Our service is implemented on a discretionary basis, managed by us and sub-advisers we choose, and through separate investments in equities, mutual funds, bonds, cash-equivalents, and other instruments. The Adviser will provide investment consulting services that relate to matters such as allocation of assets among different classes, portfolio diversification, managing portfolio risk, and other general economic and financial topics. Account supervision is guided by the stated objectives of the client (i.e., maximum capital appreciation, growth, etc.), and all managed accounts will be maintained with an independent custodian. Adviser also provides personal data management services to individuals that may or may not also be wealth management clients. Personal data management services are included as part of the wealth management services discussed below at no additional expense to the wealth management clients. Alternatively, personal data management services may be acquired at an hourly rate or a fixed rate depending on the level of service the individual prefers. Client investment objectives are identified by assessing the client's risk tolerance based upon their age, income, education, need for cash flows, investment goals, and emotional tolerance for volatility. We will not place orders for transactions in the client’s account or otherwise exercise trading authority over the account at any time when the account is being managed by an investment manager. The compensation for our services, which include developing and implementing an investment policy and objectives, formulating a quantitatively driven asset allocation analysis and recommendation, monitoring a client's investment results, selecting and monitoring investment managers is 1.00%. The fee is negotiable for accounts of $5 million or more and the actual amount is determined based upon a number of factors, including the amount of work involved, the assets placed under management and the attention needed to manage the account. Fees will be billed in arrears at the end of each calendar quarter. Any contributions and/or withdrawals made during a calendar quarter may cause an adjustment to the advisory fee. Fees will generally be deducted directly from the client's custodial account pursuant to a written agreement. Investment advisory services begin with the effective date of the Investment Advisory Agreement ("Agreement"), which is the date the client signs the Agreement. For that calendar quarter, fees will be adjusted pro rata based upon the number of calendar days in the calendar quarter that the Agreement was effective. Clients should be aware of their responsibility to verify the accuracy of the fee calculation submitted to the custodian by Adviser, as the custodian will not determine whether the fee has been properly calculated. The Adviser will provide the client with a separate copy of each invoice, setting forth the basis for the calculation. Advisory fees charged by Adviser are separate and distinct from fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, which may be recommended to clients. A description of these fees and expenses are available in each fund's prospectus. Additionally, these fees do not include other costs that the client may incur including but not limited to transaction fees and commissions. After one (1) year, either the Adviser or the client may terminate the Agreement for any reason upon 30 days prior written notice. Item 12 A	INVESTMENT OR BROKERAGE DISCRETION When a client agrees to discretionary management, the Adviser will be responsible for asset allocation and selecting investment managers. The only limitations on the investment authority will be those limitations imposed in writing by the client. If we retain an investment manager for the client, we reserve discretion to hire and fire money managers on our client's behalf. The only limitations on the investment authority will be those limitations imposed in writing by the client. For the investment managers that we select to manage client assets, clients should review their disclosure document(s) for more information on their policy with regard to investment or brokerage discretion. In the course of providing our services, we (and the investment managers we select to manage a portion of the clients' assets) will execute trades for our clients through broker-dealers. When a client has given us broker discretion, there is no restriction on the brokers we may select to execute client transactions. Our general guiding principle is to trade through broker-dealers who offer the best overall execution under the particular circumstances. With respect to execution, we consider a number of factors, including the actual handling of the order, the ability of the broker-dealer to settle the trade promptly and accurately, the financial standing of the broker-dealer, the ability of the broker-dealer to position stock to facilitate execution, our past experience with similar trades, and other factors which may be unique to a particular order. Based on these judgmental factors, we may trade through broker-dealers that charge fees that are higher than the lowest available fees. In addition, broker-dealer fees may vary and be greater than those typical for similar investments if we determine that the research, execution and other services rendered by a particular broker merit greater than typical fees. Also, in certain instances we may execute over -the -counter securities transactions on an agency basis, which may result in advisory clients incurring two transaction costs for a single trade: a commission paid to the executing broker-dealer plus the market makers mark-up or mark-down. We may aggregate numerous clients' purchases or sales as a single transaction. Transactions are usually aggregated to seek a lower commission, lower costs, or a more advantageous net price. The benefits, if any, obtained as a result of such aggregation, are generally allocated pro-rata among the accounts of the clients or the funds which participated in the aggregated transaction. The investment managers we choose may have different principles or policies with respect to execution of trades and selection of brokers. An investment manager's policies and procedures in this area are among the factors that we will consider in choosing an investment manager. Clients that restrict us to using a particular broker/dealer (or direct us to use a particular broker/dealer) for executing their transactions generally will be unable to

In addition, those clients, that direct brokerage transactions to a particular broker/dealer, may be disadvantaged because they may not obtain allocations of new issues of securities purchased by us through other brokers/dealers. We will generally execute aggregated orders for non-directed clients before we execute orders for clients that direct brokerage. We may also execute trades for non-directed clients through the same broker/dealer to which other clients' direct brokerage. There may be conflicts of interest over time devoted to managing any one account and the allocation of investment opportunities among all accounts managed by us. 	products and services assist Adviser in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts), provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of Adviser's fees from its clients' accounts, and assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or a substantial number of Adviser accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab or Fidelity. Both Schwab and Fidelity also make available to Adviser other services intended to help Adviser manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include consulting, publications and conferences on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance, and marketing. In addition, Schwab and Fidelity may make available, arrange and/or pay for these types of services rendered to Adviser by independent third parties. Schwab and Fidelity may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to Adviser. While as a fiduciary, Adviser endeavors to act in its clients' best interests, Adviser's recommendation that clients maintain their assets in accounts at Schwab or Fidelity may be based in part on the benefit to Adviser of the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and not solely on the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab or Fidelity, which may create a potential conflict of interest.
