Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

- A. BG and/or its Officers formulate investment advice by having client investment policies that are based on goals, and objectives. Our investment philosophy is focused on earning the highest possible returns within the confines of an acceptable level of risk. As our clients typically have a long time horizon, we, in turn, take a long-term, strategic approach. We have applied this approach consistently since the inception of our firm in 2009. Our investment philosophy analyze the risk and return associated with asset allocation strategy we recommend to clients, and we perform in-depth and ongoing due diligence of portfolio holdings. Investing in securities involves risk that clients should be prepared to bear, and it is not FDIC-insured including possible loss of the amount invested. The risk of loss is probably the biggest disadvantage to investing in the stock market. Unlike CDs, money markets and other guaranteed investments, stock market investors face a very real risk of loss when stocks decline. Bull market (when stocks rise) and bear market (when they fall) cycles have existed as long as the stock market. And some bear market declines can be truly severe, with losses of 70% or more. Investors who plan to put money aside in the stock market need to be aware of and prepared for these risks. One way investors can prepare themselves is to never invest with money they plan to need within the next five years. The stock market is a long-term investing vehicle and the five-year rule gives the portfolio time to recover from those bear markets. Investing short-term money in the stock market could mean investors are forced to pull money out at the bottom, solidifying those losses and making it that much harder to recover
- B. BG and/or its Officers combine a variety of equity, fixed income, and alternative asset classes is the most effective way to accomplish the client's goals and objectives. However, some asset classes should only be included when their portfolio weight will permit them to have a meaningful impact on performance. It's important to remember that no matter how diversified your portfolio is, your risk can never be eliminated. You can reduce risk associated with individual stocks (what academics call unsystematic risk, Company or industry specific risk that is inherent in each investment), but there are inherent market risks (systematic risk The risk inherent to the entire market or entire market segment.) that affect nearly every stock. No amount of diversification can prevent that. Highly disciplined rebalancing strategies should be established between asset classes and within each asset class. This is one of the simplest ways to exploit the cyclical nature of financial markets.
- C. BG and/or its Officers' recommendation style is based around a moderate strategy designed to achieve above average real returns with below average levels of financial and market risk. BG and/or its Officers believe in the merits of a balanced portfolio of high-grade common stocks and fixed income securities. For clients who are aggressive, we recommend equities and various alternatives assets. Through the appropriate mix of portfolio assets among equities, bonds and cash, we look to increase capital in real terms during favorable market conditions and to preserve principal in down markets. The generally accepted way BG measures risk is by looking at volatility levels. That is, the more sharply a stock or portfolio moves within a period of time, the riskier that asset is. A statistical concept called standard deviation (Standard deviation is also known as historical volatility and is used by investors as a gauge for the amount of expected volatility.) is used to measure volatility.

Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTERET IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Code of Ethics. BG has adopted a Code of Ethics to ensure that securities transactions by BG's employees are consistent with the BG's fiduciary duty to its clients and to ensure compliance with legal requirements and the BG's standards of business conduct. The Code requires that employees obtain prior approval for personal securities transactions and requires transaction confirmation and quarterly reporting of such transactions. A written copy of the BG's Code of Ethics is available upon request.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions. BG engages in an order rotation in order to more fairly allocate buy and sell orders among the Broker/Custodians through which it executes client orders. The exception to this rule is for related persons or accounts whose orders must always be placed last in the rotation, behind client orders. BG and its advisors will seek to ensure that they do not personally benefit from the short term market effects of its investment recommendations. To prevent conflicts of interest, all employees of M&R must comply with BG's Written Supervisory Procedures which imposes restrictions on the purchase or sale of securities for their own accounts and the accounts of certain affiliated persons. The Written Supervisory Procedures require prior clearance and monthly reporting of all personal securities transactions, except transactions in investment company securities and or other exempt transactions. Further, such Written Supervisory Procedures impose certain policies and procedures concerning the misuse of material non-public information that are designed to prevent insider trading by any officer, partner, or associated person of BG.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

