Client should read and consider the information contained in this brochure. There is no assurance that the objectives of any client will be achieved.

Advisory Services

Triad Advisors, Inc. (“Triad”) is registered as both an investment adviser and a broker-dealer. Each client has an Investment Adviser Representative. Investment Adviser Representatives are generally broker-dealer representatives of Triad. In addition, the Investment Adviser Representative is an advisory representative of Triad or is an advisory representative of an independently registered investment adviser.

If your Investment Adviser Representative is a Triad Investment Adviser Representative, Triad is providing consulting services to you in addition to brokerage and program services, as described in this brochure. If your Investment Adviser Representative is acting as a representative of an independently registered investment adviser, that independently registered investment adviser is providing consulting services to you, and you will receive a disclosure brochure from that firm. For the purposes of this document, the term “Advisory Firm” refers to either Triad or the independently registered investment adviser, whichever is providing consulting services to you.

Clients who wish to participate in the Triad Private Managed Account Program (“PMA”) generally enter into a PMA agreement. The PMA agreement will set forth which Advisory Firm is providing consulting services to you.

Clients inform their Investment Adviser Representatives of the investment objectives, risk tolerance, and investment time horizon, and any investment policies, guidelines, or reasonable restrictions applicable to the assets they designate for investment through the PMA Program. Based on the information provided, the Investment Adviser Representative assists the client in selecting one or more (“Managers”) to provide discretionary management services for the client’s account from those available through PMA.

Any restrictions on the management of an account imposed by a client may cause the Investment Adviser Representative to deviate from the investment decisions or recommendations that the Investment Adviser Representative would otherwise make with respect to the account.

The Investment Adviser Representative may provide additional consulting services in connection with particular Managers. For example, a Manager may offer clients a variety of investment strategies or may offer clients access to other third-party portfolio managers. In those cases, the Investment Adviser Representative will assist the client in selecting an investment strategy or specific portfolio managers. The Investment Adviser Representative may also assist the client in allocating assets among strategies or managers. The consulting services that the Investment Adviser Representative provides in connection with a particular program are set forth in the agreement that the client signs with the Advisory Firm. The Investment Adviser Representative, Manager or the third-party portfolio managers that Manager makes available, may have discretion over client assets invested in the program. Manager may also have discretion in choosing or removing client assets from one third-party portfolio manager to another. The client will receive a disclosure brochure describing each Manager selected and the various services that the Manager offers. Clients may also receive separate disclosure brochures for the third-party portfolio managers that clients may select through the Manager. Clients should read these programs carefully before deciding whether to invest through a particular Manager or select a particular portfolio manager made available through that Manager. The Investment Adviser Representatives will generally not have discretion to select Managers, investment strategies or third-party portfolio managers, unless specifically set forth in the client’s agreement with the Advisory Firm.

Portfolio Management

Accounts may be managed by Investment Adviser Representative, Managers or by third-party managers made available through the Managers. Clients sign a separate agreement with each Manager selected. The client's selection of a Manager will not be effective until the client is accepted by the Manager. The client's agreement with the Manager sets forth the terms and conditions under which the client's accounts are managed by the Manager or by third-party portfolio managers made available through the Manager.

Execution of Trades

Triad Advisors will generally also act as broker-dealer.

Custody

An unaffiliated entity acts as custodian for PMA accounts. The custodian is named in the client's agreement with Triad or the RIA, as applicable. National Financial Services, LLC ("NFS") will act as custodian.

Fees and Compensation

The client pays a quarterly Wrap Fee which is calculated based on a percentage of the value of the client's account. The maximum annual Wrap Fee rate is 2.75 % annually. The Wrap Fee rate may be a flat annual fee rate, a tiered rate, or a breakpoint schedule depending on which underlying manager or platform utilized. A linear or flat fee rate is a flat fee percentage applied to all billable assets. When a breakpoint fee rate is selected, the entire household, portfolio or account value is charged at the rate that corresponds to the asset value range in which billable asset values fall. In a tiered fee rate schedule, the household, portfolio or account value is charged the corresponding fee percentage within each range. Please review the applicable client agreement for the availability of each option.

The Wrap Fee is negotiable based on a variety of factors, such as size and type of account, complexity, range of services utilized, etc.

Either party at any time, and upon written notice, may terminate the PMA agreement and a pro rata portion of any Wrap Fee paid by the client in advance will be remitted to the client based on the number of days left in the quarter, following receipt of the notice of termination by Triad.

The Wrap Fee covers the consulting and advisory services provided by the Investment Adviser Representatives, Triad's program administrative services, execution of transactions through Triad and custodial services provided by NFS (unless otherwise agreed between the custodian and the client).

The Wrap Fee does not cover:

Manager Fees. Managers charge the client separately for their services and for the services of any third-party portfolio managers selected by the client. The fee that the client pays to Manager will be set forth in the client's separate agreement with the Manager. This fee is in addition to the Wrap Fee paid under this agreement for services provided by the Investment Adviser Representative and Triad. For more information, see the disclosure document provided by the Manager.

Certain Performance Reporting Fees. The Investment Adviser Representative may provide certain clients with quarterly performance reports and may charge a quarterly fee for these reports in addition to the Wrap Fee. The Investment Adviser Representative will provide clients to be charged this fee with additional information about the fee, including the amount.

Other broker-dealer and custodian fees, costs and compensation. Other costs that may be assessed by broker-dealers or the custodian and that are not included in the Wrap Fee include: fees for transactions executed away from Triad, dealer mark-ups and spreads paid to market-makers. The Management Fee also does not cover debit balances or related margin interest, “mark-ups” and “mark-downs” or “dealer spreads” that broker-dealers (including broker dealer affiliates) may receive when acting as principal in certain transactions, brokerage commission or other charges resulting from transactions not effected through Triad. The Management Fee also does not cover costs associated with exchanging foreign currencies, odd-lot differentials, IRA fees, transfer taxes, exchange fees, wire transfer fees, extensions, non-sufficient funds, mailgrams, legal transfers, bank wire charges, postage fees or SEC fees or other fees or taxes required by law.

