Item 2 – Material Changes

On July 28, 2010, the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) published “Amendments to Form ADV,” which amends the disclosure document that we provide to clients as required by the SEC Rules. This Brochure is a new document prepared according to the SEC’s new requirements and rules. As such, this document is materially different in structure and requires certain new information that our previous brochure did not require.

In the future, this item will discuss only specific material changes that are made to the Brochure and provide clients with a summary of these changes. We will also reference the date of our last annual update of this Brochure.

In the past we have offered or delivered information about our qualifications and business practices to clients on at least an annual basis. #### Item 4 – Advisory Business

Lincoln Douglas Investments, LLC (“LDI”), an investment advisor registered with the State of Ohio Department of Commerce, Division of Securities, provides investment supervisory services on a discretionary or non-discretionary basis as agreed to with the client. LDI is a newly registered investment advisor in 2011.

LDI’s registered investment advisor representatives provide investment supervisory services on an ongoing basis. LDI’s investment advisor representatives will assist the client with determining their investment objectives by assessing the client’s risk tolerance based upon their age, income, education, need for cash flows, investment goals, and tolerance for volatility. The information provided by the client will be collected during client meetings, interviews, and/or questionnaires. Strategies are developed and implemented through a combination of investments managed by us or by unaffiliated third-party money managers. Capital market conditions and client circumstances are monitored and portfolio adjustments are made as appropriate to reflect significant changes in any or all of the above variables.

In the event third-party money managers are utilized, LDI will select one or more registered investment advisors with varying styles and in turn recommend to clients a particular investment advisor based on the client’s individual needs and objectives. In addition, LDI reserves the authority to hire or terminate money managers. LDI will monitor the performance of the third-party money managers it uses on behalf of its clients.

If the client grants LDI investment discretion, LDI is authorized to invest, sell, and reinvest proceeds in the client’s account without obtaining the client’s prior confirmation of any proposed action. If LDI is granted non-discretionary authority, then LDI is authorized to invest, sell, and reinvest proceeds in the Client’s account only upon obtaining from the client prior confirmation of any proposed action. LDI’s investment advisory representatives will manage each account in accordance with the investment mandates of the client and subject to guidelines and/or restrictions (if any) that have been provided by the client.

Third-party investment managers recommended to clients will have full investment discretion and trading authority, and shall have sole responsibility for the implementation of the investment program with respect to the client’s account for which investment discretion has been delegated by the client and accepted by the money managers. We will not place orders for transactions in the client’s account or otherwise exercise trading authority over the account at any time when the account is being managed by a third-party investment manager.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Compensation for investment advisory services provided by LDI is derived as fee income, based on a percentage of the assets under management. The compensation method is explained and agreed with clients in advance before any services are rendered.

The compensation for our services, which include developing and implementing an investment policy and objectives, formulating a quantitatively driven asset-allocation analysis and recommendation, and monitoring a client's investment results, are as follows:

Assets Under Management	Fee
$0 to $250,000	3.00%
$250,001 to $500,000	2.50%
$500,001 to $1 Million	2.25%
Over $1 Million	2.00%

The amount of the fee can be negotiated on a case-by-case basis with the client, and is determined based upon a number of factors including the amount of work involved, the assets placed under management and the attention needed to manage the account. Fees will be billed in advance at the beginning of each calendar quarter. The amount of the fees is calculated on the value of the client's account on the last day of the preceding calendar quarter.

Advisory fees charged by LDI are separate and distinct from fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, which may be recommended to clients. A description of these fees and expenses are available in each fund's prospectus. Additionally, LDI advisor programs have a $15 charge per transaction. LDI does receive a portion of this fee above the cost from the clearing firm. Any contributions and/or withdrawals made during a calendar quarter may cause an adjustment to the advisory fee. Fees will generally be deducted directly from the client's brokerage account pursuant to a written agreement. Investment advisory services begin with the effective date of the agreement, which is the date the client signs the Investment Advisory Agreement. For that calendar quarter, fees will be adjusted pro rata based upon the number of calendar days in the calendar quarter that the agreement was in effect.

Either LDI or the client may terminate the agreement at any time. Notice of termination must be given to the other party in writing. Upon termination, the fees charged for advisory services will be pro-rated and a refund for any unearned fees will be issued. The client is responsible to pay for services rendered until the termination of the agreement. The client can cancel the agreement without penalty within the first five days after signing the agreement.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

LDI Advisors do not charge performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client).