INVESTMENT OR BROKERAGE DISCRETION

- A. Barthelemy Group, LLC ("BG") is committed to helping you reach your goals and objectives. One important way we do this is by providing a high degree of safety for your assets. Prior to entering a custodial relationship BG considered numerous fundamental traits that a custodian should possess. There are three fundamental traits BG considered to be vital in choosing a custodian: 1) A great customer service- their customer service should come on two fronts, service to our clients and service to BG. When it comes to our clients, the custodian should be easily accessible and be able to handle our clients' inquiries. Clients are encouraged to call BG with any inquiry, but clients can get confused and call the custodian; 2) Custodian's trading platform- their platform has access to the investments that BG wants to use in a client's portfolio. While it may seem like a fundamental part of a custodian's existence, there are several custodians that do not carry certain mutual funds families or exchange traded funds; 3) Custodian's technology to support BG's productivity- their technology platform should offer various services to an investment advisor such as BG such as data backup, performance reporting, compliance monitoring, bulk trading, account rebalancing, CRM and much more. Whichever technology BG chooses it should be easy to use and implement, and training available for BG staff. After interviewing several potential custodians, we selected Fidelity Investments (Fidelity), one of the world's largest providers of financial services. Fidelity has more than 60 years of financial management experience and a reputation for integrity. Fidelity's financial stability, its compliance with industry regulations and its insurance protection all serve to help safeguard your investments. Fidelity custodies more than $2.6 trillion assets, including $1.2 trillion in managed assets as of December 31, 2010. Fidelity is committed to protecting customer assets held in custody through our relationship with National Financial Services LLC. NFS is an industry-leading clearing firm that presently services more than 5.5 million customer accounts and custodies more than $600 billion in client assets as of December 31, 2010. NFS is subject to the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and other regulatory organizations. Compliance with the various industry rules is monitored regularly, and is enforced by the regulatory organizations through periodic examinations and other means. You should be aware that your brokerage account, which is maintained with Fidelity, is afforded protection by the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). The SIPC provides protection for your assets up to $500,000 (including cash claims up to $100,000). NFS provides additional insurance through Lloyd's of London for total customer account net equity (cash and securities) beyond the SIPC coverage. Our selection of Fidelity as our custodian brings you the strength, stability, and protection you need to help you meet your goals and objectives with our Guidance. Barthelemy Group, LLC ("BG") has an arrangement with National Financial Services LLC, and Fidelity Brokerage Services LLC (together with all affiliates, "Fidelity") through which Fidelity provides BG with Fidelity's "platform" services. The platform services include, among others, brokerage, custodial, administrative support, record keeping and related services that are intended to support intermediaries like BG in conducting business and in serving the best interests of their clients but that may benefit BG. Fidelity charges brokerage transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions (i.e.,) transactions fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds, transactions fees are charged for individual equity and debt securities transactions. Fidelity's transaction rates are generally considered discounted from customary retail rates; however, the transaction fees charged by Fidelity may be higher or lower than those charged by other custodians and broker-dealers. There are no soft dollar benefits arrangement between BG and Fidelity.

1. As part of the arrangement, Fidelity also makes available to BG as part of the core services, at no additional charge to BG;

- a. certain research and brokerage services, including research services obtained by Fidelity directly from independent research companies, as selected by BG (within specified parameters). These research and brokerage services presently include services such as stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchanges traded funds researches and are used by BG to manage clients' accounts.
- b. BG may also receive additional services which may include comprehensive portfolio review tools, CRM at a discounted price. Without this arrangement, BG might be compelled to purchase the same or similar services at current market rate. As a result of receiving such discounted services, BG may have an incentive to continue to use or the use of Fidelity's services.

INVESTMENT OR BROKERAGE DISCRETION

- 2. BG examined this potential conflict of interest when it chose to enter into the relationship with Fidelity and has determined that the relationship is in the best interests of BG's clients and satisfies its client obligations, including its duty to seek best execution. A client may pay a transaction cost that is higher than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction where BG determines in good faith that the transaction cost is reasonable
- 3. Directed Brokerage
 - a. BG recommends Fidelity, BG's custodian, for all transactions except insurance transaction. All the investment research products and services that may be obtained by BG will generally be used to service all of BG's clients. BG and Fidelity are not affiliates, and no broker-dealer affiliated with BG is involved in the relationship between BG and Fidelity.
 - b. Clients of BG are not permitted to Direct Brokerage.
- B. BG does not aggregate the purchase or sale of securities for various client accounts at this time. Aggregating orders for a large number of small investor lower the commission cost of trading; however, BG does not charge commission on client's trades. Aggregating orders lower cost two ways: 1) by matching buy and sell orders within the firm's order book the overall quantity of stock to be trade can be reduced thus reducing commissions; 2) the broker can split the bid-ask spread with the investor when matching buy and sell order, a win-win situation in most cases. BG does not pooled clients' money before stocks are bought or sold, and again BG does not charge commission for trades on client's account only the trading fee reference above charge by our custodian, Fidelity.