Triad may recommend or select funds for inclusion for accounts that are in Triad’s Premier Funds program which Triad maintains in its capacity as a broker-dealer. Under the Premier Funds program, in exchange for certain benefits, such as broader access by Triad’s representatives, mutual fund and variable annuity sponsors in the program are required to pay for participation in the program by sharing with Triad a portion of the revenue generated from the sales of their products. Certain product sponsors also provide for the payment of a marketing allowance to Triad which may be based upon a percentage of the amount of the sponsor’s product purchased by clients. Triad, at its sole discretion, may under certain circumstances share all or some of any marketing allowance payments with its registered representatives as part of compensating them for marketing and distribution expenditures incurred promoting the sponsor’s products. Although Triad may receive this compensation in its capacity as broker-dealer, no portion of any compensation received under the Premier Funds program is passed through to your Investment Adviser Representative in connection with your advisory account. This additional compensation, called revenue sharing, are in addition to commissions, annual service fees (known as 12b-1 fees), and other fees and expenses disclosed in a fund’s prospectus fee table. These revenue sharing payments are paid out of the Investment Adviser’s or other affiliate’s assets—not from the fund’s total assets— and, therefore, would not appear as an item in a fund’s expense table. For the most current list of Premier fund families, please ask your Investment Advisory Representative or contact Triad directly at the number listed on the first page.

In addition, as broker-dealer, Triad may execute fixed income trades through Advisors Asset Management. Triad receives payments from Advisors Asset Management for having directed a volume of transactions to them for execution of orders for client accounts, which may include advisory accounts. This compensation does not affect the price that clients pay for securities or the transaction charges they pay. More information about these payments is available upon request.

Triad as broker-dealer or custodian may charge clients certain additional and/or minimum fees. In addition to the Program Fee, each mutual fund or ETF in which clients may invest also bears its own investment advisory fees and other expenses. The mutual funds available through PMA may be available directly from the funds pursuant to the terms of their prospectuses and without paying the Wrap Fee or Manager fee.

Exchange-traded funds are also available outside of PMA without paying the Wrap Fee or Manager fee, subject to applicable commissions and/or transaction charges. Further, to the extent that cash used for investment comes from redemptions of a client’s mutual fund or other investments outside of the Program, there may be tax consequences or additional cost from sales charges previously paid and redemption fees incurred. Such redemption fees would be in addition to the Wrap Fee on those assets.

Additional expenses associated with the specific underlying investment funds such as, redemption fees may apply. Certain mutual funds used in the Program may charge a redemption fee if shares are redeemed within a specified period of time. Clients may incur redemption fees in the event that a sell is executed or model update is implemented. Redemption fees vary by fund and are described in each fund’s prospectus.

Managers may also actively trade option contracts or on margin for client's accounts, which could result in a high portfolio turnover ratio. Additionally, the use of margin may also result in interest charges as well as all other fees and expenses associated with the security or account involved. Advisory fees for accounts with margin are billed net of the margin debt held in your account. Triad receives a portion of the margin interest charge for a Client's margin balance for accounts at National Financial Services ("NFS"). Our affiliation with Triad and the receipt of this margin interest is a conflict of interest. This conflict of interest is mitigated by the review of each client's application for margin to ensure it is consistent with your stated needs, objectives and financial situation. The receipt of a portion of the margin interest charged does not reduce your advisory management fee. You may also choose to use certain assets in your account to collateralize lending via a non-purpose loan referred to as a credit line from an unaffiliated lender. The collateralized accounts will not receive a credit or adjustment of advisory fees for a non-purpose loan held in a separate non-advisory account. Investment Adviser Representatives may refer you to a third party lending institution should you wish to obtain a loan using your securities as collateral. Triad may receive a fee for such a referral with certain lenders. This fee will not reduce your advisory management fee. Please see the section titled Types of Investments and Risks: Margin & Lending Risk for additional information.

Triad may receive distribution or service ("trail") fees from the sale of certain mutual funds (including money market funds), pursuant to a 12(b)-1 distribution plan or other such plan as compensation for distribution or administrative services. Triad may also receive marketing reallowances and other revenue sharing payments from the sale of limited partnerships, real estate investment trusts (REITs), business development companies and other products on our platform as compensation for distribution or administrative services. These fees may be negotiated by Triad and are distributed from the fund's total assets or charged to the client as a portion of internal expenses by the product sponsor. These fee arrangements will be disclosed upon request of a client and are available in the applicable fund's prospectus or a product's offering documents. Triad may also participate in revenue sharing arrangements based on fees charged on certain mutual funds available on various custodial/recordkeeper platforms. These revenue sharing payments could potentially lead an Investment Adviser Representative to focus more on products offered by firms that make revenue sharing payments to Triad than those firms that do not make such payments when recommending services to their clients

Triad offers the Bank Deposit Sweep Program; this may be the only vehicle available for cash balances (from deposits to the account, securities transactions, dividend and interest payments and other activities) in the account. In addition to the advisory fee, Triad receives compensation in connection with these cash balances held in the account. If cash is swept into a money market fund or the Bank Deposit Sweep Program, Triad receives compensation based on the value of assets in these funds or accounts as broker-dealer. This fee will reduce the amount of interest that clients receive in connection with cash held in their accounts. We will also pay a fee to National Financial Services. Triad will not receive a fee in connections with the Bank Deposit Sweep Program with respect to cash in certain retirement accounts. In such cases, the fee will be retained by the Custodian. Your Investment Adviser Representative will not receive any portion of the Bank Deposit Sweep Program fee received by Triad. Triad has an incentive to recommend that clients select a money market fund or the Bank Deposit Sweep Program as a sweep vehicle as it may pay more compensation to Triad than other funds or available sweep options, if any. Specific program features of the Bank Deposit Sweep Program are further explained in a separate disclosure document provided to all brokerage clients. For additional information on the Bank Deposit Sweep Program including participating banks please contact your Investment Adviser Representative or the number listed on the first page of this document.

