Item 4 – Advisory Services

General

RVX Asset Management (RVX), a (certified) minority-owned business, was established on July 14, 2015 as a Limited Liability Company in the State of Delaware, by an experienced investment team. The firm is independently owned, has no common ownership nor an association with a broker dealer, investment bank, insurance company or other financial institution. Our services are not considered “Financial Planning”.

Description of Advisory Services

➤ Discretionary Advisory

RVX focuses on investment opportunities across Emerging and Frontier debt and equity markets. RVX provides discretionary advisory services to Investment Companies and private investment vehicles (also collectively referred to as “Funds”). In addition, the Adviser also offers discretionary management services to separately managed accounts. Clients may obtain tailored service and impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities, all of which would be detailed through a written investment advisory agreement.

➤ Non-Discretionary Advisory

The Adviser may also provide Non-Discretionary advisory services to separately managed accounts.

Wrap Fee Programs

Adviser does not currently participate in any Wrap Fee Programs.

Regulatory Assets Under Management

As of September 30, 2017, RVX maintained approximately $17,548,510 in assets managed on a discretionary basis and $136,815,118 on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Basic fee structure:

The specific manner in which fees are charged by Adviser is established in each Client’s written agreement with Adviser, which may be negotiated and differ with each Client.

RVX’s fees are typically asset based (or management fee) and/or an incentive based fee. The asset based fees are normally charged at an annual rate of between 1% and 2% of the value of the Client’s net assets under management and are generally payable monthly or quarterly in arrears depending on the terms of the investment advisory agreement.

A Client may pay more or less fees than similar clients depending on the particular circumstances of the client, size, additional or differing levels of servicing or as otherwise agreed with specific clients. Clients that negotiate fees, including a flat fee, may end up paying a higher fee than that set forth above as a result of fluctuations in the client's assets under management and account performance.

Clients also bear direct and indirect costs, fees and expenses incurred by or on behalf of such Clients including, among others, (i) all costs, fees and expenses of the Client directly related to the investigation, purchase, sale, preservation or retention of investments by the Client (including all fees and commissions of brokers and custodians; (ii) all federal, state and local taxes and filing fees payable by the Client; (iii) all fees and disbursements of the independent attorneys, accountants and consultants retained by the Client, or on behalf of the Client; (iv) all filing and recording fees; and (v) all interest expense of the Client.

Termination of the Agreement

Although an Agreement between RVX and its clients are ongoing agreements and constant adjustments are required, the length of service to the client is at the client's discretion. The client or the investment manager may terminate an Agreement by written notice to the other party with a (60) sixty – day advance notice or as agreed upon otherwise between the client and the Adviser.

If an agreement is terminated during a period in which the client has already paid RVX its advisory fees in advance, then the Adviser will reimburse, on a pro-rated basis, the remaining advisory fees collected for any service not rendered; these fees will be sent to the client's address of record, unless otherwise directed by the client, within (30) days of termination of the agreement.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and side-by-side management

RVX charges a management fee and in some cases may charge a performance fee. The performance allocation or fee generally equals 20% per annum of the net profit in a Client's account, typically subject to a loss carryforward adjustment and a "high water mark", and is generally payable in arrears at the end of each calendar year.

Adviser seeks to structure performance fee arrangements subject to Section 205(a)(1) of the Adviser's Act in accordance with the available exemptions thereunder, including the exemption set forth in Rule 205-3. Such performance fees would generally be individually negotiated with each Client and may be subject to a High Water Mark. Typically, the fee will be charged on a quarterly basis in arrears.

The term "High Water Mark" shall mean that no performance fee will be paid for recoupment of losses. Thus, if the net asset value of the Account (excluding the performance fee) at the end of a calculation period falls below the net asset value at the end of any previous calculation period, no performance fee will be owed to the Adviser for the calculation period then ended. The Adviser will only be entitled to a further performance fee once the net asset value of the Account exceeds the highest net asset value of the Account for all previous calculation periods. The High Water Mark is adjusted for contributions to and withdrawals from the Account. Each client is provided with additional information on the fees payable by their Account, including with respect to the High Water Mark, if any, in their advisory agreement.

