Advisory Business

TowerBrook is an investment management firm founded in March 2005 and organized under the laws of the State of Delaware as a limited partnership. The Firm is based in New York and London. TowerBrook, together with its related investment manager entities, provides investment advisory services to a number of private investment partnerships (each individually, a “Partnership” and collectively, the “Partnerships”) that generally pursue control-oriented private equity and distressed debt investments in large and middle-market European and North American companies. As of December 31, 2011, TowerBrook managed approximately $4.5 billion on a discretionary basis on behalf of the Partnerships. TowerBrook’s general partner and principal owner is TowerBrook Capital Partners, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company that is controlled by and substantially owned by Neal Moszkowski and Ramez Sousou (the “Co-CEOs”).

Affiliates of TowerBrook serve as the general partners and direct investment managers to the Partnerships; however the investment management duties and responsibilities are performed by TowerBrook through investment advisory agreements. For a list of TowerBrook's affiliated entities that serve as general partners and direct investment managers to existing Partnerships, please refer to the table in the "Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations" section below.

TowerBrook and its affiliated investment managers provide investment advice to the Partnerships and not individually to the limited partners of the Partnerships. As investment adviser, TowerBrook and its affiliated investment managers are primarily responsible for identifying investment opportunities for the Partnerships, effecting all investment transactions, monitoring and evaluating the Partnerships' investments, and making recommendations regarding the purchase and/or sale of investments. The assets of each Partnership are managed in accordance with the terms of the governing documents applicable to such Partnership.

Fees and Compensation

Each Partnership is governed by a limited partnership agreement ("LPA") that sets forth in detail the fee structure relevant to each such Partnership. The terms of the LPAs are generally established during the fundraising period of the applicable Partnership.

Pursuant to a Partnership's LPA, an affiliate of TowerBrook is entitled to compensation for its services in the form of an annual management fee payable quarterly in advance by the Partnership. The management fees payable by the Partnerships vary, but are generally based on a percentage of a Partnership's capital commitments during the investment period, and thereafter based on a percentage of capital invested. As of the date of this brochure, the maximum asset based management fee payable by a Partnership is based on a rate of 2% per year.

TowerBrook affiliates, in their role as general partners of certain Partnerships, are eligible to receive a performance-based profit allocation, or carried interest, with respect to realized investments, which is generally determined as a percentage of profits derived from the disposition of investments (after taking into account expenses of the Partnership, including management fees, and following a preferred return to limited partners). If the performance-based carried interest results in an over distribution of the agreed upon amount of carried interest to the Partnership's general partner, the general partner is generally subject to an after-tax "claw back" arrangement. As of the date of this brochure, the maximum carried interest allocable to a general partner of a Partnership is 20% of the profits derived from the disposition of investments (after taking into account expenses of the Partnership, including management fees, and following a preferred return to limited partners of up to 8% per annum).

TowerBrook may also receive transaction fees, monitoring fees, and director fees from a Partnership's portfolio companies, and break-up fees associated with investment opportunities that are not consummated (collectively, "Other Fees"). A percentage of the Other Fees (net of expenses) is applied to reduce the management fees, if any, payable by the applicable Partnership. Detailed information regarding the types and amounts of Other Fees that may offset the management fees otherwise payable by a Partnership is provided in the offering documents and/or organizational documents (including LPAs) of such Partnership.

In addition to management fees and performance-based carried interest as described above, the Partnerships pay or reimburse TowerBrook or its affiliated parties for certain fees and expenses. Those fees and expenses will vary, but typically will include fees associated with making or selling portfolio investments, legal and accounting fees, taxes, organizational expenses, administration expenses, commissions and brokerage fees, custodial fees, registration expenses, fees to government regulatory agencies, the cost of directors' and officers' liability insurance, litigation or broken deal expenses, and any other expenses permitted by a Partnership's organizational and offering documents. This list is not intended to be exhaustive; prospective and existing limited partners are advised to review the applicable Partnership offering materials and organizational documents for a more extensive description of the fees and expenses associated with an investment in the Partnerships.

