Item 4: Advisory Business

A. Description of the Advisory Firm

Factor Technologies Inc., DBA Hummingbird.Money (hereinafter "HBM") is a Corporation organized in the State of Delaware.

The firm was formed in September 2012, and the principal owners are Christopher John Mendoza and Ian Ananda Lucas.

B. Types of Advisory Services

Hummingbird.Money

The Hummingbird.Money program offers software based investment management advice based on modern portfolio theory. We create an investment plan and manage a clients's portfolio by seeking to determine 1) suitable asset classes in which to invest, 2) suitable funds or other investments to represent each asset class, 3) the optimized mix of assets based on the Client's risk tolerance, and 4) an appropriate rebalancing schedule for the Client's portfolio.

Fees for the Hummingbird.Money program is 0.35 % of assets under management at all asset levels..

Furthermore, HBM offers ongoing portfolio management services based on the individual goals, objectives, time horizon, and risk tolerance of each client. HBM creates an Investment Policy Statement for each client, which outlines the client's current situation (income, tax levels, and risk tolerance levels). Portfolio management services include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Investment strategy
- Asset allocation
- Risk tolerance
- Personal investment policy
- Asset selection
- Regular portfolio monitoring

HBM evaluates the current investments of each client with respect to their risk tolerance levels and time horizon. HBM will request discretionary authority from clients in order to select securities and execute transactions without permission from the client prior to each transaction. Risk tolerance levels are documented in the Investment Policy Statement, which is given to each client.

HBM seeks to provide that investment decisions are made in accordance with the fiduciary duties owed to its accounts and without consideration of HBM's economic, investment or other financial interests. To meet its fiduciary obligations, HBM attempts to avoid, among other things, investment or trading practices that systematically advantage or disadvantage certain client portfolios, and accordingly, HBM's policy is to seek fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities/transactions among its clients to avoid favoring one client over another over time. It is HBM's policy to allocate investment opportunities and transactions it identifies as being appropriate and prudent among its clients on a fair and equitable basis over time.

Limited Access to Advisor

HBM serves as an "Internet-Only" investment advisor pursuant to Section 203A-2(e) of the Advisers Act. Under this registration the Advisor provides its investment advisory solely through its interactive website. The Advisor is not available to Clients for telephone conversations or communications through other means such as U.S. mail, courier or email (other than operational emails). The Advisor does not meet with Client's at its offices. All advice, support and inquiries are delivered through the Advisor's website. The Advisor may, for a limited number of Clients annually, provide customized services, subject to the limitations set forth in Section 203A-2(e) of the Advisers Act.

Services Limited to Specific Types of Investments

HBM generally limits its investment advice to mutual funds, fixed income securities, equities, ETFs and non-U.S. securities, although HBM primarily recommends equity ETFs to a majority of its clients. HBM may use other securities as well to help diversify a portfolio when applicable. HBM, at its sole discretion, may change the ETF and other products used to implement the clients investment policy.

C. Client Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

HBM offers the same suite of services to all of its clients. However, specific client investment strategies and their implementation are dependent upon the client Investment Policy Statement which outlines each client's current situation (income, tax levels, and risk tolerance levels). Clients may not impose restrictions in investing in certain securities or types of securities in accordance with their values or beliefs.

Minimum Account Size

There is no minimum account size for Hummingbird.Money Services.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Methods of Analysis

HBM's methods of analysis include fundamental analysis, technical analysis, quantitative analysis and modern portfolio theory.

Fundamental analysis involves the analysis of financial statements, the general financial health of companies, and/or the analysis of management or competitive advantages.

Technical analysis involves the analysis of past market data; primarily price and volume.

Quantitative analysis deals with measurable factors as distinguished from qualitative considerations such as the character of management or the state of employee morale, such as the value of assets, the cost of capital, historical projections of sales, and so on.

Modern portfolio theory is a theory of investment that attempts to maximize portfolio expected return for a given amount of portfolio risk, or equivalently minimize risk for a given level of expected return, each by carefully choosing the proportions of various asset.

Investment Strategies

HBM uses long term trading.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

B. Material Risks Involved

Methods of Analysis

Fundamental analysis concentrates on factors that determine a company's value and expected future earnings. This strategy would normally encourage equity purchases in stocks that are undervalued or priced below their perceived value. The risk assumed is that the market will fail to reach expectations of perceived value.

Technical analysis attempts to predict a future stock price or direction based on market trends. The assumption is that the market follows discernible patterns and if these patterns can be identified then a prediction can be made. The risk is that markets do not always follow patterns and relying solely on this method may not take into account new patterns that emerge over time.

Quantitative Model Risk: Investment strategies using quantitative models may perform differently than expected as a result of, among other things, the factors used in the models, the weight placed on each factor, changes from the factors' historical trends, and technical issues in the construction and implementation of the models.