Most Triad Investment Adviser Representatives are also registered broker-dealer representatives of Triad. Triad may share a portion of payments received from a mutual fund or in connection with an initial public offering, a secondary offering, and/or a private placement with these representatives. Triad and its representatives may also receive compensation, such as 12(b)-1 or services fees, in connection with the sale of funds including the Triad Premier Funds program. Triad Investment Adviser Representatives may also receive a portion of the compensation that Triad receives as a member of a selling syndicate. Thus, Triad and its representatives have an incentive to recommend participating sponsors in the Triad Premier Funds program, certain mutual funds and to recommend purchases of sales in certain offerings because the Triad and its representatives will receive more compensation in connection with these securities than in connection with other types of securities.

Clients should also consider the transactions costs and/or tax consequences that might result from rebalancing. Frequent rebalancing may incur additional costs and/or tax consequences versus less rebalancing. Rebalancing involves restoring your original asset allocation by shifting your funds among investment categories to regain ratios that may have been decided initially upon designing your portfolio or decided during the course of your relationship with Triad.

Comparison Cost of Service

The Wrap Fee plus Manager Fee may cost clients more or less than purchasing services separately depending on the frequency of trading in the accounts, commissions charged at other broker-dealers for similar products, fees charged for like services by other broker-dealers and other factors. Among the factors that have an impact on the relative cost of the program to a particular client include the size of the account, the type of account (i.e., equity or fixed income), the size of the assets devoted to a particular strategy, and the Managers selected.

Investment Adviser Representatives receive a portion of the total Wrap Fee charged per the client's PMA Agreement which may be as high as 2.52% annually. This compensation may be more or less than what the Investment Adviser Representative would receive if the client participated in other programs or paid separately for investment advice, brokerage and other services. The Investment Adviser Representatives may therefore have a financial incentive to recommend the PMA Program over other programs or services.

However, in certain wrap fee programs, transaction or ticket charges are paid by your Investment Adviser Representative. Because of this practice you should be aware that an Investment Adviser Representative may have an incentive to limit trading activities in your account. Instead of being charged a transaction charge, Triad may be charged a flat basis point fee by our Custodians to cover transactions executed annually in an account. If Triad pays this charge or any other administrative fees, the Investment Adviser Representative may take those charges into account when the Investment Adviser Representative and the Client negotiate the asset based management fee. An account in which there are no transaction charges may cost more or less than a Client would pay if investment advice, brokerage and other services were purchased separately. An arrangement with asset based fees typically assumes a normal amount of trading activity and under particular circumstances. Prolonged periods of account inactivity may result in higher compensation than if transaction charges were paid separately by Clients for each transaction. In negotiating asset based fees and transaction charges, Investment Adviser Representatives will discuss with Clients the impact of the size of their account and the likely turnover of the account based on the proposed strategy for their account. Investment Adviser Representatives may also recommend an account structure which has varying transaction charges for certain security types (mutual funds, ETFs, equity, fixed income, options and alternatives), which are charged to the Investment Adviser Representative. As a consequence your Investment Adviser Representative has a conflict of interest in recommending one security type over another as they may receive less compensation in their choice of investments in managing your account. As a fiduciary we are required to act in the client's best interest and manage these conflicts via periodic reviews of your accounts.

Account Requirements and Types of Clients

Account Requirements

Triad does not impose an account minimum. Managers impose various account minimums, as set forth in their disclosure documents.

Types of Clients

The wrap fee programs are designed to assist clients, both individuals and institutions (such as pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, and corporations), to clarify their investment needs and to obtain professional asset management for a convenient "wrap" fee.

Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

Triad selects the Managers that are available to be selected by clients through PMA. Managers are evaluated using data and information from several sources, including the Manager and, if available, independent databases. Among the types of information analyzed are historical performance, investment philosophy, investment and styles. Also reviewed are the Manager's disclosure brochure, marketing brochures, due diligence questionnaires and other relevant information that help demonstrate the Manager's investment process. Manager performance is monitored by Triad. Managers who under-perform relative to the applicable asset class and or styles may be removed from the PMA program. Triad does not calculate or verify Manager returns, but rather relies on the returns presented by the Manager and/or third-party sources. Manager performance may not be calculated on a uniform and consistent basis.

Managers generally offer a variety of investment strategies. Some strategies may be high-risk strategies. Such strategies usually have the potential for substantial returns; however, there are correspondingly significant risks involved in the strategies. Such strategies are not intended for all investors. Clients who choose to follow high-risk strategies should be aware that there is the possibility of significant losses up to and including the possibility of the loss of all assets placed in the strategies. It is strongly recommended that clients diversify their investments and do not place all of their investments in high-risk investment strategies.

Investment Adviser Representatives identify specific Managers for particular clients based on asset size, any investment restrictions the client may wish to impose, any investment guidelines or policies that the client may have or other factors that may make a certain particular manager more desirable to the client. Clients are responsible for the initial selection of Managers. Investment Adviser Representatives use these same factors to recommend replacement of specific Managers for particular clients.

Clients will receive each Manager's disclosure document. Clients should review the disclosure document carefully for important information about the Manager, including risks associated with the selected strategy (if applicable). Each Manager is solely responsible for the truthfulness, completeness, and accuracy of its own disclosure document. Neither Triad nor the Investment Adviser Representatives are responsible for the performance of any Manager. In addition, neither Triad nor the Investment Adviser Representative shall not be responsible for any act or omission of any Manager or any misstatement or omission contained in any document prepared by or with the approval of any Manager or any loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense, whatsoever, as incurred, arising out of or attributable to such misstatement or omission or any other action or omission by a Manager.

Certain Managers seek to execute and fill transactions for institutional and other non-wrap fee/separately managed program accounts prior to those for wrap-fee/separately managed program accounts. This could have an adverse impact on the execution price clients receive if trades for institutional and non-sponsor program accounts impact the market and trading volume of the securities sought to be purchased with respect to the client's account. Manager trading and execution practices are described more fully in each manager's disclosure document.

Performance-based Fees

Neither Triad nor any Investment Adviser Representatives accept performance-based fees – that is, fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk

Investment Adviser Representatives base recommendations that they make in the PMA Account using various types of investment strategies.

Each investment style, strategy, and investment entails varying degrees of risk. There can be no assurance that a particular investment or strategy will be successful or that clients will not suffer losses. Results generated by for each account will differ, and the investment advice provided to an individual will differ from client to client. Investment performance is not guaranteed, and the Manager's past performance with respect to a client's account or other accounts does not predict future performance.

