

Item 1 – Cover Page

Part 2A of Form ADV
Brochure for:

55I, LLC

250 West 55th Street, 15th Floor
New York, NY 10019
Phone: 212-259-4400
Email: info@55Institutional.com

September 29, 2017

This Brochure provides information about the qualifications and business practices of 55I, LLC (“55I” or the “Firm”). If you have any questions about the contents of this Brochure, please contact the Firm at the address listed above. The information in this Brochure has not been approved or verified by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) or by any state securities authority.

55I, LLC is a registered investment adviser. Registration of an investment adviser does not imply any certain level of skill or training. The oral and written communications of an adviser provide you with information about which you determine to hire or retain an adviser.

Additional information about 55I is also available on the SEC’s website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov. 55I’s CRD number is 286620.

Item 2 – Material Changes

This Item of the Brochure discusses only specific material changes that are made to the Brochure since the last annual update and provides clients with a summary of such changes. Since our initial registration filing, the following changes were noted:

- The firm has officially changed its name to 55I, LLC.
- Address has been updated to reflect New York as our main office.
- Information throughout the disclosure document has been updated to reflect the recent changes to the Firm name and combined business with its prior affiliate LVH, LLC.
- Paul Alexander Gamble has been made CEO of the firm as of 9/20/17.
- James Wallace Paddon has been made Chief Compliance Officer of the firm as of 9/20/17.

Currently, our brochure may be requested by contacting our Chief Compliance Officer at (212) 259-4417.

Item 3 – Table of Contents

Item 1 – Cover Page	i
Item 2 – Material Changes.....	ii
Item 3 – Table of Contents	iii
Item 4 – Advisory Business	1
Item 5 – Fees and Compensation	1
Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management.....	3
Item 7 – Types of Clients	3
Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss	3
Item 9 – Disciplinary Information	6
Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations.....	7
Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading	7
Item 12 – Brokerage Practices	9
Item 13 – Review of Accounts.....	10
Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation	11
Item 15 – Custody	11
Item 16 – Investment Discretion.....	11
Item 17 – Voting Client Securities	11
Item 18 – Financial Information.....	12

Item 4 – Advisory Business

A. Description of the Advisory Firm

55I, LLC (“55I”), a Delaware limited liability company, was formed on June 28th, 2016. 55I is 100% owned by 55 Institutional Partners, LLC, of which Vinay Nair is the Chairman and Paul Gamble is the Chief Executive Officer. The majority of 55I’s business involves providing asset management services, as described in detail below, as well as providing investment supervisory services as defined in Section 202(a)(13) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (hereafter, “The Act”).

B. Types of Advisory Services

55I provides investment advice and portfolio management services to separately managed accounts, including individuals and institutional clients (herein the “Clients”).

Pursuant to each Client’s investment advisory agreement with 55I (each, an “Advisory Agreement”), 55I provides investment advice and portfolio management services with the objective of achieving risk-adjusted returns by creating globally diversified portfolios of Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). 55I will allocate the client's assets among various investments taking into consideration the overall management style selected by the client.

Additionally, 55I provides investment advice to a private investment fund vehicle which is further disclosed in Item 7.B of our Form ADV Part 1.

C. Client Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

Advisory services are tailored to achieve Clients’ investment objectives. Generally, 55I has the authority to select which and how many securities and other instruments to buy or sell without consultation with the Clients. Clients may impose reasonable restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities, with any restrictions to be set forth in such Client’s Advisory Agreement.

D. Wrap Fee Programs

55I does not participate in wrap fee programs.

E. Amounts Under Management

55I manages the following assets under management:

Discretionary Amounts:	Non-Discretionary Amounts:	Date Calculated:
None	$38,711,077	September 27, 2017

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

A. Fee Schedule

The fees and compensation payable to 55I are negotiable and vary among its Clients. However, the range of compensation is generally as follows:

1. Management Fee

55I typically receives a monthly or quarterly asset-based management fee calculated as a percentage of the average of each separate account for such month ranging from 50-100 basis points per year. An individual Client's fees may vary based upon the size of the account, investment objective and other business factors. All fees may be charged monthly or quarterly, and in arrears or in advance.

55I may, in its sole discretion, reduce, waive or calculate differently the management fee with respect to any Client.

