4a. (Principal Owners)

The New England Guild, Inc. ("Guild") began its business as an investment adviser in 1991 by providing investment advisory services to individuals, families, retirement plans, trusts and endowments, on both a discretionary and a non-discretionary basis. There are three equal-share owners of the Guild: Harold L. Rives, III, E. Patrick Logue, and Susan M. Grayson. Eliot P. Williams retired from active firm management in 2012. He continues as an investment advisor for a limited number of clients.

4b. (Types of Advisory Services)

Our advisory services include a review of a client's financial position, development of investment objectives, and design and implementation of an investment program customized for that client. We utilize investment types including open-end and closed-end mutual funds, individual stocks and bonds, and Exchange Traded Funds (ETF). We also advise our clients about Investment Company Act securities including variable life insurance separate accounts, variable annuity separate accounts and mutual funds.

4c. (Individual Needs of Clients)

We customize our advice to fit client-identified needs by conducting a review of the client's financial position, developing investment objectives agreed by the client to meet the client's future need for cash, and then designing and implementing an investment program for the client.

4d. (Wrap Fee Programs)

Not applicable.

4e. (Assets Under Management)

As of December 31, 2012 we managed a total of $296.8 million of client assets. Of this total, $296.3 million was managed on a discretionary basis and $0.5 million was managed on a non-discretionary basis.

5a. (Fees and Compensation-Fee Schedules)

We charge an asset-based fee for investment management services provided for individuals and institutions. This is a separate fee from any fees charged by unaffiliated investment managers. This fee does not include any fees or costs which may be charged by a brokerage firm or custodian selected by the client to execute transactions. Our asset-based fee will generally be based on the following schedule:

First $1,000,000	1.00% (Annually)
Next $2,000,000	0.75%
Next $2,000,000	0.50%
Over $5,000,000	0.25%

The minimum annual fee is $5,000. The New England Guild, in its sole discretion may waive its minimum fee and/or charge a different investment management fee based upon certain criteria (including, but not limited to, anticipated additional assets, related accounts, account composition, or negotiations with client).

5b. (Fees and Compensation-Deduction of Fees)

Fees are payable quarterly in advance based on the market value of the managed assets on the last day of the preceding quarter. Clients may elect to have these fees deducted from one or more of their managed accounts or they may elect to pay their bill in another manner.

5c. (Fees and Compensation-Other Fees and Expenses)

As noted in 5a above, our clients may incur other fees and expenses charged by brokers, mutual funds, and custodians utilized in the management of their investments.

5d. (Fees and Compensation-Prepaid Fees)

Our clients are billed in advance for our fees. If the advisory contract is terminated for any reason before the end of the billing period we will refund that portion that has been prepaid but has not yet been used on a pro-rata basis.

5e. (Fees and Compensation-Sale of Securities)

Our firm does not, and our employees do not accept compensation for the sale of securities or any other investment products.

6. (Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management)

Our firm does not, and our employees do not accept performance-based fees.

7. (Types of Clients)

Most of the clients of The New England Guild are individuals and families. We have a smaller number of clients that are Trusts, Foundations, and Endowments. The minimum annual fee is $5,000. We reserve the right, in our sole discretion, to waive the minimum fee and/or charge a different investment management fee based upon certain criteria (including, but not limited to, anticipated additional assets, related accounts, account composition, or negotiations with client).

8a. (Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss-General Description)

Almost all of the New England Guild business involves giving advice to clients to help them meet their future needs for cash. This is done by analyzing the client's resources and needs in the beginning of a relationship. We then recommend asset allocation targets designed to meet a client's future needs for cash. The resulting investment policy is then implemented using diversification as the primary process. To help achieve this diversification, we utilize open-end mutual funds broadly in client portfolios to meet the client's asset allocation targets and to mitigate investment risk. Other investment vehicles used include Exchange Traded Funds and closed-end mutual funds. Individual stocks and bonds are rarely purchased or sold in client accounts, and when they are traded it is at the client's direction. In all of our investment strategies we strive to explain to clients that investing in securities involves risk of loss that our clients should be prepared to bear.

