Item 4 – Services, Fees and Compensation

Equity Services, Inc. (“ESI”) is a registered broker/dealer, as well as a federally-registered investment adviser, doing business as ESI Financial Advisors (“EFA” or “the Firm”). EFA has established an asset management program called ESI Directions (“Directions”). Directions accounts may hold, but are not be limited to, stocks, bonds, options, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (“ETFs”), unit investment trusts, certificates of deposit, and structured products. Clients may include individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, or charitable organizations, corporations or other business entities.

Under the Directions program, the client and the Investment Adviser Representative (“advisory representative”) compile pertinent financial and other information to develop an investment program that will meet the client’s goals and objectives. The advisory representative uses a system provided by Envestnet, a third party vendor, to analyze the client’s information, and recommends an appropriate strategy and asset allocation, called an “investment model”. The investment model is based on the client’s needs and objectives, investment time horizon, risk tolerance and any other pertinent factors. The advisory representative then recommends securities that correspond to the recommended investment model. Advisory representatives across EFA may make different recommendations for the same investment strategies. Advisory representatives that qualify to participate in Directions utilize a research service that provides company- and fund-specific research from third-party providers.

EFA and its advisory representatives have no authority to implement investment transactions on a discretionary basis. All transactions must be expressly approved by the client.

Advisory representatives recommend securities to clients on the basis of the client’s individual financial situation. Each client has the opportunity to select the account’s investment objective and impose reasonable restrictions on the recommendations the advisory representative makes to the client. Additionally, clients are offered an investment review by the advisory representative, at least annually. On a quarterly basis, they are reminded to confirm the accuracy of their information, and to determine if there are any changes to their investment objectives or restrictions. The advisory representative is available to answer any questions, and to implement any changes the client may request as a result of changes in their finances, personal circumstances, or the financial markets.

EFA’s Directions program provides clients with a range of investment advisory services. EFA, the advisory representative, and Envestnet each provide certain services to the program (Envestnet and EFA are not affiliated). These services include:

- Assessment of the client’s investment needs and objectives;
- Recommendation of an investment model;
- Development of an asset allocation designed to meet the client’s objectives;
- Identification of securities that are suitable given the client’s goals;
- Evaluation of securities meeting the investment model and allocation criteria;
- Review of client accounts to ensure adherence to policy guidelines and asset allocation;

- Recommendations for account rebalancing, if necessary;
- Online and paper reporting of client account(s) performance and progress; and
- Provision of custody, trade execution, and confirmation and statement generation, through National Financial Services, LLC (“NFS”).

Upon acceptance of an account, EFA will provide the client, by and through an advisory representative, some or all of the above referenced advisory services. Though all of the above-referenced services may be offered, the client may select one or more of the services. EFA does not require the client to utilize all services offered.

Recommendations may include mutual funds affiliated with EFA (“Affiliated Funds”). Investing in an Affiliated Fund results in additional compensation being paid to EFA and/or one of its affiliates. In many cases there may be alternate funds that are available under the program which may provide the account with substantially similar exposure to the asset class or sector represented by an Affiliated Fund.

What Clients Should Know About Advisory Accounts

When making the determination of whether one of EFA's advisory programs is appropriate for their needs, clients should bear in mind that fee-based accounts, when compared with commission-based accounts, often result in lower transaction costs during periods when trading activity is heavier, such as the year an account is established. However, during periods when trading activity is lower, such fee-based accounts may result in a higher annual cost for transactions. Thus, depending on a number of factors, the total cost under a fee account versus a commission account can vary significantly. Factors which affect the cost of maintaining an account include account size, amount of turnover within the account, type and quantities of securities purchased or sold, commission rates, and the client's tax situation.

Clients should discuss the program with their advisory representative and read this Appendix 1 carefully, as it explains this program in detail.

Program Fees

Fees charged may not exceed the schedule provided in this brochure. Fees are negotiable and assessed on an individual basis according to methods disclosed to and agreed upon in advance with the client via the Statement of Investment Selection (hereinafter referred to as “Agreement”). When determining fees charged for services provided, the advisory representative considers, among other factors, the complexity of the work performed, time involved, degree of responsibility of the advisory representative, special needs and characteristics of the client, and the types of investments.