Performance based fee arrangements may create an incentive for Adviser to recommend investments which may be riskier or more speculative than those which would be recommended under a different fee arrangement. Performance fee arrangements may also create an incentive to favor higher fee paying accounts over other accounts in the allocation of investment opportunities. Adviser has procedures designed and implemented to ensure that all clients are treated fairly and equally, and to prevent this conflict from influencing the allocation of investment opportunities among clients. The Adviser may have clients with similar investment objectives. The Adviser is permitted to make an investment decision on behalf of clients that differs from decisions made for, or advice given to, such other accounts and clients even though the investment objectives may be the same or similar, provided that the Adviser acts in good faith and follows a policy of allocating, over a period of time, investment opportunities on a basis intended to be fair and equitable, taking into consideration the investment policies and investment restrictions to which such accounts and clients are subject.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

RVX provides asset and/or portfolio management services to investment companies, private investment vehicles, high net worth individuals, other investment advisers (domestic or foreign), corporations and institutions or other entities. The minimum dollar value for establishing an Account is generally $1MM. Initial investments of a lesser amount may be accepted at Adviser's discretion.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

General Investment Strategies and Methods of Analysis

RVX seeks to invest and manage client assets and portfolios via a "Top-Down" thematic and "Bottom-Up" fundamental approaches. To achieve client and strategy objectives RVX monitors global macroeconomic, geopolitical and industry trends. The Adviser and its staff utilize extensive global network (i.e. global and local banks or brokers, sell side and buy side relationships) to source new ideas/situations. Such activities are targeted at isolating and identifying long-term value opportunities and price dislocations. RVX also conducts fundamental analysis of the business/economic model and competitive landscape to determine potential risks for each asset class and run stress tests for each scenario. This activity results in the selection of the investment product(s) and establish target price, position size and return/stop loss targets, while factoring strategic investment execution building the position without forcing or disrupting the market. RVX seeks to develop and manage both standard and customized portfolios engineered and constructed by asset class, sector and region. This active management involves stringent risk management and reporting controls, as well as continuous monitoring of potential macro risks.

For its Funds, the Adviser follows a top-down thematic approach of identifying global macroeconomic, geopolitical and industrial trends so it can then isolate local market themes and opportunities. This approach helps RVX to focus on specific regions, sectors, and companies to do an in-depth bottom-up fundamental analysis of each opportunity. Once the analysis is completed, the unique part of RVX's investment process is the selection of which investment tool is best suited for the specific opportunity depending on liquidity and its engineered portfolio construction.

Material Risks for Significant Investment Strategies

While it is the intention of Adviser to implement strategies, which are designed to minimize potential losses suffered by its client, there can be no assurance that such strategies will be successful. It is possible that a client may lose a substantial proportion or all of its assets in connection with investment decisions made by Adviser. Investment in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear. The following is a discussion of typical risks for Adviser's clients, but it does not purport to be a complete explanation of the risks involved with Adviser's investment strategies.

There is no guarantee that in any time period, particularly in the short term, a client's portfolio will achieve appreciation in terms of capital growth or that a client's investment objective will be met by Adviser.

The value of the securities in which Adviser invests on behalf of its clients may be volatile. Price movements may result from factors affecting individual companies, sectors or industries that may influence certain strategies or the securities market as a whole. Furthermore, a client will be subject to the risk that inflation, economic recession, changes in the general level of interest rates or other market conditions over which Adviser will have no control may adversely affect investment results. Adviser notes that while Adviser's management of accounts may not involve direct leveraging, or other risk factors discussed below, the underlying funds and other investments that comprise client accounts may engage in practices that can materially impact the performance of such fund or investment, which in turn may materially impact the value of Adviser's clients' portfolios.

Hedging transactions may increase risks of capital losses

Adviser may utilize hedging strategies primarily to protect and preserve capital as well as yield enhancement. Investment products in which Adviser invests clients' accounts may utilize a variety of financial instruments, such as options, for risk management purposes. While hedging transactions may seek to reduce risk, such transactions may result in a worse overall performance. Certain risks cannot be hedged, such as credit risk, relating both to particular securities and counterparties. Adviser will not always invest in funds or other investment vehicles that utilize hedging strategies.