8b. (Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss-Material Risks for Investment Strategies)

We analyze industry data available to the public using analytical tools as a way of selecting the particular investment vehicle or vehicles recommended for a client. We believe that many small risks are preferable to a few large risks. Therefore we believe in broad-based diversification within and across capital markets. This may include investments in less traditional asset classes that offer the potential to improve the portfolio's risk/return relationship by reducing asset class correlation.

9. (Disciplinary Information)

There are no legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of The New England Guild, Inc.' advisory business or the integrity of our management.

10a and b. (Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations)

Neither our firm nor any of our employees are registered, nor have an application pending to register, with any other organization such as broker-dealer, futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, commodity trading advisor, or other similar organizations.

10c. (Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations)

The New England Guild has no relationship or arrangement with any other firm that is material to our advisory business. None of our employees have relationships or arrangements with any other firm that is material to our advisory business.

10d. (Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations)

We do not recommend, nor do we select, other investment advisers for our clients where we would receive any compensation directly or indirectly that would create a material conflict of interest.

11. (Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading)

Our firm has implemented an investment policy relative to personal securities transactions as part of its Code of Ethics. The Code of Ethics serves to establish a standard of business conduct for all of our employees that is based upon fundamental principles of openness, integrity, honesty and trust. A copy is available upon request. In addition, we also maintain and enforce written policies designed to prevent the misuse of material non-public information by our firm or any person associated with our firm.

We allow our employees to maintain personal securities accounts as long as any personal investing by an employee in any accounts in which the employee has a beneficial interest is consistent with the Code of Ethics. It is our intent to avoid any conflict of interest, or appearance of conflict of interest, between trades undertaken for family and personal accounts, and clients of The New England Guild. Consequently, client trades will always have priority over trades for family and personal accounts. While trades in open-end mutual funds may be undertaken simultaneously for clients and family and personal accounts, no trades in individual securities should occur in family or personal accounts on the same day as a trade is undertaken in a client account. If a trade occurs in a family or personal account before it is known that a client trade in that same security is to be executed, an explanation of the timing and background of the trade will be prepared by the client's advisor. All family and personal accounts are organized within a single master account, distinct from client master accounts. Family and Personal Account trades of individual securities should be pre-cleared before execution by the Investment Operations Manager. In a situation in which the Investment Operations Manager is executing family or personal trades, one of our Principals is selected to review the trade requests. Through the preclearance process, the Investment Operations Manager reviews the family and personal trades, and ensures the securities being traded have not already been traded in client accounts that day. If the securities have been traded in a client account that day, the requested personal or family trade is not executed until a following day. Furthermore, the Chief Compliance Officer reviews the transaction ledger daily for related trades in client and personal accounts. If related transactions are found, the Chief Compliance Officer contacts the appropriate broker/dealer to determine the time of the transactions, and investigates the reason for the same day trades.

The Compliance Officer reviews all employees' reports of personal securities transactions for compliance with the firm's policies, including the Insider Trading Policy, regulatory requirements and the firm's fiduciary duty to its clients, among other things.

12. (Brokerage Practices)

In the event that a client requests that our firm recommend a broker-dealer/custodian for execution and/or custodial services (exclusive of those clients that may direct us to use a specific broker-dealer/custodian), we generally recommend that investment management accounts be maintained at Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab"). Prior to engaging us to provide investment management services, the client will be required to enter into a formal Investment Advisory Agreement with us setting forth the terms and conditions under which we shall manage the client's assets, and a separate custodial/clearing agreement with each designated broker-dealer/custodian.

Currently, we recommend that clients primarily allocate investment management assets among various individual equity and/or fixed income securities, mutual funds and/or independent investment managers or programs, on a discretionary or non-discretionary basis, in accordance with the client's designated investment objective(s). As discussed above, unless the client directs otherwise, we shall generally recommend that Schwab serve as the broker-dealer/custodian for client investment management assets. Broker-dealers such as Schwab charge brokerage commissions and/or transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions (i.e., transaction fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds; and, commissions are charged for individual equity and fixed income securities transactions).

In addition to the Guild's investment management fee and Schwab's brokerage commissions and/or transaction fees, the client will also incur, relative to all mutual fund and exchange traded fund purchases, charges imposed at the fund level (e.g. management fees and other fund expenses).