Item 7 – Types of Clients

LDI provides investment advice to individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, and corporations or business entities. There are no minimum requirements for opening accounts, but minimum fees may apply and will be disclosed in the written management agreement depending on the program selected.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

The main methods of analysis include charting, fundamental, technical and cyclical approaches. The sources of information include the financial press, inspections of corporate activities, research materials provided by custodians or other third parties, corporate ratings services, company press releases and annual reports, prospectuses, and filings with the SEC.

Investment Strategies

LDI's Investment Advisor Representatives utilize a variety of investment strategies and products depending on the account objectives. The strategies may include long-term purchases, short term purchases, trading (securities bought and sold within 30 days), short sales, margin transactions, or option strategies.

If a subadvisor provides services under a program, the subadvisor will determine investments and strategies to be used in the account, which will be explained in the Investment Advisory Agreement and disclosure documents provided.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients are prepared to bear. Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investing in securities (stocks, mutual funds, bonds, and options) involves risk of loss. Depending on the type of investments there may be varying degrees of risk and clients should be prepared to bear investment loss including loss of original principal.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered Investment Advisors are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of LDI. LDI has no information applicable to this item.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

LDI is a broker-dealer, Registered Investment Advisor and a registered Insurance Agent with the State of Ohio. Certain LDI representatives offer accounting services through independent accounting agencies that have been established by the representative and are independent of LDI and you are under no obligation to use any such services.

The Investment Advisor Representatives (IAR) of LDI may act as a representative of the broker dealer and offer and sell securities and receive normal commissions as a result of the securities transactions. The client may request that the IAR, in a separate capacity, as a registered representative, render securities brokerage services under a commission arrangement. In those circumstances, the client may be required to enter into a new account agreement with LDI.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

LDI has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons of the firm describing its high standards of business conduct and fiduciary duties to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, a prohibition of rumor mongering, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All supervised persons at LDI must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended.

LDI anticipates that, in appropriate circumstances, consistent with its clients' investment objectives, it will cause accounts over which LDI has management authority, to effect and will recommend to investment advisory clients or prospective clients the purchase or sale of securities in which LDI, its affiliates and/or clients, directly or indirectly, have a position of interest. LDI's employees and persons associated with LDI are required to follow LDI's Code of Ethics. Subject to satisfying this policy and applicable laws, officers, directors and employees of LDI and its affiliates may trade for their own accounts in securities that are recommended to and/or purchased for LDI's clients. The Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of the employees of LDI will not interfere with: (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Under the Code of Ethics certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not materially interfere with the best interest of LDI's clients. In addition, the Code of Ethics requires pre-clearance of many transactions, and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because the Code of Ethics in some circumstances would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code of Ethics in order to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between LDI and its clients.

Certain affiliated accounts may trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with LDI's obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the affiliated and client accounts will share commission costs equally and receive securities at a total average price. LDI will retain records of the trade order (specifying each participating account) and its allocation, which will be completed prior to the entry of the aggregated order. Completed orders will be allocated as specified in the initial trade order. Partially filled orders will be allocated on a pro rata basis. Any exceptions will be explained on the order.

LDI's clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting Brian Mohny at (740) 397-1397 or bmohny@lincolndouglas.net.

It is LDI's policy that the firm will not effect any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts. LDI also will not cross trade between client accounts. Principal transactions are generally defined as transactions where an advisor, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction may also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated hedge fund and another client account. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment advisor in relation to a transaction in which the investment advisor, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment advisor, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions may arise where an advisor is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

When a client agrees to discretionary management by LDI, LDI will be responsible for selecting the amount of securities to be bought and sold and/or the selection of other investment managers. The only limitations on the investment authority will be those limitations imposed in writing by the client. In addition, the client is required to utilize LDI as the broker. If we retain an investment manager for the client we reserve discretion to hire and fire money managers on our clients' behalf. The only limitation on the investment authority will be those limitations imposed in writing by the client. For the investment managers that we select to manage client assets, clients should review their disclosure document(s) for more information about those managers' policies with respect to investment or brokerage discretion.

Accounts we manage on a discretionary basis may receive more favorable executions when purchasing or selling securities than accounts managed on a non-discretionary basis due to the fact that LDI must receive client authorization before placing a trade order.