2. Incentive Fee

55I may receive an incentive based fee from qualified Clients. An incentive based fee is a fee charged on the basis of a share of capital gains or capital appreciation of the funds or any portion of the funds of an advisory client. Performance fee arrangements with qualified clients are negotiated with clients on a case by case basis. Performance based fee arrangements may create an incentive for 55I to recommend investments which may be riskier or more speculative than those which would be recommended under a different fee arrangement. Such fee arrangements also create an incentive to favor higher fee-paying accounts over other accounts in the allocation of investment opportunities.

55I has procedures designed and implemented to ensure that all clients are treated fairly and equally, and to prevent this conflict from influencing the allocation of investment opportunities among clients. Only "qualified clients" will be eligible for performance-based fee arrangements.

The performance-based fee arrangement is fully disclosed within the investment management agreement presented to the client. The client must understand the proposed method of compensation and its risks prior to entering into the investment management agreement.

B. Payment of Fees

Management fees and third-party fees (discussed below) are deducted from Client assets. Management fees, which may be paid in advance or arrears, are withdrawn at the end of each month or quarter. Pursuant to each Client's Advisory Agreement, the Client authorizes the direct deduction or withdrawal of any management fees to be paid to 55I.

C. Third-Party Fees

The Clients shall pay such costs and expenses as 55I shall reasonably determine to be necessary, appropriate, advisable or convenient to realize each Client's investment objective, including but not limited to: (i) management fees; (ii) all general investment expenses; (iii) all operating and administration expenses, including but not limited to, all custodial fees, accounting, brokerage commissions, clearing fees, borrowing charges, interest on margin and other borrowings, and taxes incurred in connection with the Client's account; and (iv) such other expenses as may be set forth in each Client's Advisory Agreement or in the private placement memorandum for the private investment vehicle.

55I's fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the Clients. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to 55I's management fee, and 55I shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs.

Please see Item 12 of this Brochure regarding brokerage.

D. Cancellation

An advisory agreement may be canceled at any time, by the client, for any reason upon receipt of written notice and by 55I, for any reason, upon 10 days' prior written notice. Upon termination of any account, any unpaid earned fees will be due and payable and may be billed to the client through the mail.

E. Outside Compensation for the Sale of Securities

Neither 55I nor its supervised persons accept compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products outside of its association with 55I.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Please refer to Item 5.A. 55I for a discussion on the incentive based fees from its Clients.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

55I provides investment advice and portfolio management services to individuals, high-net worth individuals, small businesses, charitable institutions, foundations, trusts, and other types of businesses via separately managed accounts. In addition, 55I serves as the general partner and investment adviser to a private investment vehicle. Please consult the offering documents of that vehicle for more information.

The minimum amount of assets under management for a separate account is $100,000. The minimum initial investment for the private investment vehicle is $250,000. 55I may, in its sole discretion, waive the minimum investment requirement for any separate account client or limited partner in the private investment vehicle. Generally, similar terms will apply to Clients, though certain Clients may have terms that differ or are more favorable than those for other Clients.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis

55I utilizes fundamental analysis, as further described below, to construct diversified portfolios, focusing on various areas and issues in the global macro environment.

B. Investment Strategies

Pursuant to each Client's Advisory Agreement, 55I invests Clients' assets in accordance with each Client's stated investment objectives and risk tolerance. Generally, investment objectives will be to achieve risk-adjusted returns by composing diversified portfolios using a global macro strategy. 55I implements its strategy by conducting fundamental analysis based on three principles: focusing on expanding asset classes across different varieties of assets; utilizing global macro signals to create better risk/return characteristics within asset classes; and adjusting for risk using volatility capture. 55I will primarily invest Client assets in ETFs based on various types of securities or assets in U.S. and foreign developed or emerging markets, including but not limited to, equity and debt securities, treasuries and real estate, in addition to certain foreign commodities and currencies. 55I may also invest in other types of securities, including, but not limited to, certain derivative instruments.

C. Risks of Investments and Strategies Utilized

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that Clients should be prepared to bear.

The following are a summary of the investment and trading risk factors associated with a separately managed account. Investors in the private fund vehicle should review the offering documents for a full discussion of the risks involved with investing in a private fund vehicle.