Leverage

Adviser may utilize and employ leverage under its current strategies. Such strategies may include the borrowing and short selling of securities, bonds, foreign exchange and the acquisition and disposal of certain types of derivative securities and instruments, such as swaps, futures and options. While leveraging creates an opportunity for greater total returns, it also exposes a client to a greater risk of loss arising from adverse price changes. Where leverage is indirect (e.g., used by a fund manager for a fund in which Adviser's client is invested) a sharp decrease in the value of the investment can have a significant impact on a client's portfolio.

Liquidity of investment portfolio

The market for some securities in which Adviser invests indirectly on behalf of its clients may be relatively illiquid. Liquidity relates to the ability to sell an investment in a timely manner. The market for relatively illiquid securities tends to be more volatile than the market for more liquid securities. Investments in relatively illiquid securities may restrict the ability of a fund or portfolio manager to dispose of investments at a price and time that it wishes to do so. The risk of illiquidity also arises in the case of over-the-counter transactions. There is no regulated market in such contracts and the bid and offer prices will be established solely by dealers in these contracts. Client accounts that are invested in funds or other instruments that contain illiquid investments may be subject to these risks.

Foreign currency markets

Adviser's investment strategies may cause a client to be exposed to fluctuations in currency exchange rates where it invests directly or indirectly in securities denominated in currencies other than U.S. dollars. Adviser does not engage in direct foreign currency trading. However, the underlying funds and other investment vehicles may engage in direct foreign currency trading. The markets in which foreign exchange transactions are affected are highly volatile, highly specialized and highly technical. Significant changes, including changes in liquidity and prices, can occur in such markets within very short periods of time, often within minutes. Foreign exchange trading risks include, but are not limited to, exchange rate risk, interest rate risk and potential interference by foreign governments through regulation of local exchange markets, foreign investment, or particular transactions in foreign currency.

Derivatives

Adviser's investment strategy may cause a client to be exposed to derivatives including instruments and contracts the value of which is linked to one or more underlying securities, financial benchmarks or indices. Derivatives allow an investor to hedge or speculate upon the price movements of a particular security, financial benchmark, index, currency or interest rate at a fraction of the cost of investing in the underlying asset. The value of a derivative depends largely upon price movements in the underlying asset. Therefore, many of the risks applicable to trading the underlying asset are also applicable to derivatives trading. However, there are a number of other risks associated with derivatives trading. For example, because many derivatives provide significantly more market exposure than the money paid or deposited when the transaction is entered into, a relatively small adverse market movement can result not only in the loss of the entire investment, but may also expose a client to the possibility of a loss exceeding the original amount invested.

Settlement risks

Adviser's investment strategies may expose a client to the credit risk of parties with whom Adviser, on behalf of the client or the underlying funds, trades and to the risk of settlement default. Market practices in the emerging markets in relation to the settlement of securities transactions and custody of assets will provide increased risk. Although the emerging markets have grown rapidly over the last few years, the clearing, settlement and registration systems available to affect trades on such markets are significantly less developed than those in more mature world markets which can result in delays and other material difficulties in settling trades and in registering transfers of securities. Problems of settlement in these markets may affect the net asset value and liquidity of a client's portfolio or investments in such portfolios.

Emerging Markets

Adviser's investment strategies include direct and indirect investments in securities in emerging markets and such investments involve special considerations and risks. These include a possibility of nationalization, expropriation or confiscatory taxation, foreign exchange control, political changes, government regulation, social instability or diplomatic developments which could affect adversely the economies of such countries or the value of a client's investments, and the risks of investing in countries with smaller capital markets, such as limited liquidity, price volatility, restrictions on foreign investment and repatriation of capital, and the risks associated with emerging economies, including high inflation and interest rates and political and social uncertainties. In addition, it may be difficult to obtain and enforce a judgment in a court in an emerging country. The economies of many emerging market countries are still in the early stages of modern development and are subject to abrupt and unexpected change. In many cases, governments retain a high degree of direct control over the economy and may take actions having sudden and widespread effects. Investments in products of emerging market may also become illiquid which may constrain Adviser's ability to realize some or all of a client's portfolio holdings. Accounting standards in emerging market countries may not be as stringent as accounting standards in developed countries.