Because LDI engages in an investment advisory business and manages more than one account, there may be conflicts of interest over LDI's time devoted to managing any one account and the allocation of investment opportunities to all accounts managed by LDI. LDI will attempt to resolve all such conflicts in a manner that is generally fair to all of its clients. LDI may give advice and take action with respect to any of its clients that may differ from advice given or the timing or nature of action taken with respect to any particular client so long as it is LDI's policy, to the extent practical, to allocate investment opportunities over a period of time on a fair and equitable basis relative to other clients.

LDI is not obligated to acquire for any account any security that any of its advisors or its officers, partners, members or employees may acquire for its or their own accounts or for the account of any other client, if in the absolute discretion of LDI it is not practical or desirable to acquire a position in such security.

When possible, orders for the same security are combined or "batched" to facilitate best execution concerns. LDI effects batched transactions in a manner designed to ensure that no participating client, including any proprietary account, is favored over any other client. Specifically, each client that participates in a batched transaction will participate at the average share price for all of LDI's transactions in that security on that business day, with respect to that batched order. Securities purchased or sold in a batched transaction are allocated pro-rata, when possible, to the participating client accounts in proportion to the size of the order placed for each account. LDI may, however, increase or decrease the amount of securities allocated to each account if necessary to avoid holding odd-lot or small numbers of shares for particular clients. Additionally, if LDI is unable to fully execute a batched transaction and LDI determines that it would be impractical to allocate a small number of securities among the accounts participating in the transaction on a pro-rata basis, LDI may allocate such securities in a manner determined in good faith to be a fair allocation.

Clients participating in LDI's program are required to use LDI as the broker. All transactions will be cleared through National Financial. As such, LDI will be recommending National Financial as the custodian. Clients participating in any wrap programs provided by National Financial will have securities transactions placed through National Financial. Therefore, LDI will be recommending National Financial as the broker.

LDI has implemented procedures designed to handle trade errors when they occur. It is the policy of LDI to correct trade errors in a manner that is in the best interest of the client. In cases where the client causes the trade error, the client will be responsible for any loss resulting from the correction. Depending on the specific circumstances of the trade error, the client may not be able to receive any gains generated as a result of the error correction. In all situations where the client does not cause the trade error, the client will be made whole and any loss resulting from the trade error will be absorbed by LDI if the error was caused by the firm.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

All advisory accounts are reviewed at least quarterly by the Investment Advisor Representative assigned to the account. The reviews include a listing of the managed investments in the account and the investment performance of the account during the previous quarter. Transaction blotters are reviewed on a daily basis to identify possible trading problems by a qualified principal of LDI.

Clients are provided with monthly or quarterly statements from the custodian (if no monthly activity exists, a quarterly statement will be sent). The statements include a listing of all investments in the client account, their current valuation, and a listing of all transactions occurring during the month or quarter.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

LDI does not currently have any referral arrangements in place.

LDI does receive an economic benefit from the transaction charge (in certain programs, which will be disclosed in the Advisory Agreement if applicable). The Investment

Advisory Representative may receive Rule 12b-1 distribution fees with respect to mutual funds or money market funds held in the account. LDI may receive Rule 12b-1 fees, shareholder servicing, or administrative fees with respect to cash awaiting investment or reinvestment or money market funds held in the account. LDI may have an incentive to purchase mutual funds or money market funds which pay 12b-1 fees. LDI also receives non-brokerage related fees such as margin interest, and money market fund and administrative fees along with reduced clearance and settlement fees from certain fund companies.

Item 15 – Custody

Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains the client's investment assets. National Financial is the custodian of assets for LDI's advisory programs.

LDI is deemed to have custody of client funds and securities because LDI is given written authority to have fees deducted directly from client accounts. When fees are deducted from an account, they will be reflected in the monthly/quarterly statement provided by the custodian.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

LDI usually receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, LDI observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which it advises. For registered investment companies, LDI's authority to trade securities may also be limited by certain federal securities and tax laws that require diversification of investments and favor the holding of investments once made.

Client investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to LDI in writing.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, LDI does not have any authority to and does not vote proxies on behalf of advisory clients. Clients retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for any and all securities maintained in client portfolios. LDI may provide advice to clients regarding the clients' voting of proxies.

Item 18 – Financial Information

This item is not applicable. LDI does not require a prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance. Therefore, we are not required to include a balance sheet for our most recent fiscal year. We are not subject to a financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to clients.
