund held in a client account in addition to Ascension's advisory fees.

In addition to the aforementioned fees and mutual fund expenses and charges, clients also may be charged fees by their account custodians and any broker-dealers who effect transactions on behalf of client accounts.

Billing Arrangements

Investment advisory fees are billed quarterly in arrears. Fees are automatically deducted from a client's account by the custodian of the account as soon as reasonably practicable after the end of each calendar quarter. For accounts opened or closed after the beginning of a new calendar quarter, fees will be prorated.

Ascension will remit an invoice to the client showing the amount of the fee, the value of the client's assets on which the fee was based, and the specific manner in which the fee was calculated. It is the client's responsibility to verify the accuracy of the fee calculation and the custodian will not determine whether the fee is properly calculated. The client will authorize the custodian to remit payment for the advisory fees from the client's custodian account. All investment advisory fees paid directly to Ascension will be clearly reflected on the client's monthly brokerage statements that are prepared and sent to the client by the custodian.

Item 4. A

METHODS OF ANALYSIS

Ascension conducts thorough analysis of all securities purchased for client portfolios.

When evaluating the merits of a mutual fund, Ascension focuses on two aspects, the mutual fund's investment adviser and the mutual fund itself.

Mutual Fund Investment Adviser

Ascension reviews the following aspects of each mutual fund investment adviser to assess its efficiency and effectiveness:

- Management Structure;
- Financial Condition; and
- Operating Procedures.

Mutual Fund

For each mutual fund Ascension reviews the following aspects, of among other things:

- Adherence to the investment objectives stated in its prospectus;
- Portfolio of securities;
- Past performance;
- Portfolio turnover;
- Growth in total assets;
- Management expense;
- Purchase and sale fees; and
- Administrative fees.

Item 4.B

MAIN SOURCES OF INFORMATION

Ascension uses the following sources of information to analyze securities:

- Financial newspapers and magazines;
- Research materials provided by others including information provided by subscription services;
- SEC filings;
- Company press releases;

Item 4.C

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Ascension follows a general systematic investment strategy using the following steps.

- Sales activities data;
 - Interviews with mutual fund investment advisers and sponsoring organizations; and
 - Information provided by mutual funds' investment advisers (e.g. prospectuses and interim and annual reports).
- Based on a client's investment objectives and risk tolerance, Ascension will determine a suitable allocation between fixed income investments and equities. This allocation should not change unless the client's investment objectives or risk tolerance changes.
 - For each client account Ascension will determine strategic asset allocation targets for each asset class utilized in the client portfolio. This will partly be based on the client's investment objectives and risk tolerance but will also be based on Ascension's analysis of the long term risk/reward characteristics of each asset class. Ascension will not begin constructing the client's portfolio until the client approves the asset class allocation model.
 - Once the asset class allocation model is approved by the client, Ascension will begin constructing the client's portfolio in accordance with the model.
 - Once the portfolio is constructed, Ascension rebalances the account by utilizing "Tolerance Bands." By specifying a Tolerance Band for each asset class and rebalancing as needed, Ascension is able to maintain the client's portfolio in-line with the original asset allocation model. Not only will this approach control portfolio drift, it may provide significant return improvements by capturing buy low/sell high opportunities.

As stated above under Types of Investments, Ascension will primarily invest in mutual funds. When selecting mutual funds, Ascension will consider all of the factors described above under Methods of Analysis but will also consider:

- How efficiently the fund matches the asset class;
- The correlation between the fund and the client's other investments (whether those investments form part of the client's account or not); and
- The fund's risk profile.

Ascension prefers to invest in funds that are indexed to specific asset classes because they generally have lower operating expenses and generate lower capital gains than actively managed funds. If such a fund is not available for an asset class, Ascension generally will select a fully invested, low turnover, broadly diversified fund within the asset class. Ascension also will consider after-tax returns for taxable accounts and if possible or suitable for a client, Ascension may purchase Tax-Managed Funds.

A further feature of Ascension's investment strategy is its emphasis on broad global diversification and selecting asset classes which have a relatively low-correlation with each other.

In addition to general investment risk there are some specific risks associated with Ascension's investment strategy.

- Mutual fund investments may result in unexpected tax liabilities, which neither Ascension nor the client can control.
- International investments could be affected by, foreign taxes, differences in financial standards, political and economic instability and currency fluctuations.

Item 5

EDUCATION AND BUSINESS STANDARDS

Ascension requires that all investment adviser representatives and associated persons meet the examination or experience requirements of the state(s) in which they provide investment advisory services. In addition, Ascension requires that all investment adviser representatives and associated persons who provide investment advice possess:

- A bachelors degree from an accredited four year college or university; and

Item 6

- Either the Chartered Financial Analyst professional designation or a minimum of ten years' investment management or security analysis experience.