Fees charged may be more or less than if a client paid separately for investment advice, brokerage and other services, or when compared to other available programs, subject to a number of factors, such as the level of trading in a client's account, and the cost of services if provided separately. The advisory representative receives a portion of the client's fee, and this compensation may be more or less than the compensation the advisory representative would have received if the client had participated in other programs or paid separately for advice, brokerage, and other services. The advisory representative could, therefore, have a financial incentive to recommend a wrap fee program over other programs or services. The client will compensate the advisory representative for investment advisory services on an annual fee basis at the rate set forth in the Agreement. This rate ranges from 0.0% to 2.25%, and may be further reduced based on the advisory representative's compensation schedule with EFA. The fee will be payable quarterly in advance for the ESI Directions program.

New accounts opened during the first or second month of the quarter are billed initially for the days from inception to the end of the quarter, based on the inception value. New accounts opened during the last month of the quarter are billed initially for the days from inception to the end of the month, plus the next full quarter, based on the inception value. The initial quarterly payment will become due in full on the date the account is accepted and will be based on the account asset value as of that date. Subsequent quarterly fees will be calculated based upon prior calendar quarter ending balances.

No fee adjustments will be made for withdrawal of funds until adjustments are made as reflected in the next quarter's invoice. If NFS is the custodian of the client's account, cash balances in taxable accounts will be held in Fidelity Prime Fund (FDAXX) and cash balances in retirement accounts will be held in Fidelity Cash Reserves (FDRXX), unless a different election is made by the client.

Any fee owed pursuant to the terms of the Agreement will be deducted from the client's account. All fees paid will be reported to the client on the quarterly statements.

A portion of the annual advisory fee charged by EFA will be paid to NFS for administration of the account. The cost of the program will typically range from 25 bps to 50 bps, depending on whether transaction fees are included in the program or charged to the advisory representative.

The standard fee schedule for the Directions program is as noted below. However, clients are able to negotiate a different rate with the advisory representative, not to exceed the maximums listed below.:

Fee Schedule

Assets	Maximum Annual Fee
First $249,999	2.5%
$250,000 - $499,999	2.0%
$500,000 - $999,999	1.5%
$1,000,000 and Over	1.2%

The program fee does not cover certain charges associated with securities transactions in clients' accounts, including: (i) dealer markups, markdowns or spreads charged on transactions in over-the counter securities; (ii) costs relating to trading in certain foreign securities; (iii) the fees and expenses imposed by mutual funds and closed-end funds, unit investment trusts, exchange-traded funds or real estate investment trusts (such as operating expenses, management fees, redemption fees, 12b-1 fees and other fees and expenses as stated in the fund's prospectus or offering document); (iv) brokerage commissions or other charges imposed by broker-dealers or entities other than the custodian if and when trades are cleared by another broker-dealer; (v) the charge to carry tax lot information on transferred mutual funds or other pooled funds, postage and handling charges, returned check charges, transfer taxes; stock exchange fees or other fees mandated by law, and (vi) any brokerage commissions or other charges, including contingent deferred sales charges (“CDSC”), imposed upon the liquidation of “in-kind assets” that are transferred into the program. A client may incur redemption fees when the advisory representative and the client determine to sell shares of a security before the expiration of the security’s minimum holding period. Depending on the length of the redemption period, the particular investment strategy, and/or market circumstances, the advisory representative and the client may be able to minimize any redemption fees when it is reasonable to allow a client to remain invested in a security until the minimum holding period expires.

The program fee does not cover certain custodial fees that may be charged to clients by the custodian. Clients may also assume the charges for specific account services, such as ACAT transfers, electronic fund and wire transfer charges, and for other optional services elected by clients. Accounts may be subject to transaction-based ticket charges assessed by the custodian for the purchase and sale of securities and certain mutual funds. Similarly, the program fee does not cover certain non-brokerage-related fees such as individual retirement account (“IRA”) trustee or custodian fees, tax-qualified retirement plan account fees, and annual or termination fees for retirement accounts (such as IRAs).

Some mutual funds assess redemption fees to investors upon the sale of their funds within a specified time period after purchase. Depending on the particular mutual fund, this may include sales charges for rebalancing purposes. Please see the specific mutual fund’s prospectus for detailed information regarding such fees.

