Item 4: Advisory Business

Key Group Holdings (Cayman), Ltd. (“Key Group”, “we”, “us”, “our”, or the “Firm”) is an investment adviser organized in December 2011. Under an account management agreement (the “Agreement”) between Key Group and an adviser to a private pooled investment vehicle (the “Client”), the Firm provides discretionary advisory services to a trading account (the “Account”). Key Group also provides discretionary advisory services to several separately managed account clients (collectively referred to herein as “Managed Accounts”). Key Group also acts as investment manager, providing discretionary advisory services to the KGH Market Neutral Strategies Master Fund SP (the “Fund”), a segregated portfolio of Key Group Holdings Master Fund SPC, a Cayman Islands segregated portfolio company. The Account, the Managed Accounts and the Fund are managed on a pari passu basis.

Key Group primarily invests in the energy and natural resources sectors, as well as sectors we believe to be tangentially related, employing a long/short equity strategy. Key Group seeks capital appreciation from its investment strategy while taking reasonable steps to protect capital relative to the sought-after rate of return.

Key Group provides discretionary advisory services to client accounts based on specific investment objectives and strategies, as more specifically described in Item 8. Key Group does not tailor advisory services to the individual needs of investors in the Account. With respect to the Managed Accounts, Key Group has the complete discretion, subject to certain limitations, to trade its strategy, including the buying and selling of securities, the selection of broker-dealers through which to execute trades, the negotiation of trading commissions/rates, and the voting of shares. In general, the Fund and the Managed Accounts follow the same investment strategy as the Account. As to the Managed Accounts, Key Group tailors its services to the individual needs of the client and Key Group has, and expects in the future that it will, negotiate with the client, restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Millinvest, Ltd. is the owner of the Firm as of the date of submission of this form. Sunil Jagwani is the ultimate beneficial owner of Millinvest, Ltd.

As of 31 December, 2014, Key Group had approximately US$2,884,397,002 in regulatory assets under management, all managed on a discretionary basis.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Pursuant to the Agreement, Key Group generally receives a management fee (the “Management Fee”) which is billed to the Client and payable monthly in arrears.

The Client bears certain expenses of the Firm as per the Agreement, such as dividends paid, any amounts of dividend or interest income withheld as taxes, interest paid (including interest on capital to fund the Account), and a portion of operating expenses of the Firm. The Account may incur brokerage and other transaction costs. For further details on Key Group’s brokerage practices refer to Item 12 of this Brochure.

Key Group and its employees do not accept compensation, including sales charges or service fees, from any person for the sale of securities or other investment products.

Key Group generally receives a management fee from the Managed Accounts and the Fund.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

The Firm is entitled to receive performance allocations from the Fund, the Account and the Managed Accounts that is calculated based upon a percentage of the net capital appreciation of the accounts, subject to a "loss carry-forward" provision. The performance allocation is in accordance with the available exemption set forth in Rule 205-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act").

With respect of the Account, net asset value for measuring assets for the calculation of the performance allocation includes net realized and unrealized capital gains and losses. Capital gains are calculated net of all expenses of the Account except for the Management Fee which is subtracted from the performance allocation.

The performance allocations may create an incentive for Key Group to recommend investments which may be riskier or more speculative than those which would be recommended under a different fee arrangement. Key Group has procedures designed and implemented to prevent this conflict from influencing investment decisions.

Other than the management fee arrangements described in Item 5, no hourly, flat or asset-based fees are charged to the accounts.

Item 7: Types of Client

The Firm provides services to the Fund, the Account and the Managed Accounts.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis & Investment Strategy

Key Group's aim is to generate consistent positive returns, in varying market conditions, by investing, on both a long and short basis, in equity securities of companies that operate predominantly in the natural resources and energy industries, as well as certain sub-sectors we believe to be tangentially related. Key Group relies primarily on extensive fundamental analysis of a broad universe of issuers within the identified sectors and sub-sectors. The accounts managed by Key Group may also invest in certain commodity and commodity-related sub-sectors and certain industrial sub-sectors. Potential investments include global equity, fixed income, commodity and derivatives with the aim of capital appreciation in a disciplined manner. Key Group may use investments in commodities futures contracts or other commodity-related derivatives for both hedging and speculative investing purposes.