Modern Portfolio Theory assumes that investors are risk adverse, meaning that given two portfolios that offer the same expected return, investors will prefer the less risky one. Thus, an investor will take on increased risk only if compensated by higher expected returns. Conversely, an investor who wants higher expected returns must accept more risk. The exact trade-off will be the same for all investors, but different investors will evaluate the trade-off differently based on individual risk aversion characteristics. The implication is that a rational investor will not invest in a portfolio if a second portfolio exists with a more favorable risk-expected return profile – i.e., if for that level of risk an alternative portfolio exists which has better expected returns.

Investment Strategies

Long term trading is designed to capture market rates of both return and risk. Due to its nature, the long-term investment strategy can expose clients to various types of risk that will typically surface at various intervals during the time the client owns the investments. These risks include but are not limited to inflation (purchasing power) risk, interest rate risk, economic risk, market risk, and political/regulatory risk.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

C. Risks of Specific Securities Utilized

Clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any investment strategy. The investment types listed below are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency.

Mutual Funds: Investing in mutual funds carries the risk of capital loss and thus you may lose money investing in mutual funds. All mutual funds have costs that lower investment returns. The funds can be of bond “fixed income” nature (lower risk) or stock “equity” nature.

Equity investment generally refers to buying shares of stocks in return for receiving a future payment of dividends and/or capital gains if the value of the stock increases. The value of equity securities may fluctuate in response to specific situations for each company, industry conditions and the general economic environments.

Fixed income investments generally pay a return on a fixed schedule, though the amount of the payments can vary. This type of investment can include corporate and government debt securities, leveraged loans, high yield, and investment grade debt and structured products, such as mortgage and other asset-backed securities, although individual bonds may be the best known type of fixed income security. In general, the fixed income market is volatile and fixed income securities carry interest rate risk. (As interest rates rise, bond prices usually fall, and vice versa. This effect is usually more pronounced for longer-term securities.) Fixed income securities also carry inflation risk, liquidity risk, call risk, and credit and default risks for both issuers and counterparties. The risk of default on treasury inflation protected/inflation linked bonds is dependent upon the U.S. Treasury defaulting (extremely unlikely); however, they carry a potential risk of losing share price value, albeit rather minimal. Risks of investing in foreign fixed income securities also include the general risk of non-U.S. investing described below.

Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs): An ETF is an investment fund traded on stock exchanges, similar to stocks. Investing in ETFs carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding bankruptcy). Areas of concern include the lack of transparency in products and increasing complexity, conflicts of interest and the possibility of inadequate regulatory compliance.

Non-U.S. securities present certain risks such as currency fluctuation, political and economic change, social unrest, changes in government regulation, differences in accounting and the lesser degree of accurate public information available.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

HBM always acts in the best interest of the client; including the sale of commissionable products to advisory clients. Clients are in no way required to utilize the services of any representative of HBM in connection with such individual's activities outside of HBM.

All material conflicts of interest under California Code of Regulations Section 260.238(k) are disclosed regarding the investment adviser, its representatives or any of its employees, which could be reasonably expected to impair the rendering of unbiased and objective advice.

D. Selection of Other Advisers or Managers and How This Adviser is Compensated for Those Selections

HBM does not utilize nor select third-party investment advisers. All assets are managed by HBM management.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics

HBM has a written Code of Ethics that covers the following areas: Prohibited Purchases and Sales, Insider Trading, Personal Securities Transactions, Exempted Transactions, Prohibited Activities, Conflicts of Interest, Gifts and Entertainment, Confidentiality, Service on a Board of Directors, Compliance Procedures, Compliance with Laws and Regulations, Procedures and Reporting, Certification of Compliance, Reporting Violations, Compliance Officer Duties, Training and Education, Recordkeeping, Annual Review, and Sanctions. HBM's Code of Ethics is available free upon request to any client or prospective client.

B. Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

HBM does not recommend that clients buy or sell any security in which a related person to HBM or HBM has a material financial interest.

C. Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

From time to time, representatives of HBM may buy or sell securities for themselves that they also recommend to clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of HBM to buy or sell the same securities before or after recommending the same securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. Such transactions may create a conflict of interest. HBM will always document any transactions that could be construed as conflicts of interest and will never engage in trading that operates to the client's disadvantage when similar securities are being bought or sold.

D. Trading Securities At/Around the Same Time as Clients' Securities

From time to time, representatives of HBM may buy or sell securities for themselves at or around the same time as clients. This may provide an opportunity for representatives of HBM to buy or sell securities before or after recommending securities to clients resulting in representatives profiting off the recommendations they provide to clients. Such transactions may create a conflict of interest; however, HBM will never engage in trading that operates to the client's disadvantage if representatives of HBM buy or sell securities at or around the same time as clients.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker/Dealers

Custodians/broker-dealers will be recommended based on HBM's duty to seek "best execution," which is the obligation to seek execution of securities transactions for a client on the most favorable terms for the client under the circumstances. Clients will not necessarily pay the lowest commission or commission equivalent, and HBM may also consider the market expertise and research access provided by the broker-dealer/custodian, including but not limited to access to written research, oral communication with analysts, admittance to research conferences and other resources provided by the brokers that may aid in HBM's research efforts. HBM will never charge a premium or commission on transactions, beyond the actual cost imposed by the broker-dealer/custodian.