Certain limited partners that are generally related persons, employees and former employees of TowerBrook and affiliates of TowerBrook, but may also include co-investors and unrelated persons, may not pay management fees and/or be subject to performance based carried interest in connection with their investment in the Partnerships. In addition, certain special purpose Partnerships that invest alongside other Partnerships in all or certain investments may not pay management fees and/or be subject to performance based carried interest in connection with their investment in such special purpose Partnerships.

The general partner of a Partnership, in its sole discretion, may call capital for management fees and other expenses or pay such fees and expenses out of current income and disposition proceeds of the Partnership.

Neither TowerBrook nor any of its supervised persons accepts compensation (e.g., brokerage commissions) for the sale of securities or other investment products.

Performance Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

As described in the Fees and Compensation section above, the general partners of certain Partnerships are entitled to performance-based carried interest. Performance-based carried interest may create an incentive for TowerBrook to make investments on behalf of the Partnerships that are riskier or more speculative than would be the case in the absence of such carried interest. TowerBrook seeks to address these conflicts through careful vetting of investment opportunities by its investment professionals and disclosure of investments to limited partners by way of capital calls distributed to the limited partners in advance of each investment and quarterly reports to the limited partners. Additionally, investment vehicles owned by TowerBrook's investment professionals invest in certain Partnerships in an effort to align TowerBrook's and such Partnerships' interests. Furthermore, the constituent documents of the Partnerships that provide for performance-based carried interest have after-tax "claw back" arrangements as described in the Fees and Compensation section above.

Although TowerBrook and its affiliates accept performance-based carried interest from some Partnerships, but not others, TowerBrook does not believe it faces conflicts of interest in this regard because the Partnerships that are not subject to performance-based carried interest are special purpose vehicles that do not make investments other than investments alongside other Partnerships that are subject to performance-based carried interest.

Types of Clients

TowerBrook and its affiliated investment managers provide advisory services to privately offered funds that generally pursue control-oriented private equity and distressed debt investments in large and middle-market European and North American companies. Limited partners in the Partnerships may include, but are not limited to, high net worth individuals, pension plans, sovereign wealth funds, endowments, foundations, banks, pooled investment vehicles (e.g., funds-of-funds), trusts, estates or charitable organizations, and corporate or business entities. Investment advice is provided directly to the Partnerships and not individually to the limited partners.

Details concerning applicable limited partner suitability criteria are set forth in the respective Partnership's offering documents and subscription materials. Although TowerBrook and/or its affiliates have the authority to accept commitments for lesser amounts, the minimum commitment in the Partnerships is generally $10 million. Each limited partner is required to meet certain suitability qualifications, such as being an "accredited investor" within the meaning set forth in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D under the Securities Act of 1993, as amended.

TowerBrook and its affiliates may enter into separate agreements, commonly referred to as "side letters", with certain limited partners with respect to the Partnerships which would have the effect of establishing rights under, altering, or supplementing the terms of the LPA of the applicable Partnership with respect to such limited partner, in a manner more favorable to such limited partner than those applicable to other limited partners in such Partnership. Such rights or terms pursuant to such agreements may include, without limitation, fee arrangements with respect to a limited partner, reporting obligations of TowerBrook, waiver of certain confidentiality obligations, consent of TowerBrook to certain transfers by a limited partner, or rights or terms necessary in light of particular legal or regulatory characteristics of a limited partner.