Types of Investments and Risks

Depending on the type of service being provided, Triad and Investment Adviser Representatives can recommend different types of securities, including mutual funds, unit investment trusts ("UITs"), closed end funds, ETFs, collective investment trusts, variable annuity subaccounts, equities, fixed income securities, options, private funds, and structured products. Investing in securities involves the risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Described below are some risks associated with investing and with some types of investments that an Investment Adviser Representative may recommend depending on the service provided.

- Market Risk. This is the risk that the value of securities owned by an investor may go up or down, sometimes rapidly or unpredictably, due to factors affecting securities markets generally or particular industries. The risk rating of any individual strategy or portfolio may be more or less than your stated risk profile in the short term, but should be consistent with your overall investment objectives and risk profile over the stated time horizon.
- Interest Rate Risk. This is the risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of an increase in interest rates; a bond or a fixed income fund with a longer duration will be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than a bond or bond fund with a shorter duration.
- Credit Risk. This is the risk that an investor could lose money if the issuer or guarantor of a fixed income security is unable or unwilling to meet its financial obligations.
- Closed-End Funds. Client should be aware that closed-end funds may not be readily marketable. In an effort to provide investor liquidity, the funds may offer to repurchase a certain percentage of shares at net asset value on a periodic basis. Thus, clients may be unable to liquidate all or a portion of their shares in these types of funds.
- Exchange-Traded Funds. ETFs are typically investment companies that are legally classified as open end mutual funds or UITs. However, they differ from traditional mutual funds, in particular, in that ETF shares are listed on a securities exchange. Shares can be bought and sold throughout the trading day like shares of other publicly-traded companies. ETF shares may trade at a discount or premium to their net asset value. This difference between the bid price and the ask price is often referred to as the "spread." The spread varies over time based on the ETF's trading volume and market liquidity, and is generally lower if the ETF has a lot of trading volume and market liquidity and higher if the ETF has little trading volume and market liquidity. Although many ETFs are registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 like traditional mutual funds, some ETFs, in particular those that invest in commodities, are not registered as an investment company. ETFs may be closed and liquidated at the discretion of the issuing company.

- Exchange-Traded Notes (“ETNs”). An ETN is a senior unsecured debt obligation designed to track the total return of an underlying market index or other benchmark. ETNs may be linked to a variety of assets, for example, commodity futures, foreign currency and equities. ETNs are similar to ETFs in that they are listed on an exchange and can typically be bought or sold throughout the trading day. However, an ETN is not a mutual fund and does not have a net asset value; the ETN trades at the prevailing market price. Some of the more common risks of an ETN are as follows. The repayment of the principal, interest (if any), and the payment of any returns at maturity or upon redemption are dependent upon the ETN issuer’s ability to pay. In addition, the trading price of the ETN in the secondary market may be adversely impacted if the issuer’s credit rating is downgraded. The index or asset class for performance replication in an ETN may or may not be concentrated in a specific sector, asset class or country and may therefore carry specific risks. ETNs may be closed and liquidated at the discretion of the issuing company.
- Leveraged and Inverse ETFs, ETNs and Mutual Funds. Leveraged ETFs, ETNs and mutual funds, sometimes labeled “ultra” or “2x” for example, are designed to provide a multiple of the underlying index's return, typically on a daily basis. Inverse products are designed to provide the opposite of the return of the underlying index, typically on a daily basis. These products are different from and can be riskier than traditional ETFs, ETNs and mutual funds. Although these products are designed to provide returns that generally correspond to the underlying index, they may not be able to exactly replicate the performance of the index because of fund expenses and other factors. This is referred to as tracking error. Continual re-setting of returns within the product may add to the underlying costs and increase the tracking error. As a result, this may prevent these products from achieving their investment objective. In addition, compounding of the returns can produce a divergence from the underlying index over time, in particular for leveraged products. In highly volatile markets with large positive and negative swings, return distortions are magnified over time. Because of these distortions, these products should be actively monitored, as frequently as daily, and may not be appropriate as an intermediate or long-term holding. To accomplish their objectives, these products use a range of strategies, including swaps, futures contracts and other derivatives. These products may not be diversified and can be based on commodities or currencies. These products may have higher expense ratios and be less tax-efficient than more traditional ETFs, ETNs and mutual funds.
- Structured Products. Structured products are securities derived from another asset, such as a security or a basket of securities, an index, a commodity, a debt issuance, or a foreign currency. Structured products frequently limit the upside participation in the reference asset. Structured products are senior unsecured debt of the issuing bank and subject to the credit risk associated with that issuer. This credit risk exists whether or not the investment held in the account offers principal protection. The creditworthiness of the issuer does not affect or enhance the likely performance of the investment other than the ability of the issuer to meet its obligations. Any payments due at maturity are dependent on the issuer’s ability to pay. In addition, the trading price of the security in the secondary market, if there is one, may be adversely impacted if the issuer’s credit rating is downgraded. Some structured products offer full protection of the principal invested, others offer only partial or no protection. Investors may be sacrificing a higher yield to obtain the principal guarantee. In addition, the principal guarantee relates to nominal principal and does not offer inflation protection. An investor in a structured product never has a claim on the underlying investment, whether a security, zero coupon bond, or option. There may be little or no secondary market for the securities and information regarding independent market pricing for the securities may be limited. This is true even if the product has a ticker symbol or has been approved for listing on an exchange. Tax treatment of structured products may be different from other investments held in the account (e.g., income may be taxed as ordinary income even though payment is not received until maturity). Structured CDs that are insured by the FDIC are subject to applicable FDIC limits.