Item 9. E

PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND CODE OF ETHICS

Code of Ethics
Summary

Ascension's employees may take positions in the same securities as clients. To avoid potential conflicts of interests Ascension has adopted a Code of Ethics ("Code"). This Code provides employees with guidance in their ethical obligations regarding their personal securities transactions. Ascension and its employees owe a duty of loyalty, fairness and good faith towards their clients, and the obligation to adhere to the general principles that guide the Code. In addition, the Code governs reporting personal securities trading, exceptions to reporting securities trading, reportable securities, initial public offerings and private placements, reporting ethical violations, distribution and annual review of the Code and enforcement processes. Ascension will provide a copy of the Code to any client or prospective client upon written request.

Additionally, in compliance with CCR Section 260.238 (k), Ascension has considered all material conflicts of interest specified and has nothing further to disclose.

Item 10

CONDITIONS FOR MANAGING ACCOUNTS

Although there are no minimum dollar requirements for client relationships all client relationships are subject to a minimum quarterly fee of US$1,000.00. See Advisory Fees under Item 1.D above.

Item 11

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Item 11.A

Reviews

All accounts will be reviewed at least quarterly. Furthermore, accounts will be reviewed in the following circumstances:

- When Ascension's investment strategy changes;
- When a client's investment objectives or risk tolerance changes; and/or
- When there is a significant cash flow into or out of an account.

All reviews will be conducted by the portfolio manager assigned to the client's account.

Item 11.B

Nature and Frequency of Reports

Ascension delivers reports to clients as soon as practically possible after the end of each calendar quarter. Each report sets out amongst other things, the client's holdings, any expenses (including management fees) incurred during the preceding calendar quarter, and the value of the account as of the last business day of the preceding calendar quarter.

Item 12

INVESTMENT OR BROKERAGE DISCRETION

Ascension has complete discretion over the selection and amount of securities to be bought or sold without obtaining specific client consent. The only limitation on this discretion is that Ascension must manage a client's account in accordance with the client's investment objectives and individual risk tolerance.

Ascension also has full discretion to choose broker-dealers for effecting client transactions. However, under limited circumstances Ascension may, in its sole discretion permit the use of a particular broker-dealer if specifically directed by a client to do so.

Factors Considered When Selecting Brokers-Dealers

Generally, Ascension will suggest that clients use an institutional qualified broker-dealer custodian to custody assets and effect client transactions. However, Ascension may evaluate and use alternative broker-dealers for certain individual transactions, if in its discretion it believes that best execution for such individual transactions could be achieved elsewhere. Furthermore, Ascension will periodically evaluate the commissions charged and the services provided by the broker-dealer and compare those with other broker-dealers to evaluate whether overall best qualitative execution could be achieved by using alternative broker-dealers generally.

While the lowest commission rate is an important factor in selecting a broker-dealer, Ascension also considers the following factors during its selection process.

- Historical net prices
- Commissions charged
- Execution and correction capabilities
- The size and difficulty of transactions
- Reliability and financial stability
- Other services that may be provided to the client
- Any custodial relationship between the client and the broker-dealer

If a client specifically directs Ascension to use a particular broker-dealer, Ascension will not be able to seek best execution on the client's behalf. Such a client may end up paying higher commissions than other Ascension clients and their trades may be executed on less favorable terms than other clients.

Trade Aggregation and Allocation

Generally, based on the types of investment vehicles that Ascension utilizes, trade aggregation and trade allocation are not possible unless there are unique circumstances whereby, when able to, Ascension may aggregate trades of accounts. Trade aggregation, or “bunching of orders,” may result in better execution and/or better realized prices. Because of prevailing market conditions it may not be possible to execute all shares of an aggregated trade, in which case Ascension will allocate the trade among participating accounts in an equitable manner determined prior to execution of the trade. Ordinarily, the executing broker-dealer will provide an average price that will be allocated to all accounts participating in the aggregated trade.

If a client specifically directs Ascension to use a particular broker-dealer, they will not be able to participate in aggregate trades, and may incur higher commission rates.

Soft Dollars

Although it will not be a factor in the selection of a broker-dealer or a mutual fund, Ascension may receive certain benefits from broker-dealers or mutual funds sponsors. For example Ascension may receive broker-dealer/adviser interface software, investment research or invitations to attend seminars and conferences. This presents a conflict of interests. Because these benefits are paid for with clients’ commissions or assets known as “soft dollars” and Ascension could potentially select a particular broker-dealer or mutual fund to receive such benefits. In such instances, Ascension will select such broker-dealers only when it is in the client’s best interest based on overall qualitative execution in conformance with section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

There is a further potential conflict of interests in that research and services acquired with soft dollars may or may not be utilized across Ascension’s entire client base and client accounts may not benefit equally from research derived from soft dollars.