Item 5 – Account Requirements and Types of Clients

The minimum account size to participate in the Directions program is generally $100,000. The minimum account size is subject to increase or decrease at EFA’s discretion based upon the circumstances of each client.

Clients may include individuals, corporations, trusts, estates and charitable organizations.

Item 6 – Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

EFA has contracted with Envestnet to provide performance reporting, fee calculation and billing, and to generate suggested rebalancing trades for the client’s account. Envestnet generates a Time Weighted Rate of Return (“TWRR”), calculated net of all fees, for each account. This information is included on the client’s Quarterly Performance Report. EFA does not monitor or measure ongoing portfolio manager performance information or calculate investment performance on a uniform or consistent basis. EFA does not monitor or review performance data for accuracy.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

EFA does not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains or capital appreciation of the assets of a client).

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

EFA's advisory representatives generally use technical and/or fundamental analysis when analyzing securities. Technical analysis generally involves studying trends and movements in a security's price, trading volume, and other market-related factors in an attempt to discern patterns. Fundamental analysis generally involves assessing a company's or security's value based on factors such as sales, assets, markets, management, products and services, earnings, and financial structure. Sources of information for analysis include research material acquired from outside vendors, financial newspapers and magazines, annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the SEC and company press releases.

Investment strategies used to implement investment advice to clients may include: long term purchases (securities held at least a year), short term purchases (securities sold within a year), trading (securities sold within 30 days), margin transactions, and option writing.

EFA will utilize certain asset allocation tools and investment research materials prepared by third-party investment advisers in constructing an appropriate asset allocation for a client and in monitoring the performance of the investment portfolio selected.

Investing in securities involves several risks of which clients should be informed, and prepared to bear, prior to investing. The list below explains the various forms of risk associated with investing in securities:

Common stocks may decline significantly in price over short or extended periods of time. Price changes may occur in the market as a whole, or they may occur in only a particular country, company, industry, or sector of the market. In addition, the types of stocks in which a particular fund invests, such as value stocks, growth stocks, large-capitalization stocks, mid-capitalization stocks, small-capitalization stocks and/or micro-capitalization stocks, may underperform the market as a whole. In addition, growth stocks can be more volatile than other types of stocks. Value stocks can continue to be undervalued by the market for long periods of time. Additionally, dividends paid on common stocks can vary significantly over the short-term and long-term. Dividends on common stocks are not fixed, but are declared at the discretion of an issuer's board of directors. There is no guarantee that the issuers of common stocks in which a portfolio invests will declare dividends in the future or that if declared they will remain at current levels or increase over time.

Fixed income risks include credit risk, interest rate risk, and high yield risk.

Credit risk is the risk that an issuer of a debt security will be unable to make interest and principal payments when due and the related risk that the value of a security may decline because of concerns about the issuer's ability to make such payments. Credit risk may be heightened for portfolios that may invest in "high yield" securities.

Interest rate risk is the risk that the value of a portfolio will decline because of rising interest rates. Interest rate risk is generally lower for shorter-term investments and higher for longer-term investments. Duration is a common measure of interest rate risk. Duration measures a bond's expected life on a present value basis, taking into account the bond's yield, interest payments and final maturity. The longer the duration of a bond, the greater the bond's price sensitivity to changes in interest rates.

High yield, or below investment grade securities may be more susceptible to real or perceived adverse economic conditions than investment grade securities. In addition, the secondary trading market for below investment grade securities may be less liquid. High yield securities generally have more volatile prices and carry more risk to principal than investment grade securities.

International Investing Risk is the risk associated with investing in securities or issuers in markets other than the United States. Foreign issuers may be subject to risks not typically associated with U.S. companies, such as: currency risk, risks of trading in foreign securities markets, and political and economic risks.

Currency Risk is associated with the trading of securities in currencies other than the U.S. dollar. Because foreign securities generally trade in currencies other than the U.S. dollar, changes in currency exchange rates will affect an account's value, the value of dividends and interest earned, and gains and losses realized on the sale of securities. A strong U.S. dollar relative to these other currencies will adversely affect the value of account.