Both New England Guild's Investment Advisory Agreement and the custodial/ clearing agreement may authorize the custodian to debit the client's account for the amount of our investment advisory fee and to directly remit that management fee to us in compliance with regulatory procedures. The Investment Advisory Agreement between the Guild and the client will continue in effect until terminated by either party by written notice in accordance with the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement. Upon termination, the Guild shall provide a pro-rata refund of advanced fees paid.

Factors that we consider in recommending Schwab (or any other broker-dealer/custodian to clients) include historical relationship with the Guild, financial strength, reputation, execution capabilities, pricing, research, and service. Although the commissions and/or transaction fees paid by our clients shall comply with our duty to obtain best execution, a client may pay a commission that is higher than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction where we determine, in good faith, that the commission/transaction fee is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of broker-dealer services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although we will seek competitive rates, we may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client account transactions. The brokerage commissions or transaction fees charged by the designated broker-dealer/custodian are exclusive of, and in addition to, our investment management fee. Our best execution responsibility is qualified if securities that we purchase for client accounts are no-load mutual funds that trade at net asset value as determined at the daily market close.

12a1. (Brokerage Practices-Soft Dollars)

The New England Guild does not utilize research, research-related products and other services obtained from broker-dealers, or third-parties, on a soft dollar commission basis.

We may, however, recommend that clients establish brokerage accounts with the Schwab Advisor Services division of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (Schwab), a FINRA registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, to maintain custody of clients' assets and to effect trades for their accounts. Although we may recommend that clients establish accounts at Schwab, it is the client's decision to custody assets with Schwab. The New England Guild is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab.

Schwab provides us with access to its institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to Schwab retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisors on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them so long as the Schwab minimum amount of the advisor's clients' assets are maintained in accounts at Schwab Advisor Services. These services are not contingent upon the Guild's committing to Schwab any specific amount of business (assets in custody or trading commissions). Schwab's brokerage services include the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment. For our client accounts maintained in its custody, Schwab generally does not charge separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Schwab or that settle into Schwab accounts. Schwab Advisor Services also makes available to us other products and services that benefit us but may not directly benefit our clients' accounts. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of our clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab.

Schwab's products and services that assist us in managing and administering clients' accounts include software and other technology that (i) provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); (ii) facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts; (iii) provide research, pricing and other market data; (iv) facilitate payment of our management fees from our clients' accounts; and (v) assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

Schwab Advisor Services also offers other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services may include: (i) compliance, legal and business consulting; (ii) publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and (iii) access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers. Schwab may make available, arrange and/or pay third-party vendors for the types of services rendered to our firm.

Schwab Advisor Services may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to us. Schwab Advisor Services may also provide other benefits such as educational events or occasional business entertainment of the Guild's employees. In evaluating whether to recommend that clients custody their assets at Schwab, we may take into account the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements as part of the total mix of factors we consider and not solely on the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab, which may create a potential conflict of interest.

12a.2. (Brokerage Practices-Client Referrals)

The New England Guild does not receive client referrals from Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab"), or from any other source for which we pay for those referrals.

12a.3 (Brokerage Practices-Directed Brokerage)

The New England Guild does not recommend, request or require that a client direct us to execute transactions through a specified broker-dealer. Furthermore, it is our practice to not accept client's instructions for directing their brokerage transactions to a particular broker-dealer.

12b. (Brokerage Practices-Aggregation)

The aggregation or blocking of client transactions allows us to execute transactions in a more timely, equitable, and efficient manner and seeks to reduce overall commission charges to clients. Our firm's policy is to aggregate client transactions where possible and when advantageous to clients. In these instances clients participating in any aggregated transactions will receive an average share price and transaction costs will be shared equally and on a pro-rata basis. Accounts of our employees may not be included in block trades involving client accounts (other than open-end mutual funds). Trades for our employees may not occur on the day of the completion of a block trade. This policy will apply as well to principal participation in tender offers in which limits are set on the number of shares that may be accepted.

13a and b. (Review of Accounts)

Those of our clients for whom we provide investment advisory services receive account reviews on a periodic basis, usually quarterly, conducted by our Principals and Advisors who have responsibility for client relationship management. Our investment supervisory clients are advised that it remains their responsibility to advise the Guild of any changes in their investment objectives and/or financial situation. Clients are encouraged (in person, via email, or via telephone) to comprehensively review investment objectives and account performance with the Guild on an annual basis.

