Either party may terminate the investment management agreement upon 30 days prior written notice to the other party. In such case, our fees will be paid pro rata through the termination date and we are entitled to be reimbursed all out-of pocket expenses.

As of July 31, 2011, the amount of client assets managed by the Company was approximately:

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

The Company executes a written investment management agreement with each of its clients. All of our fees are negotiable and once agreed are set forth in the client investment management agreement. We do not have a fee standard schedule because each client is free to negotiate its own fees with us.

Types of Fees and Compensation

While we may agree with a client on any number of fee structures, the most common fee structures are as follows:

- Institutional clients – incentive fees based on realized returns as determined under generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”). These fees may range from 20% - 50%. The measurement date for this type of fee is generally the last day of each calendar quarter. The Company serves as investment advisor to
- Retail clients – a percentage of assets under management, which is typically 1.0% of your portfolio balance at the end of prior quarter or any portion thereof (pro-rata for actual time services are provided). These fees are charged quarterly in arrears.
- Consulting clients - $350 per hour with a minimum retainer of $5,000. These fees are billed monthly and due upon receipt of an invoice.
- Investment advisor representatives (“IARs”), with the prior written consent of the Company, may recommend that any suitable client invest in one or more alternative investment such as private investment pools or “hedge funds.” In the case of a third party, the issuer of alternative investments often pays finder fees or commissions to those who introduce clients that actually invest. These fees or commissions may be paid upon initial investment, typically ranging from 1%-7% depending on the issuer, or in the form of a carried interest in the pools or funds ranging from 1% - 30% of net income, as defined by the issuer. If the Company receives this type of compensation with respect to a retail client, it waives that client’s fees which are based on a percentage of assets under management. This practice may present a conflict of interest, we will discuss with you in advance, and give the Company or its IARs an incentive to recommend investment products based on compensation received, rather than on a your needs.

Payment Method

At the end of each quarter, we invoice you for the fees due. Invoices are prepared by our controller and sent to you with a copy to the qualified custodian. When you become a our client you will give the qualified custodian written instructions to deduct from your account the amount of the fee and credit our account with the custodian in the amount of the fees. Fees are billed quarterly in arrears.

We do not charge fees in advance. Fees are non-refundable.

Other Fees and Expenses

You may pay other fees and expenses such as custodian fees (account servicing fees, commission on trades, transaction costs, wire fees, etc.). See Item 12 below for more details of brokerage fees.

As part of our investment advice, we may recommend or select mutual funds for you. In addition to our fees, mutual funds may charge you various management and other fees for investments.

You have the option to purchase investment products that our IARs recommend through other brokers or agents that are not affiliated with the Company.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

As mentioned in Item 5 above, the Company accepts performance-based fees, that is, fees based on a share of capital gains, on capital appreciation of the assets or profits of a client (such as a client that is a hedge fund or other pooled investment vehicle).

We manage both accounts that are charged a performance-based fees and accounts that are charged another type of fee, such as a percentage of assets under management or an hourly fee. However, retail clients are typically charged only one type of fee.

The Company and its IARs may face conflicts of interest by managing these accounts at the same time, including that an IAR may have an incentive to favor accounts for which it or the Company receives a performance-based fee. In such situation, we intend to discuss these conflicts (actual or perceived) upfront with you.

While we seek to avoid conflicts of interest with our clients, conflicts exist. We address these conflicts through disclosures so you can make an informed decision as to whether to become or continue as a client of the Company. For example, an IAR may recommend that a suitable client invest in one of the Extensor Capital companies which the Company also serves as investment advisor and receives fees from Extensor Capital. Information regarding fees would be disclosed to you prior to any investment.

Item 7. Types of Clients

We offer services to accredited investors and qualified purchasers as defined by the federal securities laws. These may include the following types of clients:

- High net worth individuals and family offices
- Operating businesses
- Private investment companies
- Small to mid-sized banks and credit unions
- Trusts
- Non-profit entities
- Non U.S. citizens

The minimum account size of any retail client is $250,000.

For retail clients, accounts must be held at a qualified custodian designated for retail clients. The respective custodian has its own account opening, maintenance and compliance requirements. Each account must be approved by the respective custodian.

For institutional clients, the Company may be retained as an investment manager over a client account at a financial institution which the Company may or may not have an existing relationship. The minimum account size for institutional clients is $5,000,000, unless otherwise agreed by management.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

In formulating investment advice or managing assets, we use technical and fundamental analysis. The Company also uses proprietary methods developed by its founder. Analysis has risk of human error.

