Advisory Business

General Information

Coriolis Management LLC ("CM") offers investment management services for Coriolis Master Fund, Ltd. and its sub-funds, Coriolis Domestic Fund, LP and Coriolis Offshore Fund, Ltd., using a master feeder structure, and Coriolis US Fund, LP (collectively the "Funds"). CM applies a statistics driven quantitative investment approach to optimize risk managed absolute returns to investors. The investment objectives and strategies of the Funds, as well as other relevant information, are contained in the Fund's offering materials. CM does not hold itself out to the general public as an investment advisor, financial planner, or provide any other investment advisory services.

Principal Owners

The ownership structure of CM is as follows:

- 40% Coriolis Holdings, LLC (an entity owned and controlled by Vineet Kalucha, CM's Chief Investment Officer)
- 20% Coriolis Holdings II, LLC (a non-voting interest majority owned and controlled by Vineet Kalucha)
- 40% DoHoMa LLC (an entity majority owned and controlled by Tim Meyers, CM's Managing Partner)

Please see CM's Brochure Supplements for more information on Vineet Kalucha and Tim Meyers.

Type and Value of Assets Currently Under Management

All investments managed by CM are on a discretionary basis. As of June 30, 2011, CM had approximately $13,100,000 of assets under management among its Funds.

Fees and Compensation

Management Fee

Each investor in the Funds will be charged (i) a quarterly management fee in advance equal to 0.5% of the investor's assets under management in the Funds. The investor can withdraw as of the last day of any month with no less than 30 days notice and, in doing so, would forego any prepaid management fees. Fees are directly deducted from the investors' capital account balances of the Funds, on a quarterly basis as calculated by CM's third party administrator, SS&C Technologies, Inc. ("SS&C").

CM may, at its discretion, waive or reduce management fees charged to investors in the Funds, including principals and employees of CM and their affiliates or related parties.

Early Redemption Fees

If an investor withdraws all or a portion of its capital account within 12 months of initial investment, the investor is subject to an early withdrawal fee equal to 1 % of the amount withdrawn. Withdrawal fees will be added to the capital of the Fund and will not benefit CM or its affiliates and will not benefit any other person except to the extent of such person's interest in the capital of the Fund. CM may, at its discretion, waive or reduce an early withdrawal fee charged to investors in the Funds.

Other Fees

The Funds incur various other fees including performance-based fees (as described in the next section), broker transaction costs and custodial fees. In addition, CM is reimbursed for certain fund expenses after approval from SS&C. Fund expenses and fees charged to each investor in the Funds are disclosed in the Fund's offering materials. Additional information related to brokerage fees is set forth below under "Brokerage Practices."

Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

Each investor in the Funds will be charged a quarterly performance-based incentive allocation equal to 20% of the investor's net profits subject to a "high water mark" (taking into account both realized and unrealized gains and losses of the Fund's investments and after deduction of all fund expenses). Incentive allocations are also assessed mid-quarter, if an investor withdraws all or a portion of its capital account balance.

CM and its affiliates may, at their discretion, waive or reduce incentive allocations charged to investors in the Funds, including principals and employees of CM and their affiliates or related parties. More information regarding incentive allocations can be found in the Fund's offering materials.

Types of Clients

CM provides investment advice to the Funds, which are its sole clients. The underlying investors of the Funds are accredited and qualified individuals, trusts, charitable organizations, corporations, partnerships, and others meeting the suitability requirements of each Fund.

The minimum investment for the Coriolis Domestic Fund, LP and the Coriolis Offshore Fund, Ltd. is generally $1,000,000. However, CM has the authority to accept subscriptions for a lesser amount. U.S. investors must meet certain income, net worth, and other suitability requirements, including qualifying as both (i) "accredited investors" as defined under Regulation D of the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, and (ii) "qualified purchasers," as defined in Section 2(a)(51)(A) of the U.S. Investment Company Act of 1940.

The minimum investment for the Coriolis US Fund, LP is generally $500,000. However, CM has the authority to accept subscriptions for a lesser amount. U.S. investors must meet certain income, net worth, and other suitability requirements, including qualifying as both (i) "accredited investors" as defined under Regulation D of the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, and (ii) "qualified clients" as defined under Rule 205-3 of the U.S. Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

CM employs an unbiased long/short strategy with leverage limited to 25% of the respective Fund's capital balance. CM invests in US equities and US-listed exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"). CM utilizes statistical distribution and probability metrics to identify securities with higher probability of outperforming broad market indices. Investment decisions are metric driven based on selection, entry and exit prices, which helps eliminate prejudice and bias from the decision process.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities and in the Funds involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Investments in the Funds are only suitable for sophisticated investors who meet the suitability standards of the applicable Fund. An investment in a Fund should not constitute a complete investment program of an investor. An investor should fully understand, be willing to assume, and have the financial resources necessary to withstand the risks involved in the Funds' specialized investment program including the potential loss of their entire investment.