13c. (Review of Accounts)

Clients are provided with transaction confirmation notices and regular summary account statements directly from the broker-dealer/custodian and/or program sponsor for the client accounts. Those clients to whom we provide investment advisory services shall also receive periodic reports (usually quarterly) from us summarizing account holdings and performance.

14a and b. (Client Referrals and Other Compensation)

The New England Guild recommends mutual funds to our clients based on our analysis of risk-adjusted performance of the funds. We are not compensated directly or indirectly by the mutual fund companies.

We offer financial advisory services to clients referred to us by existing client and by law, accounting, and pension advisory firms. There are no referral fees paid by us for these arrangements.

15. (Custody)

Under government regulations, we are deemed to have custody of your assets if, for example, you authorize us to instruct Schwab to deduct our advisory fees directly from your account or if you grant us authority to move your money to another person's account. Schwab maintains actual custody of your assets. You will receive account statements directly from Schwab at least quarterly. They will be sent to the email or postal mailing address you provided to Schwab. You should carefully review those statements promptly when you receive them. We also urge you to compare Schwab's account statements to the periodic portfolio reports you will receive from us.

16. (Investment Discretion)

We do not maintain custody of client assets; although we may be deemed to have custody of client assets if they give us the authority to withdraw assets from their account (see Item 15-Custody, above). Client assets must be maintained in an account at a “qualified custodian,” generally a broker-dealer or bank. We recommend that our clients use Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”), a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, as the qualified custodian. We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab will hold our clients’ assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities when they or we instruct them to. While we recommend that you use Schwab as custodian/broker, you will decide whether to do so and will open your account with Schwab by entering into an account agreement directly with them. We do not open the account for you, although we may assist you in doing so. Many of our clients give us discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on their behalf. This authority is expressed in the new account agreement with Schwab. Some clients wish us to manage their investments but do not give us authority to manage the securities accounts. In these cases (non-discretionary) we will not be able to assist in the activity of buying and selling securities.

17. (Voting Client Securities)

The New England Guild, Inc. may, at the request of a client, assume responsibility for voting proxies for portfolio securities. Our firm maintains written policies and procedures as to the handling, research, voting and reporting of proxy voting and makes appropriate disclosures about our firm’s proxy policies and practices. Our policy and practice is to receive and vote client proxies and disclose any potential conflicts of interest as well as making information available to clients about the voting of proxies for their portfolio securities and maintaining relevant and required records.

In the absence of specific voting guidelines from the client, The New England Guild, Inc. will vote proxies in what we determine to be the best interests of each particular client. The New England Guild, Inc.’s policy is to vote all proxies from a specific issuer the same way for each client absent qualifying restrictions from a client. Clients are permitted to place reasonable restrictions on The New England Guild, Inc.’s voting authority in the same manner that they may place such restrictions on the actual selection of account securities. We will generally vote in favor of routine corporate housekeeping proposals such as the election of directors and selection of auditors absent conflicts of interest raised by auditors’ non-audit services. We will generally vote against proposals that cause board members to become entrenched or cause unequal voting rights. In reviewing proposals, we will further consider the opinion of management and the effect on management, and the effect on shareholder value and the issuer’s business practices.

We will attempt to identify any conflicts that might exist between our interests and the interests of our client(s) by reviewing the relationship of our firm and our employees with the issuer of each security to determine if our firm or any of our employees has any financial, business or personal relationship with the issuer. If a material conflict of interest exists, we will determine whether it is appropriate to disclose the conflict to the affected clients, to give the clients an opportunity to vote the proxies themselves, or to address the voting issue through other objective means such as voting in a manner consistent with a predetermined voting policy or receiving an independent third party voting recommendation. We will maintain a record of the voting resolution of any conflict of interest.

18a. (Financial Information)

We do not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance, so no response is required under the rules for this section of the Brochure.

18b. (Financial Information)

There are no financial conditions that are reasonably likely to impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to clients.

18c. (Financial Information)

Our firm has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time.