Risk of Loss Factors

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that the clients should be prepared to bear. A client should consider the following factors before investing. The following list of risk factors does not purport to be a complete enumeration or explanation of the risks involved in an investment. Clients are urged to consult their professional advisers and review the legal documents for an account before deciding to make an investment.

Sector Risks

The value of clients' portfolios will be vulnerable to factors affecting the natural resources and energy industries, such as increasing regulation and developments in the energy sector and energy conservation incentives which can increase compliance costs and affect business opportunities for companies in which clients may invest. Key Group's focus on investments in select industries means the value of a client's portfolio may rise and fall more than the value of a similar investment in a strategy that invests more broadly. Clients may also be affected by changing commodity prices, which can be highly volatile and are subject to risks of oversupply and reduced demand.

Use of Leverage

The use of leverage, the act of borrowing capital to make investments, exposes clients to additional levels of risks, including (i) greater losses from investments than otherwise would have been the case, (ii) margin calls that could force Key Group to liquidate investment positions and (iii) losses on investments where the investment fails to earn a return that equals or exceeds the cost of borrowing the capital in the first place. Also, a sharp decline in the value of investments held by clients may affect Key Group's ability to liquidate the investments quickly, resulting in increased losses.

Short Sales

Short selling, or the sale of securities not owned by clients, involves certain specific risks. Short selling exposes clients to the risk of loss in an amount greater than the initial investment, and such losses can increase rapidly and without limit. There is also the risk that the securities borrowed by clients would need to be returned to the lender on short notice. Such a request could require clients to purchase the securities in the open market at prices that are significantly higher than the proceeds from the initial sale of the securities.

Counterparty Risk

Key Group may engage in transactions in securities and financial instruments that involve counterparties. Under certain conditions, clients could suffer losses if a counterparty to a transaction were to default or if the market for certain securities and/or financial instruments were to become illiquid. In addition, clients could suffer losses if there were a default or bankruptcy by certain other third parties, including brokerage firms and banks with which clients do business, or to which securities have been entrusted for custodial purposes.

Dependence on Key Personnel

The Firm has overall responsibility for the investment management of client accounts and has day-to-day responsibility for investment decisions on behalf of the Account. The Firm is dependent on the strategy and management expertise of Sunil Jagwani and if the Firm were to lose his services, clients could be adversely affected.

Trade Execution Risk

Many of the investment techniques used by Key Group require the rapid and efficient execution of transactions, or the ability to accumulate or liquidate large positions. Inefficient execution can impair realization of the market opportunities sought with such techniques.

Small to Medium Capitalization Companies

Key Group may invest client accounts in the stocks of companies with small to medium-sized market capitalizations. While Key Group believes these stocks may provide significant potential for appreciation, such stocks, particularly smaller-capitalization stocks, involve higher risks in some respects than do investments in stocks of larger companies. For example, prices of such stocks are often more volatile than prices of large-capitalization stocks. In addition, due to thin trading in some such stocks, an investment in these stocks may be less liquid than that of larger capitalization stocks.

Portfolio Turnover

Part of Key Group's investment strategy may involve the taking of frequent trading positions and, as a result, turnover and brokerage commission expenses may exceed those of other investment entities of comparable size. The frequent turnover of the portfolio may also lead to inefficient tax consequences for clients.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

This Item is not applicable.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

The Firm has a service agreement with Key Group Holdings (USA) LLC ("Key Group LLC"), a limited liability company organized in Delaware, and KGHL Research (UK) Ltd, ("Key Group UK"), a private limited company incorporated in England and Wales. Key Group LLC and Key Group UK are wholly owned subsidiaries of the Firm, and perform research and trading services for the sole benefit of and use by the Firm.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Pursuant to Rule 204A-1 of the Advisers Act, Key Group has adopted a Code of Ethics and a Personal Trading Policy that establishes various procedures with respect to investment transactions in accounts in which Key Group employees or related persons have a beneficial interest or accounts over which an employee has investment discretion. Key Group and/or its officers or employees are generally not permitted to trade in the same securities that may be purchased or sold for clients. Sales of existing positions may be permitted as long as the employee has received prior approval from the Firm's Chief Compliance Officer (the "CCO").