The sources of information we use are primarily:

- Financial news
- Research materials published by others (accounting firms, law firms, other advisory companies, broker-dealers, government economic data)
- Reports filed by issuers with the Commission
- Ratings
- News releases
- Bloomberg
- Online trade organizations
- Publications of self regulatory agencies (SROs)
- Technical Analysis and proprietary trading tools

Investment Strategies

We use several investment strategies to implement investment advice provided to our clients, including but not limited to:

- Long term purchases (to hold more than one year)
- Short term purchases
- Trading
- Short sales
- Margin transactions
- Options writing, including spreading strategies
- Futures contracts

Each investment strategy has risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear losses. Each strategy has differing transaction costs and tax consequences. Certain investment strategies are not suitable for certain clients.

Risk of Loss

In General

An investment in securities involves a substantial degree of risk which you should carefully consider before investing. These risks include, but are not limited to:

- You could lose all of your money in an investment. No investment is risk free.
- Alternative investments are speculative and often illiquid depending upon the lock-up and liquidity provisions in the investment documents, which means you may have to exit such an investment at a price less than you originally purchased. Generally, short-term lock-up and liquidity provisions limit profits.
- The issuers and obligors of securities default from time to time, which means you may lose all of your investment.
- Returns are not guaranteed and you may not receive any returns at all.
- Performance is volatile and dependent upon services of the asset and fund managers.
- The price of securities fluctuates which changes the value of your investment.
- Changes in economic conditions, regulations, tax laws, interest rates, yield curves and payment rates affect the value of your investment.
- The use of margin increases risk.
- Some investments have restrictions on transfer and redemption such as notice periods and penalties.
- Transactions in securities are subject to substantial fees and expenses, which offset profits.

High Yield Investments

An investment in high yield securities is subject to special risks which you should carefully consider. This document is not intended to be an exhaustive description of the risks involved in any individual security, but rather a general statement of the risks commonly associated with investments of this type. Information has been obtained from sources we believe to be reliable, but we cannot guarantee its accuracy or completeness.

High yield securities are securities that a nationally recognized credit rating organization, such as Standard & Poor's, Moody's or Fitch, has rated below "investment grade" or may be non-rated securities. These securities typically offer a higher yield than investment grade securities, but also present greater risks with respect to liquidity, volatility and non-payment of principal and interest. As a result of being classified as below investment grade, high yield securities present a greater degree of credit risk relative to many other fixed income securities. The following risks are associated with high yield investments:

- Credit Risk. An investment grade issue generally has a high capacity to pay interest and repay principal with little susceptibility to adverse changes in economic conditions. Conversely, a high yield security that is not investment grade generally has predominantly speculative characteristics with respect to the issuer's capacity to pay interest and repay principal. Therefore, there is greater risk of non-payment of interest and loss of principal. Many issuers of high yield securities have experienced substantial difficulties in servicing their obligations, which has led to defaults and restructurings. Additional risks discussed below may also increase the risk of default for an issuer of high yield securities. Due to these risks, the issuers of these securities generally have to pay a higher rate of interest than that which is available from investment grade securities.
- Liquidity. The markets in which high yield securities are traded are more limited than those in which investment grade securities are traded. This lack of liquidity may make it more difficult to resell these securities and obtain market quotations. In addition, the proceeds from sales prior to maturity may be more or less than principal invested due to changes in market conditions or changes in the credit quality of the issuer.
- Call Risk. High yield securities may be subject to call by the issuer, providing the issuer the right to redeem, fully or partially, before the scheduled maturity date of the security. In the event a security is called, you may be unable to reinvest the proceeds from such redemption, in an investment with similar return and risk characteristics. In many situations, reinvesting may occur in a lower interest rate environment when compared to the original issuance date of the high yield security that was called.

- Interest Rate Risk. Generally, a rise in interest rates may negatively affect the price of market-traded bonds, because bond prices tend to move counter to the direction of rates. Therefore, rising rates may cause bond prices to decline. Additionally, bonds with longer maturities may be more sensitive to such interest rate movements.
- Volatility Risk. The market value of high yield securities tends to be sensitive to developments involving the issuer and to changes in economic conditions. Consequently, high yield securities have greater price volatility than investment grade securities.
- Downgrade Risk. Downgrades in the credit rating of high yield bonds by rating agencies are generally accompanied by declines in the market value of these bonds. In some circumstances, investors in the high yield market may anticipate such downgrades as a result of these credits being placed on “credit watch” by rating agencies, causing volatility and speculation of further credit deterioration.
- Economic Risk. Relates to the general vulnerability of a security due to a downturn in the economy. In difficult economic environments, high yield bonds may be more susceptible to price volatility as investors may reevaluate holdings in lower-quality bonds in favor of investment-grade bonds. This is often referred to a “flight to quality.” The concern is often associated with the underlying credit issuer’s ability to repay interest and principal if an economic downturn negatively impacts the business.
- Event Risk. This includes any of a variety of events that can adversely affect the issuer of a high yield security, and therefore the issuer’s ability to meet obligations to repay principal and interest to bond holders. Event risk may pertain to the issuer specifically, the industry or business sector of the issuer, or generally upon the overall economy. For example, the issuer may have a change in management, poor earnings, or difficulty obtaining additional credit to support operations. The issuer’s industry sector may be experiencing financial difficulties due to increased competition, rising costs, or a changing regulatory environment. Lastly, there may be adverse geopolitical or global economic news such as a recession, changes in fiscal or monetary policies, or adverse market conditions having a direct or indirect impact on the issuer and their outstanding debt.