General Investment and Trading Risks. Clients may invest in securities and other financial instruments using strategies and investment techniques with significant risk characteristics. The investment program utilizes such investment techniques as option transactions, margin transactions, short sales, leverage and derivatives trading, the use of which can, in certain circumstances, maximize the adverse impact to which a Client may be subject.

Exchange Traded Funds. ETFs are a type of index fund bought and sold on a securities exchange. The risks of owning an ETF generally reflect the risks of owning the underlying securities they are designed to track, although lack of liquidity in an ETF could result in it being more volatile and ETFs have management fees that increase their costs. ETFs are also subject to other risks, including: (i) the risk that their prices may not correlate perfectly with changes in the underlying index; and (ii) the risk of possible trading halts due to market conditions or other reasons that, in the view of the exchange upon which an ETF trades, would make trading in the ETF inadvisable.

Common Stocks and Equity-Related Securities. Certain ETFs hold common stock. Prices of common stock react to the economic condition of the company that issued the security, industry and market conditions, and other factors and may fluctuate widely. Investments related to the value of stocks may rise and fall based on an issuer's actual and anticipated earnings, changes in management, the potential for takeovers and acquisitions, and other economic factors. Similarly, the value of other equity-related securities, including preferred stock, warrants and options may also vary widely.

Small- and Mid-Cap Risks. Certain ETFs hold securities of small and mid-cap issuers. Securities of small and mid-cap issuers may present greater risks than those of large-cap issuers. For example, some small- and mid-cap issuers often have limited product lines, markets, or financial resources. They may be subject to high volatility in revenues, expenses and earnings. Their securities may be thinly traded, may be followed by fewer investment research analysts and may be subject to wider price swings and thus may create a greater chance of loss than when investing in securities of larger-cap issuers. The market prices of securities of small- and mid-cap issuers generally are more sensitive to changes in earnings expectations, to corporate developments and to market rumors than are the market prices of large-cap issuers.

Currency. Certain ETFs hold currencies, or assets in instruments denominated in currencies, other than the U.S. dollar; the price of these instruments is determined with reference to currencies other than the U.S. dollar. Client accounts will, however, be valued in U.S. dollars. To the extent unhedged, the value of the ETF holdings will fluctuate with U.S. dollar exchange rates as well as the price changes of investments in the various local markets and currencies. Thus, an increase in the value of the U.S. dollar compared to the other currencies will reduce, all other economic factors being constant, the effect of increases and magnify the effect of decreases in the prices of the ETF holdings in their local markets. Conversely, a decrease in the value of the U.S. dollar will have the opposite effect on ETF Holdings that are non-U.S. dollar securities.

Futures, Commodities, and Derivative Investments. Certain ETFs hold commodities, commodities contracts and/or derivative instruments, including futures, options and swap agreements. The prices of these ETF holdings are highly volatile. Payments made pursuant to swap agreements may also be highly volatile. Price movements of commodities, futures and options contracts and payments pursuant to swap agreements are influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies of governments, and national and international political and economic events and policies. The value of a futures, options and swap agreement also depends upon the price of the commodity or instrument underlying them. In addition, these ETF holdings are subject to the risk of the failure of any of the exchanges on which its positions trade or of its clearinghouses or counterparties.

Highly Volatile Markets. The prices of financial instruments can be highly volatile. Price movements of forward and other derivative contracts are influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies of governments, and national and international political and economic events and policies. Clients are also subject to the risk of failure of any of the exchanges on which their positions trade or of its clearinghouses.

Use of Leverage and Financing. A Client may pledge its securities in order to borrow additional funds for investment purposes. Any event which adversely affects the value of an investment by the Client would be magnified to the extent the Client is leveraged. The cumulative effect of the use of leverage by a Client in a market that moves adversely to the Client's investments could result in a substantial loss that would be greater than if the client were not leveraged.

Hedging Transactions. Certain ETFs may enter into hedging transactions to seek to reduce risk, but such transactions may result in a poorer overall performance than the ETF had not engaged in any such hedging transactions. For a variety of reasons, the ETF may not seek to establish a perfect correlation between such hedging instruments and the portfolio holdings being hedged. Such imperfect correlation may prevent the ETF from achieving the intended hedge or expose the Client to risk of loss.