Employees (and members of their immediate households) are permitted to invest in equities, debt, options or futures only after obtaining pre-approval from the CCO. The spirit of the Code of Ethics and the Personal Trading Policy (the "Code") is to prohibit personal trading that violates the law, interferes with employees' duties, or otherwise violates the Code and, generally, to discourage frequent trading in employee personal accounts. In addition, employees may not acquire securities for their own account in an initial public offering, and must obtain pre-approval from the CCO before participating in any private placements.

All of Key Group's employees must direct their brokers to send duplicate brokerage statements to the CCO, or make similar alternative arrangements. These records are used to monitor compliance with the foregoing policies.

The Code applies to any personal transactions in any financial instrument. Certain financial instruments, such as equity, debt, options, or futures contracts, require pre-approval from the CCO prior to effecting any transaction. Certain transactions involving government securities, open-end mutual funds, broad based exchange traded funds (ETFs) or other instruments, while not requiring pre-approval, are covered by the Firm's holdings disclosure requirements under the Code.

Key Group absolutely prohibits the misuse or inappropriate communication of inside information in connection with our securities transactions. Key Group, as well as federal and state securities laws, also prohibits the practice of market manipulation, which comprises conduct intended to deceive or defraud investors by controlling or artificially affecting the price of securities.

The Firm has also adopted communications guidelines designed to assist personnel in understanding their duties and responsibilities regarding the receipt and the communication of financial and other sensitive information.

Any outside business activities employees wish to engage in must be disclosed to, and approved by the CCO.

Key Group has adopted a policy regarding the giving and receiving of business gifts and entertainment.

Key Group has also adopted a policy governing political contributions, the holding of public office and impermissible payments. This policy is designed, among other things, to address the requirements of Rule 206(4)-5 under the Advisers Act.

Key Group's Code of Ethics and Personal Trading Policy are available upon request.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

As an adviser and a fiduciary to client accounts, Key Group requires that clients' interests must always be placed first and foremost, and our trading practices and procedures prohibit unfair trading practices. Key Group seeks to disclose and avoid any actual or potential conflicts of interests or resolve such conflicts in our clients' favor. Key Group has adopted the following policies and practices to meet the Firm's fiduciary responsibilities and to ensure our trading practices are fair.

Aggregation

When appropriate, we may, but are not required to, aggregate client orders to achieve more efficient execution or to provide for equitable treatment among accounts. Client accounts participating in aggregated trades will be allocated securities based on the average price achieved for such trades.

Allocation

Our policy prohibits any allocation of trades in a manner that would cause any client account, including accounts where the Firm's directors and/or employees are beneficial owners of more than a 25% interest in the account, to receive more favorable treatment than other client accounts.

Key Group generally allocates trades for client accounts on a pari passu basis based on the gross market value of the participating accounts subject however to the differing capital size, leverage, cash availability, risk parameters and other such factors affecting such accounts and/or arrangements. The intention of this allocation policy is that unlevered performance of each relevant account be substantially similar to that of other accounts and/or arrangements managed by Key Group in a similar strategy.

Key Group does not intend to execute principal trades or cross trades.

Best Execution

Key Group's goal of achieving best execution in our securities transactions, taking all relevant factors into consideration, is integral to our business. Traders are authorized to make investment decisions on behalf of client accounts (subject to applicable trading guidelines), and in doing so are responsible to meet "best execution" standards, that is, to ensure that transactions are executed in such a manner that the Firm's total trading-related costs (including costs of relevant research relating to trading) are minimized while trade prices are optimal. Brokerage allocations are to be made in consideration of such factors as price; transaction costs; speed and size of execution; a broker's ability to effect the transactions; its facilities, reliability and financial responsibility; its commitment of capital in appropriate circumstances; as well as other factors that are deemed appropriate to consider under the circumstances.

Principal Trading

Key Group's policy and practice is to not engage in any principal transactions.