- Options Risks. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as a wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells their option in the secondary market nor exercises it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose their entire investment in the option. An option writer may be assigned an exercise at any time during the period the option is exercisable. Starting with the day it is purchased, an American-style option is subject to being exercised by the option holder at any time until the option expires. This means that the option writer is subject to being assigned an exercise at any time after they have written the option until the option expires or until they have closed out their option position in a closing transaction. By contrast, the writer of an European-style or capped option is subject to assignment only when the option is exercisable or, in the case of a capped option, when the automatic exercise value of the underlying interest hits the cap price. For more information regarding the risks of options, please read the 'Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options' brochure, which can be found at www.optionsclearing.com.
- Margin & Lending Risk. Leverage increases a portfolio's risk as price swings are amplified in a margin account and clients can lose more funds than deposited if value of securities decline. We may be required to cease trading or liquidate securities in an advisory account to meet a margin call or credit line loan demand pursuant to an executed margin or non-purpose loan agreement between you and the lender or custodian. You may lose more than your original investment.
- High-Yield Debt. High-yield debt is issued by companies or municipalities that do not qualify for "investment grade" ratings by one or more rating agencies. The below investment grade designation is based on the rating agency's opinion of an issuer that it has a greater risk to repay both principal and interest and a greater risk of default than those issuers rated investment grade. High yield debt carries greater risk than investment grade debt. There is the risk that the potential deterioration of an issuer's financial health and subsequent downgrade in its rating will result in a decline in market value or default. Because of the potential inability of an issuer to make interest and principal payments, an investor may receive back less than originally invested. There is also the risk that the bond's market value will decline as interest rates rise and that an investor will not be able to liquidate a bond before maturity.
- Private Funds and Managed Futures. Private and managed futures funds may be purchased by clients meeting certain qualification standards. Investing in these funds involves additional risks including, but not limited to, the risk of investment loss due to the use of leveraging and other speculative investment practices and the lack of liquidity and performance volatility. In addition, these funds are not required to provide periodic pricing or valuation information to investors and may involve complex tax structures and delays in distributing important tax information. Client should be aware that these funds are not liquid as there is no secondary trading market available. At the absolute discretion of the issuer of the fund, there may be certain repurchase offers made from time to time. However, there is no guarantee that client will be able to redeem the fund during the repurchase offer.
- Business Development Companies ("BDCs"). BDCs are typically closed-end investment companies. Some BDCs primarily invest in the corporate debt and equity of private companies and may offer attractive yields generated through high credit risk exposures amplified through leverage. As with other high-yield investments, such as floating-rate/leveraged loan funds, private REITs and limited partnerships, investors are exposed to significant market, credit and liquidity risks. In addition, fueled by the availability of low-cost financing, BDCs run the risk of over-leveraging their relatively illiquid portfolios. Due to the illiquid nature of non-traded BDCs, investors' exit opportunities may be limited only to periodic share repurchases by the BDC at high discounts.

- Variable Annuities. If client purchases a variable annuity that is part of the program, client will receive a prospectus and should rely solely on the disclosure contained in the prospectus with respect to the terms and conditions of the variable annuity. Client should also be aware that certain riders purchased with a variable annuity may limit the investment options and the ability to manage the subaccounts.
- Company Stock. If company stock is available as an investment option to client in a retirement plan, and if client chooses to invest in company stock, client should understand the risks associated with holding company stock in a retirement plan. These risks may include, but are not necessarily limited to, lack of liquidity, over-dependency on client's employer, and less flexibility to change the allocation of plan assets. Client should pay careful consideration to the benefits of a diversified portfolio. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it can be an effective strategy to help manage investment risk.

Voting Client Securities

Proxy Voting.

Unless the Investment Adviser Representative and the client otherwise agree in writing, Investment Adviser Representative and the Advisory Firm are expressly precluded from taking any action or rendering any advice with respect to the voting of proxies solicited by, or with respect to, the issuers of any securities held in the account. The client expressly retains the authority and responsibility with respect to voting proxies for the account(s) or will delegate discretion with respect to voting such proxies to a third party. If the Investment Adviser Representative receives any proxy materials that pertain to securities held in the account, the Investment Adviser Representative will forward the materials to person designated by the client.

Class Actions.

From time to time securities held in your portfolio may be the subject of class action litigation. The decision regarding whether to file a proof of claim in a class action settlement is a question involving legal judgment. We do not instruct or give advice to you on whether or not to participate as a member of class action lawsuits and will not automatically file claims on your behalf. If you request additional assistance, we will provide any transaction information pertaining to your account that may be helpful and/or needed in order for you or your custodian to file a proof of claim in a class action.

Client Information Provided to Portfolio Managers

As described in "Services, Fees and Compensation" above, clients inform their Investment Adviser Representatives of their investment objectives, risk tolerance, and investment time horizon and give their representative any applicable investment policies, guidelines, or reasonable restrictions. Based on this information, the Investment Adviser Representative assists the client in selecting Managers and providing other consulting services, as applicable. The Investment Adviser Representative informs Triad regarding each Manager the client selects in the applicable account opening paperwork. The Investment Adviser Representative also provides Triad with information about the client.

Clients should promptly inform their Investment Adviser Representative of material changes in their financial circumstances or investment objectives. The Investment Adviser Representative will periodically discuss, at least once a year, whether the management of the account continues to reflect the investment objectives and financial requirements of the client.

Clients enter into a written agreement with each Manager that they select. The Manager collects information about clients directly from the clients.

Client Contact with Portfolio Managers

Clients are free to contact Managers for questions or consultation in regards to their accounts with or without their Investment Adviser Representatives. There are no restrictions placed on clients' ability to contact and consult with Managers. Clients may elect to have their Investment Adviser Representatives to discuss their account on their behalf.

Additional Information

Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of the adviser or the integrity of their management. The following information pertains to Triad. Managers and other Advisory Firms will provide any relevant information about them in their separate disclosure documents.

- FINRA filed a complaint against Triad on 03/22/07 (Case #2006003971501). From 1/1/06 – 3/31/06, Triad failed to report 62 of 100 corporate bond trades within the time period prescribed by FINRA Rule 6230 and in violation of FINRA Rules 2110 and 3010. During the same period, Triad failed to establish and maintain a supervisory system, including written supervisory procedures, reasonably designed to achieve compliance with Rule 6230 and in violation of Rules 2110 and 3010. Triad paid the fine of $10,000.
- FINRA filed a complaint against Triad on 03/12/2014 (Case #2011025792001). On March 12, 2014, Triad entered into an Acceptance Waiver and Consent with FINRA concerning consolidated reports, branch audits, supervision, net capital, and Regulation S-P. Triad consented to a censure, a $650,000 fine, restitution to customers totaling $375,000, and a review and revision to its consolidated report and branch audit processes.