Below is a description of several of the principal risks that the Funds may face based on the asset classes in which they investment and/or the nature of the investment strategy:

Liquidity of Investments: The Funds only invest in securities that are highly liquid. However, subsequent events may cause such Securities to become subject to legal or other restrictions on transfer, or to become untradeable on any established market. The market prices, if any, for such securities tend to be volatile and the Fund may not be able to sell them when it desires to do so or to realize what it perceives to be their fair value in the event of a sale. The sale of restricted and illiquid securities often requires more time and results in higher brokerage charges or dealer discounts and other selling expenses than does the sale of securities eligible for trading on national securities exchanges or in the over-the-counter markets. Restricted securities may sell at a price lower than similar securities that are not subject to restrictions on resale.

Leverage and Financing Risk: The Funds have the power to borrow and may do so when deemed appropriate by the Investment Manager. The Funds must limit leverage to no more than 25% of its total capital. The use of leverage may enable the Funds to cover any daily changes in values in the portfolio prior to rebalancing, enable the Fund to achieve a higher rate of return, and to meet withdrawals that would otherwise result in premature liquidation of investments. The Funds may pledge their securities in order to borrow additional funds for these and other purposes.

While leverage presents opportunities for increasing the Funds' total return, it has the effect of potentially increasing losses as well. Accordingly, any event that adversely affects the value of an investment by the Funds would be magnified to the extent the Fund is leveraged. The cumulative effect of the use of leverage by the Funds in a market that moves adversely to the Fund's investments could result in a substantial loss to the Funds that would be greater than if the Funds were not leveraged.

Highly Volatile Markets: The prices of financial instruments in which the Funds' assets may be invested can be highly volatile and may be influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary, and exchange control programs and policies of governments, and national and international political and economic events and policies. The Funds are also subject to the risk of the failure of any of the exchanges on which the Funds' positions trade or of their clearinghouse.

Hedging Transactions: The Funds may utilize various financial instruments for risk management purposes in order to: (i) protect against possible changes in the market value of the Funds' investment portfolio resulting from fluctuations in foreign exchange markets, securities markets and/or changes in interest rates; (ii) protect the Funds' unrealized gains in the value of the Funds' investment portfolio; (iii) facilitate the sale of any such investments; (iv) enhance or preserve returns, spreads or gains on any investment in the Funds' portfolio; (v) hedge the interest rate or currency exchange rate on any of the Funds' liabilities or assets; (vi) protect against any increase in the price of any securities the Funds anticipate purchasing at a later date; or (vii) for any other reason that the CM deems appropriate. While the Funds may enter into hedging transactions to seek to reduce risk, such transactions may result in a poorer overall performance for the Funds than if it had not engaged in any such transactions.

Short Selling: The Funds' investment programs include short selling. Short selling involves selling securities that may or may not be owned and borrowing the same securities for delivery to the purchaser, with an obligation to replace the borrowed securities at a later date. Short selling allows the investor to profit from declines in market prices to the extent such decline exceeds the transaction costs and the costs of borrowing the securities. The extent to which the Funds engage in short sales will depend upon its investment strategy and perception of market direction. A short sale creates the risk of a theoretically unlimited loss, in that the price of the underlying security could theoretically increase without limit, thus increasing the cost to the Funds of buying those securities to cover the short position.

There can be no assurance that the securities necessary to cover a short position will be available for purchase. Purchasing securities to close out the short position can itself cause the price of the securities to rise further, thereby exacerbating the loss.

Credit Risk of Prime Broker: The Funds will assume the credit risk associated with placing its funds and securities with its Prime Broker, and the failure or bankruptcy of the Prime Broker could have a material adverse impact on the Funds.

Certain Consequences for Tax-Exempt Investors: Certain entities, including trusts formed as part of Keogh or other pension or profit-sharing plans that are qualified under Section 401(a) of the Code ("Benefit Plans") and Individual Retirement Accounts ("IRAs") as well as certain charitable and other organizations described in Section 501(c) of the Code are generally exempt from tax. However, these Entities are subject to tax on their unrelated business taxable income ("UBTI"), which includes certain income generated from investments which use leverage. Underlying investors should consult their tax advisors regarding these matters.

See "Risk Factors" in the Offering Materials for further information regarding risks related to the Funds.

Disciplinary Information

CM has no disciplinary events to disclose as it relates to criminal or civil actions of the firm or a management person that involves investment-related business.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

CM and its related entity, Coriolis Partners, LLC, are the investment adviser and the general partner, respectively, of the Funds in which investors are solicited to invest.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics and Personal Trading

CM has adopted a Code of Ethics (“Code”), the full text of which is available to any current or prospective investor upon request. The Code is designed to assist CM in complying with the applicable laws and regulations governing its investment advisory business. Under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the “Advisers Act”), CM owes fiduciary duties to its clients and underlying investors of the Funds. Pursuant to these fiduciary duties, the Code requires CM’s associated persons to act with honesty, good faith and fair dealing in working with clients and investors. In addition, the Code prohibits persons from trading or otherwise acting on insider information.