Item 9 Disciplinary Information

None

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Mark Redcliffe and Mark Walker, both Directors of the Company are founders of the Parent company Jordan Capital Markets Inc, a Canadian registered Broker Dealer.

The Company will conduct business with Jordan Capital Markets, Inc. and recommend it to our clients in certain circumstances.

Disclosure of potential conflicts will be made to clients considering any such recommendations.

Our auditor, Grant Thornton, serves as auditor for Jordan Capital Markets Inc.

All future transactions involving the Company, its officers, affiliates and principals are expected to be on terms no less favorable to the Company than could be obtained from unaffiliated third parties.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

We have adopted a written code of ethics pursuant to SEC Rule 204A-1. This code contains customary policies regarding:

- A standard of business conduct that is required of each IAR which reflects our fiduciary obligations and those of our IARs.
- Compliance by IARs with applicable federal securities laws.
- Periodic reporting by certain persons to the Company regarding their personal securities transactions and holdings.
- Reporting by IARs of violations of the code of ethics promptly to our compliance officer.
- Delivery of copies of the code of ethics and any amendments to IARs and acknowledgment of receipt.

We will provide a copy of our code of ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

As previously stated in this Brochure, the Company is an advisor to two Extensor Capital private investment companies. The Company is paid a fee of 20% of realized profits resulting from the Company's advice to these the companies. Our IARs may recommend that suitable clients consider investing with Extensor which is a conflict of interest that will be disclosed to clients prior to investing.

Further, most of our related persons are investors in mutual funds through 401(k) plans with prior employers, individual IRA accounts or as direct investors. It is possible that an IAR of the Company could recommend a mutual fund in which one of our related persons owns an interest. We monitor personal holdings of our related parties so that disclosure may be made to clients prior to recommending the same mutual fund.

We may perform block stock and bond trades for clients accounts held at our custodians to obtain more favorable pricing and better execution on trades. Block trades will be allocated in each participating client account. Allocation quantities are based upon each individual portfolio circumstances including client risk tolerance, stated investment objectives and tax situation. On partially filled orders, our aggregation policy is to pro-rate the number of shares/bonds to each participating account on an equal percentage basis. An exception to a straight proration on partial executions may occur under certain circumstances where shares/bonds are allocated to one account over another account when building a new position versus adding to an existing position. In all cases, affected accounts will receive the same average price obtained in the block transaction.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

Custodian and Brokers

We do not maintain custody of your assets that we manage or on which we advise, although we may be deemed to have custody of your assets if you give us authority to withdraw assets from your account. Your assets must be maintained in an account at a "qualified custodian," generally a broker-dealer or bank. We recommend that our clients use Interactive as the qualified custodian. We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with any qualified custodian. The custodian holds your assets in a brokerage account and will buy and sell securities when we instruct them to do so. While we recommend that you use Interactive Brokers as custodian, you will decide whether to do so and will open your account by entering into an account agreement directly with them. We do not open the account for you, although we may assist you in doing so. Even though your account is maintained at Interactive, we can still use other brokers to execute trades for your account as described below.

How We Select Brokers

It is our intention to use a custodian and broker who will hold your assets and execute transactions on terms that are, overall, most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. We consider a wide range of factors, including, among others:

- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- Capability to execute, clear and settle trades
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- Breadth of available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, etc.)
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions
- Quality of services
- Competitiveness of the price of those services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate the prices
- Reputation, financial strength and stability
- Prior service to us and our other clients
- Availability of other products and services that benefit us, as discussed below.

Your Brokerage and Custody Costs

For our client accounts that Interactive Brokers maintains, Interactive Brokers generally does not charge you separately for custody services but is compensated by charging you commissions or other fees on trades that it executes or that settle into your account. Interactive's commission rates are amongst the lowest in the industry. This commitment benefits you because the overall commission rates you pay are lower than they would be otherwise.

In addition to commissions, Interactive may charge you a flat dollar amount or "trade away" fee for each trade that we execute by a different broker-dealer but where the securities bought or the funds from the securities sold are deposited (settled) into your account. These fees are in addition to the commissions or other compensation you pay the executing broker-dealer. Because of this, in order to minimize your trading costs, we expect to have Interactive execute most trades for your account. We believe that having Interactive execute most trades is consistent with our duty to seek "best execution" of your trades. Best execution means the most favorable terms for a transaction based on all relevant factors, including those listed above.