Debt and Other Income Securities. Certain ETFs hold income and fixed-income securities. These are subject to interest rate, market and credit risk. Interest rate risk relates to changes in a security's value as a result of changes in interest rates generally, and are subject to the risk of market price fluctuations. Adjustable rate securities are less likely than non-adjustable rate securities of comparable quality and maturity to increase or decrease significantly in value when market interest rates fall or rise, respectively. Market risk relates to the changes in the risk or perceived risk of an issuer, industry, country or region. Credit risk relates to the ability of the issuer to make payments of principal and interest. The values of income securities may be affected by changes in the credit rating or financial condition of the issuing entities. Income securities denominated in non-U.S. currencies are also subject to the risk of a decline in the value of the denominating currency relative to the U.S. dollar.

Non-U.S. Securities. Certain ETFs hold securities of non-U.S. issuers. These holdings pose a range of potential risks which could include expropriation, confiscatory taxation, imposition of withholding or other taxes on dividends, interest, capital gains or other income, political or social instability, illiquidity, price volatility and market manipulation. In addition, less information may be available regarding securities of non-U.S. issuers, and non-U.S. issuers may not be subject to accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards and requirements comparable to or as uniform as those of U.S. issuers.

Emerging Markets. Certain ETFs hold securities of emerging markets issuers. In addition to the risks associated with investments outside of the United States, investments in emerging markets (i.e., the developing countries) may involve additional risks. Emerging markets generally are not as efficient as those in developed countries. In some cases, a market for the security may not exist locally, and transactions will need to be made on a neighboring exchange. Volume and liquidity levels in emerging markets are lower than in developed countries. When seeking to sell emerging market securities, little or no market may exist for the securities. In addition, issuers based in emerging markets are not generally subject to uniform accounting and financial reporting standards, practices and requirements comparable to those applicable to issuers based in developed countries, thereby potentially increasing the risk of fraud or other deceptive practices.

More information about the Client's investments and the associated risk factors is available in the Advisory Agreement.

The foregoing list of risk factors does not purport to be a complete enumeration or explanation of the risks involved in an investment with 55I. Prospective Clients should read the entire Brochure as well as the Advisory Agreement, private placement memorandum and/or any other materials that may be provided by 55I and consult with their own advisers prior to engaging 55I's services.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

55I and its management persons have not been a party to any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of its investment advisory business or the integrity of its management.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

A. Registration as a Broker-Dealer or Broker-Dealer Representative

Neither 55I nor its management persons are registered as a broker-dealer or broker-dealer representative.

B. Registration as a Futures Commission Merchant, Commodity Pool Operator, or a Commodity Trading Advisor

Neither 55I nor its management persons are registered as futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, or a commodity trading adviser.

C. Relationships Material to this Advisory Business and Possible Conflicts of Interest

55I provides management and investment advisory services to Clients that follow investment programs similar to or different from one another. A number of actual and potential conflicts of interest between the Clients could exist, including the possibility of conflict with respect to the allocation of investment opportunities among the Clients. 55I has sole discretion to resolve such conflicts as it determines to be appropriate, consistent with its fiduciary duties to Clients.

55I's parent company, 55 Institutional Partners, LLC, develops and markets financial analytic software to various enterprises

D. Selection of Other Advisers or Managers

While all client assets are managed by 55I, ETFs have their own managers responsible for selection and trading of the ETF's components. These ETF managers charge a management fee and other fees and expenses to the ETF. The presence of these fees and expenses reduces the return from investing in the ETF.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics

55I has adopted a Code of Ethics (the "Code") pursuant to Rule 204A-1 under the Advisers Act applicable to all supervised persons of the firm describing its high standard of business conduct and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code governs the activities of each member, officer, director and employee of 55I (collectively, "Employees"). 55I holds its Employees to a high standard of integrity and business practices that reflects its fiduciary duty to the Client. In serving its Clients, 55I strives to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest in connection with the personal trading activities of its Employees and Client securities transactions. When persons covered by the Code engage in personal securities transactions, they must adhere to the following general principles as well as to the Code's specific provisions: (a) at all times the interests of the Client must be paramount; (b) personal transactions must be conducted consistent with the Code in manner that avoids any actual or potential conflict of interest; and (c) no inappropriate advantage should be taken of any position of trust and responsibility. Employees covered by the Code have certain trading restrictions and reporting obligations of their personal securities transactions. Each Employee is provided with a copy of the Code and must annually certify that they have received it and have complied with its provisions. In addition, any Employee who becomes aware of any potential violation of the Code is obligated to report the potential violation to the Chief Compliance Officer.