Soft Dollars

Key Group does not currently have any soft dollar or commission sharing arrangements in place. Key Group as a result of its trading with brokers may utilize "soft dollars" generated by its trading activities for the benefit of client accounts to purchase research and brokerage products and services that we believe meet the requirements of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Section 28(e)"), and the SEC interpretations thereof, in jurisdictions and transactions where Section 28(e) applies. Such research products or services may include research reports on particular industries and companies, economic surveys and analyses, recommendations as to specific securities, and relevant market data, as well as other products and services that provide assistance to us in the performance of their investment and trading decision-making responsibilities. Brokerage products or services provided to us may include message services used to transmit orders to brokers for execution, trading software used to route orders to market centers, software used to transmit orders to direct market access systems and short-term custody. Where a product or service obtained with soft dollars provides both research or brokerage and non-research or non-brokerage assistance (i.e., a "mixed use" item), Key Group will make a reasonable allocation of the cost which may be paid for with commission dollars.

Key Group may generate soft dollars with commissions on securities transactions, and, in accordance with SEC interpretations, with mark-ups, markdowns, commission equivalents or other fees paid to a dealer for executing a transaction. In addition, to the extent consistent with applicable regulatory requirements, soft dollars may be generated through futures transactions, certain principal transactions, non-U.S. transactions, or other transactions where it is lawful and not inconsistent with Section 28(e).

Item 13: Review of Accounts

Review of Accounts

The accounts managed by the Firm are reviewed on a daily basis from an operational standpoint for proper positions and correct accounting of profit and loss and balances.

Reporting

Clients assets are held at a third-party qualified custodian. Client access to portfolio data and analytics, including real-time position level data, is determined on a client-by-client basis, based on the needs of the client. Key Group does not have custody of client accounts.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Key Group does not currently employ any third-party marketers or solicitors for client referrals.

Key Group does not currently provide advice to parties other than the Fund, the Account and the Managed Account, though it may do so in the future. The Firm also does not provide other advisory services to the investors in the Fund, the Account or the Managed Account.

Item 15: Custody

Key Group will comply with the requirements of the Rule 206(4)-2 of the Advisers Act ("Custody Rule") with regards to custody of assets of the Fund.

The Fund's accounts are held in custody at qualified custodians including an unaffiliated broker-dealer or banking institution.

Annually, upon completion of the Fund's annual audit, we will distribute to the investors the audited financials within 120 days of the calendar year end, in compliance with the Custody Rule.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

Key Group possesses discretionary portfolio management authority over client accounts with respect to asset allocations and direct investments as per the applicable investment management agreement.

Key Group has the authority to determine (i) the securities to be purchased and sold for client accounts (subject to restrictions on its activities set forth in the applicable investment management agreement and any written investment guidelines) and (ii) the amount of securities to be purchased or sold for client accounts.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

To the extent Key Group has been delegated proxy voting authority on behalf of its Client, the Fund and the Managed Account, Key Group complies with its proxy voting policies and procedures that are designed to ensure that in cases where Key Group votes proxies with respect to Client, Fund or Managed Account securities, such proxies are voted in the best interest of the Account, the Fund or the Managed Account. Proxies are voted on a case by case basis and in consultation with the Client. If Key Group believes it is useful to vote a proxy in relation to the Account, the Firm must send a request to the Client prior to the record date for the vote including details of the intended vote and the reason for desiring to vote, including any material documents or substantiation. The Client will review each request and approve or reject the request accordingly. The Account, the Fund and the Managed Account trade pari passu and therefore, in most instances Client approval will be necessary.

Any intended vote that is based on Key Group's subjective intent to (i) influence or control the management or operations of a company, (ii) act in any manner that constitutes or may reasonably be interpreted as activist investing or coordinated investing with another party, is subject to the additional requirements specified in the Client's policy concerning "Activist Investing and Coordination".

Any known conflicts of interest should be identified in the request to the Client and will be considered and resolved, as appropriate by the Client.

Upon request, Key Group will provide the Client, investors in the Fund, and the Managed Accounts, with a copy of our proxy voting policies and procedures and/or a record of all proxy votes cast by the Account, the Fund or the Managed Accounts.

Item 18: Financial Information

This Item is not applicable.