Products and Services Available to Us from Custodian

The Company has an arrangement with Interactive through which Interactive provides the Company with its "platform" services. The platform services include, among others, brokerage, custodial, administrative support, record keeping and related services that are intended to support intermediaries like the Company in conducting business and in serving the best interests of their clients but that may benefit the Company. The availability of these services from Interactive benefits us because we do not have to produce or purchase them.

Interactive charges brokerage commissions and transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions (i.e., transactions fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds, commissions are charged for individual equity and debt securities transactions). Interactive enables us to obtain many no-load mutual funds without transaction charges and other no-load funds at nominal transaction charges. Interactive's commission rates are generally considered discounted from customary retail commission rates. However, the commissions and transaction fees charged by Interactive may be higher or lower than those charged by other custodians and broker-dealers.

As part of the arrangement, Interactive also makes available to the Company, at no additional charge to us, certain research and brokerage services, including research services obtained by Interactive directly from independent research companies, as selected by the Company (within specified parameters). These research and brokerage services are used by the Company to manage accounts for which we have investment discretion. Without this arrangement, we might be compelled to purchase the same or similar services at our own expense.

Interactive offers other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business. These services include:

- Educational conferences and events
- Consulting on technology, compliance and business needs
- Publications and conferences on practice management and business succession
- Access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers

Interactive may provide some of these services itself. In other cases, it will arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to us. Interactive may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees. Interactive may provide us with other benefits, such as occasional business entertainment of our personnel.

As a result of receiving such services for no additional cost, the Company may have an incentive to continue to use or expand the use of Interactive's services. We examined this potential conflict of interest when we chose to enter into the relationship with Interactive and have determined that the relationship is in the best interests of the Company's clients and satisfies its client obligations, including our duty to seek best execution. You may pay a commission that is higher than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction where we determine in good faith that the commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although we will seek competitive rates, to the benefit of all clients, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for specific client account transactions. Although the investment research products and services that may be obtained by the Company will generally be used to service all of our clients, a brokerage commission paid by a specific client may be used to pay for research that is not used in managing that specific client's account. The Company and Interactive are not affiliates.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Your account is reviewed at least monthly by our president. You may review your account online with the custodian. The monthly review focuses primarily on positions held and valuation. The individual IARs track client data to ensure your objectives are being achieved. Accounts may be reviewed more frequently upon request.

We will use software provided by our custodians to download client account activity and use it to generate written quarterly reports for our clients. We also provide our clients an annual review. The contents of the quarterly reports include:

- Quarterly Asset Allocation –actual vs. investment policy allocation
- Quarterly Performance Review – current quarter and year-to-date
- Quarterly Portfolio Statement – current positions

Quarterly reports are distributed to clients no later than 15 days after year calendar quarter end.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We receive an economic benefit from our qualified custodian, in the form of the support products and services it makes available to us and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at the custodian. These products and services, how they benefit us, and the related conflicts of interest are described above in Item 12. The availability to us of these products and services is not based on us giving particular investment advice, such as buying particular securities for our clients.

Item 15. Custody

While our custodian is Interactive, the Company maintains brokerage relationships with several brokerage firms and may add more than one qualified custodian. Buy and sell orders may be placed with these firms to obtain more favorable pricing and to access a wider range of investments. The opening of client accounts must be approved by the qualified custodian.

Under government regulations, we are deemed to have custody of your assets if, for example, you authorize us to instruct the qualified custodian to deduct our advisory fees directly from your account or if you grant us authority to move your money to another person's account. The custodian maintains actual custody of your assets. You will receive account statements directly from the custodian at least quarterly. They will be sent to the email or postal mailing address you provided to the custodian. You should carefully review those statements promptly when you receive them. We urge you to compare the account statements to the quarterly report you will receive from us.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

The Company accepts discretionary authority to manage accounts on behalf of clients. In such situations, the Company holds a power of attorney from you to execute transactions on your behalf in accordance with your customized written investment policy. For such trades, the Company may direct the selection of the brokers and the execution of the trades. We only conduct trades with global broker-dealers which are creditworthy counterparties. Commission rates are standard market rates charged by the broker-dealers to their clients.

Pursuant to the power of attorney, you authorize the Company to take the following actions without obtaining your specific consent:

- Determine the types of securities to be bought and sold
- Determine the amount of securities to be bought and sold
- Select the broker-dealer to be used for any transactions
- Agree to commission rates to be paid

The power of attorney is revocable by you at any time.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

The Company does not accept authority to vote client securities.

You will receive your proxies and other solicitations from the custodian or the transfer agent of the issuer and not from the Company. You may contact the Company by telephone, mail or email (see cover page for details) with questions about a particular solicitation but you are not obligated to vote in any manner suggested or implied by the Company or any of its IARs.

Item 18. Financial Information

No applicable.