Foreign Securities Market Risk is the risk that securities of many non-U.S. companies, or U.S. companies with significant non-U.S. operations, may be less liquid, and their prices more volatile, than securities of comparable U.S. companies. Securities of companies traded in many countries outside the U.S., particularly emerging markets countries, may be subject to further risks due to the inexperience of local investment professionals and financial institutions, the possibility of permanent or temporary termination of trading, and greater spreads between bid and asked prices for securities. In addition, non-U.S. stock exchanges and investment professionals are subject to less governmental regulation, and commissions may be higher than in the U. S. Also, there may be delays in the settlement of non-U.S. stock exchange transactions.

Political and Economic Risks are a factor when investing in international companies due to varying levels of stability in political, social, or economic factors in the country of the issuer of a security, the difficulty of predicting international trade patterns, the possibility of the imposition of exchange controls, expropriation, limits on removal of currency or other assets, and nationalization of assets.

Additionally, income from foreign issuers may be subject to non-U.S. withholding taxes. Non-U.S. companies generally are not subject to uniform accounting, auditing, and financial reporting standards or to other regulatory requirements that apply to U.S. companies; therefore, less information may be available to investors about non-U.S. issuers. In addition, some countries restrict foreign investment in their securities markets, which may limit or preclude investment in certain countries or may increase the cost of investing.

The above risks may be particularly significant in emerging markets countries. To the extent an account invests in depositary receipts, it will be subject to the same risks as when investing directly in foreign securities.

Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, EFA does not have any authority to and does not vote proxies on behalf of advisory clients. Clients retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for any and all securities maintained in client portfolios. Upon request of the client, EFA may provide advice to clients regarding the clients' voting of proxies.

Item 7 – Client Information Provided to Portfolio Managers

Not Applicable

Item 8 – Client Contact with Portfolio Managers

There are no restrictions placed on a client's ability to contact their advisory representative.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of EFA or the integrity of EFA's management.

- The Financial Industry Regulation Authority ("FINRA") alleged, in an amended complaint, that while Equity Services, Inc. ("ESI"), required its registered representatives to maintain anti-virus software on their computers, it failed to adopt written policies and procedures that were reasonably designed to ensure representatives' compliance with this directive.

Without admitting or denying the findings, ESI signed a letter of acceptance, waiver and consent. In accordance with the terms of the settlement, ESI consented to the imposition of a fine in the amount of $20,000. The settlement was accepted by FINRA on December 6, 2012.

- The Financial Industry Regulation Authority ("FINRA") alleged that Equity Services, Inc. ("ESI"), in its capacity as a broker-dealer, made unsuitable sales of an unregistered private placement securities to five non-accredited retail investors. It was also alleged that ESI failed to enforce its written supervisory procedures relating to suitability and the sale of private placements.

Without admitting or denying the findings, ESI signed a letter of acceptance, waiver and consent. In accordance with the terms of the settlement, ESI consented to the imposition of a fine in the amount of $50,000, and it was ordered to pay $163,815 plus interest, in restitution to four customers. The settlement was accepted by FINRA on November 2, 2011.

- The Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") alleged that ESI failed to provide asset allocation monitoring services to certain of its advisory clients from 2001 until the Summer of 2005.

Without admitting or denying the allegations related to the matter, ESI consented to the entry of the order whereby ESI was censured, and ordered to cease and desist from committing or causing any violations and any future violations of the Investment Advisers Act. ESI was ordered to pay a civil penalty in the amount of $300,000. The fine was paid December 17, 2009.

- The National Association of Securities Dealers alleged that: 1) ESI associated persons received improper non-cash compensation from an unaffiliated insurance company; 2) ESI failed to maintain adequate records of non-cash compensation from other offerors; 3) ESI associated persons received improper non-cash compensation from National Life Insurance Company; 4) ESI's supervisory system and written policies and procedures regarding non-cash compensation were inadequate; and 5) ESI violated e-mail retention requirements.

ESI was fined $350,000, and ordered to conduct a comprehensive review and certification of policies and procedures related to non-cash compensation within 90 days of the acceptance, waiver, and consent. The fine was paid June 12, 2007.

- The Pennsylvania Securities Commission alleged that ESI violated provisions of the Pennsylvania Securities Act of 1972 in connection with supervisory oversight of certain registered representatives.