Investment Concentration

Some client accounts may have a high concentration in one sector, industry, issuer or security that may subject such accounts to greater risk of loss in the event such investments take an economic downturn.

Material Risks for Particular Types of Securities

The Adviser does not invest primarily in a specific security or type of security. In general, RVX looks at all assets across the capital structure to build a tactically balanced portfolio that delivers higher returns while managing controlled volatility via the asset mix. The material risks involved with investing are described above.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

Investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of an adviser or the integrity of the adviser's management. Adviser may impose penalties for breaches of the policies and procedures contained in this manual, even in the absence of any indication of insider trading. Depending on the nature of the breach, penalties may include a letter of censure, profit “give ups,” fines, referrals to regulatory and self-regulatory bodies and dismissal.

Personal Securities Transactions

Periodic Reports

As more fully described in the Code, “access persons” are required to submit reports detailing their personal securities holdings to the Chief Compliance Officer on an initial basis, a quarterly basis, and an annual basis.

Unless otherwise consented by the Chief Compliance Officer, all employees are required to devote their full time and efforts Adviser’s business. As such, no person may make use of either his or her position as an employee or information acquired during employment, or make personal investments in a manner that may create a conflict, or the appearance of a conflict, between the employee’s personal interests and Adviser’s interests. Accordingly, every employee is required to complete a disclosure form and have the form approved by Adviser’s Chief Compliance Officer prior to serving in any of the capacities or making any of the investments more fully described in the Code.

Copies of Adviser's Code

A copy of Adviser's Code is available upon request. For a copy, please contact Adviser at (305) 363-6894.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Associated Conflicts of Interest

Adviser may recommend or invest in securities, including funds, issued or managed by its affiliates (or where the affiliate acts as general partner) in which its affiliates have a material financial interest. Adviser has policies that require personnel who develop advice and recommendations for clients to render only disinterested and impartial advice to clients and to comply with other fiduciary obligations, including having an adequate basis in fact for all recommendations and an obligation to recommend only investments that are suitable for the particular client.

The potential conflicts of interest involved in any such transactions are generally governed by Adviser's Code. Pursuant to the stipulations of the Code, Adviser or a related person may buy or sell for itself securities that it also recommends to clients. The potential conflicts of interest involved in such transactions are governed by the Code, which establishes sanctions if its requirements are violated and requires that Adviser and employees place the interests of Adviser's clients above their own.

Investments in Securities by Adviser and its Personnel

RVX's policy prohibits "access persons" from engaging in Personal Securities Transactions (as defined below) involving securities and financial instruments which the Adviser and any of its affiliates is recommending or trading or contemplates recommending to clients, and certain other securities and financial instruments.

No access person may engage in Personal Securities Transactions involving any financial instruments which are:

- a) Owned by a client. This includes all collective investment schemes, mutual funds and managed accounts.
- b) Actively contemplated for transactions on behalf of clients, even though no buy or sell orders have been placed. This restriction applies from the moment that an employee has been informed in any fashion that any advisory representative intends to purchase or sell a specific security for clients' accounts.

Long only transactions are allowed in the following financial instruments in all markets:

- a) Closed-end funds;
- b) Exchange Traded Funds (ETF's).

The prohibition, however, does not extend to sovereign debt securities, and shares of open-end investment companies (mutual funds).

As more fully described above, Adviser has adopted a Code of Ethics. Such Code of Ethics together with Advisers policies and procedures restrict the ability of certain officers and employees of Adviser from engaging in securities transactions in any securities that its clients have purchased, sold or considered for purchase or sale, for an appropriate "black out" period. Other restrictions and reporting requirements are included in Advisers procedures and Code of Ethics minimize or eliminate conflicts of interest.