TowerBrook may offer limited partners, or other third parties, opportunities to co-invest in a portfolio transaction of particular Partnerships. Such co-investment opportunities will be offered in TowerBrook's sole discretion in a manner it deems appropriate. In allocating co-investment opportunities, TowerBrook considers factors such as the capital available for investment by the applicable Partnerships, the investment concentration with respect to the applicable Partnerships, the liquidity needs and obligations of the applicable Partnerships, an investor's expressed desire to participate in co-investments, the strategic value of a particular investor co-investing in the opportunity in question and similar items. Details regarding the allocation of co-investment opportunities is provided in each Partnership's LPA.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

TowerBrook generally pursues control-oriented private equity or distressed debt investments in large and middle-market companies in Europe and North America, in partnership with experienced management teams. TowerBrook strives to control its investment risk by staging its capital commitments. TowerBrook usually requires the initial investment to have sufficient critical mass to survive as a stand-alone entity, but often seeks to identify one or more add-on acquisitions at the time of the initial investment. Investments primarily take the form of leveraged buy-outs, leveraged build-ups and distressed situations.

TowerBrook pursues leveraged buyouts of fundamentally strong businesses in complex situations and collaborates with corporate sellers to identify divestiture candidates that are not appropriate for auction. The Firm attempts to identify fragmented industries with favorable economic fundamentals and long-term growth potential, where companies can be acquired at attractive valuations.

TowerBrook regards “distress” as a tactical opportunity to buy a viable business at an attractive valuation. TowerBrook targets fundamentally sound companies that are suffering from financial distress or a capital markets dislocation. These are generally difficult, highly complex and/or contrarian value investment opportunities. All potential targets should have sound business fundamentals, a compelling valuation and substantial upside opportunity.

TowerBrook’s investment strategy is based on two fundamental principles: (i) proprietary sourcing of investment opportunities; and (ii) a proactive, value-added approach to overseeing portfolio companies.

Proprietary Sourcing. TowerBrook seeks to avoid competitive auctions by sourcing investment opportunities on a proprietary basis through its network of long-standing relationships and through targeting special situations that attract few or no competitors because of the complex or contrarian nature of the investment opportunity. TowerBrook proactively pursues proprietary opportunities by formulating and researching investment theses and initiating dialogue about potential acquisitions with the management teams or owners of prospective target companies. TowerBrook consults with third-party investment and industry experts to assist the Firm in identifying noncompetitive investment opportunities and developing a proprietary advantage when there is competition for investment opportunities. TowerBrook will also use industry experts as part of its overall due diligence process to help evaluate the operational aspects of potential investments, existing portfolio companies, and the macro-economic environment to make informed investment decisions.

TowerBrook will develop a comprehensive understanding of an industry before committing to an opportunity. Although TowerBrook considers itself a generalist in terms of industry focus, it has built up substantial knowledge and expertise in the following industry sectors: Healthcare Products and Services, Retail, Luxury, Financial Services, Consumer Goods, Telecommunications, Media, Chemicals, and Selected Industrial Segments. TowerBrook seeks to leverage this experience by proactively looking for new opportunities in these sectors. In other sectors, TowerBrook will engage third-party industry experts to assist with industry and investment analysis.

When analyzing new opportunities, TowerBrook is rigorous in maintaining price discipline and looks wherever possible to structure downside protection into new investments, including use of vendor loan financing and earn-out structures. When suitable opportunities do not present themselves, TowerBrook refrains from putting money to work.

Overseeing Portfolio Companies. TowerBrook believes that the management teams of its portfolio companies are one of the most critical assets of an investment, and it will look wherever possible to strengthen the management team post-closing. TowerBrook collaborates with the management teams of portfolio companies to implement operational improvements.

Certain Associated Risks

All investing involves a risk of loss that investors should be prepared to bear. The descriptions contained below are a brief overview of different risks related to TowerBrook's investment strategy; however, it is not intended to serve as an exhaustive list or a comprehensive description of all risks and conflicts that may arise in connection with the management and operations of the Partnerships. Investors should consider an investment in a Partnership as involving a high degree of financial risk and should therefore carefully consider all risk factors set forth in a Partnership's offering documents and organizational documents. Each prospective investor should carefully review the applicable Partnership's offering documents and organizational documents before deciding to make an investment in a Partnership.