LTAM owns 50% of Ladenburg Thalmann Fund Management, LLC, (LTFM), which is a registered investment adviser. LTFM is an adviser to an open-end registered investment company, the Boyar Value Fund, Inc. This fund is an open-end diversified management investment company. LTCO is the distributor of the fund. LTCO may share a portion of payments received from a mutual fund, Unit Investment Trust (“UIT”), Collective Investment Trust (“CIT”), or in connection with an initial public offering, a secondary offering, and/or a private placement with Triad. Investment advisor representatives may recommend that clients invest in the LTAM Alternative Strategies Fund, Boyar Fund, Ladenburg Total Portfolio Series CITs, and Ladenburg High Income Portfolio UIT, for which LTAM may act as investment adviser and LTCO may act as underwriter or distributor.

Fund Management

The Alternative Strategies Fund pays LTAM a management fee quarterly in arrears which are equal to a maximum of 0.75% per annum of the assets in the fund. For more information, see the fund’s prospectus.

CIT Management:

The Ladenburg Total Portfolio Series pays LTAM an investment management fee monthly in arrears which is equal to a maximum of 0.30% per annum of the assets in the CITs.

Ladenburg Thalmann High Income Portfolio (UIT)

For use of the Ladenburg name and providing this initial list of securities to First Trust, LTAM receives a license fee of .10% which is based on assets raised within the UIT during the offering period. In addition, LTAM receives a trust level concession from First Trust on the amount of assets raised for the UIT during its offering period, which is .15% if total assets raised exceed $15 million and .20% if total assets raised exceed $25 million. In addition, certain broker-dealers affiliated with LTAM, including Triad, will receive a portion of a dealer concession or agency commission in connection with units of the Ladenburg Thalmann High Income Portfolio UIT that they sell, if those units are subject to a sales charge. A higher concession percentage will be received by the affiliated broker-dealers if certain total sales levels of the UIT are met, as set forth in the UIT prospectus.

These recommendations create a conflict of interest because Triad, LTAM and LTCO generally receive more compensation in connection with the purchase of these funds than they do in connection with the purchase of other funds. In addition, these funds pay fees in connection with services or distribution, such as 12b-1 or service fees.

These fees are paid to Triad as broker-dealer. Triad Investment Adviser Representatives may receive part of the compensation paid to Triad in the advisor representative's capacity as a registered representative of Triad to the extent permitted by applicable law. Triad, as a fiduciary, endeavors to always act in its clients' best interest and addresses this conflict through disclosure.

Triad Investment Adviser Representatives may recommend Premier Trust to provide trust and administrative services. Premier Trust provides full disclosure with respect to its trust and administrative services and related costs.

LTCO acts as a dealer with respect to certain securities, and as such, may execute transactions for Triad clients as principal. As a dealer, LTCO may receive a "mark-up," "mark-down," and/or spread in the net price at which principal transactions are executed. This compensation is in addition to other compensation that client pays to Triad and its affiliates under the Program. Thus, Triad has a conflict of interest in deciding to execute trades through LTCO on a principal basis. Triad addresses this conflict of interest in the following ways. After receiving disclosures about a specific principal transaction with LTCO, clients have the opportunity to reject the transaction before it is completed, to the extent required by applicable law. In addition, Triad has policies and procedures in place to assure that clients receive best execution with respect to principal trades, regardless of whether the trade is executed by LTCO or an unaffiliated dealer.

Triad may also recommend that clients invest in securities issued in an initial public and secondary offering transactions for which LTCO acts as an underwriter and/or a member of the selling group or Triad acts as a member of the selling group. Triad has a conflict of interest in recommending these securities for several reasons. First, LTCO receives all or a portion of the gross spread – the difference between the price that the client pays for the security and the price that LTCO purchases the security for -- in connection with such sales. This gross spread is generally 7%, but may be higher or lower in connection with certain offering. If Triad is a member of the selling group, it also receives a portion of the gross spread. Triad Investment Adviser Representatives generally receive a portion of this compensation as broker-dealer representatives of Triad. In addition, LTCO has a substantial interest—both financial and with respect to its reputation—in assuring that the offering is successful by having a large number of the securities purchased. Finally, in connection with certain offerings, LTCO has an obligation to purchase and resell a certain number of securities. Thus, because of its affiliation with LTCO, Triad has incentives to recommend these investments in these offerings for these reasons, rather than based on a client's needs. To address these conflicts, Triad has policies and procedures in place to make sure that securities in initial public offerings are recommended only to clients for whom they are suitable given the client's investment objectives and assets. In addition, clients are generally given transaction specific disclosure prior to the client's decision to invest in such securities.

Certain Investment Adviser Representatives are licensed to sell life and annuity insurance products through Triad Insurance, Inc. (a wholly owned subsidiary of Triad), and various other companies. Triad Insurance, Inc., as well as the appropriately licensed (Investment Adviser Representative), will receive compensation for the sale of such products. Triad may recommend the purchase of insurance products in Pinnacle accounts. Clients are under no obligation to purchase insurance products through any particular insurance agency or representative.

Investment Adviser Representatives may have their own legal business entities whose business names and logos may appear on marketing materials as approved by Triad, or client statements approved by the Custodians. The Client should understand that the businesses are legal entities of the Investment Adviser Representative and not of Triad, nor the Custodians. Additionally, the business entity may provide services other than as an Investment Adviser Representative as disclosed herein and also provided to Client in each Investment Adviser Representative's

Brochure Supplement; However, investment advisory services of the Investment Adviser Representatives are provided through Triad.

Code of Ethics

Triad has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons of the firm describing our high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to our clients. All supervised persons at Triad must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics and personal securities transactions and holdings annually, or as amended.

The Code of Ethics is enforced through compliance monitoring activities and surveillance. In cases where the firm discovers that an employee has violated a firm policy and/or procedure, the firm's code of business conduct or code of ethics, a state or federal law, regulation of FINRA, the SEC, or other regulatory agency, the Compliance Department will take appropriate steps to investigate the circumstances and will take action commensurate with the manner of the violation. Such actions could take the form of a written warning to the employee in conjunction with the firm's Legal Department, or be as serious as disciplinary action up to and including termination. Any such investigations will be brought to the appropriate regulator's attention, if necessary, which may result in a disclosure of the violation on the employee's U-4 form, if required.