55I will provide a copy of its Code of Ethics to Clients and prospective clients upon request. Such a request may be made by submitting a written request to 55I at the address on the cover page to this Brochure.

B. Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

55I may recommend to Clients, or buy or sell for Client accounts, securities in which 55I has a material financial interest, or may buy and sell for itself securities that 55I also recommends to Clients. This presents a potential conflict of interest because it may create a financial incentive for 55I to recommend certain investments to Clients. To mitigate this risk, 55I requires that all employees sign and adhere to its Code, and provide periodic personal securities reporting.

C. Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

From time to time 55I, its Employees and/or the related persons may also personally buy or sell the same instruments that 55I buys or sells for Clients, and it or they may own securities, or options on securities, of issuers whose securities are subsequently bought for Clients because of 55I's recommendations regarding a particular security. 55I's policy as to such transactions is that neither 55I nor any of its Employees or related persons are to benefit from price movements that may be caused by transactions for Clients or otherwise. 55I addresses this conflict by requiring Employees to sign and adhere to 55I's Code and to report personal securities holdings and transactions to 55I.

D. Trading Securities At/Around the Same Time as Clients' Securities

As discussed above, from time to time, 55I, its Employees, or related persons of 55I may buy or sell securities for themselves that 55I also recommends to the Client. 55I will always document any transactions that could be construed as conflicts of interest and will always transact Client business before the business of its Employees and/or related persons when similar securities are being bought or sold.

It is the policy of 55I that the firm will not affect any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts. 55I will also not cross trades between client accounts. Principal transactions are generally defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction may also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated hedge fund and another client account. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions may arise where an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select or Recommend Broker-Dealers

55I will generally have discretion as to the placement of brokerage (and accordingly, the commission rates paid). In selecting brokers to effect portfolio transactions, 55I considers such factors as price, quality of execution, expertise in particular markets, the ability of the brokers to effect the transactions, the brokers' facilities, reliability, reputation, experience, financial responsibility in particular markets, familiarity both with investment practices generally and techniques employed by clients and clearing and settlement capabilities, subject at all times to principles of best execution, in accordance with 55I's policies and procedures. In selecting broker/dealers to execute transactions, 55I need not solicit competitive bids and does not have an obligation to seek the lowest available commission cost. 55I believes that the broker-dealers that it recommends provide competitive transaction and custody costs, helping Clients to eliminate or control costs and optimize the custodial structure to the benefit of account holders. When possible, 55I seeks to pre-negotiate preferred terms for its Clients providing Clients with the benefits associated with the economy of scale and custodial knowledge of the Firm.

Certain brokers utilized by 55I may provide general assistance to 55I, including, but not limited to technical support, consulting services, and consulting services related to staffing needs. In selecting a broker, 55I may consider the broker's general assistance and consulting services. To the extent 55I would otherwise be obligated to pay for such assistance, it has a conflict of interest in considering those services when selecting a broker.

1. Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

Except as discussed above, 55I currently does not anticipate receiving research or other products or services other than execution from a broker-dealer or third-party in connection with Client securities transactions ("soft dollar benefits"). However, in the future, 55I shall have the right if, in good faith, it considers it to be in the best interest of the Client and consistent with 55I's obligations to do so, to enter into "soft dollar" arrangements with one or more broker-dealers. All "soft dollar" arrangements will fall within the safe harbor provided by Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, as that safe harbor is currently interpreted by the SEC. If in the future 55I obtains "soft-dollar" benefits, this Brochure will be appropriately amended.

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

55I does not consider, in selecting or recommending broker-dealers, client referrals from a broker-dealer. 55I may receive referrals in the future and if it does it will appropriately amend this Brochure.

3. Directed Brokerage

55I generally does not allow for direct brokerage. Securities transactions are executed by brokers selected by 55I in its discretion and without the consent of the Clients. 55I may enter into directed brokerage arrangements in its discretion.