General Business and Management Risk. Investments in portfolio companies subject the Partnerships to the general risks associated with the underlying businesses, including market conditions, changes in regulatory requirements, reliance on management at the company level, interest rate and currency fluctuations, general economic downturns, domestic and foreign political situations and other factors. With respect to management at the portfolio company level, many portfolio companies rely on the services of a limited number of key individuals, the loss of any one of whom could significantly adversely affect the portfolio company's performance. While in all cases TowerBrook will monitor portfolio company management, management of each portfolio company will have day-to-day responsibility of such portfolio company.

Liquidity Issues. TowerBrook will invest in instruments where there is likely to be no actively traded market. Moreover, many of the Partnerships' investments may be held by relatively few other investors. Under adverse market or economic conditions or in the event of adverse changes in the financial condition of the issuer or of the asset, a Partnership may find it more difficult to sell such instruments when TowerBrook believes it advisable to do so or may be forced to sell them at prices lower than if the instruments were widely held. Thus, the range of disposal strategies available to the Partnership may be further limited. Finally, dispositions of investments may be subject to contractual and other limitations on transfer, or other restrictions that would interfere with subsequent sales of such investments or adversely affect the terms obtainable upon a disposition.

Highly Competitive Market for Investment Opportunities. The activity of identifying, completing and realizing attractive investments is highly competitive and involves a high degree of uncertainty. TowerBrook faces competition for investments from a variety of other investment vehicles, as well as individuals, financial institutions and other institutional investors. Additional funds with similar investment objectives may be formed in the future by other unrelated parties. There can be no assurance that TowerBrook will be able to locate and complete investments which satisfy the investment objectives of the Partnerships or that it will be able to invest fully the Partnerships' capital.

Valuation of Assets. Most of the securities owned by the Partnerships are not publicly traded and are required to be fairly valued by TowerBrook. When estimating fair value, TowerBrook will apply a methodology based on its best judgment that is appropriate in light of the nature, facts and circumstance of the investments. Valuations are subject to multiple levels of review for approval and ensuring that portfolio investments are fairly valued is an important focus of TowerBrook. Investors should review the Partnerships' LPAs, private placement memoranda and other governing documents to understand the risks and potential conflicts of interest that may arise in connection with valuation of assets.

No Assurance of Returns. There is no assurance that TowerBrook will be able to generate returns for limited partners, or that the Partnerships' investment objectives will be achieved, or that there will be any return of capital. Therefore, an investor should only invest in a Partnership if the investor can withstand a total loss of its investment. The past investment performance of the entities with which officers and employees of TowerBrook have been associated cannot be taken to guarantee future results of any investment in the Partnerships.

Nature of the Partnerships' Investments. A substantial portion of the Partnerships' investments will be in equity or equity-related investments that by their nature involve business, financial, market and legal risks. While such investments offer the opportunity for significant capital gains, they also involve a high degree of risk that may result in substantial losses. There can be no assurance that the Partnerships will correctly evaluate the nature and magnitude of the various factors that could affect the value of such investments. Prices of the investments may be volatile, and a variety of other factors that are inherently difficult to predict, such as domestic or international economic and political developments, may significantly affect the results of the Partnerships' activities.

Although TowerBrook intends to make primarily control-oriented investments, TowerBrook may make minority equity investments in companies in which it may have limited influence. Such a company may have economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with those of the Partnerships, and a Partnership may not be in a position to limit or otherwise protect the value of its investment in the company. The Partnerships' control over the investment policies of these companies may also be limited.

The Partnerships' investments may involve leveraged acquisitions, which by their nature require companies to undertake a high ratio of fixed charges to available income. Such investments are inherently more sensitive to declines in revenues and to increases in expenses. Utilization of leverage is a speculative investment technique and involves risks. The leverage provided will result in interest expense and other costs incurred in connection with such borrowings, which may not be covered by available cash flow. While leverage may enhance total returns, if investment results fail to cover borrowing costs, then returns will be lower than if there had been no borrowings.