Triad Code of Ethics Rules are designed to ensure that our personnel: a) observe applicable legal (including compliance with applicable state and federal securities laws) and ethical standards in the performance of their duties; b) at all times place the interests of Triad clients first; c) disclose all actual or potential conflicts; d) adhere to the highest standards of loyalty, candor and care in all matters relating to Triad clients; e) conduct all personal trading consistent with the Rules and in such a manner as to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest or any abuse of their position of trust and responsibility; and f) not use any material non-public information in securities trading. The Code of Ethics also establish policies regarding other matters such as outside employment, the giving or receiving of gifts, and safeguarding portfolio holdings information.

Under the general prohibitions of these rules, Triad personnel may not: 1) effect securities transactions while in the possession of material, non-public information; 2) disclose such information to others; 3) participate in fraudulent conduct involving securities held or to be acquired by any client; and 4) engage in frequent trading activities that create or may create a conflict of interest, limit their ability to perform their job duties, or violate any provision of these rules.

Triad personnel are required to conduct their personal investment activities in a manner that is not detrimental to Triad advisory clients. They are not permitted to transact in securities except under circumstances specified in the Code of Ethics. However, as described below, there may be circumstances where Triad Investment Adviser Representatives may buy and sell on behalf of its clients, securities of issuers or other investments in which they own securities or otherwise have an interest. The policy requires all Access Persons (defined as investment personnel, which includes portfolio managers, assistant portfolio managers, research analysts and trading room personnel, officers of Triad, and other designated persons) to report all personal transactions in securities not otherwise exempt under the policy. All reportable transactions are reviewed for compliance with the Code of Ethics. The Ethics Rules are available to clients and prospective clients from Triad upon request.

A full copy of our Privacy Policy is provided, upon inception, of a new client and is provided each year thereafter. You may request a copy of our Privacy Policy at any time and a copy will be furnished within a reasonable period of time to you at your current address of record.

Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Investment Adviser Representatives may buy or sell for their own accounts, securities that are also held by their clients. Such transactions are permitted if in compliance with Triad policy on personal securities transactions. Reports of personal transactions in securities by Triad Investment Adviser Representatives are reviewed by Triad's Compliance department quarterly or more frequently if required. Client should also understand that Triad and Investment Adviser Representative may perform advisory services for various other clients, and that Triad and Investment Adviser Representative may give advice or take actions for those other clients that differ from the advice given to the client. The timing or nature of any action taken for the account may also be different.

Brokerage Practices

Triad acts as broker-dealer for accounts in these programs. Thus, by recommending one of these programs, the Investment Adviser Representative is recommending Triad as broker-dealer. The transaction charges paid in connection with these programs may be more or less than the client would pay for transactions through other broker-dealers. However, these transaction charges are determined taking into account the advisory services provided by Triad. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including the value of research provided, safety of customer funds, execution capability, commission rates and responsiveness. Accordingly, although Triad will negotiate competitive rates with our custodian, to the benefit of all clients, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for specific client account transactions. In recommending broker-dealers for custodial services, Triad considers the following:

- Quality of overall execution services provided;
- Promptness of execution;
- Creditworthiness, financial condition, and business reputation;
- Research (if any) provided;
- Promptness and accuracy of reports on execution;
- Ability and willingness to correct errors;
- Ability to access various market centers;
- The Custodian's facilities and technology;
- Commission or transaction charged to clients;
- Execution and operational capabilities of the broker-dealer

We may simultaneously enter orders to purchase or sell the same securities for the account of two or more clients. It is our practice that these orders be "batched" for ease of execution. Since there may be several prices at which the securities transactions are executed and the orders were entered as one order for all accounts. It is our practice to treat all subject accounts equally, averaging the execution prices of the related trades and applying the average price to each transaction and account. Allocations of "batched" trades also may be rounded up or rounded down to avoid odd lot or small holdings in any client account.

Triad receives no products, research, or services (i.e. soft dollars) that it would consider a factor in utilizing a particular broker-dealer. However, as a broker-dealer, Triad receives certain services and products, such as fundamental research reports, technical and portfolio analyses, pricing services, economic forecasting and general market information, historical database information and computer software that assist Triad's investment management process, from our only custodian, National Financial Services (NFS).

In addition, as broker-dealer, Triad may execute fixed income trades through Advisors Asset Management. A Triad broker-dealer representative may choose to execute through Advisors Asset Management due to their access to the bond markets, trading support services, and the ability to view competitive offerings. Triad does not receive referrals, products, research or services (i.e. soft dollars) in connection with this relationship. However, as a broker-dealer, Triad receives payments from Advisors Asset Management for having directed a volume of transactions to them for execution of orders for client accounts, which may include advisory accounts. This compensation does not affect the price that clients pay for securities or the transaction charges they pay. More information about these payments are available upon request.

Directed Brokerage.

National Financial Services may also sponsor and make available to Triad other products and services that benefit Triad but may not benefit all of its clients' accounts. These benefits may include national, regional or Triad specific educational events, conferences or meetings relating to the programs or brokerage services generally. Other potential benefits may include occasional business entertainment of personnel of Triad by NFS personnel, including meals, invitations to sporting events, including golf tournaments, and other forms of entertainment, some of which may accompany educational opportunities. Other of these products and services assist Triad in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology (and related technological training) that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts), provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of Triad's fees from its clients' accounts, and assist with back-office training and support functions, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or some substantial number of client accounts, including accounts not maintained at NFS. NFS may also make available to Triad other services intended to help Triad manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include professional compliance, legal and business consulting, publications, conferences, roundtables and webinars on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance, employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, insurance and marketing. The practice of directing brokerage is not required by all advisers and we may be unable to achieve the most favorable execution of client transactions at all times. This practice may cost clients more money, however as a fiduciary, Triad endeavors to act in its clients' best interests. Triad's recommendation/requirement that clients maintain their assets in accounts at NFS may be based in part on the benefit to Triad or the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements and not solely on the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by the Custodians, which may create a potential conflict of interest.

