Form ADV Application for Investment Adviser Registration: Missing Part 2A Brochure

We do not need to file a brochure according to the "Instructions for Part 2A of Form ADV: Preparing Your Firm Brochure."

"If you are registered with the SEC, you are not required to deliver your brochure to either (i) clients who receive only impersonal investment advice from you and who will pay you less than $500 per year or (ii) clients that are SEC-registered investment companies or business development companies (the client must be registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 or be a business development company as defined in that Act, and the advisory contract must meet the requirements of section 15(c) of that Act). See SEC rule 204-3(c).

We are filing as an Internet Investment Advisor who will offer only impersonal investment advice to (i) individual investors who will be charged less than $500/year per account. (ii) Most of our expected clients will be SEC-registered investment companies.

We do not trade securities nor have any access to client accounts.