HBM will require clients to use TD Ameritrade Institutional. Member FINRA/SIPC/NFA.

1. Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

While HBM has no formal soft dollars program in which soft dollars are used to pay for third party services, HBM may receive research, products, or other services from custodians and broker-dealers in connection with client securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits"). HBM may enter into soft-dollar arrangements consistent with (and not outside of) the safe harbor contained in Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. There can be no assurance that any particular client will benefit from soft dollar research, whether or not the client's transactions paid for it, and HBM does not seek to allocate benefits to client accounts proportionate to any soft dollar credits generated by the accounts. HBM benefits by not having to produce or pay for the research, products or services, and HBM will have an incentive to recommend a broker-dealer based on receiving research or services. Clients should be aware that HBM's acceptance of soft dollar benefits may result in higher commissions charged to the client. The research and other soft dollar benefits HBM received will not cause clients to pay commissions higher than those charged by broker-dealers in return for soft dollar benefits. The research and other soft dollar benefits HBM received are used to service all clients. Adviser seeks to allocate soft dollar benefits to client accounts proportionately to the soft dollar credits the accounts generate.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

HBM receives no referrals from a broker-dealer or third party in exchange for using that broker-dealer or third party.

3. Clients Directing Which Broker/Dealer/Custodian to Use

HBM will require clients to use a specific broker-dealer to execute transactions. Not all advisers require clients to use a particular broker-dealer.

B. Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

HBM may, at its sole discretion, aggregate or bunch the securities to be purchased or sold for multiple clients. If HBM does not aggregate, this may result in less favorable prices, particularly for illiquid securities or during volatile market conditions for some clients.

Item 13: Reviews of Accounts

A. Frequency and Nature of Periodic Reviews and Who Makes Those Reviews

All client accounts for HBM's advisory services provided on an ongoing basis are reviewed at least quarterly by Christopher J Mendoza, President or a qualified investment professional on his staff with regard to clients' respective investment policies and risk tolerance levels. All accounts at HBM are assigned to this reviewer.

B. Factors That Will Trigger a Non-Periodic Review of Client Accounts

Reviews may be triggered by material market, economic or political events, or by changes in client's financial situations (such as retirement, termination of employment, physical move, or inheritance) once we have been notified of the change in financial situation by the client in writing.

C. Content and Frequency of Regular Reports Provided to Clients

Each client of HBM's advisory services provided on an ongoing basis will receive a quarterly report detailing the client's account, including assets held, asset value, and calculation of fees. This written report will come from the custodian.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Economic Benefits Provided by Third Parties for Advice Rendered to Clients (Includes Sales Awards or Other Prizes)

HBM does not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly from any third party for advice rendered to HBM's clients.

B. Compensation to Non – Advisory Personnel for Client Referrals

HBM does not directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not advisory personnel for client referrals.

Item 15: Custody

When advisory fees are deducted directly from client accounts at client's custodian, HBM will be deemed to have limited custody of client's assets and must have written authorization from the client to do so. Clients will receive all account statements and billing invoices that are required in each jurisdiction, and they should carefully review those statements for accuracy.

When advisory fees are deducted directly from client accounts at client's custodian, HBM will be deemed to have limited custody of client's assets. Because client fees will be withdrawn directly from client accounts, HBM will:

- (A) Possess written authorization from the client to deduct advisory fees from an account held by a qualified custodian.
- (B) Send the qualified custodian written notice of the amount of the fee to be deducted from the client's account and verify that the qualified custodian sends invoices to the client.
- (C) Send the client a written invoice itemizing the fee upon or prior to fee deduction, including the formula used to calculate the fee, the time period covered by the fee and the amount of assets under management on which the fee was based.

Clients will receive all account statements and billing invoices that are required in each jurisdiction, and they should carefully review those statements for accuracy. Clients are urged to compare the account statements they received from custodian with those they received from HBM.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

HBM provides discretionary investment advisory services to clients. The Investment Advisory Contract established with each client sets forth the discretionary authority for trading. Where investment discretion has been granted, HBM generally manages the client's account and makes investment decisions without consultation with the client as to when the securities are to be bought or sold for the account, the total amount of the securities to be bought/sold, what securities to buy or sell, or the price per share. Where HBM does not have discretionary authority to place trade orders, HBM will secure client permission prior to effecting securities transactions for the client's account. HBM will also have discretionary authority to determine the broker dealer to be used for a purchase or sale of securities for a client's account.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities (Proxy Voting)

HBM will not ask for, nor accept voting authority for client securities. Clients will receive proxies directly from the issuer of the security or the custodian. Clients should direct all proxy questions to the issuer of the security.

Item 18: Financial Information

A. Balance Sheet

HBM neither requires nor solicits prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client, six months or more in advance, and therefore is not required to include a balance sheet with this brochure.

B. Financial Conditions Reasonably Likely to Impair Ability to Meet Contractual Commitments to Clients

Neither HBM nor its management has any financial condition that is likely to reasonably impair HBM's ability to meet contractual commitments to clients.

HBM has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition in the last ten years.