The Partnerships may co-invest in a company with financial, strategic or other third-party investors. Such investments will involve additional risks not present in investments in which a third party is not involved, including the possibility that the co-investor may have interests or objectives that are inconsistent with those of the Partnerships or may be in a position to take (or block) action in a manner contrary to the Partnerships' investment objectives. In addition, the Partnerships may, in certain circumstances, be liable for actions of its third-party co-venturers or partners.

Middle-Market Companies. A component of TowerBrook's investment objectives is to invest in middle-market companies. While investments in middle-market companies may present greater opportunities for growth, such investments may also entail larger risks than are customarily associated with investments in large companies. Medium-sized companies may have more limited product lines, markets and financial resources, and may be dependent on a smaller management group. As a result, such companies may be more vulnerable to general economic trends and to specific changes in markets and technology. In addition, future growth may be dependent on additional financing, which may not be available on acceptable terms when required. Further, there is ordinarily a more limited marketplace for the sale of interests in smaller, private companies, which may make realizations of gains more difficult, by requiring sales to other private Investors. In addition, the relative illiquidity of private equity investments generally, and the somewhat greater illiquidity of private investments in small- and medium-sized companies, could make it difficult for TowerBrook to react quickly to negative economic or political developments.

Foreign Investments. Although TowerBrook intends to invest primarily in companies headquartered in North America and Europe, TowerBrook may from time to time invest in securities of companies headquartered elsewhere. Investing outside the United States may involve greater risks than investing in the United States. In particular, the value of a Partnership's investments in foreign securities may be significantly affected by changes in currency exchange rates, which may be volatile. Although TowerBrook may attempt to hedge against foreign currency exchange rate risks by utilizing spot and forward foreign exchange contracts, foreign currency options or other instruments, there can be no assurance that TowerBrook will be able to do so successfully or cost-effectively, and may decide not to hedge against such risks or to do so only incompletely. Additional risks include: (i) risks of economic dislocations in the host country; (ii) less publicly available information; (iii) less well developed regulatory institutions; and (iv) greater difficulty of enforcing legal rights in a foreign jurisdiction. Moreover, non-U.S. companies may not be subject to uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, practices and requirements comparable to those that apply to U.S. companies.

Provision of Managerial Assistance and Control. TowerBrook typically will designate directors (and non-executive chairmen) to serve on the boards of directors of the Partnerships' portfolio companies. The designation of directors and other measures contemplated could expose the assets of a Partnership to claims by a portfolio company, its security holders and its creditors. The exercise of control over a company imposes additional risks of liability for environmental damage, product defects, failure to supervise management, violation of governmental regulations and other types of liability which the limited liability characteristic of business operations usually ignores. If these liabilities were to occur, a Partnership could suffer losses in its investments.

While TowerBrook intends to manage the Partnerships in a way that will minimize exposure to these risks, the possibility of successful claims cannot be precluded.

Disciplinary Information

There are no legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's, prospective client's, investor's or prospective investor's evaluation of TowerBrook's advisory business or the integrity of TowerBrook's management.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

TowerBrook has a related entity, TowerBrook Financial, L.P. ("TowerBrook Financial"), which serves as a broker-dealer for TowerBrook, with the primary purpose of soliciting investors for new Partnerships that TowerBrook may establish in the future. TowerBrook Financial is a subsidiary of TowerBrook Financial LP, LLC and TowerBrook Financial GP, LLC, which are both wholly-owned subsidiaries of TowerBrook. Certain principals of TowerBrook are also registered representatives of TowerBrook Financial. As TowerBrook does not trade in specific securities through TowerBrook Financial for its client accounts, there is not anticipated to be any conflict of interest.