Review of Accounts

Triad may conduct reviews on client's accounts. Accounts are primarily reviewed by the client's Investment Adviser Representative. In addition, Triad's compliance program includes the periodic review of a sample of customer accounts for consistency with a client's risk tolerance, investment time horizon, performance objectives, and asset allocation instructions.

Clients are provided with monthly or quarterly account statements from the custodian, depending on the activity in the account. Reports include details of client holdings, asset allocation, and other transaction information.

Triad or the Investment Adviser Representative may provide you with additional account review reports. Comparisons to market indices and account performance may be used to evaluate account performance in connection with these review reports. We recommend comparing the account statements you receive from the independent custodian with those you receive from us. You should immediately inform us of any discrepancy noted between the custodian records and the reports you receive from us.

Information in these account review reports may be provided by clients or third parties. Triad does not independently verify information provided by a custodian, client or other third party, nor does Triad guarantee the accuracy or validity of such information. Triad is not liable in connection with its use of any information provided by a client, a custodian, or other third-party in the account review reports.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Triad compensates other persons for client referrals. Triad enters into an agreement with such referral agents and pays them either a flat fee or a portion of the advisory fee. The referral agent discloses to the client at the time of the solicitation, the arrangement and the compensation to be received by the referral agent. The compensation to be paid in connection with these agreements is subject to negotiation between Triad, the investment adviser representative and the referring party. These referral arrangements are designed to comply with SEC regulations as set out in 17 CFR Section 275.206(4)-3. In those states that require solicitors to be licensed or filed as an investment adviser representative, we will require the solicitor to be so licensed or filed under Triad. Triad may receive solicitors' (referral) fees based on a written agreement from unrelated investment adviser firms for referring clients for financial planning and/or investment advisory services. A disclosure letter will be provided to the client prior to or at the time of entering into any solicitation arrangement for financial planning and/or investment advisory services that identifies the solicitation fee. The solicitor's fee does not increase the fees paid by the client. In addition, fixed income transactions executed through some third-party managers are generally charged a mark-up or mark-down and a percentage of this charge is shared with our firm.

Triad may enter into agreements with third parties that will solicit clients for Triad and receive compensation for solicitation efforts. In such instances, the third party solicitor will receive either a percentage of, or a set fee from, the fee charged to the client. If a solicitor is used in connection with a client's account, the structure and arrangement of the solicitation agreement, as well as the compensation paid to the solicitor, will be fully disclosed to the client, which disclosure will be acknowledged in writing by the client when participating in a Triad program. The fee charged to a client is not affected by the use of a third-party solicitor in connection with client accounts, and a client will not be charged any additional fees for the use of such services.

As set forth in "Fees and Compensation" above, Triad and the Investment Adviser Representatives in their capacity as registered representatives of Triad, may receive compensation from third parties in connection with trades executed for or investments held in advisory accounts.

Certain mutual fund issuers and product sponsors may sponsor and pay for client luncheons, or other events, that Triad's Investment Adviser Representatives host. These arrangements may give rise to conflicts of interest, or perceived conflicts of interest, with the firm's clients in connection with Investment Adviser Representative recommendation of certain investment products. However, Triad's commitment to its clients and the policies and procedures it has adopted are designed to limit any interference with Triad's independent decision-making process when choosing the best investment for our clients.

Additionally, we receive additional compensation from Fidelity & National Financial Services ("NFS"), which serve as our Custodians for assets held in customer accounts. More specifically, Fidelity has agreed to pay us a fee when it acts as Custodian for certain assets, namely, certain non-Fidelity No Transaction Fee ("NTF") mutual funds. NTF mutual funds are mutual funds that are offered through advisors or brokers without any transaction charge. Triad receives additional compensation – from Fidelity, not from our clients – over and above the asset management fee we receive from our clients when such mutual funds are included in our portfolios, and such mutual funds are custodied at Fidelity. Notably, Fidelity mutual funds are excluded from this arrangement, meaning Triad does not receive this fee on any Fidelity mutual funds that are recommended or purchased for client accounts and custodied at Fidelity. Pursuant to Triad's agreement with Fidelity, Fidelity pays Triad from 2 to 12 basis points (or from $.02 to $.12 for every $100 every year), depending on the amount of eligible client assets held at Fidelity on an ongoing basis. Similar to the luncheons and events described above, this arrangement may, in theory, give rise to conflicts of interest, or perceived conflicts of interest, as Triad would receive more compensation by recommending, or investing in, non-Fidelity NTF funds for clients that are custodied at Fidelity. Clients should be aware, therefore, that Triad's receipt of additional compensation from Fidelity under this scenario creates a potential conflict of interest since this benefit could influence Triad's choice of (1) Fidelity over other custodians that do not furnish similar benefits and (2) non-Fidelity NTF mutual funds over other mutual funds not covered by this arrangement with Fidelity. However, Triad's commitment to its clients and the policies and procedures it has adopted are designed to limit any interference with Triad's independent decision-making process when choosing the most appropriate investments or custodian for our clients. In addition, as noted above, this additional compensation does not represent additional fees from your accounts to us; they are paid by Fidelity. Finally, we are committed to utilizing whatever fees we may receive under this arrangement to enhance our services to you.

To the extent that Triad is acting as a "Fiduciary" with respect to "Qualified Accounts" subject to "ERISA", Triad will seek to avoid or remedy any situation where its receipt of compensation from Fidelity for Support Services would be a prohibited transaction under "ERISA". For purposes of the foregoing, "ERISA" shall mean the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA") and the applicable "ERISA-mirror provisions" of Sections 4975 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended; "Fiduciary" shall be defined as that term is defined under ERISA; and "Qualified Accounts" shall mean accounts that constitute a retirement plan (including a 401(k) plan) or other employee benefit plan subject to ERISA, an account for a tax-qualified retirement plan (including a Keogh plan), or an individual retirement account under the Internal Revenue Code.

Financial Information

Registered investment advisers are required in this item to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about their financial condition. Our firm has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has not currently, nor at any time in the past ten years been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding. Triad does not require prepayment of advisory fees six months or more in advance.