Errors

Errors may occur from time to time in transactions for client accounts. The Adviser will typically correct any such errors that are the fault of the Adviser or an affiliate at no cost to the client, other than costs that the Adviser deems immaterial. To the extent that the subsequent sale of such securities generates a profit to the Adviser, the Adviser may retain such profits, and may, but is not required to, use such profits to offset errors in the future or pay other client-related expenses. The Adviser will not be responsible for any errors that occur that are not the fault of the Adviser or any affiliate.

Privacy Policy

Adviser considers your privacy our utmost concern. Adviser does not share any information of clients with nonaffiliated third parties, except such information may be disclosed as necessary to process a transaction an investor has requested, to the extent the investor specifically authorized the disclosure, to service providers or joint marketers who agree to limit their use of such information, and to the extent required or specifically permitted by law or reasonably necessary to prevent fraud, unauthorized transactions or liability.

When Adviser discloses non-public personal information of clients to a non-affiliated third party that provides services to Adviser or engages in joint marketing, Adviser shall:

- notify investors of the possibility of such disclosure; and
- enter into a contractual agreement with the third party that prohibits the third party from disclosing or using the investors' information other than to carry out the purposes for which the information was disclosed to the third party.

In particular, Adviser may enter, in compliance with the above conditions, into an agreement with a non-affiliated third party to store the records of Adviser clients and investors including electronic and e-mail records.

For more information about Adviser's privacy policies or to request a brochure describing Adviser's privacy policies contact Adviser at (305) 363-6894.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

As part of RVX's relationship with its clients, its Investment Advisory Agreement provides that client may restrict the discretion and direct brokerage to any broker-dealer. The Adviser is authorized in its Investment Advisory Agreement to select other securities brokers, unless the client directs otherwise in the Agreement.

In recommending brokers-dealers and custodians, RVX will generally seek the best combination of services provided and associated expenses. Relevant factors used in evaluating “execution quality” include historical net prices, the execution, clearance, and settlement and error correction capabilities of the broker or dealer generally and in connection with securities of the type and in the amounts to be bought or sold; the broker’s or dealer’s willingness to commit capital; reliability and financial stability; the size of the transaction; availability of securities to borrow for short sales; and the market for the security.

In addition to a broker-dealer’s ability to provide “execution quality,” RVX’s selection criteria may include the value of various services or products provided by the broker-dealer. For example, RVX may acquire: research reports on or other information about particular companies, sectors or industries; economic surveys and analyses; recommendations as to specific securities; electronic market quotations; non-mass-marketed financial publications; portfolio evaluation services; performance measurement services; market, economic and financial studies and forecasts; data on pricing and availability of securities; certain financial database software and services; and other products or services that may enhance its investment decision making.

It is the Adviser’s policy not to enter into soft dollar arrangements and the Adviser has no formal soft dollar arrangements. The Adviser does not consider, in selecting or recommending broker-dealers, whether it or a related person receives Client referrals from such broker-dealer.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

Adviser does not direct brokerage to particular brokers in consideration for client referrals.

Item 13 - Review of Accounts

RVX’s Portfolio Managers and Chief Investment Officer, jointly review all accounts on an ongoing basis. The reviews focus on consistency of portfolio investments with objectives and risk tolerances. Asset allocation, cash management, market prospects and individual issue prospects are considered. Daily compliance tests are applied both pre-trade and post-trade electronically to insure compliance with the various Funds investment parameters. The Chief Compliance Officer typically reviews daily trades entered into for investment advisory clients to determine that correct entries have been made for all client records.

Fund investors receive monthly accounts statements directly from the Fund Administrator, investors also receive an annual K-1, if applicable, and a copy of the annual audit for each fund in which they are invested.

Factors Triggering a Review

There are no specific triggering factors leading to a review.

Client Reports

Clients of the Adviser with discretionary accounts receive quarterly reports from their qualified Custodian. The Adviser will provide a performance report quarterly or as agreed between the Adviser and the client.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

RVX, from time to time, receives client referrals, and such referrals often come from current clients, attorneys, accountants, employees, personal friends of employees and other similar sources. Furthermore, RVX does not currently accept referral fees or any form of remuneration from other professionals when a prospect or client is referred to them.