A number of entities affiliated with TowerBrook serve as general partners and direct investment managers to the Partnerships. Each direct investment manager has entered into an investment advisory agreement with TowerBrook which provides that TowerBrook will supply investment advisory services. The Partnerships and affiliated general partner and investment manager entities existing as of the date of this brochure are identified in the following chart:

TowerBrook or its affiliates may have a material investment in the Partnerships, and therefore, may be considered to participate indirectly in transactions effected for those clients. Additional information regarding the foregoing relationships, fees, and any other actual or potential conflicts of interest arising therefrom are disclosed in the respective Partnership's offering documents and/or organizational documents.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading TowerBrook has adopted a Code of Ethics pursuant to the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 which expresses the Firm's operating principles of integrity, honesty and fiduciary duties that we owe our clients. The Code of Ethics sets forth a standard of business conduct expected of all our employees as well as policies and procedures that each employee must follow to prevent activities which may lead to or give the appearance of conflicts of interest, insider trading, and other forms of prohibited or unethical business conduct.

TowerBrook maintains records of all discretionary personal securities accounts of employees in an effort to monitor all such personal investment activity. Generally, employees are restricted from purchasing or selling securities that are held in Partnership accounts or being considered for purchase or sale in Partnership accounts; however, employees may request pre-approval from a Compliance Officer to trade in such restricted security. Approval may be granted on a case-by-case basis, subject to conflict of interest review by a Compliance Officer. If the possibility of a conflict or interest occurs, the Partnerships' interests will prevail. TowerBrook's Code of Ethics is available for review and will be provided to any client, limited partner, or prospective client or limited partner upon request.

TowerBrook's general partner entities and certain TowerBrook personnel invest some of their personal assets in the Partnerships, and therefore hold indirect interests in the same underlying securities as other limited partners in the Partnerships. Therefore, there may be an incentive to allocate investments in the Partnerships in a way that favors TowerBrook and its personnel. To mitigate this risk, we have adopted portfolio management controls and procedures that are designed to ensure that all allocations of investment opportunities are made in the best interests of the Partnerships.

In addition, TowerBrook principals and employees may be permitted to co-invest in securities of a portfolio company in which a Partnership has invested. Any such proposed co-investment by an employee would require permission from TowerBrook.

Brokerage Practices

TowerBrook focuses on making investments in private securities, thus the Firm does not ordinarily deal with any financial intermediary such as a broker-dealer, and brokerage commissions are not ordinarily payable in connection with such investments. However, to the extent that TowerBrook transacts in public securities, the Firm is authorized, without limitation, to determine the broker or dealer to be used for each securities transaction for the Partnerships and to determine the transaction fee (commission rates) paid. In placing orders, we seek the most favorable execution terms reasonably available given the specific circumstances of each trade. TowerBrook considers a variety of factors when determining where to direct brokerage transactions, including but not limited to: (i) the ability to effect prompt and reliable executions at favorable prices (including the applicable dealer spread or commission, if any); (ii) the expertise to execute difficult securities, including the ability to find liquidity; (iii) the operational efficiency with which transactions are effected (such as prompt and accurate confirmation and delivery, and frequency of errors), taking into account the size of order and difficulty of execution; (iv) the overall reputation, integrity, and ability to maintain anonymity; and (v) the quality of research ideas and assistance with trading strategy.

Although TowerBrook will seek competitive commission rates and commission equivalents, it will not necessarily pay the lowest commission or equivalent. Transactions may involve specialized services on the part of a broker-dealer, which may justify higher commissions and equivalents than would be the case for more routine services.

TowerBrook does not enter into soft dollar arrangements or receive soft dollar credits from brokers. However, TowerBrook receives proprietary research from broker-dealers used to execute securities transactions. To the best of our knowledge, these services are generally made available to all institutional investors doing business with such broker-dealers. TowerBrook does not separately compensate such broker-dealers for the research and does not pay higher transaction costs to receive such services. These bundled services are made available to us on an unsolicited basis and without regard to the rates of commissions charged or paid by the Partnerships or the volume of business that the Firm directs to such broker-dealers. Nonetheless, TowerBrook may have an incentive to select a broker based on our interest in receiving the research or other products or services offered by such broker, rather than on the Partnerships' interests in receiving most favorable execution.