Item 13

ADDITIONAL COMPENSATION

To the extent Ascension receives benefits in exchange for soft dollars, this could be deemed to be additional compensation. See Soft Dollars under Items 12A and 12.B above.

Proxy Voting
Policy
Summary

PROXY VOTING POLICY

In 2003 the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) adopted Rule 206(4)-6 requiring formal proxy voting policies and procedures for SEC registered investment advisers with voting authority over client portfolio securities. Pursuant with this rule, Ascension adopted a policy not to accept proxy voting authority with respect to client securities holdings. Consequently, all proxy solicitations related to securities held by clients will be sent directly to clients for voting. In the event a proxy solicitation is sent to Ascension on a client’s behalf, it is Ascension’s practice to forward the solicitation to the client’s address of record immediately so that they may cast the proxy vote.

Notice

PRIVACY NOTICE

Ascension’s highest priority is to maintain our clients’ trust and confidence and we are committed to protecting the confidentiality of your personal financial information. Client confidentiality is a professional obligation that is of utmost importance to us. This notice is a description of Ascension’s policies for protecting our clients’ personal financial information.

Information Collected.

Ascension collects certain non-public personal information from our clients in connection with providing investment advisory services. We use this information to identify our clients, to protect and administer client accounts and records, to help us provide superior services to our clients and to comply with applicable laws and regulations. Information is collected from:

- Account Applications (including name, address, social security numbers, income, assets, investments);

Applicant:	SEC File Number:	Date:
Ascension Wealth Partners, LLC	801-68870	June 26, 2009

- Client Transactions (with us and others with whom we work to provide you with diverse financial products and services); and
- Verification Processes (with regard to your application, including current or past employers, financial institutions, credit reporting agencies, etc.).

Protection of Your Non-Public Personal Information.

It is imperative for Ascension to keep your confidential information secure. We restrict access to your non-public personal information to only those employees and agents who need to know that information in order to develop, support, offer and provide products or services to you. We maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards that comply with federal standards to guard your non-public personal information and we regularly update these safeguards as necessary to respond to changing requirements and advances in technology. In addition, for employees who leave the firm, we take security precautions to help ensure your information remains protected. For more information, please contact us.

Information Disclosed.

We do not sell, share, transfer or disclose your non-public personal information to nonaffiliated third party marketing companies (i.e. companies that market their own or other companies' services to you on an unsolicited basis). In the event that Ascension desires to sell, share, transfer, or otherwise disclose nonpublic personal information about a consumer to or with any nonaffiliated third party marketers, we are required to first obtain your explicit prior consent on a separate form, statement or writing that clearly and conspicuously describes the effect of signing and gives you the opportunity to consent to Ascension's sharing such information with nonaffiliated third parties.

However, we may disclose all of the information we collect, as described above, to companies that perform marketing or other services on our behalf, or to other financial institutions with whom we have agreements to perform certain services in relation to your account. All of these companies are contractually obligated to keep the information that we provide to them confidential and to use the information only for the services required and allowed by applicable law or regulation. These companies are not permitted to share or use the information for any other purpose.

Please note that we are permitted to share information as necessary to allow us to follow the law and to provide required services to your account with us. For example:

- Ascension may disclose non-public personal information about you in connection with the transfer of your account to another financial institution at your request or the request of your representative.
- In addition, Ascension may disclose non-public personal information about you under circumstances as permitted or required by law. These disclosures typically include information necessary to process transactions on your behalf, to conduct our operations, to follow your instructions as you authorize, or to protect the security of our financial records.

As we provide services to you, we are permitted by law to share non-public personal information within our company and with affiliates relating to our transactions or experience with you, including, but not limited to account balances or payment history.

Former Customers.

If you close your account(s) or become an inactive customer, we will adhere to the privacy policies and practices as described in this notice.

Ascension reserves the right to change this policy at any time. We will timely notify our clients if any changes occur.

Please contact us at 510-547-7200 if you have any questions relating to this notice. Thank you.

	During the client initial interview, Ascension advisers discuss and verify all documents with the potential client. Questions are asked about current residencies, financials, current sources of income and other investments held by the client. Prior to opening an account, Ascension's Anti-Money Laundering Officer, verifies client information against databases such as OFAC, FATF and FinCEN to check for potential matches. In the event that Ascension has a potential hit, the firm reports its findings to the FBI and applicable financial regulators, such as the SEC. Ascension will take any necessary action to freeze said open accounts for any persons or entities that are on the terrorist list and report the information to the relevant authorities. Each prospective client will complete an Investor Profile, establish residency and supply documentation as necessary to substantiate the purpose of the account and source of funds. Notations of clearances by the Anti-Money Laundering Officer are documented within the clients' files. In addition, at least annually, Ascension provides training to its employees on its anti-money laundering and anti-terrorist policies and procedures. Ascension notifies senior management and reports transactions relating to known and suspected federal crimes, including potential securities law violations.