The Adviser has entered into agreements whereby a party unaffiliated with the Adviser is entitled to compensation in the event that such party solicits prospective clients who become the Adviser's clients. Such solicitor entered into written agreements with the Adviser pursuant to which the solicitor will provide each prospective client with a copy of the Adviser's Form ADV Part 2 and a disclosure document setting forth the terms of the solicitation agreement, including the nature of the relationship between the solicitor and the Adviser and any fees to be paid to the solicitor. Where applicable, cash payments for client solicitations will be structured to comply fully with the requirements of Rule 206(4)-3 under the Advisers. Act.

Item 15 - Custody

RVX and its management members serve as directors, managers, or in a similar capacity for the Funds, as such, the Adviser is deemed to have custody due to directors' authority to obtain possession of the assets of the Funds. The Adviser is subject to all applicable provisions of the Custody Rule, which includes either subjecting itself to a surprise annual examination by an independent public accountant (the Surprise Examination Approach) or, alternatively, engaging an independent public accountant registered with, and subject to regular inspection by, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) to conduct an annual audit of the private fund and deliver audited financial statements to all limited partners or other beneficial owners within 120 days of the end of its fiscal year (the Annual Audit Approach).

The Adviser maintains all securities and funds of its clients with a "qualified custodian." Clients will receive no less than, on a quarterly basis, statements directly from the broker-dealer, bank, or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains such client's assets. RVX urges its clients to carefully review these statements and compare them to the account statements, if any, that may be provided by the Adviser. The Adviser's statements may vary from the statements provided by the qualified custodian because of accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies used to value certain securities.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

Adviser receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account. With respect to Adviser's discretionary programs and accounts, RVX is generally conferred with discretionary authority to make the following determinations without obtaining the consent of the client before a transaction is affected:

- which securities are to be bought or sold;
- the total amount of the securities to be bought or sold;
- the broker or dealer through whom securities are to be bought or sold; and,
- the commission rates at which securities transactions for client accounts are affected.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, Adviser observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which it advises. Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to Adviser in writing.

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

RVX subscribes to Broadridge's ProxyEdge® automated electronic proxy voting service. This service provides RVX with proxy information through an automated interface based on share positions provided directly to ProxyEdge by relevant account's custodian banks.

At RVX, portfolio managers and analysts are responsible for performing research on the companies in which we invest. The same portfolio managers and analysts are responsible for decisions regarding proxy voting, as they are the most familiar with company-specific issues. RVX's Chief Compliance Officer will coordinate with the appropriate portfolio manager or analyst to ensure that proxies are voted.

RVX may abstain from voting a client proxy if we conclude that the effect on the client's economic interests or the value of the portfolio holding is indeterminable or insignificant. We may also abstain from voting a client proxy for cost reasons (e.g., costs associated with voting proxies of non-U.S. securities). In accordance with our fiduciary duties, we would weigh the costs and benefits of voting proxy proposals relating to foreign securities and make an informed decision with respect to whether voting a given proxy proposal is prudent. Our decision would consider the effect that the vote of our client, either by itself or together with other votes, was expected to have on the value of our client's investment and whether this expected effect would outweigh the cost of voting.

We will maintain the records required to be maintained by us with respect to proxies in accordance with the requirements of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and, with respect to our registered investment company clients the Investment Company Act of 1940. We may, but need not, maintain proxy statements that we receive regarding client securities to the extent that such proxy statements are available on the SEC's Edgar system. We may also rely upon a third party to maintain certain records required to be maintained by the Advisors Act or the Investment Company Act.

Conflicts of Interest

We recognize that the potential for conflicts of interest could arise in situations where we have discretion to vote client proxies and where we have material business relationships or material personal/family relationships with an issuer (or with a potential target or acquirer, in the case of a proxy vote in connection with a takeover). To address these potential conflicts RVX will evaluate the circumstances and either (1) elevate the decision to the portfolio managers and analyst responsible for holding that particular security who will make a determination as to what would be in the client's best interest; (2) if practical, notify affected Clients of the conflict of interest and seek a waiver of the conflict; or (3) if agreed upon in writing with the Clients, forward the proxies to affected Clients allowing them to vote their own proxies.