ESI was ordered to comply with the Pennsylvania Securities Act of 1972. ESI was also ordered to hire an independent consultant to review its compliance with the 1972 Act. ESI was ordered to pay an administrative assessment of $12,500 and $7,500 in investigative and legal costs and paid these amounts on July 8, 2005.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

ESI is registered as a broker-dealer with the SEC, FINRA and all fifty states. ESI devotes a substantial portion of its time and derives a substantial portion of its revenue from its operations as a broker-dealer. As a broker-dealer, ESI offers the following investment products: mutual funds, unit investment trusts, variable annuities and variable life products, indexed annuity products, direct participation programs, real estate investment trusts, and structured CDs. ESI also acts as the distributor of variable insurance products underwritten and issued by National Life Insurance Company.

EFA is under common control with the following companies: Sentinel Financial Services Company, a registered broker-dealer and distributor of the Sentinel Funds; and Sentinel Asset Management, Inc., a registered investment adviser, which manages the Sentinel Funds and offers services to mutual funds, institutions and individual clients.

EFA is an affiliate of National Life Insurance Company ("National Life"). Most of EFA's registered and advisory representatives are also life insurance agents of National Life. National Life provides space and certain other services to EFA.

Life Insurance Company of the Southwest ("LSW") is an affiliated insurance company that offers fixed annuity products.

EFA and its advisory representatives may offer products or services managed or offered by the affiliates named above to advisory clients in order to execute certain transactions recommended within a financial plan. Clients are free to execute transactions recommended as part of a financial plan through any broker-dealer or product issuer they choose. If the purchase or sale of financial products recommended as a part of a financial plan is executed with an affiliate of EFA, EFA and the advisory representative receive additional compensation, including commissions and other compensation, over and above the advisory fee paid.

EFA receives payments from firms or persons that offer asset management or separate account products or services to be included in a preferred list of advisers (referred to as "Strategic Partners"). These payments may take the form of conference, program or event attendance, participation or exhibition fees, educational and training fees, or fees linked to program participation or specific marketing initiatives within an existing program. None of these additional payments, however, is paid or directed to any advisory representative who sells these products. The marketing payments and educational opportunities could lead our advisory representatives to focus more on those Strategic Partners that make payments to EFA – as opposed to other advisers that do not make such payments – when recommending an asset management program to their clients. With respect to the ESI Directions program, Envestnet Portfolio Solutions and Sentinel Funds are Strategic Partners.

EFA is likely to receive additional compensation with respect to the sales of securities issued and or distributed by members of its Strategic Partners program, details of which can be located at www.Equity-Services.com or requested by calling (800) 344-7437. This additional compensation may be shared with advisory representatives. The following mutual funds/unit investment trusts participate in the Strategic Partners Program: Sentinel Funds. EFA and its affiliates also contribute amounts to various non-cash and cash incentives paid to EFA's advisory representatives based on the achievement of specified sales goals for certain securities, including (1) sponsoring sales contests and/or promotions in which participants receive awards or incentives such as travel, merchandise, computer hardware and/or software; (2) paying for occasional meals, lodging and/or entertainment; (3) making cash payments in lieu of business expense reimbursements; (4) making and forgiving business-related loans; (5) cash bonuses and/or; (6) employee benefits, such as health insurance, Social Security contributions, etc.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

EFA has adopted a Code of Ethics ("the Code") that mandates high standards of business conduct and professionalism. In general, the Code addresses certain groups of persons: Supervised persons and Access Persons. The term "supervised persons" refers to any partner, officer, director, employee, or IAR of the Firm. "Access Persons" represent a subset of this population, and refers specifically to those individuals who have access to (1) nonpublic information regarding any clients' trading activity, (2) nonpublic information regarding the portfolio holdings of any reportable fund, or (3) those who are involved in making securities recommendations to clients or who have access to such recommendations that are nonpublic.

The Code prohibits EFA's supervised persons from trading on material non-public information. Additionally, the Firm's Access Persons are required to report their securities holdings upon initial hire, and again annually. Quarterly reporting of personal securities transactions is also required for Access Persons. EFA's supervised persons must acknowledge the terms of the Code annually. EFA, through its advisers, will provide a copy of its Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

The Code requires advisory representatives render disinterested and impartial advice and make appropriate recommendations to clients based on an analysis of their needs. Potential conflicts of interest may arise when a recommendation could result in additional compensation to the Firm and/or the advisory representative through the Firm's business relationships or through the execution of commissionable transactions. Such potential conflicts are a consideration for the Firm's Senior Business Risk Analysts in their review of new accounts and transactions. The Firm addresses conflicts of interest and potential conflicts of interest by periodically reviewing them during EFA's senior management meetings, and through disclosure to its clients, such as that which is contained in this Form ADV Part 2A – Appendix 1 brochure.