The Code also sets forth policies and procedures to monitor and review the personal trading activities of associated persons. From time to time, CM’s employees may invest in the same securities of the Funds. Under its Code, CM has adopted procedures designed to reduce or eliminate conflicts of interest that this could potentially cause. The Code’s personal trading policies include procedures for limitations on personal securities transactions, reporting and review of such trading and pre-clearance of certain types of personal trading securities. The Code also provides for disciplinary action for violations.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Members of the management team and the general partner may invest in the Funds. Any member of the management team that elects to invest outside of the fund in securities that are covered by the Funds will be subject to the Code of Ethics and personal trading policies.

Brokerage Practices

Best Execution

CM seeks “best execution” for the investments of the Funds it manages. In providing best execution, CM takes into consideration a range of different factors which include, not just price, but other factors such as the cost of the transaction, the need for timely execution, the liquidity of the relevant market, the size of the order and the nature of the financial transaction including whether it is executed on a regulated market or over-the-counter.

CM has established a Prime Brokerage relationship with Goldman Sachs Execution & Clearing, L.P. (“Goldman Sachs”) for the execution of our stock trading. BTIG LLC (“BTIG”) acts as the introducing broker and is CM’s primary contact for trade reporting and trade-related questions. The Prime Broker has responsibility to ensure compliance with the best execution requirements.

All assets of the Funds are aggregated and traded using the Goldman Sachs platform. The allocation among the funds is determined based on the net asset values of the respective funds as calculated by SS&C, the administrator to the Funds. The distribution of trading activity among the respective limited partners is determined on a monthly basis by SS&C. Therefore, no preference in execution is given to any particular Fund or investor account.

Brokerage Selection

Subject, in certain instances, to restrictions contained in its investment management agreement, CM has full discretionary authority to determine the securities to be purchased or sold by the Funds, and to select the broker or dealer to be used and the commissions to be paid.

For the brokers that CM selects, CM does not have an obligation to solicit competitive bids or seek the lowest available commission cost. CM does not adhere to any rigid formulas in selecting brokers, but instead seeks to obtain best overall terms available based on a variety of factors, including: the ability to achieve prompt and reliable executions at favorable prices; the operational efficiency with which transactions are affected; the competitiveness of the commission rates; other terms available from the broker; and the financial strength, integrity and stability of the broker. Recognizing the value of these factors, CM may pay a brokerage commission in excess of that which another broker might have charged for affecting the same transaction or series of transactions.

CM regularly evaluates the brokerage firm and the reasonableness of commissions paid.

Soft Dollar Transactions

CM manages a systematic, statistical, and probability-based model. As a result, research materials which may be considered “soft dollar” benefits are not a factor in making investment decisions on behalf of the Funds we manage. Although CM does not currently receive any customized, research-based tools, our current broker makes general research materials available to us, as provided to all its clients. In addition, CM subscribes to independent periodicals and other reports available to the general public. For purposes of trade execution, our broker provides us with an electronic trading platform.

Review of Accounts

The two principals of CM, the Chief Technology Officer, the VP of Operations and the Chief Financial Officer/Chief Compliance Officer provide continuous and ongoing review of the investments made by CM for the Funds to ensure compliance with the investment objectives.

Investors in the Funds advised by CM receive reports on a monthly basis. Such reports include performance information about the Funds as well as information about the investors' individual investment in the Funds, which is prepared by an independent administrator. Investors in the Funds also receive the Fund's annual audited financial statements.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

The manager engaged TradeStation Prime Services as a third-party marketing agent in 2010. In January 2011, the agreement was assigned to Silver Leaf Partners, LLC, and was subsequently terminated. Silver Leaf will receive up to 7 ½% of the fees received by the manager on the funds raised through them from their registered clients that close on or before August 1, 2011.

In March 2011, the firm engaged Direct Access Partners, LLC as a third-party marketing agent. They will receive quarterly for the first year, 0.125% of the funds raised by them. In addition, they will receive 10% of the incentive allocation paid from the clients they procured for the first 5 years with a maximum payment of 7% of the funds raised.

In May 2011, the firm engaged Emerging Manager Advisors, LLC as a third-party marketing agent. They will receive quarterly for the first year, 0.125% of the funds raised by them. In addition, they will receive 10% of the incentive allocation paid from the clients they procured for the first 5 years with a maximum payment of 7% of the funds raised.

All advisory fees paid to third-party marketing agents are deducted from the management fees and/or incentive allocations received by CM or Coriolis Partners, LLC, respectively. Payment of such advisory fees does not impact an investor's capital account balance or returns.

Custody

CM and its affiliates are permitted to receive its fees directly from an investor's account, as calculated by the independent administrator, and is therefore deemed to have limited custody of its Funds. CM maintains all Fund assets with qualified custodians. CM's independent administrator provides a monthly investor statement to each investor. Investors should carefully review the statements received. Along with the investor statement, the administrator distributes a monthly performance report prepared by CM, which summarizes performance of the Coriolis strategy.

Investment Discretion

As stated above, subject, in certain instances, to restrictions contained in its investment management agreement, CM has full discretionary authority to determine the securities to be purchased or sold by the Funds.

Voting Client Securities

As a policy, CM, generally does not vote proxies related to securities held in the Funds. However, if facts and circumstances arise which warrant the voting of proxies, CM will vote in the best interest of the Funds.

Financial Information

CM does not require nor solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance.