B. Aggregating Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

55I may place orders for the same security for different Clients at different times and in different relative amounts due to differences in investment objectives, cash availability, size of order and practicability of participating in “block” transactions. The level of participation by different Clients in the same security may also be dependent upon other factors relating to the suitability of the security for the particular Client.

55I may (but is not required to) combine orders on behalf of one Client account with orders for other Client accounts for which it or its principals have trading authority, or in which it or its principals have an economic interest. When it does, 55I will generally allocate the securities or proceeds arising out of those transactions (and the related transaction expenses) on an average price basis among the various participants. 55I believes combining orders in this way will, over time, be advantageous to all participants. However, the average price could be less advantageous to a Client than if that Client had been the only account effecting the transaction or had completed its transaction before the other participants. Because of 55I’s relationship to the Clients it manages by virtue of its position as an investment manager, there may be circumstances in which transactions for those entities may not, under certain laws, regulations and internal policies, be combined with those of some of 55I’s and its affiliates’ other Clients, which may result in less advantageous execution for those Clients.

In addition, 55I and/or its related persons or Clients may buy or sell specific securities for its or their own account that are not deemed appropriate for Client accounts at the time, based on personal investment considerations that differ from the considerations on which decisions as to investments in client accounts are made. Where execution opportunities for a particular security are limited, 55I attempts in good faith to allocate such opportunities among Clients in a manner that, over time, is equitable to all clients.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

A. Frequency and Nature of Periodic Review and Who Makes Those Reviews

55I reviews Client accounts on a no less frequently than quarterly basis to ensure consistency with the Client’s strategy and performance objectives. Asset allocation, cash management, market prospects and individual issue prospects are considered. The reviews are conducted by the Research team.

B. Factors That Will Trigger a Non-Periodic Review of Client Accounts

Reviews may take place more frequently if triggered by economic, market, or political conditions.

C. Content and Frequency of Regular Reports

Clients will generally receive monthly reports and quarterly account statements. Reports will generally be provided in electronic format. Limited partners of the private investment vehicle will also receive audited financial statements on an annual basis.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Economic Benefits Provided by Third Parties

55I does not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly from any third party for advice rendered to the Client.

B. Compensation to Non-Advisory Personnel for Client Referrals

55I may compensate any advisory personnel and consultants for Client referrals. 55I will ensure that all such referral payments are in compliance with Rule 206(4)-3 under the Advisers Act.

Item 15 – Custody

Clients should receive at least quarterly statements (paper or electronic) from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains client's investment assets. 55I urges Clients to compare all account statements received by the qualified custodian with any statements received by 55I. Our statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

55I is deemed to have custody of the funds and securities of the private investment fund as a result of serving as the general partner to the private fund vehicle. The private investment fund will be audited annually and audited financial statements will be delivered to the limited partners within 120 days of the fiscal year-end.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

The Advisory Agreement generally authorizes 55I to retain discretionary authority to invest and trade the Clients' assets in a range of investments, subject to any specific limitations as to type, amount, concentration, or leverage, as determined by each Client and set forth in the applicable Advisory Agreement. Unless specified otherwise in the applicable Advisory Agreement, 55I may enter into any type of investment transaction and employ any investment methodology or strategy it deems appropriate. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account. Any limitations on this discretionary authority shall be included in this written authority statement. Clients may change/amend these limitations as required. Such amendments shall be submitted in writing.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

55I reserves the right, but not the obligation, to exercise voting authority over proxies for Exchange Traded Funds held in any Client's Account and shall exercise this authority at all times in a manner consistent with the best interests of the Client. 55I does not exercise voting authority over proxies of the underlying companies within said Exchange Traded Funds held in any Client's Account. It is the responsibility of the ETF Sponsor to exercise voting authority over proxies of the underlying companies within said Exchange Traded Funds.

Where a proxy proposal raises a material conflict between 55I's interests and the interests of the Clients, 55I will seek to resolve the conflict in the best interest of the Clients.

Clients may obtain a copy of 55I's complete proxy voting policies and procedures upon request. Clients may also obtain information from 55I about how 55I voted any proxies on behalf of their account(s) should 55I participate in proxy voting in the future.

Item 18 – Financial Information

Registered investment advisers are required in this Item to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about 55I's financial condition. 55I has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to Clients, and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.