Advisory representatives of EFA may occasionally buy, hold, or sell securities for their own accounts that are also recommended to their clients, at the same time or at different times as clients are trading in these securities. However, neither EFA or any employee may receive preferential treatment over clients.

It is EFA's policy that the firm will not effect any principal or agency cross transactions for client accounts. EFA will also not cross trades between client accounts. Principal transactions are generally defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions may arise when an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer. Cross trades occur where an adviser causes a client account to sell a security to another client account, whether or not a commission is charged in the transaction.

ESI in its capacity as a broker-dealer may execute securities transactions for its advisory clients, including, but not limited to, transactions in securities distributed or underwritten by an affiliate. ESI has a fully disclosed clearing relationship with NFS for the purpose of offering stock, bond and option trading. ESI is not affiliated with NFS, but receives shared compensation from NFS in relation to the execution of no-transaction fee mutual funds purchased in the program.

EFA and its affiliates also contribute amounts to various non-cash and cash incentives paid to EFA's advisory representatives based on the achievement of specified sales goals for certain securities, including (1) sponsoring sales contests and/or promotions in which participants receive awards or incentives such as travel, merchandise, computer hardware and/or software; (2) paying for occasional meals, lodging and/or entertainment; (3) making cash payments in lieu of business expense reimbursements; (4) making and forgiving business-related loans; (5) cash bonuses and/or; (6) employee benefits, such as health insurance, Social Security contributions, etc.

Incentive programs are reviewed by the Compliance Department. The review of such programs seeks to ensure that all such incentives adhere to the applicable rules. Potential conflicts of interest are managed through public disclosure to clients and prospective clients, and on the Firm's website.

EFA and its advisory representatives offer brokerage services to advisory clients in order to execute certain transactions recommended within a financial plan, as well as the ESI Illuminations and Directions programs. Clients are free to execute securities transactions recommended as part of a financial plan through any broker-dealer they choose.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Each advisory representative and his/her client will individually determine the frequency of reviews for the account(s) governed by an investment advisory agreement between the client and EFA. In all cases, however, such frequency will be offered no less than on an annual basis. Factors triggering such a review will include but are not limited to, the changing circumstances in the client's financial and personal life; the performance of the portfolio in both absolute terms and relative to the client's goals, objectives and risk tolerance; and at the request of the client. In most cases, the review will be conducted by the advisory representative who performed the initial investment advisory services. For ESI Directions accounts, EFA will utilize software tools to monitor client accounts. Advisory Representatives and Business Risk Analysts utilize this system to detect variations from client mandates that are beyond variance tolerances established by the Firm. In addition to review by advisory representatives, EFA's reviewers will include Senior Business Risk Analysts and/or other home office staff members.

Clients of the ESI Directions program will receive written quarterly performance statements from Envestnet Portfolio Solutions showing positions, activities and contributions made during the quarter. Also, at least quarterly, NFS provides brokerage statements for ESI Directions program accounts.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

EFA pays individuals or entities, acting as bona fide Solicitors, a portion of the advisory fee EFA charges a client referred to EFA by the Solicitor. All such Solicitor arrangements will conform to the requirements set forth in SEC Rule 206(4)-3.

ESI receives additional compensation as a broker-dealer with respect to the sales of securities issued and or distributed by members of its Strategic Partners program. Envestnet Portfolio Solutions and Sentinel Funds are the only of ESI's Strategic Partners associated within the ESI Directions program.

Current information regarding ESI's Strategic Partners program may be found at www.Equity-Services.com or by calling (800) 344-7437.

For a discussion of how the firm identifies and addresses potential conflicts of interest which may arise from its various business relationships, please refer to Section 11 (Code of Ethics).

Item 18 – Financial Information

EFA is not aware of any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability meet its contractual commitments to clients, nor has EFA been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time during the past ten years.