Review of Accounts

TowerBrook representatives serve on the investment committee and portfolio committee for the general partners of the Partnerships. These committees are comprised of the Co-CEOs of TowerBrook and at least three Managing Directors of TowerBrook. The investment committees have exclusive decision-making authority with regard to the acquisition and disposition of investments. The portfolio committees monitor the operations and results of portfolio companies and generally meet on a monthly basis. In addition, TowerBrook's Chief Compliance Officer and members of the legal team periodically monitor the Partnerships' portfolios for compliance with investment restrictions and portfolio mandates.

The Partnerships provide quarterly reports to limited partners that provide transaction and investment highlights as well as a detailed review of the operating performance and recent developments in the portfolio companies. The Partnerships also provide limited partners with audited financial statements prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and K-1's (if applicable) on an annual basis. In addition, the Partnerships provide limited partners with unaudited account statements quarterly.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

During a fundraising cycle for a Partnership, TowerBrook may compensate TowerBrook Financial and other placement agents who introduce new limited partners that commit capital. The amount paid to unrelated placement agents is structured as a percentage of the capital raised. TowerBrook or its affiliates may charge the Partnerships for such placement fees or otherwise cause the Partnerships to pay such fees; however, all such fees due to placement agents by the Partnerships will reduce the management fee otherwise payable by the limited partners by an identical amount.

TowerBrook or its affiliates may charge portfolio companies origination fees, breakup fees, consulting fees, monitoring fees and other similar fees. A percentage of fees paid by portfolio companies that are received by TowerBrook or any of its affiliates will be applied to reduce the management fee otherwise payable by a Partnership. Also, TowerBrook may receive compensation due to employees serving on the boards of directors of portfolio companies.

Custody

An adviser has custody if it acts in any capacity that gives the adviser legal ownership of, or access to, client funds or securities. Hence, TowerBrook has custody of Partnership assets because it or one of its affiliates either (1) acts as general partner of a Partnership with the authority to dispose of funds and securities in such Partnership's accounts or (2) is deemed to have custody because of its ability to withdraw its fees directly from the Partnerships. TowerBrook maintain the majority of Partnership assets at unaffiliated broker/dealers, banks, or ISDA counterparties, all of whom are qualified custodians, as that term is defined under the custody rule under the Investment Advisers Act. Certain privately offered, non-certificated investments such as bank debt and swaps are not maintained at a qualified custodian in accordance with the private securities exemption of the custody rule.

In lieu of providing limited partners with quarterly custodial reports, TowerBrook ensures that the Partnerships are subject to an annual audit by an independent public accountant and the audited financial statements are distributed to each Limited Partner. The audited financial statements will be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and distributed within 90 days of the Partnerships' fiscal year end.

Investment Discretion

TowerBrook, with its affiliated general partner and investment manager entities, has complete discretionary authority with regard to the acquisition and disposition of investments without obtaining specific consent from the limited partners. Any limitations on such authority are included in each Partnership's offering documents and/or organizational documents.

Voting Client Securities

Most of the portfolio companies held by the Partnerships are private companies which typically do not issue proxies. However, if TowerBrook is requested to vote on certain proposals, amendments, consents, or resolutions (i.e., “proxies”) on behalf of a Partnership, TowerBrook has adopted proxy voting policies and procedures, and shall be responsible for voting proxies on behalf of the Partnerships in a way that it believes will maximize shareholder value. In exercising its voting discretion, TowerBrook and its employees will attempt to avoid any direct or indirect conflict of interest raised by such voting decision. A number of TowerBrook’s investment professionals serve as board members for the Partnerships’ portfolio companies. In situations where TowerBrook votes the proxy for a company in which a member of the Firm serves on the board of directors, TowerBrook has determined that it does not inherently present a conflict of interest as the purpose for serving on the board is to maximize the return on the Partnership’s investment and to ensure that the Partnership’s interests are protected.

A copy of TowerBrook’s written proxy voting policies and procedures, as well as specific information about how TowerBrook has voted on a specific matter will be provided to limited partners upon written request to TowerBrook.

Financial Information

TowerBrook has never filed for bankruptcy and is not aware of any financial condition that is expected to affect its ability to manage client accounts.
